

LAURA LEE
Editor

Laura M. Lee joined the Office of Legislative Counsel in 2015.

Prior to joining the Office of Legislative Counsel, Ms. Lee completed a Government Relations Internship with the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (ASPCA) and her last semester of college in Washington, D.C., where she gained unique experience on Capitol Hill. With the ASPCA, she wrote and edited a wide variety of documents and materials to support key initiatives, aided in tracking the existence and movement of administrative regulations and laws, and conducted legal and issue research to assist regulatory, federal, and state efforts.

Laura is a 2015 graduate of the University of Georgia with a B.A. in Communication Studies, an academic field which allowed her to study the theory and practice of interpersonal and professional communication, political rhetoric, and public culture. During her college career, Laura pursued and merged her passions for language and animals through her volunteer service with the local animal shelter, where she wrote and edited content and took pictures of impounded animals for the volunteer website, and through her employment with a local wildlife sanctuary, where she provided animal husbandry and participated in informative public presentations and community outreach and fundraising events. Laura has also written articles for several local newspapers and magazines.
