

House Bill 902

By: Representatives Cox of the 102nd, Lunsford of the 110th, May of the 111th, Rice of the 51st, Loudermilk of the 14th, and others

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED
AN ACT

1 To provide for legislative findings; to amend Article 1 of Chapter 10 of Title 17 of the
2 Official Code of Georgia Annotated, relating to procedure for sentencing and imposition of 3 punishment, so as to repeal certain provisions regarding sentencing of defendants guilty of 4 crimes involving bias or prejudice, circumstances, and parole; to repeal certain provisions
5 relating to notification to seek enhanced penalty; to repeal certain provisions relating to 6 determination of defendant's guilt, object of the offense, and enhancement of sentence; to 7 provide for related matters; to repeal conflicting laws; and for other purposes.

8 BE IT ENACTED BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF GEORGIA:

9 style="text-align:center">SECTION 1.

10 The General Assembly recognizes the Supreme Court of Georgia's decision in Botts v. State,
11 278 Ga. 538 (2004) which declared Code Section 17-10-17 unconstitutionally vague,
12 declared it violative of due process rights guaranteed by the State and Federal Constitutions,
13 and found that it "impermissibly delegates basic policy matters to policemen, judges, and 14 juries for resolution on an ad hoc and subjective basis, with the attendant dangers of arbitrary
15 and discriminatory applications." The General Assembly finds that the State should not 16 interfere with freedom of speech, thought, and expression, that such matters are 17 constitutionally protected, and therefore codifying policy on such matters should be repealed.
18 The General Assembly further finds that encouraging police to treat victims differently
19 depending on whether they fit into a special status created by statute causes victims of similar
20 crimes to be treated disparately, a concept repugnant to the Georgia and United States
21 Constitutions. The General Assembly further finds that hate crime laws require the State to 22 treat victims of the same crime differently, solely because the State has decided that one
23 motivation for committing the crime on a person is more heinous than another, according to 24 a statute, and since most all crimes are motivated by hate and greed in some way, a statute
25 calling for increased punishment for certain offenders is unnecessary and unconstitutional.

SECTION 4.

Said article is further amended by revising Code Section 17-10-19, relating to determination of defendant's guilt, object of the offense, and enhancement of sentence, as follows:

"17-10-19.

~~(a) In a case where notice has been given pursuant to Code Section 17-10-18, the trier of fact shall initially determine the defendant's guilt on the charge or charges. If the trier of fact finds the defendant guilty of such charge or charges, the trial shall immediately be recommenced to receive evidence as is relevant to determine whether the defendant intentionally selected the victim or the property of the victim as the object of the offense as set forth in the notice given pursuant to Code Section 17-10-18.~~

~~(b) If the trier of fact determines beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant so acted, the judge shall enhance the sentence imposed in accordance with the provisions of Code Section 17-10-17. Reserved.~~"

SECTION 5.

All laws and parts of laws in conflict with this Act are repealed.