A RESOLUTION

1 Creating the Senate Study Committee on Barriers to Georgians' Access to Adequate 2 Healthcare; and for other purposes.

3 WHEREAS, Georgia falls below national averages in rankings of state population health, 4 with higher than average death rates from diabetes, heart disease, and HIV; and

5 WHEREAS, Georgia has the highest rate of pregnancy related maternal deaths in the nation, 6 and higher than average infant death rates; and

7 WHEREAS, Georgia has a significant percent of primary health care needs and mental health 8 care needs that are currently unmet; and

9 WHEREAS, advanced practice registered nurses (APRNs) have acquired, through 10 graduate-level education, advanced clinical knowledge and skills to provide direct patient 11 care; and

12 WHEREAS, Georgia laws and regulations have not kept pace with advanced practice 13 nursing's evolution over the past 40 years, compromising Georgians' access to care; and

14 WHEREAS, Georgia is one of only 12 states with laws restricting the autonomy of APRNs; 15 and

16 WHEREAS, 21 other states have adopted full practice authority for APRNs, and removed 17 requirements for physician supervision, without any evidence of patient harm; and

18 WHEREAS, APRNs make up the fastest-growing segment of the primary care professional 19 workforce in the United States and could significantly increase the primary care professional 20 workforce that would be available to practice in underserved areas, lower-income areas, and 21 districts with lower scores on the high school proficiency assessments; and

22 WHEREAS, licensed APRNs in Georgia are nationally certified to practice in family 23 medicine, pediatrics, geriatrics, mental health, women's health, and midwifery, with many 24 new graduates every year and more than 11,300 APRNs licensed in Georgia as of September, 25 2016; and

26 WHEREAS, in Georgia there are 79 counties that have no OB/GYN physicians, 63 counties
 27 have no pediatricians, 31 counties have no internal medicine physicians, and six counties
 28 have no family physicians, and APRNs have many overlapping skills sets with the physician
 29 providers for which there is a shortage most pronounced in rural Georgia.
