

MICHELLE LAW

Editor

Michelle Law joined the Office of Legislative Counsel in 2014, the culmination of 25 years of experience as a technical writer, editor, and researcher. Ms. Law previously worked for a Washington D.C. based government relations firm, tracking legislation in all 50 states and providing support for their clients' targeted research needs. Prior to that, Ms. Law worked for a variety of hardware and software engineering firms, where she learned everything from textile laboratory equipment to hazardous waste remediation as well as the technicalities of streaming video-on-demand. Her experience includes planning, promoting, and presenting webinar trainings and conferences for individuals and large groups.

Ms. Law became a member of the Georgia Parent Mentor Partnership, a program of the Georgia Department of Education, by serving as Henry County's first parent mentor. She provided confidential support for parent concerns and assisted school staff and parents in staying informed about special education policies and procedures and community resources to support students.

Originally from Michigan, Ms. Law graduated from the University of Tennessee with a bachelor's degree in English and has called Georgia home since the turn of the century.
