8 WHEREAS, last year in Georgia, more than $2 million were raised to find the cure for MS, 9 develop effective treatments for the disease, and provide a wide range of client programs to 10 improve the lives of the 9,000 individuals living with MS in Georgia; and

11 WHEREAS, this significant monetary investment has helped to make remarkable advances 12 in treating MS, such as new medications which may reduce or delay future disability for 13 people with MS; and

14 WHEREAS, research advances have brought the reality of a cure for MS closer, yet much 15 remains to be done, and services must continue to be provided to those who live with the 16 disease; and

17 WHEREAS, there are public and private agencies, including the Georgia Chapter of the 18 National MS Society, available to serve the constantly changing needs of those with MS and 19 their families living in Georgia by extending essential services to all who need them; and
