12 style="text-align:center">SECTION 1.

13 Chapter 12 of Title 50 of the Official Code of Georgia Annotated, relating to state 14 government commissions and other agencies, is amended by adding a new article to read as 15 follows:

16 style="text-align:center">"ARTICLE 9

17 50-12-140.

18 This article shall be known and may be cited as the 'War of 1812 Bicentennial Commission
19 Act.'

20 50-12-141.

21 (a) The General Assembly finds and declares that the War of 1812 was a perilous time in 22 our young nation's history. The war was essentially fought over our nation's sovereign 23 right to free trade and the inviolability of our nation's vessels on the high seas; it serves as

1 a timeless reminder of the vulnerability of Georgia's coastline and land borders to attack
2 by elements of a hostile foreign power. During the war period, July 18, 1812, through 3 February 18, 1815, there were 39 counties in Georgia those being: Baldwin, Bryan,
4 Bulloch, Burke, Camden, Chatham, Clarke, Columbia, Effingham, Elbert, Emanuel;
5 Franklin, Glynn, Greene, Hancock, Jackson, Jasper, Jefferson, Jones, Laurens, Liberty,
6 Lincoln, Madison, McIntosh, Montgomery, Morgan, Oglethorpe, Pulaski, Putnam, 7 Richmond, Screven, Tattnall, Telfair, Twiggs, Warren, Washington, Wayne, Wilkes, and 8 Wilkinson; Emanuel was added on Dec. 10, 1812. Although not designated within the 9 borders of the state, there existed during the war period territory that would eventually be 10 designated as counties of Georgia; in addition to which, new counties were created from 11 existing counties, and some counties whose boundaries were later redefined were the site
12 of historically significant activity during the War of 1812. Among those counties, but not 13 specifically limited to those now mentioned, are: Appling, Bibb, Bleckley, Charlton,
14 Coffee, Crawford, Crisp, Dodge, Dooly, Early, Lee, Monroe, Muscogee, Pierce, Talbot, 15 Taylor, Ware, Wilcox, Worth, and Upson. While not all counties suffered combat, each 16 of the 39 aforementioned counties contributed troops to the state militia; some had 17 fortifications situated within their respective boundaries; and all had militia training 18 grounds. Various regions of Georgia were affected by the War of 1812 in different ways:
19 coastal regions were subject to combat with British forces, British raiding parties, and the 20 interdiction of coastal shipping between the ports of Savannah and St. Marys; beyond Fort
21 Hawkins (the present day City of Macon), Georgia settlers and troops were subject to raids
22 by rebel elements of the Creek nation allied to Great Britain. Georgia territory occupied 23 by British forces included Brunswick, Cumberland Island, Jekyll Island, St. Marys, and St.
24 Simons Island. The same naval and military forces that burned Washington, D.C., and 25 attacked Fort McHenry, inspiring Francis Scott Key to write the poem which became 26 known as the 'Star Spangled Banner,' also invaded Cumberland Island, attacked St. Marys 27 and the Battery at Cantonment Point Petre, and wreaked havoc along Georgia's coast. The 28 final combat between British military forces and American military forces, specifically the 29 Georgia Militia, took place on the St. Marys River, near Coleraine, on February 23, 1815,
30 and the final shots fired in anger between British naval forces and American naval forces
31 in American territorial sea took place in Georgia waters on March 16, 1815, off Wassaw 32 Island.

33 (b) The bicentennial commemoration period offers an excellent opportunity to enhance 34 educational programs, add to the general knowledge of that era, and engender history and 35 heritage based tourism within the state. Therefore, it is in the interest of the state to provide 36 appropriate commemorative activities to maximize public understanding of the meaning 37 of the War of 1812 in the history of Georgia.

1 (c) The purpose of the commission is to ensure a suitable state-wide observance of the War 2 of 1812 by complementing, cooperating with, and providing assistance to the programs and 3 activities of the various counties involved in the commemoration. The commission is to 4 encourage War of 1812 observances that provide an excellent visitor experience and 5 beneficial interaction between visitors and the natural and cultural resources of the various 6 War of 1812 sites. The commission is to engage the state archeologist in compiling an 7 inventory of War of 1812 archeological assets on land and in waters under Georgia 8 jurisdiction or control and work in concert with the appropriate federal government 9 agencies when warranted to accomplish that goal.

10 (d) The commission is also to welcome international involvement in the War of 1812 11 observances; contribute to, coordinate with, participate in, and enhance the activities of the 12 National War of 1812 Bicentennial Commission; foster and promote the protection of War 13 of 1812 resources; and assist in the appropriate development of heritage and history based 14 tourism and economic benefits to the State of Georgia.
