

The House Committee on Rules offers the following substitute to HR 590:

A RESOLUTION

1 Creating the House Study Committee on Pediatric Acute-Onset Neuropsychiatric Syndrome
2 ("PANS") and Pediatric Autoimmune Neuropsychiatric Disorder Associated with 3 Streptococcal infection ("PANDAS"); and for other purposes.

4 WHEREAS, PANS and PANDAS create the sudden onset of obsessive-compulsive disorder
5 in children, causing previously healthy and emotionally adjusted children to experience 6 severe anxiety and emotional disturbances; and

7 WHEREAS, children with PANS and PANDAS tend to manifest some of the following 8 symptoms: tics or other abnormal movements, severe separation anxiety, generalized anxiety,
9 irritability, aggression, personality changes, Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder,
10 marked deterioration in learning and school performance, and developmental regression, 11 including regression in handwriting; and

12 WHEREAS, the National Institutes of Mental Health ("NIMH") estimates that 1 in 200 13 children have PANS or PANDAS, meaning these diseases affect roughly 20,000 children in 14 Georgia; and

15 WHEREAS, PANS and PANDAS affect a small subpopulation of patients but have a 16 disproportionately high economic, clinical, and social burden for patients, their caregivers, 17 families, employers, and the health care system; and

18 WHEREAS, children with PANS and PANDAS may experience moderate to dramatic 19 improvement with antibiotics, intravenous immunoglobulin treatment, or plasmapheresis; 20 and

21 WHEREAS, the NIMH suggest that with appropriate early diagnosis and intervention 22 therapies, up to 25-30 percent of childhood mental illnesses may be preventable and may 23 prevent further long-term decline and potentially permanent disability; and

24 WHEREAS, identifying the barriers to PANS and PANDAS—awareness, testing, diagnosis, 25 and early linkage to medication and care—would be in the state's best interest; and

26 WHEREAS, many general pediatricians, nurse practitioners, and pediatric subspecialists are 27 not familiar with the most current diagnostic criteria and treatment guidelines for these 28 disorders; and

29 WHEREAS, in addition to lack of access to treating providers, many insurers do not cover
30 treatment for PANS and PANDAS, which can cost many tens of thousands of dollars, 31 placing it out of reach for most families; and

32 WHEREAS, researchers at the NIMH are currently engaged in extensive research and testing 33 on how to effectively treat PANS and PANDAS; and

34 WHEREAS, researchers at Moleculera Labs at the University of Oklahoma have developed 35 PANS and PANDAS blood testing procedures; and

36 WHEREAS, the University of Arizona and Banner Health System in Arizona have opened 37 the first Centers for Post-Infectious Autoimmune Encephalopathy, providing insurance-based 38 access to expert care and consultative services for general and subspecialist pediatricians 39 around the country; and

40 WHEREAS, the deep medical and bioscience resources in Georgia make our state well 41 situated to meaningfully contribute to best medical practices, research, and medical 42 technology to advance the early diagnosis and treatment of children with PANS and 43 PANDAS; and

44 WHEREAS, the Southeastern PANS/PANDAS Association is a Georgia-based nonprofit 45 organization dedicated to expanding access to expert, insurance-based care for children and 46 families suffering from PANS and PANDAS in our region; and

47 WHEREAS, it is in the state's best interest that there be greater public awareness of this 48 serious health issue among parents, medical providers, and policy makers in Georgia; and

49 WHEREAS, it is imperative to undertake a study of the needs, issues, and problems 50 associated with this disorder; and

51 WHEREAS, it would be beneficial to:

- 52 (1) Study the benefit of improved awareness and early diagnosis of PANS and PANDAS 53 among medical providers;
- 54 (2) Examine comprehensive medical and behavioral health services for those suffering 55 from this serious autoimmune disorder which have been demonstrated to have a positive 56 impact on medical outcomes and reduced burdens on patients, families, providers, and 57 society; and
- 58 (3) Identify barriers to insurance-based care for children with PANS and PANDAS and 59 their families.

60 NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES:
