Since Representative Marin arrived in Georgia, he has consistently volunteered his time and resources to improving the lives of others. For years, he has supported the Boy Scouts of America and other youth organizations, receiving numerous awards and recognitions. In Gwinnett County, Pedro has worked tirelessly to build better relationships with local government agencies and minority communities by serving as an advisor and intermediary for many elected and appointed officials in the county. Rep. Marin has also worked with other Latino, African-Americans and Asians leaders to organize the community to gain political voice throughout the state at various levels of government. He accomplished all this prior to becoming one of the first Latinos ever elected into the Georgia General Assembly. While serving the people of Gwinnett County, Rep. Marin has been at the forefront in stopping gang violence and graffiti, expanding translation services in the courts, against racial profiling and fighting against legislation targeting specific communities. Pedro is the embodiment of leadership, character and strength. He is a person to be commended for his history of selfless sacrifice and service.
