(a) As used in this article, the term:

(1) "Cash sale price" means the price for which the seller would have sold or furnished to the buyer and the buyer would have bought or obtained from the seller the goods or services which are the subject matter of the retail installment transaction if such sale had been a sale for cash. The cash sale price may include any applicable taxes and charges for delivery, installation, servicing, repairs, alterations, or improvements.

(2) "Goods" means all personalty when purchased primarily for personal, family, or household use, including certificates or coupons issued by a retail seller exchangeable for personalty or services, but not including motor vehicles. The term "goods" includes such personalty which is furnished or used at the time of sale or subsequently in the modernization, rehabilitation, repair, alteration, improvement, or construction of real property so as to become a part thereof, whether or not severable therefrom.

(3) "Holder" of a retail installment contract means the retail seller of the goods or services under the contract or, if the contract is purchased by a sales finance company or other assignee, the sales finance company or other assignee at the time of the determination.

(4) "Home solicitation sale" means a consumer credit sale in which the purchase price is payable in installments and the seller or his representative solicits the sale in person and the buyer's agreement or offer to purchase is made at a home other than that of the person soliciting the sale and the contract is signed at the time of such solicitation.

(5) "Motor vehicle" means any device or vehicle operated over the public highways and streets of this state and propelled by other than muscular power but does not include traction engines, road rollers, implements of husbandry and other agricultural equipment, and such vehicles as run only upon a track.

(7) "Person" means an individual, partnership, corporation, association, and any other group however organized.

(8) "Retail buyer" or "buyer" means a person who buys goods or obtains services from a retail seller in a retail installment transaction and not principally for the purpose of resale.

(9) "Retail installment contract" or "contract" means an instrument or instruments reflecting one or more retail installment transactions entered into in this state pursuant to which goods or services may be paid for in installments. The term includes a series of transactions made pursuant to an instrument or instruments providing for the addition of the amount financed plus the time price differential for the current sale to an existing balance. It does not include a revolving account or an instrument reflecting a sale pursuant thereto.

(10) "Retail installment transaction" or "transaction" means any transaction to sell or furnish or the sale of or the furnishing of goods or services evidenced by a retail installment contract or a revolving account.

(11) "Retail seller" or "seller" means a person regularly engaged in, and whose business consists to a substantial extent of, selling goods or services to a retail buyer. The term also includes a seller who regularly grants credit to retail buyers for the purpose of purchasing goods or services from any other person pursuant to a retail installment contract or a revolving charge account.

(12) "Revolving account" or "account" means an instrument or instruments prescribing the terms of retail installment transactions which may be made thereafter from time to time pursuant thereto, under which the buyer's total unpaid balance, whenever incurred, is payable in installments over a period of time and under the terms of which a time price differential or finance charge is to be computed in relation to the buyer's balance from time to time.

(13) "Sales finance company" means a person engaged in the business of purchasing retail installment contracts from one or more retail sellers. Such term includes but is not limited to a bank, trust company, or installment loan company, if so engaged. Such term does not include the pledge of an aggregate number of such contracts to secure a bona fide loan thereon.

(14) "Services" means:

(A) Work, labor, or other personal services furnished for personal, family, or household use, whether or not furnished in connection with the delivery, installation, servicing, repair, or improvement of goods, and includes such work, labor, or personal services furnished in connection with the modernization, rehabilitation, repair, alteration, improvement, or construction upon or in connection with real property;

(B) Privileges with respect to transportation, hotel and restaurant accommodations, education, entertainment, recreation, and the like; and

(C) Insurance provided in connection with a retail installment transaction.

(15) "Time price differential" means the amount, however denominated or expressed, paid or payable for the privilege of purchasing goods or services to be paid for by the buyer in installments; such term does not include the amounts, if any, charged for insurance premiums, delinquency charges, attorneys' fees, court costs, or official fees.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Motor vehicles. — Ga. L. 1967, p. 659, § 1 et seq. does not apply to the sale of a motor vehicle in view of paragraph (a)(2) of Ga. L. 1967, p. 659, § 2. Holder v. Brock, 129 Ga. App. 732, 200 S.E.2d 912, 1973 Ga. App. LEXIS 1128 (1973), overruled, Tucker v. Chung Studio of Karate, Inc., 142 Ga. App. 818, 237 S.E.2d 223, 1977 Ga. App. LEXIS 1386 (1977).

Mobile homes. — A mobile home falls within the definition of a "motor vehicle". Holder v. Brock, 129 Ga. App. 732, 200 S.E.2d 912, 1973 Ga. App. LEXIS 1128 (1973), overruled, Tucker v. Chung Studio of Karate, Inc., 142 Ga. App. 818, 237 S.E.2d 223, 1977 Ga. App. LEXIS 1386 (1977).

Farm equipment. — O.C.G.A. Art. 1, Ch. 1, T. 10 is not applicable to farm equipment such as a tobacco combine. Rigdon v. Walker Sales & Serv., Inc., 161 Ga. App. 459, 288 S.E.2d 711, 1982 Ga. App. LEXIS 3046 (1982).

Commercial accounts. — Charges of 1½ percent on the unpaid balance on a commercial account were not authorized by the Retail Installment and Home Solicitation Sales Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-1 et seq., even though the agreement involved was in the form set forth in the Retail Installment and Home Solicitation Sales Act because that statute applies only to purchases for personal, family, or household use. Gold Kist, Inc. v. McNair, 166 Ga. App. 66, 303 S.E.2d 290, 1983 Ga. App. LEXIS 2069, cert. denied, Officenters International Corp. v. Interstate North Associates, 464 U.S. 937, 104 S. Ct. 347, 78 L. Ed. 2d 313, 1983 U.S. LEXIS 2135 (1983).

Obligation arising out of farm supplies supplied to a farmer in the farmer's business is clearly a commercial account and is not a retail installment transaction. McNair v. Gold Kist, Inc., 166 Ga. App. 782, 305 S.E.2d 478, 1983 Ga. App. LEXIS 2330 (1983).

Constitutionality, construction, and application of statute respecting sale, assignment, or transfer of retail installment contracts, 10 A.L.R.2d 447.

10-1-3. Requirements for retail installment contracts; limitations on time price differential; prepayment; inclusion of construction permit costs.

(a) Every retail installment contract shall be in writing and shall be completed as to all essential provisions prior to the signing thereof by the buyer, except as provided in subsection (f) of this Code section. The printed portion of the contract, other than instructions for completion, shall be in at least six-point type. The contract shall contain substantially the following notice in clear and conspicuous type:

"Notice to the Buyer

> Do not sign this before you read it or if it contains any blank spaces. You are entitled to an exact copy of the paper you sign. You have the right to pay in advance the full amount due and under certain conditions to obtain a partial refund of the time price differential."

The contract shall contain the names of the seller and the buyer, the place of business of the seller, and the residence or place of business of the buyer as specified by the buyer.

(b) The maximum number of payments and the amount and date of each payment need not be separately listed if the payments are stated in terms of a series of scheduled amounts and if the amount of the final payment does not exceed by more than 50 percent the scheduled amount of any of the preceding installments; in such cases, the amount of the scheduled final payment shall be stated as the remaining unpaid balance. The initial date for the payment of the first installment may be a calendar date or may refer to the time of delivery or installation.

(c) A retail installment contract need not be contained in a single document. If the contract is contained in more than one document, then one such document may be an original document applicable to purchases of goods or services to be made by the retail buyer from time to time.

(d)(1) Notwithstanding any other law, the seller under a retail installment contract may charge, receive, and collect a time price differential, which shall not exceed 13¢ per $1.00 per year on the unpaid balance.

(2) The time price differential under this subsection shall be computed on the unpaid balance of each transaction on contracts payable in successive monthly payments substantially equal in amount for the period from the date of the contract to and including the date when the final installment thereunder is payable. When a retail installment contract is payable other than in successive monthly payments substantially equal in amount, the time price differential may be at the effective rate provided in this subsection, having due regard for the schedule of payments. The time price differential may be computed on the basis of a full month for any fractional month period in excess of ten days. Notwithstanding the other provisions of this subsection, a minimum time price differential not in excess of the following amounts may be charged on any retail installment contract: $12.00 on any retail installment contract involving an initial unpaid balance of $50.00 or more, $7.50 on a retail installment contract involving an initial unpaid balance of more than $25.00 and less than $50.00, and $5.00 on a retail installment contract involving an initial unpaid balance of $25.00 or less. As used in this subsection, the term "unpaid balance" shall be determined in accordance with Section 226.8(c) of Regulation Z promulgated by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System pursuant to Title I (Truth in Lending Act) and Title V (General Provisions) of the Consumer Credit Protection Act (Public Law 90-321; 82 Stat. 146, et seq.) as the same existed upon its becoming effective on July 1, 1969.

(e) The seller shall present a completed copy of the retail installment contract to the buyer at the time it is signed by the buyer. Any acknowledgment by the buyer of receipt of a copy of the contract shall be in clear and conspicuous type and, if contained in the contract, shall appear directly above the buyer's signature.

(f) No retail installment contract shall be signed by the buyer when it contains blank spaces to be filled in after it has been signed, except that, if delivery of the goods or services is not made at the time of execution of the contract, the identification of the goods or services and the due date of the first installment may be left blank and later inserted by the seller in the seller's counterpart of the contract after it has been signed by the buyer. The buyer's written acknowledgment, conforming to the requirements of subsection (e) of this Code section, of delivery of a copy of a contract shall be presumptive proof in any action or proceeding of such delivery and that the contract, when signed, did not contain any blank spaces as provided in this subsection.

(g) The seller under any retail installment contract shall, within 30 days after execution of the contract, deliver or mail or cause to be delivered or mailed to the buyer at his or her aforesaid address any policy or policies of insurance the seller has agreed to purchase in connection therewith or in lieu thereof a certificate or certificates of such insurance. The amount, if any, included for insurance shall not exceed the applicable premiums chargeable in accordance with the rates filed with the Department of Insurance; if any such insurance is canceled, unearned insurance premium refunds received by the holder shall be credited to the final maturing installment of the contract except to the extent applied toward the payment for similar insurance protecting the interests of the seller and the holder or either of them. Nothing in this article shall impair or abrogate the right of a buyer to procure insurance from an agent and company of his or her own selection, as provided by the insurance laws of this state; and nothing contained in this article shall modify, alter, or repeal any of the insurance laws of this state.

(h) If the buyer so requests, the holder shall give or forward to the buyer a receipt for any payment when made in cash.

(i) Notwithstanding the provisions of any retail installment contract to the contrary, any buyer may prepay in full at any time before maturity the unpaid balance of any retail installment contract and in so paying the unpaid balance shall receive a refund credit thereon for such anticipation of payments. The amount of the refund shall represent at least as great a proportion of the time price differential after first deducting therefrom an acquisition cost of $20.00 as the sum of the monthly time balances, beginning one month after prepayment is made, bears to the sum of all the monthly time balances under the schedule of payments in the contract. This method of refund upon prepayment is commonly referred to as the “Rule of 78” or the “Sum of the Digits” refund method. Where the amount of the refund credit is less than $1.00, no refund need be made.

(j) In a retail installment transaction involving the modernization, rehabilitation, repair, alteration, improvement, or construction of real property, the buyer may be charged for and there may be collected from him or there may be added to the cash sale price the reasonable fees and costs actually to be paid for construction authorizations and similar permits issued by public agencies.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

All provisions of signed contract are "essential". — Once a retail installment contract is reduced to writing and signed, all the contract's provisions must be regarded as "essential provisions." Cook-Davis Furn. Co. v. Duskin, 134 Ga. App. 264, 214 S.E.2d 565, 1975 Ga. App. LEXIS 1984 (1975).

Amount due under acceleration clause. — Since a contract contained a time price, payable in installments and the balance was declared due after a default by the vendee, the vendor was entitled to judgment for the full amount of the time price, not just the cash price plus interest on the judgment. Carter v. Whatley, 97 Ga. App. 10, 101 S.E.2d 899, 1958 Ga. App. LEXIS 690 (1958) (decided prior to enactment of this section).

Effective date of insurance if contract is silent. — If a retail installment contract fails to state when insurance on purchased items would become effective, the contemplated effective date must be one which would afford protection at the time the risk of loss shifted to the buyer, which is the purpose of the insurance. Cook-Davis Furn. Co. v. Duskin, 134 Ga. App. 264, 214 S.E.2d 565, 1975 Ga. App. LEXIS 1984 (1975).

Violation in calculating interest rebate held no defense to recovery of goods. — Violation of Ga. L. 1967, p. 659, § 3, in calculating the interest rebate does not constitute a willful violation of Ga. L. 1967, p. 659, § 1 et seq., and it is not a defense to the grant of a writ of possession in the goods in which a secured creditor holds the security interest. Fluellen v. Commercial Credit Corp., 151 Ga. App. 373, 259 S.E.2d 648, 1979 Ga. App. LEXIS 2600 (1979).

10-1-4. Requirements for revolving accounts; limitations on time price differential.

(a) Every revolving account shall be in writing and shall be completed prior to the signing thereof by the retail buyer. The printed portion, other than instructions for completion, of any revolving account shall be in at least six-point type. Any such account shall contain the names of the seller and the buyer, the place of business of the seller, and the residence or place of business of the buyer as specified by the buyer, and substantially the following notice in clear and conspicuous type:

"Notice to the Buyer

Do not sign this before you read it or if it contains any blank spaces. You are entitled to an exact copy of the paper you sign. You have the right to pay in advance the full amount due."

A copy of any such account shall be delivered or mailed to the retail buyer by the retail seller prior to the date on which the first payment is due thereunder. Any acknowledgment by the buyer of delivery of a copy of the account shall be in clear and conspicuous type and, if contained in the account, shall appear directly above the buyer's signature. No account shall be signed by the buyer when it contains blank spaces to be filled in after it has been signed. The buyer's acknowledgment, conforming to the requirements of this subsection, of delivery of a copy of an account shall be presumptive proof in any action or proceeding of such delivery and that the account, when signed, did not contain any blank spaces as provided in this subsection. A revolving account shall be presumed to be signed or accepted by the buyer if, after a request for a revolving account, such revolving account or application for a revolving account is in fact signed by the buyer or if such revolving account is used by the buyer or if such revolving account is used by another person authorized by the buyer to use it. The revolving account is not effective until: the buyer has received the disclosures required pursuant to the federal Truth in Lending Act, 15 U.S.C. Section 1601, et seq., as amended; the buyer or a person authorized by the buyer uses the revolving account; and the seller or its assignee extends credit to the buyer for transactions on the revolving account.

(b) Notwithstanding any other law, the seller under a revolving account may charge, receive, and collect a time price differential which shall not exceed 17.5¢ per $10.00 per month computed on all amounts unpaid thereunder from month to month (which need not be a calendar month) or other regular period. If the amount of time price differential so computed shall be less than $1.00 for any such month, a time price differential of $1.00 for any such month may be charged, received, and collected. If the regular period is other than such monthly period or if the unpaid amount is less than or greater than $10.00, the permitted time price differential shall be computed proportionately. Such time price differential may be computed for all unpaid balances within a range of not in excess of $10.00 on the basis of the median amount within such range if as so computed such time price differential is applied to all unpaid balances within such range.

(a) The buyer shall have a right to cancel a home solicitation sale agreement until 12:00 Midnight of the third business day after the day on which the buyer signs the agreement.

(b) Notice of cancellation under this Code section shall be given to the seller at the place of business as set forth in the agreement by certified mail or statutory overnight delivery, return receipt requested, which shall be posted not later than 12:00 Midnight on the third business day following execution of the agreement.

(c) In the event of cancellation pursuant to this Code section, the installment seller shall refund to the buyer within ten days after the cancellation all deposits, including any down payment made under the agreement, and redeliver any goods traded in to the seller on account or in contemplation of the home solicitation sale agreement.

(d) In the event of cancellation pursuant to this Code section, the seller shall have the right to charge the buyer 5 percent of the gross sales price of the merchandise purchased by the buyer or $25.00, whichever is less, as liquidated damages. The seller shall also be entitled to reclaim and the buyer shall return, whenever possible, the home solicitation sale agreement. The buyer shall incur no additional liability for cancellation pursuant to this Code section.

(e) If the buyer has received the merchandise sold, the buyer must return that merchandise unused, in the same condition as received by the buyer. The seller shall pick up the merchandise at the place sold within a reasonable time after notice of cancellation; and the seller shall receive from the buyer at that time the actual cost of picking up the merchandise or $5.00, whichever is less.

(f) Notice of cancellation given by the buyer need not take any particular form and, however expressed, is effective if it indicates the intention of the buyer not to be bound by the home solicitation sale.

10-1-7. Providing for payment of delinquency charges, attorneys' fees, court costs, and bad instrument fees.

(a) A retail installment contract or a revolving account may provide for payment by the buyer of a delinquency charge on any installment which is not paid within ten days from the date the payment is due. The charge may not exceed $25.00. A delinquent charge shall not be collected more than once for the same default. A retail installment contract or a revolving account may provide for the payment of reasonable attorneys' fees, if referred for collection to an attorney not a salaried employee of the retail seller, and for the payment of court costs.

(b) A retail installment contract or a revolving account may provide that if the buyer submits to the retail seller as payment for an unpaid balance, or portion thereof, in that account or pursuant to that contract, a check, draft, or order for the payment of money on any bank or other depository, which check, draft, or order is not honored by the drawee, then a delinquency charge as specified in subsection (a) of this Code section may be charged; and a bad instrument fee not to exceed the amount specified in subsection (j) of Code Section 16-9-20 and Code Section 13-6-15 may be charged to the buyer and added to the unpaid balance on the buyer's account if ten days have elapsed since the retail seller has mailed to the buyer at his or her last known address written notice of the failure to honor the check, draft, or order without the check, draft, or order having been made good. A fee authorized by this Code section shall not be deemed to be time price differential, interest, or any other type of finance charge and shall not be included in determining whether any limitations on time price differential, interest, or other finance charges have been exceeded.

(a) Any security interest taken pursuant to a retail installment contract or revolving account shall not be taken with respect to clothing, softwares, and other nondurable items. Section does not apply to duration of security interest. — This section, which provides that payments on revolving accounts are to be applied first to goods which are first purchased has nothing to do with the creation, duration, definition, or enforcement of purchase money security interests in consumer goods and, specifically, does not purport to terminate a security interest contrary to the clear terms of a security agreement. 10-1-10. Disposition of goods repossessed after default; right to recover deficiency.

When any goods have been repossessed after default in accordance with Part 6 of Article 9 of Title 11, the seller or holder shall not be entitled to recover a deficiency against the buyer unless within ten days after said repossession he forwards by registered or certified mail or statutory overnight delivery to the address of the buyer shown on the contract or later designated by the buyer a notice of the seller's or holder's intention to pursue a deficiency claim against the buyer. The notice shall also advise the buyer of his rights of redemption, as well as his right to demand a public sale of the repossessed goods. In the event the buyer exercises his right to demand a public sale of the goods, he shall in writing so advise the seller or holder of his election by registered or certified mail or statutory overnight delivery addressed to the seller or holder at the address from which the seller's or holder's notice emanated, within ten days after the posting of the original seller's or holder's notice.

In the event of election of such public sale by the buyer, the seller or holder shall dispose of the repossessed goods at a public sale as provided by law, to be held in the state and county where the original sale took place or the state and county of the buyer's residence, at the seller's election.

This Code section is cumulative of Part 6 of Article 9 of Title 11 and provides cumulative additional rights and remedies which must be fulfilled before any deficiency claim will lie against a buyer, and nothing in this Code section shall be deemed to repeal said part.

Debtor to be notified debtor can redeem collateral at any time before sale. — When the debtor is told by notification letter that the debtor has ten days to redeem the debtor's repossessed collateral, but the collateral is sold after the tenth day, the debtor has not, as a matter of law, been notified that the debtor can redeem the debtor's collateral at any time before the sale, as required by O.C.G.A. §§ 10-1-10 and 11-9-506, and a verdict should be directed for the debtor when the creditor sues for a deficiency judgment. Fin. Fed. Credit Inc. v. Smith, No. CV204-209, 2005 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 17603 (S.D. Ga. Aug. 16, 2005).

Notice insufficient. — Notice, within ten days of the repossession of a debtor's equipment, was not provided of an intent to pursue a deficiency claim as required under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-10 as the notices on August 27 and 28 were more than ten days after the July 30 repossession and more than 60 days after the debtor signed the release on June 11; no indication was given that the notices were sent by registered or certified mail or statutory overnight delivery, and the notices also did not inform the debtor of the debtor's rights of redemption as well as the debtor's right to demand a public sale of the repossessed goods. Parham v. Peterson, Goldman & Villani, 296 Ga. App. 527, 675 S.E.2d 275, 2009 Ga. App. LEXIS 247 (2009).

(b) A violation of subsection (d) of Code Section 10-1-3 shall bar recovery of any finance charge, delinquency, or collection charge on the contract. A violation of subsection (b) of Code Section 10-1-4 shall bar recovery of any finance charge, delinquency, or collection charge stated on or collected in connection with the statement on which any such violation shall occur.

(c) In case of a willful violation of any provision of this article, with respect to any transaction, the retail buyer in such transaction may recover from the person committing the violation (or may set off or counterclaim in any action by such person) a minimum of $100.00 or double the time price differential and any delinquency charge and any attorneys' fees and court costs charged and paid with respect to such transaction; but the retail seller may recover from the retail buyer an amount equal to the cash price of the goods or services in such transaction and the cost of any insurance purchased by the retail seller for the retail buyer in connection therewith.

(d) Notwithstanding this Code section, any failure to comply with any provisions of subsection (d) of Code Section 10-1-3 may be corrected within ten days after the date of execution of the retail installment contract by the buyer; and, if so corrected, neither the seller nor the holder is subject to any penalty under this Code section.

(e) A seller or holder shall not be held liable in any action brought under this Code section for a violation of this article if the seller or holder shows by clear and convincing evidence that the violation was not intentional and resulted from a bona fide clerical or typographical error.

(f) The penalties under this Code section shall be the sole remedy for violations of this article and a claim of violation of this article may be asserted in an individual action only.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Legislative intent as to proof of willful violation. — Legislature obviously intended that there be some showing that the violation be "willful" other than the mere fact of the violation itself. Martin v. Glenn's Furn. Co., 126 Ga. App. 692, 191 S.E.2d 567, 1972 Ga. App. LEXIS 1254 (1972).

Cases do not apply to truth-in-lending situations. — This section deals specifically with the terms of the contract. Truth-in-lending violations have no direct effect on the contractual terms of payment. Thus, cases involving this section are not authority regarding truth-in-lending situations. First Citizens Bank & Trust Co. v. Owings, 151 Ga. App. 389, 259 S.E.2d 747, 1979 Ga. App. LEXIS 2609 (1979).

Violation is determined by amount charged, not amount collected. — The amount that a creditor may ultimately collect is not determinative of whether the creditor violates this article. Rather, it is the amount that a creditor charges the debtor at the time the creditor accelerates the unpaid balance that places the creditor in violation of this article. Harrison v. Goodyear Serv. Stores, 137 Ga. App. 223, 223 S.E.2d 261, 1976 Ga. App. LEXIS 2389 (1976).

Acceleration clause is not violation until collection of unearned interest attempted. — An acceleration clause purporting to collect unearned interest does not violate Ga. L. 1967, p. 659, § 1 et seq., but the same clause plus an attempt under it to collect unearned interest does; once the creditor uses that clause to demand unearned interest, the clause states a default charge. Thomas v. Universal Guardian Corp., 144 Ga. App. 869, 243 S.E.2d 101, 1978 Ga. App. LEXIS 1827 (1978).

Acceleration by the seller plus filing a complaint against the buyer without deducting unearned interest from the alleged indebtedness constituted a "charge" by the seller in violation of the Retail Installment and Home Solicitation Sales Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-1 et seq., and such conduct amounted to a willful violation of the Act. Palace Indus., Inc. v. Craig, 177 Ga. App. 338, 339 S.E.2d 313, 1985 Ga. App. LEXIS 2586 (1985).

Premature acceleration of entire unpaid balance bars recovery of charges. — To accelerate the entire unpaid balance as due long before the time provided in the contract obviously discloses a claim exceeding the maximum finance charge allowable, which, under provisions of this article, shall bar recovery of any finance charge, delinquency, or collection charge on the contract. Reese v. Termplan, Inc., 125 Ga. App. 473, 188 S.E.2d 177, 1972 Ga. App. LEXIS 1374 (1972).

Recovery of amount equal to cash price. — This section does not bar the seller from recovering an amount equal to the cash price of the goods. Fluellen v. Commercial Credit Corp., 151 Ga. App. 373, 259 S.E.2d 648, 1979 Ga. App. LEXIS 2600 (1979).

Mere violations or hazardous acts are not willful. — Mere violations of this article and the doing of hazardous acts, where the danger is obvious, do not, without more, as a matter of law, constitute willful misconduct. Martin v. Glenn's Furn. Co., 126 Ga. App. 692, 191 S.E.2d 567, 1972 Ga. App. LEXIS 1254 (1972).

Bare failure or refusal to perform duty is not willful. — When the misconduct consists of a failure or refusal to perform a duty required by this section, a bare failure or refusal, without more, does not constitute a willful failure or refusal to perform such duty. Such violations, failures, or refusals generally constitute mere negligence, and such negligence, however great, does not constitute willful misconduct, willful failure, or refusal to perform a duty required by this section. Martin v. Glenn's Furn. Co., 126 Ga. App. 692, 191 S.E.2d 567, 1972 Ga. App. LEXIS 1254 (1972).

Violation in calculating interest rebate is not willful. — Violation of this article in calculating the interest rebate does not constitute a willful violation of this article and it is not a defense to the grant of a writ of possession in the goods in which a secured creditor holds the security interest. Fluellen v. Commercial Credit Corp., 151 Ga. App. 373, 259 S.E.2d 648, 1979 Ga. App. LEXIS 2600 (1979).

General Consideration

Mobile homes. — The sale of a mobile home comes within the provisions of Ga. L. 1967, p. 674, § 1. Holder v. Brock, 129 Ga. App. 732, 200 S.E.2d 912, 1973 Ga. App. LEXIS 1128 (1973), overruled in part, Tucker v. Chung Studio of Karate, Inc., 142 Ga. App. 818, 237 S.E.2d 223, 1977 Ga. App. LEXIS 1386 (1977); Smith v. Society Nat'l Bank, 141 Ga. App. 19, 232 S.E.2d 367, 1977 Ga. App. LEXIS 1738 (1977); Porter v. Midland-Guardian Co., 145 Ga. App. 262, 243 S.E.2d 595, 1978 Ga. App. LEXIS 1943, rev'd, 242 Ga. 1, 247 S.E.2d 743, 1978 Ga. LEXIS 1066 (1978).

Article not violated by acceleration clause. — The mere presence of an acceleration clause is not violative of Ga. L. 1967, p. 674, § 1. Green v. Citizens & S. Bank, 153 Ga. App. 342, 265 S.E.2d 286, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 1798 (1980).

Documentary preparation fee as finance charge. — A "documentary preparation" fee explicitly identified as such in an automobile finance contract and added to the unpaid balance of the purchase price as an "other charge" was not a finance charge since it was charged to all consumer purchasers (both cash and credit). Therefore, the contract complied with state and federal law. Ferris v. Chrysler Credit Corp., 764 F.2d 1475, 1985 U.S. App. LEXIS 30883 (11th Cir. 1985).

Contract's choice of law provisions governs. — Georgia law, rather than South Carolina law, governed a mobile home retail installment sales contract entered into by South Carolina buyers with a Georgia dealer since the contract contained a choice of law provision indicating that the contract should be construed in accordance with the laws of the state in which the seller's place of business was located. Moyer v. Citicorp Homeowners, Inc., 799 F.2d 1445, 1986 U.S. App. LEXIS 30971 (11th Cir. 1986).

Federal Preemption

Protection of federal preemption from state law interest ceilings. — A mobile home financing contract which did not affirmatively misrepresent the debtor's federal statutory guarantees satisfied the prerequisites for obtaining the protection of federal preemption from state law interest ceilings. Grant v. GECC, 764 F.2d 1404, 1985 U.S. App. LEXIS 26366 (11th Cir. 1985), cert. denied, 476 U.S. 1124, 106 S. Ct. 1993, 90 L. Ed. 2d 673, 1986 U.S. LEXIS 3167 (1986).

Contracts in compliance with regulations of Federal Home Loan Bank Board. — Federal law preempted the application of O.C.G.A. Art. 2, Ch. 1, T. 10 to contracts which were made in compliance with regulations promulgated by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. Moyer v. Citicorp Homeowners, Inc., 799 F.2d 1445, 1986 U.S. App. LEXIS 30971 (11th Cir. 1986).

OPINIONS OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Mobile homes. — Mobile homes are included in the definition of motor vehicles contained in Ga. L. 1967, p. 674, § 2 and thereby subject to Ga. L. 1967, p. 659, § 1. 1967 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 67-410.

10-1-31. Definitions; construction.

(a) As used in this article, the term:

(1) "Cash sale price" means the price stated in a retail installment contract for which the seller would have sold to the buyer and the buyer would have bought from the seller the motor vehicle which is the subject matter of the retail installment contract if such sale had been a sale for cash instead of a retail installment transaction. The cash sale price may include any taxes; registration, certificate of title, license, and other fees; and charges for accessories and their installation and for delivery, servicing, repairing, or improving the motor vehicle. The cash sale price may also include any amount paid to the buyer or to a third party on behalf of the buyer to satisfy a lease on or a lien on or a security interest in a motor vehicle used as a trade-in on the motor vehicle which is the subject of a retail installment transaction under this article.

(2) "Finance charge" means the amount agreed upon between the buyer and the seller, as limited in this article, to be added to the cash sale price, the amount, if any, included for insurance and other benefits, if a separate charge is made therefor, and official fees, in determining the time sale price.

(3) "Holder" of a retail installment contract means the retail seller of the motor vehicle under the contract or, if the contract is purchased by a sales finance company or another assignee, the sales finance company or other assignee at the time of the determination.

(4) "Motor vehicle" means any device or vehicle including automobiles, motorcycles, motor trucks, trailers, and all other vehicles operated over the public highways and streets of this state and propelled by power other than muscular power but does not include traction engines, road rollers, implements of husbandry and other agricultural equipment, and such vehicles as run only upon a track.

(5) "Official fees" means the fees prescribed by law for filing, recording, or otherwise perfecting and releasing or satisfying a retained title or a lien created by a retail installment contract.

(6) "Person" means an individual, partnership, corporation, association, or any other group however organized.

(7) "Purchase price" means the time balance shown in the contract plus the down payment.

(8) "Retail buyer" or "buyer" means a person who buys a motor vehicle from a retail seller not principally for the purpose of resale and who executes a retail installment contract in connection therewith or a person who succeeds to the rights and obligations of such person.

(9) "Retail installment contract" or "contract" means an instrument or instruments creating a purchase money security interest.

(10) "Retail installment seller" or "seller" means a person engaged in the business of selling motor vehicles to retail buyers in retail installment transactions.

(11) "Retail installment transaction" means any transaction evidenced by a retail installment contract.

(12) "Sales finance company" means a person engaged in the business of purchasing retail installment contracts from one or more retail sellers. The term includes but is not limited to a bank, trust company, or installment loan company, if so engaged. The term does not include the pledge of an aggregate number of such contracts to secure a bona fide loan thereon.

(13) "Time sale price" means the cash sale price of a motor vehicle, the amount included for insurance and other benefits if a separate charge is made therefor, official fees, and finance charges. The time sale price may also include, if it has not been included in the cash sale price, any amount paid to the buyer or to a third party on behalf of the buyer to satisfy a lease on or a lien on or a security interest in a motor vehicle used as a trade-in on the motor vehicle which is the subject of a retail installment transaction under this article.

(b) The rules of statutory construction contained in Chapter 3 of Title 1 shall apply to this article.

Analysis

Retail Installment Transaction

Retail Installment Transaction

Not "retail installment transaction" when bank, not seller, obtains lien. — When seller sold mobile home for a "cash sales price" and bank financed loan for the "cash sales price," the proceeds of which were then paid to the seller, the bank, not the seller, had a purchase money security interest in the mobile home, and the actual sale was not a "retail installment transaction" under paragraphs (a)(9) and (a)(11) of this section. Massey v. Stephens, 155 Ga. App. 243, 270 S.E.2d 796, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2695 (1980).

Motor Vehicle

Caterpillar 977L Traxcavator does not fall under the definition of "motor vehicle" found either in paragraph (a)(4) of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-31 or the general definition of "motor vehicle" under O.C.G.A. § 40-1-1(33) but does fit the definition of "special mobile equipment" under § 40-1-1(59). Battle v. Yancey Bros. Co., 157 Ga. App. 277, 277 S.E.2d 280, 1981 Ga. App. LEXIS 1779 (1981).

Purchase money interest in negative equity financed as part of trade-in. — Because the definition of "cash sales price" included any amount paid to the buyer or to a third party to satisfy a lease on or a lien on or a security interest in a motor vehicle used as a trade-in, pursuant to O.C.G.A. § 10-1-31, that entire amount was included in the purchase money security interest under 11 U.S.C. § 1325(a). In re Graupner, 356 B.R. 907, 2006 Bankr. LEXIS 3515 (Bankr. M.D. Ga. 2006), aff'd, No. 4:07-CV-37, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 46144 (M.D. Ga. June 26, 2007).

Monies paid on debtor's behalf for an extended service contract and gap insurance were part of the purchase price of the debtor's vehicle for purposes of O.C.G.A. § 11-9-103 and the unnumbered, hanging paragraph following 11 U.S.C. § 1325(a)(9). The service contract was a charge for "servicing" the motor vehicle under O.C.G.A § 10-1-31(a)(1), and applying the close nexus standard in § 11-9-103 led the court to believe that gap insurance was also included in the purchase money security interest. In re Spratling, 377 B.R. 941, 2007 Bankr. LEXIS 3556 (Bankr. M.D. Ga. 2007).

Under O.C.G.A. §§ 10-1-31(a) and 11-9-103, negative equity in a debtor's trade-in vehicle was properly regarded as a purchase money security interest under the hanging paragraph referencing 11 U.S.C. § 1325(a)(5) in that there was a close nexus to the purchase of a vehicle for personal use within 910 days of filing for Chapter 13 relief. Thus, 11 U.S.C. § 506 did not apply to cram down the creditor's secured claim. Graupner v. Nuvell Credit Corp., 537 F.3d 1295, 2008 U.S. App. LEXIS 16582 (11th Cir. 2008).

Notice objection did not apply. — With respect to the creditor's deficiency claim arising from a sale of a truck in which the creditor had perfected a first-priority lien, the debtor's objection based on O.C.G.A. § 10-1-31, which requires additional notice to recover a deficiency against a buyer, did not apply to bar the claim because the creditor was not a sales finance company under the Georgia statute given that it had not purchased a retail installment contract from a seller and was not engaged in the business of purchasing retail installment contracts. Ambrose v. Advantage Funding Commer. Capital Corp. (In re Ambrose), 568 B.R. 716, 2017 Bankr. LEXIS 665 (Bankr. N.D. Ga. 2017).

10-1-32. Requirements for retail installment contracts; insurance; providing for payment of delinquency charges, attorney's fees, and court costs.

(a) A retail installment contract shall be in writing, shall be signed by both the buyer and the seller, and shall be completed as to all essential provisions prior to the signing of the contract by the buyer.

(b) The printed portion of the contract, other than instructions for completion, shall be in at least six-point type. The contract shall contain, in clear and conspicuous type, the following:

(1) A specific statement that liability insurance coverage for bodily injury and property damage caused to others is not included, if that is the case; and

(2) The following notice:

"Notice to the Buyer

Do not sign this contract before you read it or if it contains any blank spaces. You are entitled to an exact copy of the contract you sign."

(c) The seller shall present a completed copy of the contract to the buyer at the time it is signed by the buyer. Unless the seller does so, a buyer who has not accepted delivery of the motor vehicle shall have the right to rescind his agreement and to receive a refund of all payments made and return of all goods traded in to the seller on account of or in contemplation of the contract or, if such goods cannot be returned, the value thereof. Any acknowledgment by the buyer of receipt of a copy of the contract shall be in clear and conspicuous type and, if contained in the contract, shall appear directly above the buyer's signature. This subsection provides cumulative additional rights and is cumulative of Code Section 11-2-302.

(d) The contract shall contain the names of the seller and the buyer, the place of business of the seller, the residence or place of business of the buyer as specified by the buyer, and a description of the motor vehicle, including its make, model, year, and identification number or marks.

(e)(1) If any insurance is purchased by the holder of the retail installment contract, the amount charged therefor shall not exceed the applicable premiums chargeable in accordance with the rates filed with the Department of Insurance. If dual interest insurance on the motor vehicle is purchased by the holder, it shall, within 30 days after execution of the retail installment contract, send or cause to be sent to the buyer a policy or policies or certificate of insurance, written by an insurance company authorized to do business in this state, clearly setting forth the amount of the premium, the kind or kinds of insurance, the coverages, and all the terms, exceptions, limitations, restrictions, and conditions of the contract or contracts of insurance.

(2) Nothing in this article shall impair or abrogate the right of a buyer, as defined in Code Section 10-1-31, to procure insurance from an agent and company of his own selection as provided by the insurance laws of this state; and nothing contained in this article shall modify, amend, alter, or repeal any of the insurance laws of the state.

(f) If any insurance is canceled or the premium adjusted, unearned insurance premium refunds received by the holder shall be credited to the final maturing installment of the contract except to the extent applied toward payment for a similar insurance protecting the interests of the buyer and the holder or either of them.

(g) The holder may, if the contract or refinancing agreement so provides, collect a delinquency charge on any installment which is not paid within ten days from the date the payment is due. Such charge may not exceed 5 percent of the installment or $50.00, whichever is less; provided, however, that, if the contract or refinancing agreement is related to a truck with a gross vehicle weight rating (GVWR) exceeding 6,000 pounds (size Class 3 and above), truck tractor, trailer, or semi-trailer used primarily for business or commercial purposes, such delinquency charge may not exceed 5 percent of the installment. A delinquent charge shall not be collected more than once for the same default. In addition to the delinquency and collection charge, the contract may provide for the payment of reasonable attorneys' fees where the contract is referred for collection to an attorney not a salaried employee of the holder of the contract, plus the court costs.

(h) No retail installment contract shall be signed by any party thereto when it contains blank spaces to be filled in after it has been signed except that, if delivery of the motor vehicle is not made at the time of the execution of the contract, the identifying numbers or marks of the motor vehicle or similar information and the due date of the first installment may be left blank and later inserted by the seller in the seller's counterpart of the contract after it has been signed by the buyer. The buyer's written acknowledgment, conforming to the requirements of subsection (c) of this Code section, of delivery of a copy of a contract shall be presumptive proof of such delivery in any action or proceeding by or against the holder of the contract and that the contract, when signed, did not contain any blank spaces except as provided in this subsection.

(i) If the buyer so requests, the holder shall give or forward to the buyer a receipt for any payment when made in cash.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

O.C.G.A. § 10-1-32 establishes requirements and prohibitions as to "retail installment contracts." Massey v. Stephens, 155 Ga. App. 243, 270 S.E.2d 796, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2695 (1980).

Not "retail installment transaction" when bank, not seller, obtains lien. — When seller sold mobile home for a "cash sales price" and bank financed loan for the "cash sales price," the proceeds of which were then paid to the seller, the bank, not the seller, had a purchase money security interest in the mobile home and the actual sale was not a "retail installment transaction" under paragraphs (a)(9) and (a)(11) of this section. Massey v. Stephens, 155 Ga. App. 243, 270 S.E.2d 796, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2695 (1980).

Effect of signing contract without reading it. — When one who can read signs a contract without apprising oneself of the contract's contents otherwise than by accepting representations made by the opposite party with whom there exists no fiduciary or confidential relation, one cannot defend an action based on the contract, or have the contract canceled or reformed, on the ground that the contract does not contain the contract actually made, unless it should appear that at the time one signed the contract some such emergency existed as would excuse one's failure to read the contract or that one's failure to read the contract was brought about by some misleading artifice or device perpetrated by the opposite party, amounting to actual fraud such as would reasonably prevent one from reading the contract. Green v. Ford Motor Credit Co., 146 Ga. App. 531, 246 S.E.2d 721, 1978 Ga. App. LEXIS 2443 (1978).

No civil remedy for inadvertent failure to meet disclosure requirements. — It being uncontroverted that the seller's failure to meet the disclosure requirements of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-32 was inadvertent rather than intentional, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-38(c) did not provide a civil remedy. Vickery v. Mobile Home Indus., Inc., 171 Ga. App. 566, 320 S.E.2d 633, 1984 Ga. App. LEXIS 2274 (1984).

OPINIONS OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Balloon payment permissible. — Balloon payment on a retail installment contract is permissible under the Motor Vehicle Sales Finance Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-30 et seq. 1985 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 85-10.

10-1-33. Finance charge limitations; assignment of contract.

(a) Notwithstanding any other law, the finance charge, exclusive of insurance and other benefits and official fees, shall not exceed the following rates:

Class 1. Any new motor vehicle designated by the manufacturer by a year model not earlier than the year in which the sale is made and all vehicles not previously titled — $10.00 per $100.00 per year.

Class 2. Any new motor vehicle not in Class 1 and any used motor vehicle designated by the manufacturer by a year model of the same or not more than two years prior to the year in which the sale is made — $13.00 per $100.00 per year.

Class 3. Any used motor vehicle not in Class 2 and designated by the manufacturer by a year model not more than four years prior to the year in which the sale is made — $15.00 per $100.00 per year.

Class 4. Any used motor vehicle not in Class 2 or Class 3 and designated by the manufacturer by a year model more than four years prior to the year in which the sale is made — $17.00 per $100.00 per year.

(b) Such finance charge shall be computed on the unpaid balance on contracts payable in successive monthly payments substantially equal in amount. Such finance charge may be computed on the basis of a full month for any fractional month period in excess of ten days. A minimum finance charge of $25.00 may be charged on any retail installment transaction. As used in this subsection, the term "unpaid balance" shall be determined in accordance with Section 226.8(c) of Regulation Z promulgated by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System pursuant to Title I (Truth in Lending Act) and Title V (General Provisions) of the Consumer Credit Protection Act (Public Law 90-321, 82 Stat. 146, et seq.), as the same existed upon its becoming effective on July 1, 1969.

(c) When a retail installment contract provides for unequal or irregular installment payments, the finance charge may be at a rate which will provide the same yield as is permitted on monthly payment contracts under subsections (a) and (b) of this Code section, having due regard for the schedule of payments. Notwithstanding the foregoing, a seller who computes a finance charge on an actuarial basis may charge a finance charge, exclusive of insurance and other benefits and official fees, which, when calculated according to the actuarial method, does not exceed the yield which would have been permitted on monthly contracts under subsections (a) and (b) of this Code section, having due regard for the schedule of payments; provided, however, that when a seller computes the finance charge according to the actuarial method, then for purposes of computing the rate the entire term of the contract shall be considered to be the number of whole months within the scheduled payment period, disregarding any odd days.

(d) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (a) of this Code section, a buyer and a seller may establish any finance charge agreed upon in writing by the parties where the amount financed is more than $5,000.00.

(e) Any sales finance company may purchase or acquire or agree to purchase or acquire from any seller any contract on such terms and conditions as may be agreed upon between them. Unless the buyer has notice of the assignment of his contract, payment thereunder made by the buyer to the last known holder of such contract shall be binding upon all subsequent holders.

(f) In no event will any such assignment bar any right of action against the seller arising as a result of this article nor will any such assignment bar any defense against the sales finance company or other assignee arising as a result of subsection (b) of Code Section 10-1-38.

Code Commission notes.

Subsection (a) of this Code section was amended by Ga. L. 1980, p. 523, § 1 to increase Class 1 and 2 rates from $8.00 per $100.00 and $11.00 per $100.00 to $10.00 per $100.00 and $13.00 per $100.00, respectively, and to make Class 1 applicable to all vehicles not previously registered. Section 5 of the 1980 Act provided for the repeal of this amendment on July 1, 1981, but § 5 was in turn repealed by Ga. L. 1981, p. 703, § 1, effective April 7, 1981. Thus, the language of subsection (a) of this Code section correctly reflects the Ga. L. 1980, p. 523, § 1 amendment.

Violation of O.C.G.A. 10-1-33

General Consideration

"Year" construed. — The term "year" in O.C.G.A. § 10-1-33 refers to "calendar year" rather than "model year." Lee v. National Bank & Trust Co., 153 Ga. App. 656, 266 S.E.2d 315, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 1937 (1980).

Construction of "any person" and "the person committing the violation." — In pari materia with O.C.G.A. § 10-1-33, the language "any person" and "the person committing the violation" found in subsections (a) and (c) of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-38 refers only to the seller or holder and was not intended to expand the class of persons liable for usury violations. This is emphasized by § 10-1-38(d), which provides that if a violation is corrected within ten days after execution of the contract "neither the seller nor the holder is subject to any penalty under this Code section." Tollett v. Green Tree Acceptance, Inc., 190 Ga. App. 295, 379 S.E.2d 2, 1989 Ga. App. LEXIS 216 (1989).

Retroactivity of subsection (d). — O.C.G.A. § 10-1-36.1, added to Georgia Motor Vehicles Sales Finance Act in 1985, expresses an intent by the General Assembly that neither the 1983 amendment of O.C.G.A. § 7-4-3, nor the addition of new subsection (d) to O.C.G.A. § 10-1-33 in 1985 (assuming it did apply to mobile home loans) was intended to apply retroactively. Southern Guar. Corp. v. Doyle, 256 Ga. 790, 353 S.E.2d 510, 1987 Ga. LEXIS 657 (1987).

Subsection (d) of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-33, which abolishes the interest limit for motor vehicle installment sales contracts in excess of $5,000, is not applicable to a refinancing agreement dated prior to the effective date of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-33. Parten v. GMAC, 187 Ga. App. 516, 370 S.E.2d 778, 1988 Ga. App. LEXIS 786 (1988).

Mobile home loans. — "Motor vehicle" loans are defined to include mobile home loans, but O.C.G.A. § 10-1-33 does not apply to other types of home loans or mortgages. Doyle v. Southern Guar. Corp., 795 F.2d 907, 1986 U.S. App. LEXIS 27236 (11th Cir. 1986).

Mobile home installment sales contracts. — Since the General Assembly, beginning in 1983, has distinguished between mobile home loans and motor vehicle loans, and since O.C.G.A. § 7-4-3(a)(1) and (b)(1), as amended in 1983, deal specifically with mobile home installment sales contracts, whereas subsection (d) of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-33, as amended in 1985, does not, § 7-4-3(a)(1) and (b)(1) express the controlling legislation and legislative intent on mobile home installment sales contracts in excess of $3,000. Southern Guar. Corp. v. Doyle, 256 Ga. 790, 353 S.E.2d 510, 1987 Ga. LEXIS 657 (1987).

Finance Charges

Finance charge is figured as percentage of unpaid (principal) balance. — The term "principal balance" in the original Motor Vehicle Sales Act has been changed to "unpaid balance" in subsection (b) of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-33, as used in § 226.8(c), Regulation Z, relating to the Truth in Lending Act as therein set out. Both terms refer to the same thing — that is, the balance arrived at by deducting from the cash price any down payment made and adding to that sum all other authorized charges and expenses except the finance charge itself. The finance charge is then figured as a given percentage of this unpaid (principal) balance per year throughout the lifetime of the installment payments. Pike v. Universal C.I.T. Credit Corp., 125 Ga. App. 83, 186 S.E.2d 482, 1971 Ga. App. LEXIS 741 (1971).

Unpaid balance may include insurance costs and other charges. — Insurance costs and other authorized charges are properly included in the "unpaid balance" and subject to the finance charge. Pitts v. Peoples Loan & Fin. Corp., 135 Ga. App. 38, 217 S.E.2d 181, 1975 Ga. App. LEXIS 1545 (1975); Busby v. Sea Island Bank, 151 Ga. App. 412, 260 S.E.2d 485, 1979 Ga. App. LEXIS 2550 (1979).

Acceleration clauses are not per se unenforceable. Barrett v. Vernie Jones Ford, Inc., 395 F. Supp. 904, 1975 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 13508 (N.D. Ga. 1975).

Collection of unearned interest is not per se improper under Georgia law. Barrett v. Vernie Jones Ford, Inc., 395 F. Supp. 904, 1975 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 13508 (N.D. Ga. 1975).

If an acceleration of unearned interest causes a note to become usurious, then there is a violation of the usury provision of Ga. L. 1967, p. 674, § 4, and, thus, under Ga. L. 1967, p. 674, § 8, the creditor is barred from recovering any finance charge, delinquency, or collection charge on the contract. McDaniel v. Fulton Nat'l Bank, 395 F. Supp. 422, 1974 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 11532 (N.D. Ga. 1974), rev'd, 543 F.2d 568, 1976 U.S. App. LEXIS 5962 (5th Cir. 1976).

Acceleration without credit for unearned rates. — Plaintiff's acceleration under the contract, followed by the filing of the plaintiff's petition for a writ of possession seeking recovery of a balance due, without deducting therefrom unearned rates that would have been earned except for acceleration, amounted to a "charge" by the seller in violation of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-33. Bozeman v. Tifton Fed. Sav. & Loan Ass'n, 164 Ga. App. 260, 297 S.E.2d 49, 1982 Ga. App. LEXIS 2767 (1982).

In computing the accelerated balance on an installment sales contract in a petition for a writ of possession of mobile homes sold under the contract, the contract assignee's initial failure to rebate any unearned interest and subsequent rebating of such charges according to the Rule of 78's method violated O.C.G.A. Art. 2, Ch. 1, T. 10. Carter v. First Fed. Sav. & Loan Ass'n, 179 Ga. App. 532, 347 S.E.2d 264, 1986 Ga. App. LEXIS 1952 (1986).

Rebate of unearned finance charges on a monthly basis is harmonious with the provisions of O.C.G.A. Art. 2, Ch. 1, T. 10. Fitch v. GMAC, 181 Ga. App. 7, 351 S.E.2d 215, 1986 Ga. App. LEXIS 2335 (1986).

Application of Rule of 78. — In cases of acceleration of contracts under the Motor Vehicle Sales Finance Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-30 et seq., any refund credit for unearned finance charges may not be calculated under the Rule of 78. Bozeman v. Tifton Fed. Sav. & Loan Ass'n, 164 Ga. App. 260, 297 S.E.2d 49, 1982 Ga. App. LEXIS 2767 (1982).

Creditor suing for deficiency cannot use "Rule of 78". — The "Rule of 78" cannot be used to compute the interest refund in a suit for a deficiency balance resulting from a sale under an installment contract. Cook v. First Nat'l Bank, 130 Ga. App. 587, 203 S.E.2d 870, 1974 Ga. App. LEXIS 1191 (1974).

Use of "Rule of 78" results in charging more interest than allowed. — When the interest refund, calculated using the "Rule of 78," results in interest totaling two-thirds of the total amount being charged for a period of less than half the time of the note, this is in excess of the maximum allowable for the period in question on the unpaid balance to finance. Hence, a violation of subsection (a) of Ga.

Finance Charges (Cont'd)

L. 1967, p. 674, § 4 is shown by the evidence. Under Ga. L. 1967, p. 674, § 8 this bars recovery of any finance charge, delinquency, or collection charge on the contract. Cook v. First Nat'l Bank, 130 Ga. App. 587, 203 S.E.2d 870, 1974 Ga. App. LEXIS 1191 (1974).

Presumption that contract rate applied overcome. — Annual percentage rate of 22.55 percent should be applied to debtor's obligation to creditor since the creditor had overcome the presumption that the contract rate applied by showing that on a vehicle of the same age as debtor's vehicle, the creditor would obtain a 13 percent add-on rate. In re McMichen, 23 B.R. 497, 1982 Bankr. LEXIS 3136 (Bankr. N.D. Ga. 1982).

Federal Law

1. FHA and VA

Overriding of FHA and VA provisions. — Notwithstanding the inclusion of FHA and VA consumer protections, the lenders could not avail themselves of either preemption statute, since when the General Assembly amended O.C.G.A. § 10-1-33 in 1980 (raising the interest rate limit from 8 percent add-on to 10 percent add-on), it invoked other provisions of the FHA and VA preemption statutes which under certain circumstances permit the states to override the FHA and VA preemptions. Southern Guar. Corp. v. Doyle, 256 Ga. 790, 353 S.E.2d 510, 1987 Ga. LEXIS 657 (1987).

Georgia overrode the FHA and VA preemptions when it amended its usury limit on mobile home transactions in 1980 and 1981, even though the amendments referred to neither the FHA/VA statutes nor to FHA/VA-insured loans. Doyle v. Southern Guar. Corp., 795 F.2d 907, 1986 U.S. App. LEXIS 27236 (11th Cir. 1986).

2. Depository Institutions Deregulation and Monetary Control Act

Lender may still qualify for federal preemption by complying with the Depository Institutions Deregulation and Monetary Control Act regulations unless, of course, the state has also overridden the DIDMCA preemption. Doyle v. Southern Guar. Corp., 795 F.2d 907, 1986 U.S. App. LEXIS 27236 (11th Cir. 1986).

Federal Depository Institutions Deregulation and Monetary Control Act of 1980 (DIDMCA) was applicable, in that the transaction in question, entered into after March 31, 1980, and before the enactment of exempting state legislation, involved a federally related residential mortgage loan, made by a "creditor" as defined in DIDMCA and secured by a first lien on a residential manufactured home. Vickery v. Mobile Home Indus., Inc., 171 Ga. App. 566, 320 S.E.2d 633, 1984 Ga. App. LEXIS 2274 (1984).

DIDMCA contracts not containing required protections. — When lenders' mobile home contracts fell under § 501 of the Depository Institutions Deregulation and Monetary Control Act of 1980 (DIDMCA), but it was undisputed that the contracts did not contain the consumer protections required by DIDMCA, DIDMCA did not exempt those contracts from O.C.G.A. § 10-1-33. Southern Guar. Corp. v. Doyle, 256 Ga. 790, 353 S.E.2d 510, 1987 Ga. LEXIS 657 (1987).

3. Bankruptcy

Applicability to Ch. 13 bankruptcy plan. — When debtor's car has value less than debt and debtor proposes to pay creditor under a Ch. 13 bankruptcy plan, it is not an arms-length consumer transaction in which the debtor is buying and financing a used car. Creditor is not entitled to receive maximum interest allowable under Georgia law in this context. In re Clements, 16 B.R. 196, 1981 Bankr. LEXIS 2620 (Bankr. N.D. Ga. 1981).

Rate of interest of 22.75%, specified in a purchase-money motor vehicle contract, arguably steep given the rehabilitative nature of the subsequent bankruptcy proceeding, but less than the statutory maximum, and while containing an element of profit, was the rate applied, given the risks involved, in calculating the total amount of payments that the bankruptcy debtor had to make. In re Smith, 42 B.R. 198, 1984 Bankr. LEXIS 5197 (Bankr. N.D. Ga. 1984).

Violation of O.C.G.A. 10-1-33

Violation forfeits charges. — A violation of Ga. L. 1967, p. 674, § 4 invokes the penalty provisions of subsection (b) of Ga. L. 1967, p. 674, § 8 and results in forfeiture of "any finance charge, delinquency, or collection charge on the contract." Porter v. Midland-Guardian Co., 145 Ga. App. 262, 243 S.E.2d 595, 1978 Ga. App. LEXIS 1943, rev'd, 242 Ga. 1, 247 S.E.2d 743, 1978 Ga. LEXIS 1066 (1978).

Principal is still collectible. — Once the court has determined that the creditor is in fact attempting to extort usurious interest, the lender is allowed to collect the principal, but the lender loses at least all unearned interest. Barrett v. Vernie Jones Ford, Inc., 395 F. Supp. 904, 1975 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 13508 (N.D. Ga. 1975).

Balloon payment on a retail installment contract is permissible under the Motor Vehicle Sales Finance Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-30 et seq. 1985 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 85-10.

10-1-33.1. Advancement of money for satisfaction of lease, lien, or security interest in motor vehicle.

A retail installment seller may advance money to a buyer or pay money to a third party on behalf of the buyer to satisfy a lease on or a lien on or a security interest in a motor vehicle used as a trade-in on a motor vehicle which is the subject of a retail installment transaction under this article. Any amount so advanced or paid may be financed as part of a retail installment contract and shall not be considered a loan. The transaction and the seller making such advance or payment shall be exempt from the provisions of Chapter 3 of Title 7, relating to installment loans, from the provisions of Chapter 4 of Title 7, relating to interest and usury, and from any other provision of Georgia law regulating loans.

Editor's notes.
Ga. L. 2020, p. 156, § 10/SB 462, not codified by the General Assembly, provides that: "This Act shall apply to all installment loan agreements entered into on and after July 1, 2020."

10-1-34. Right to prepay debt; credit upon anticipation of payments.

Notwithstanding the provisions of any retail installment contract to the contrary, any buyer may pay in full at any time before maturity the debt of any retail installment contract and, in so paying the debt, shall receive a refund credit thereon for the anticipation of payments. The amount of the refund shall represent at least as great a proportion of the finance charge as the sum of the monthly time balance after the month in which prepayment is made bears to the sum of all the monthly time balances under the schedule of payments in the contract. This method of refund upon prepayment is commonly referred to as the "Rule of 78" or the "Sum of the Digits" refund method. Where the amount of credit is less than $1.00, no refund need be made. This Code section shall not apply to credit upon anticipation of payments or upon acceleration in those cases where the seller or holder of the contract has computed finance charges according to the actuarial method as set forth in Code Section 10-1-33.

10-1-35. Refinancing retail installment contract.

The holder of a contract, upon request by the buyer, may extend the scheduled due date of all or any part of any installment or installments or deferred payment or payments or renew or restate the unpaid time balance of such contract, the amount of the installments, and the time schedule therefor and may collect for such extension, deferment, renewal, or restatement a refinance charge computed as follows: In the event the unpaid time balance of the contract is extended, deferred, renewed, or restated, the holder may compute the refinance charge on such amount by adding to the unpaid time balance the cost for insurance and other benefits incidental to the refinancing plus any accrued delinquency and collection charges after deducting any refund which may be due the buyer at the time of the renewal or restatement by prepayment pursuant to Code Section 10-1-34, at the rate of the finance charge specified in subsection (a) of Code Section 10-1-33, and by reclassifying the motor vehicle by its then year model, for the term of the refinancing agreement, but otherwise subject to the provisions of this article governing computation of the original finance charge. The provisions of this article relating to minimum finance charges under subsection (b) of Code Section 10-1-33 and acquisition costs under the refund schedule in Code Section 10-1-34 shall not apply in calculating refinance charges on the contract extended, deferred, renewed, or restated. If all unpaid installments are deferred for not more than two months, the holder may, at his election, charge and collect for such deferment an amount equal to the difference between the refund required for prepayment in full under Code Section 10-1-34 as of the scheduled due date of the first deferred installment and the refund required for prepayment in full as of one month prior to said date times the number of months in which no scheduled payment is made.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Inapplicable when deficiency judgment not being sought. — O.C.G.A. § 10-1-35 is inapplicable to a case which is not seeking a deficiency judgment but, instead, is a suit on a note. F & M Bank v. Smith, 162 Ga. App. 410, 291 S.E.2d 80, 1982 Ga. App. LEXIS 2190 (1982).

Actual notice to debtor not required. — There is no requirement in O.C.G.A. § 10-1-35 that the debtor actually receive notice. Calcote v. Citizens & S. Nat'l Bank, 179 Ga. App. 132, 345 S.E.2d 616, 1986 Ga. App. LEXIS 1838 (1986).

10-1-36. Disposition of motor vehicle repossessed after default; right to recover deficiency.

(a) When any motor vehicle has been repossessed after default in accordance with Part 6 of Article 9 of Title 11, the seller or holder shall not be entitled to recover a deficiency against the buyer unless within ten days after the repossession he or she forwards by registered or certified mail or statutory overnight delivery to the address of the buyer shown on the contract or later designated by the buyer a notice of the seller's or holder's intention to pursue a deficiency claim against the buyer. The notice shall also advise the buyer of his or her rights of redemption, as well as his or her right to demand a public sale of the repossessed motor vehicle. In the event the buyer exercises his or her right to demand a public sale of the goods, he or she shall in writing so advise the seller or holder of his or her election by registered or certified mail or statutory overnight delivery addressed to the seller or holder at the address from which the seller's or holder's notice emanated within ten days after the posting of the original seller's or holder's notice.

(b) In the event of election of such public sale by the buyer, the seller or holder shall dispose of said repossessed motor vehicle at a public sale as provided by law, to be held in the state and county where the original sale took place, or the state and county where the motor vehicle was repossessed, or the state and county of the buyer's residence, at the seller's election.

(c) This Code section is cumulative of Part 6 of Article 9 of Title 11 and provides cumulative additional rights and remedies which must be fulfilled before any deficiency claim will lie against a buyer, and nothing herein shall be deemed to repeal said part.

Analysis

Notice

General Consideration

Section is cumulative to UCC. — Ga. L. 1967, p. 674, § 7 provided that it was cumulative of former Code 1933, Ch. 109A-9-5 and provided cumulative additional rights and remedies which must be fulfilled before any deficiency claim will lie against a buyer. Georgia Cent. Credit Union v. Coleman, 155 Ga. App. 547, 271 S.E.2d 681, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2668 (1980).

Application of both federal and state statutes. — No inconsistency exists in applying both the Depository Institutions Deregulation and Monetary Control Act of 1980 (DIDMCA), 12 U.S.C. § 1735f-7, and the Georgia Motor Vehicle Sales Finance Act (MVSFA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-30 et seq., as DIDMCA speaks only to procedures to be followed prior to foreclosure and the notice requirements of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-36(a) only apply to procedures that take place after repossession. Chambliss v. Oakwood Acceptance Corp., 315 B.R. 166, 2004 Bankr. LEXIS 1505 (Bankr. S.D. Ga. 2004).

Leases. — The commercially reasonable sale provision under O.C.G.A. § 11-9-504 and the notice provision under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-36 were not applicable to a lease which was a "true lease" rather than a disguised secured transaction. Citizens & S. Nat'l Bank v. Thomas, 188 Ga. App. 312, 372 S.E.2d 687, 1988 Ga. App. LEXIS 970 (1988).

Compliance required for recovery of deficiency. — Compliance with this section is a condition precedent to recovery of any deficiency claim against a defaulting purchaser of a motor vehicle. Doughty v. Associates Com. Corp., 152 Ga. App. 575, 263 S.E.2d 493, 1979 Ga. App. LEXIS 3044 (1979).

Trial court properly granted judgment to a debtor, finding that a repossessor failed to comply with O.C.G.A. § 10-1-36, and therefore was precluded from collecting a deficiency from the debtor following the sale of the debtor's vehicle, as the repossessor waived strict compliance with O.C.G.A. § 10-1-36 by admitting that it received a facsimile notice sent by the debtor, and raised no issue as to the timeliness of the notice or whether it was received by the proper person, and failed to send the required notice thereunder to the debtor's address shown on the contract or later designated by the debtor, opting instead to send the notice to a post office box. Consumer Portfolio Servs. v. Rouse, 282 Ga. App. 314, 638 S.E.2d 442, 2006 Ga. App. LEXIS 1377 (2006).

Noncompliance bars recovery. — A creditor's failure to comply with the notice provisions of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-36 is an absolute bar to recovery of a deficiency judgment. Bryant Int'l, Inc. v. Crane, 188 Ga. App. 736, 374 S.E.2d 228, 1988 Ga. App. LEXIS 1192 (1988).

Compliance not required when creditor was not a "seller". — Compliance with O.C.G.A. § 10-1-36 was not required in disposing of a tractor and trailer given as collateral for a promissory note since the lender was not engaged in the business of selling motor vehicles to retail buyers in retail installment actions. The repossession at issue was governed only by O.C.G.A. § 11-9-504(3). Ervin v. Arnold, 197 Ga. App. 841, 399 S.E.2d 548, 1990 Ga. App. LEXIS 1471 (1990).

Statute of limitations. — While it appeared that O.C.G.A. § 9-3-24, rather than O.C.G.A. § 11-2-725, would most likely apply to defendant collection attorney's state court deficiency action against the plaintiff consumer, and it was not for the federal court to say what the Georgia courts would hold, the uncertainty meant there was no intentional unfair conduct and the consumer's Fair Debt Collection Practices Act claim was dismissed; other parts of the Georgia Code, such as O.C.G.A. §§ 10-1-36 and 40-3-50, and applicable case law indicated that Georgia's highest courts would most likely hold that the case fell within Ga. U.C.C. Art. 9 and not Ga. U.C.C. Art. 2. Almand v. Reynolds & Robin, P.C., 485 F. Supp. 2d 1361, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 31907 (M.D. Ga. 2007).

Notice

Notice required within ten days of repossession, not acquisition of interest. — This section makes no mention of sending a notice within ten days after an interest in the property is acquired. To give this section such a construction would be to allow a party who is a subsequent holder of the note to give notice six months, or perhaps even a year, after the repossession occurred based merely on the fact that the party then acquired a right to possession of the vehicle. This section is clear in its import to protect the debtor by giving the debtor notice within ten days of the repossession so that the debtor might act to prevent the loss of any rights the debtor might have. Barnett v. Trussell Ford, Inc., 129 Ga. App. 176, 198 S.E.2d 903, 1973 Ga. App. LEXIS 928 (1973).

Cure period does not stop 10 days. — Creditor had the right to repossess debtor's truck on the date the debtor surrendered the truck, not at the end of a ten-day period extended by the creditor for the debtor to "cure" the debtor's default, and the "cure" period did not stop the running of the ten-day notice requirement of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-36. Welch v. Ford Motor Credit Co., 227 Ga. App. 904, 490 S.E.2d 206.

Triggering of ten-day period. — It is only when the debtor is in default and the right to repossess exists that no distinction should be made between repossession and voluntary surrender with regard to triggering the running of the ten-day period within which the required notice must be sent. Central & S. Bank v. Williford, 192 Ga. App. 843, 386 S.E.2d 688, 1989 Ga. App. LEXIS 1254 (1989).

Because the lessor was not bound to renew a vehicle lease agreement or become the owner of the vehicle and the residual purchase option price was not nominal or unreasonably low, the lease agreement did not serve as a security interest that triggered notice requirements under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-36. Lewis v. Lease Atlanta, Inc., 234 Ga. App. 812, 508 S.E.2d 188, 1998 Ga. App. LEXIS 1362 (1998).

No requirement that notice be received. — Under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-36, there is no requirement that the required notice be received, but only that it be sent within ten days of repossession by registered or certified mail to the address shown on the contract or later designated by the buyer. Brack Rowe Chevrolet Co. v. Walls, 201 Ga. App. 822, 412 S.E.2d 603, 1991 Ga. App. LEXIS 1593 (1991).

Two attempts to deliver certified mail to the buyer's correct address met the requirements of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-36. Hill v. Federal Employees Credit Union, 193 Ga. App. 44, 386 S.E.2d 874, 1989 Ga. App. LEXIS 1290 (1989).

Use of language "you may redeem said collateral" is sufficient compliance with the terms of this section. Gary v. GMAC, 128 Ga. App. 10, 195 S.E.2d 458, 1973 Ga. App. LEXIS 1362 (1973).

Statement of balance is not required. — Although a statement of the balance owed would be preferable in advising the buyer of the buyer's rights of redemption, this section does not require such specification. Cook v. First Nat'l Bank, 130 Ga. App. 587, 203 S.E.2d 870, 1974 Ga. App. LEXIS 1191 (1974).

Compliance with notice requirements. — After the Chapter 13 debtors objected to a secured creditor's amended proof of claim that alleged the existence of a deficiency balance after it had repossessed and sold the collateral, the creditor complied with the Depository Institutions Deregulation and Monetary Control Act of 1980 (DIDMCA), 12 U.S.C. § 1735f-7, by giving the debtors 30 days notice of default and right to cure before it repossessed their mobile home, and complied with the Motor Vehicle Sales Finance Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-30 et seq., by sending the post-repossession notice to the debtors within 10 days of repossession; therefore, its post-repossession notice was timely. Chambliss v. Oakwood Acceptance Corp., 315 B.R. 166, 2004 Bankr. LEXIS 1505 (Bankr. S.D. Ga. 2004).

Creditor's notice of an intention to seek a deficiency judgment sent to the debtors was sufficient. Although the certified mail receipt did not indicate the date the letter was sent, the creditor's agent gave a sworn statement based on personal knowledge that the letter was sent two days after the car was repossessed, and the address used was current and correct, although it was not the address listed in the sales contract. Versey v. Citizens Trust Bank, 306 Ga. App. 479, 702 S.E.2d 479, 2010 Ga. App. LEXIS 968 (2010).

Trial court erred by granting summary judgment to a finance company in the company's suit against a debtor to collect a deficiency from the sale of the debtor's repossessed vehicle because there was a genuine issue of material fact as to whether the finance company complied with the requirement under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-36(a) to mail a notice to the debtor's designated address or the address in the contract. Shell v. Tidewater Fin. Co., 318 Ga. App. 69, 733 S.E.2d 375, 2012 Ga. App. LEXIS 848 (2012).

Noncompliance with notice requirements. — When a bank forwarded separate deficiency notices to a loan cosigner and the cosigner's daughter by certified mail within 10 days after repossession of a financed vehicle but mailed both notices to the daughter's address, even though the cosigner's address was the one shown on the contract, the notice was not in compliance with O.C.G.A. § 10-1-36. Whatley v. Bank S., 185 Ga. App. 896, 366 S.E.2d 182, 1988 Ga. App. LEXIS 38 (1988).

The repossession of defendant's automobile occurred when the defendant notified the bank of the defendant's intention to allow repossession, not when the bank physically removed the car from the seller's premises; the bank therefore did not comply with the 10-day notice requirements of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-36 by sending notice on the day after the car was returned. Sikes & Swanson Pontiac-GMC Truck, Inc. v. Cantrell, 194 Ga. App. 818, 392 S.E.2d 36, 1990 Ga. App. LEXIS 352 (1990).

Failure to comply with the notice provisions of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-36 is an absolute bar to recovery. Brack Rowe Chevrolet Co. v. Walls, 201 Ga. App. 822, 412 S.E.2d 603, 1991 Ga. App. LEXIS 1593 (1991).

The absence of any proof that the notice was sent by certified mail coupled with evidence that it was never received, left the trial court with a disputed fact regarding whether the notice was properly sent in compliance with O.C.G.A. § 10-1-36. Pitts v. Bank S. Corp., 209 Ga. App. 124, 433 S.E.2d 96, 1993 Ga. App. LEXIS 798 (1993).

Creditor, who did not comply with the notice requirements of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-36 in repossessing and selling a debtor's vehicle, was not entitled to assert a deficiency claim over the debtor's objection, despite the language of the bankruptcy plan and the creditor's belief that the practice in the district was to allow such claim. Gibson v. Citifinancial Auto Corp. (In re Gibson), No. 05-40782-MGD, 2005 Bankr. LEXIS 2672 (Bankr. N.D. Ga. Nov. 15, 2005).

Creditor, who was secured by debtor's car, was not entitled to a deficiency claim after the sale of the car failed to satisfy the full amount of the debt owed since the creditor did not give notice under state law of the creditor's intention to seek a deficiency claim. Baxter v. Sys. & Servs. Techs., Inc., 287 B.R. 298, 2002 Bankr. LEXIS 1418 (Bankr. S.D. Ga. 2002).

Notice not required in car lease. — Lessor was not required to comply with the notice provisions of O.C.G.A. §§ 10-1-36 and 11-9-504 because the motor vehicle lease agreement the lessor entered into with the lessee was intended to be a true lease and not to evince a secured transaction; the lessor retained a meaningful reversionary interest in the car because the option price was more than nominal since the purchase option price was approximately one-third of the car's value, and the agreement contained no provision purporting to grant the lessee equity in the vehicle prior to exercise of the purchase option. Aniebue v. Jaguar Credit Corp., 308 Ga. App. 1, 708 S.E.2d 4, 2011 Ga. App. LEXIS 103 (2011).

Plaintiff's good faith held question of fact. — When it cannot be determined if notice of the sale was returned prior to or after the sale, the plaintiff's good faith in the transaction is a question for the trier of fact. Slocum v. First Nat'l Bank, 152 Ga. App. 632, 263 S.E.2d 516, 1979 Ga. App. LEXIS 3071 (1979).

Notice objection did not apply. — With respect to the creditor's deficiency claim arising from a sale of a truck in which the creditor had perfected a first-priority lien, the debtor's objection based on O.C.G.A. § 10-1-36, which requires additional notice to recover a deficiency against a buyer, did not apply to bar the claim because the creditor was not a sales finance company under the Georgia statute given that it had not purchased a retail installment contract from a seller and was not engaged in the business of purchasing retail installment contracts. Ambrose v. Advantage Funding Commer. Capital Corp. (In re Ambrose),

Analysis

Penalties

General Consideration

Construction of "any person" and "the person committing the violation." — In pari materia with O.C.G.A. § 10-1-33, the language "any person" and "the person committing the violation" found in subsections (a) and (c) of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-38 refers only to the seller or holder and was not intended to expand the class of persons liable for usury violations. This is emphasized by subsection (d), which provides that if a violation is corrected within ten days after execution of the contract, "neither the seller nor the holder is subject to any penalty under this Code section." Tollett v. Green Tree Acceptance, Inc., 190 Ga. App. 295, 379 S.E.2d 2, 1989 Ga. App. LEXIS 216 (1989).

Insurance costs and other authorized charges are properly included in the "unpaid balance" and are properly subject to the finance charge; therefore, if included, there is no violation of Ga. L. 1970, p. 101, § 3 and no resultant forfeiture of interest. Busby v. Sea Island Bank, 151 Ga. App. 412, 260 S.E.2d 485, 1979 Ga. App. LEXIS 2550 (1979).

Retroactivity of 1983 amendment to § 7-4-3(a). — The 1983 amendment to O.C.G.A. § 7-4-3(a), which provides that O.C.G.A. § 10-1-33 shall not apply to retail installment contracts pertaining to any manufactured home with a cash sales price of more than $3,000.00 does not operate retroactively so as to eliminate any cause of action a manufactured home purchaser may have acquired under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-38 by a transaction prior to the 1983 act's effective date. Southern Guar. Corp. v. Doyle, 256 Ga. 790, 353 S.E.2d 510, 1987 Ga. LEXIS 657 (1987).

No civil remedy for inadvertent failure to disclose. — It being uncontroverted that the seller's failure to meet the disclosure requirements of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-32 was inadvertent rather than intentional, subsection (c) of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-38 did not provide a civil remedy. Vickery v. Mobile Home Indus., Inc., 171 Ga. App. 566, 320 S.E.2d 633, 1984 Ga. App. LEXIS 2274 (1984).

Subsection (c) of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-38 does not provide a civil remedy for nonwillful violations of the relevant statutory provisions. Ogletree v. Brokers S., Inc., 192 Ga. App. 53, 383 S.E.2d 900, 1989 Ga. App. LEXIS 869 (1989).

Acceleration clauses are not per se unenforceable. Barrett v. Vernie Jones Ford, Inc., 395 F. Supp. 904, 1975 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 13508 (N.D. Ga. 1975).

Collection of unearned interest is not per se improper under Georgia law. Barrett v. Vernie Jones Ford, Inc., 395 F. Supp. 904, 1975 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 13508 (N.D. Ga. 1975).

Acceleration clause not bad unless usurious. — An acceleration clause is bad only if it attempts to accelerate unearned interest and enforcement of the clause would cause the note to become usurious. McDaniel v. Fulton Nat'l Bank, 395 F. Supp. 422, 1974 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 11532 (N.D. Ga. 1974), rev'd, 543 F.2d 568, 1976 U.S. App. LEXIS 5962 (5th Cir. 1976).

Excess finance charge alone does not show willfulness. — A finding of willfulness is not authorized merely because it has been established that a finance charge exceeds the legal limit set forth in subsection (a) of Ga. L. 1970, p. 101, § 3. Lee v. National Bank & Trust Co., 153 Ga. App. 656, 266 S.E.2d 315, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 1937 (1980).

Award of attorneys' fees. — In determining appropriate award of attorneys' fees, contingency nature of fee arrangement should be considered. Stokes v. Fidelity Acceptance Corp., 644 F.2d 355, 1981 U.S. App. LEXIS 13845 (5th Cir. 1981).

When the jury was asked to indicate the jury's finding as to whether there had been any "willful and intentional violation" on the part of the plaintiff, by striking out this language on the verdict form, the jury obviously found that there had not been such a violation and, therefore, the verdict showed, on the verdict's face, that there was no predicate for any recovery of attorney's fees. First Union Nat'l Bank v. Big John's Auto Sales, Inc., 203 Ga. App. 797, 417 S.E.2d 416, 1992 Ga. App. LEXIS 626 (1992).

O.C.G.A. § 10-1-38 permits a recoupment of attorney's fees previously paid to a seller who had willfully violated the Motor Vehicle State Finance Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-30 et seq., but it does not permit a recovery of any attorney's fees incurred in litigating the seller's willful violation of that statute. First Union Nat'l Bank v. Big John's Auto Sales, Inc., 203 Ga. App. 797, 417 S.E.2d 416, 1992 Ga. App. LEXIS 626 (1992).

Evidence held to support findings as to usury. — When less than $100.00 of the total $540.96 finance charge was refunded upon acceleration of one note prior to the half-way point in the contract and no interest was refunded to the promisor upon acceleration of the second note, there was ample evidence to support the trial court's finding usurious both contracts which were the basis for the bank's counterclaim. Adamson v. Trust Co. Bank, 155 Ga. App. 646, 271 S.E.2d 899, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2718 (1980).

Penalties

Minimum penalty. — General Assembly did not intend by the legislature's language in O.C.G.A. § 10-1-38 to allow courts to choose the $100.00 penalty in cases involving willful violations; rather, the $100.00 minimum was meant to apply only in cases when the illegal finance charge amounted to less than $50.00. Stokes v. Fidelity Acceptance Corp., 644 F.2d 355, 1981 U.S. App. LEXIS 13845 (5th Cir. 1981).

No provision as to degree of overcharge or penalty. — There is no provision in O.C.G.A. § 10-1-38 for degrees of overcharging or degrees of penalty. The penalty for overcharging is forfeiture of any finance charge, delinquency, or collection charge on the contract. The language used is absolute and the trial court is without authority to decline to apply the language. Kelly v. Sylvan Motors, Inc., 160 Ga. App. 420, 287 S.E.2d 359, 1981 Ga. App. LEXIS 3139 (1981).

Forfeiture of finance charge. — O.C.G.A. § 10-1-38 provides for forfeiture of finance charge as a consequence of any violation of O.C.G.A. Art. 2, Ch. 1, T. 10, regardless of the violation's character. Stokes v. Fidelity Acceptance Corp., 644 F.2d 355, 1981 U.S. App. LEXIS 13845 (5th Cir. 1981).

Usury violation bars recovery of charges. — If an acceleration of unearned interest caused a note to become usurious, then there was a violation of the usury provision of Ga. L. 1970, p. 101, § 3 and, thus, under former Code 1933, § 96-1008, the creditor was barred from recovering any finance charge, delinquency, or collection charge on the contract. McDaniel v. Fulton Nat'l Bank, 395 F. Supp. 422, 1974 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 11532 (N.D. Ga. 1974), rev'd, 543 F.2d 568, 1976 U.S. App. LEXIS 5962 (5th Cir. 1976).

When the interest refund in a suit for a deficiency balance resulting from a sale under an installment contract, calculated using the "Rule of 78," results in interest totaling two-thirds of the total amount being charged for a period of less than half the time of the note, this is in excess of the maximum allowable on the unpaid balance to finance. Hence, a violation of subsection (a) of Ga. L. 1970, p. 101, § 3 is shown by the evidence. Under Ga. L. 1967, p. 674, § 8 this bars recovery of any finance charge, delinquency, or collection charge on the contract. Cook v. First Nat'l Bank, 130 Ga. App. 587, 203 S.E.2d 870, 1974 Ga. App. LEXIS 1191 (1974).

Principal may be collected. — Once the court has determined that the creditor is in fact attempting to extort usurious interest, under this article the lender is allowed to collect the principal, but the lender loses at least all unearned interest. Barrett v. Vernie Jones Ford, Inc., 395 F. Supp. 904, 1975 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 13508 (N.D. Ga. 1975).

10-1-159. Inspection of self-measuring pumps; sealing accurate pumps; condemnation of inaccurate pumps; rules and regulations.

(a) It shall be the duty of the inspectors provided for in this part to familiarize themselves with the accuracy and adjusting devices on the various makes of self-measuring pumps in use; and they shall carefully inspect all of such pumps located in the territory assigned to them.

(b) All such pumps found to be giving accurate measure within the tolerance established by regulations of the Commissioner of Agriculture shall have the adjusting device sealed with an official lead and wire seal applied by an inspector duly authorized by the Commissioner of Agriculture in such a manner that the adjustment cannot be altered without breaking the seal.

(c) If any pump shall be found to be giving inaccurate measure in excess of the tolerance established by regulations of the Commissioner of Agriculture, the inspector shall then and there notify the operator of the pump, whether owner or lessee, to make the necessary adjustments, the inspector to lend his assistance with the standard measure provided for testing such pumps. After the adjustments have been made, the adjusting devices shall be sealed in the manner provided for those pumps found originally accurate. The inspector shall notify the operator, whether owner or lessee, of every pump that apparently has been altered for the purpose of giving short measure in excess of eight ounces on a measure of five gallons or that cannot be adjusted within a range of eight ounces, either over or under, on a measure of five gallons that it must immediately be adjusted, the inspector to lend his assistance with the standard measure for testing such pumps. Should the operator fail or refuse to then and there make such adjustments as shall be necessary to bring the measure within the allowed variation, the same shall be condemned and rendered inoperable immediately by the inspector examining the same; and such pump shall not again be operated without the written consent of the Commissioner of Agriculture. Inspectors shall be required to report to the Commissioner of Agriculture immediately the name and number of all pumps condemned and rendered inoperable.

(d) When any pump shall be condemned under this part by any inspector, it shall be the duty of the inspector immediately to make affidavit before the judge of the probate court of the county in which the pump is located that the pump is being operated by the person who shall be named in the affidavit, contrary to law. Thereupon the judge of the probate court shall issue an order to the person named in the affidavit to show cause before him on the day named in the order, not more than ten days nor less than three days from the issuance of the order, why the pump should not be confiscated and dismantled. On the day named in the order, it shall be the duty of the judge of the probate court to hear the respective parties and to determine whether or not the pump has been operated contrary to the provisions of this part. If the judge of the probate court shall find that the pump has been so operated, he shall forthwith issue an order adjudging the pump to be forfeited and confiscated to the state and direct the sheriff of the county to dismantle the pump and take it into his possession, and, after ten days' notice by posting or publication, as the court may direct, to sell the pump to the highest bidder for cash. The proceeds of sale, or as much thereof as may be necessary, shall be used by the sheriff, first, to pay the costs, which shall be the same as in cases of attachment, and the sheriff shall thereupon pay over and deliver the residue, if any, to the person from whose possession the pump has been taken.

(e) It shall be unlawful to install or operate any self-measuring pump which can be secretly manipulated in such manner as to give short measure. Such inaccurate self-measuring pump shall be condemned as provided in this Code section, and thereafter it shall be unlawful for any person to sell any kerosene or gasoline from such pump until such pump has been made or altered to comply with this part and has been inspected and approved for service by the inspector.

(f) It shall be unlawful for anyone to break a seal applied by an inspector to a pump without first securing consent of the Commissioner of Agriculture, which consent may be given through one of the duly authorized inspectors.

(g) The Department of Agriculture shall have the power to implement rules and regulations necessary to carry out inspections of self-measuring pumps provided for by this Code section.

Ga. L. 2010, p. 9, § 1-25/HB 1055 repealed and reserved this Code section, effective May 12, 2010.

10-1-162. Substitution or misbranding of petroleum products; sale of used or reclaimed lubricants; action to enjoin violations; enforcement.

(a) As used in this Code section and in Code Section 10-1-163, the term "person" means natural persons; partnerships, firms, associations, joint-stock companies, syndicates, and corporations; any receiver, trustee, conservator, or other officer appointed by any state or federal court; counties, municipalities, or other political subdivisions of this state, singular or plural; and the State of Georgia. The use of the singular number shall include the plural number.

(b) No person shall store, sell, expose, or offer for sale any liquid fuels, lubricating oils, greases, or other similar products:

(1) In or from any container, receptacle, tank, pump, or other distributing device other than those products manufactured or distributed by the manufacturer or distributor indicated by the trademark, trade name, name, symbol, sign, or other distinguishing mark or device displayed upon the container, receptacle, tank, pump, or other distributing device in or from which such products are stored, sold, exposed, or offered for sale or distributed; or

(2) Under any trademark, trade name, name, symbol, sign, or other distinguishing mark or device other than those products manufactured or distributed by the manufacturer or distributor marketing such products under such trademark, trade name, name, symbol, sign, or other distinguishing mark or device; or

(3) In any manner whatsoever which may deceive or have the effect of deceiving the purchaser of such products as to the nature, price, quality, or quantity of the products so stored, sold, exposed, or offered for sale.

(c) No person shall store, sell, expose, or offer for sale any previously used or previously used and reclaimed, recleaned, or reconditioned lubricating oils, lubricants, or mixtures of lubricants unless such person shall at all times have each and every container or item of equipment in or through which any of such products are sold, kept for sale, displayed, or dispensed plainly labeled "reprocessed or rerefined." No person shall cause to be published, displayed, or circulated any advertising matter offering for sale any previously used or previously used and reclaimed, used, recleaned, or reconditioned lubricating oils, lubricants, or mixtures of lubricants unless he shall state in such advertising the fact that such products have been previously used. Nothing in this Code section shall apply to the sale of unfiltered crankcase drainings, and nothing in this Code section shall apply to the sale of crankcase drainings for use on livestock.

(d) Any person dealing in previously used or previously used and reclaimed, recleaned, or reconditioned lubricating oils, lubricants, or mixtures of lubricants without having each and every container or item of equipment in or through which any of such products are sold, kept for sale, displayed, or dispensed plainly labeled as required in this Code section or advertising any of such products for sale without inserting in such advertising a statement as required in this Code section may upon proper hearing be enjoined from selling any of such products or offering, displaying, or advertising any of the same for sale. Action for such injunction may be brought in any court having jurisdiction to hear and decide equity cases in the county in which the defendant resides and may be brought either by the Attorney General of this state or by the district attorney in and for such county. The authority granted by this Code section shall be in addition to and not in lieu of authority to prosecute criminally any person for a violation of this Code section. The granting or enforcing of any injunction under this Code section is a preventive measure for the protection of the people of this state, not a punitive measure; and the fact that a person has been charged or convicted of a violation of this Code section shall not prevent the issuance of a writ of injunction to prevent further unlawful dealing in previously used or previously used and reclaimed, recleaned, or reconditioned lubricating oils, lubricants, or mixtures of lubricants, nor shall the fact that a writ of injunction has been granted under this Code section preclude the institution of criminal prosecution or punishment.

(e) No person shall disguise or camouflage his equipment by imitating the trademark, trade name, name, symbol, sign, or other distinguishing mark or device under which recognized brands of liquid fuels, lubricating oils, greases, or other similar products are generally marketed.

(f) No person shall mix, blend, or compound the liquid fuels, lubricating oils, greases, or similar products of a manufacturer or distributor with the products of any other manufacturer or distributor or adulterate the same or store, sell, expose, or offer for sale such mixed, blended, or compounded products under the trademark, trade name, name, symbol, sign, or other distinguishing mark or device of either of said manufacturer or distributor or as the adulterated products of such manufacturer or distributor.

(g) No person shall aid or assist any other person in violating any of the provisions of this Code section by depositing or delivering into any container, receptacle, tank, pump, or other distributing device any liquid fuels, lubricating oils, greases, or other similar products other than those intended to be stored therein as indicated by the name of the manufacturer or distributor or the trademark, trade name, name, symbol, sign, or other distinguishing mark or device of the product displayed on the container, receptacle, tank, pump, or other distributing device used in connection therewith or shall by any other means aid or assist another in the violation of any of the provisions of this Code section.

(h) Nothing in this Code section shall prevent the lawful owner thereof from applying his or its own trademark, trade name, name, symbol, sign, or other distinguishing mark or device to any product or material.

If the price of motor fuel is advertised on any sign, billboard, placard, or other advertising medium, it shall be unlawful to place a higher price on any pump dispensing such motor fuel or to charge a higher price for such motor fuel. (b) It shall be unlawful for any person dispensing motor fuel to advertise upon the purchase of motor fuel either free:

If the free car washes or other services advertised are to be performed

10-1-164. (Effective January 1, 2026.) Requirements for signs advertising retail motor fuel; advertisements offering free gifts or services; enforcement; penalty.

(a) For purposes of this Code section, the term "motor fuel" means automotive gasoline and blended fuel, as such terms are defined in Code Section 10-1-232.

(a.1) Any sign or placard or other means used to advertise the price of motor fuel for sale at retail for use in motor vehicles may contain a separate listing of the price and a separate listing of each tax thereon, but must contain a total of such price and taxes which shall be at least as large as the listing of the price or any tax thereon. Upon application of the manufacturer, packer, seller, or distributor and the payment of a license or inspection fee of $25.00 for each brand or type of brake fluid submitted, the state oil chemist shall subject to inspection or analysis the brake fluid so submitted. If the brake fluid is not adulterated or misbranded and meets the standards established and promulgated by the Commissioner and is not such a type or kind that is in violation of this part, the Commissioner may issue the applicant a written license or permit authorizing the sale of such brake fluid in this state for the calendar year in which the license or inspection fee is paid, which license or permit shall be subject to renewal annually upon payment of a $25.00 renewal fee. If, in accordance with Chapter 13 of Title 50, the "Georgia Administrative Procedure Act," the Commis-

(b) If it appears that any of the provisions of this part have been violated, the Commissioner, acting through his authorized agents, inspectors, or representatives, is authorized to issue a "stop-sale" order which shall prohibit further sale or gift of any brake fluid being sold, exposed for sale, or held with intent to sell within this state in violation of this part until this part has been complied with.

(c) Any brake fluid not in compliance with this part shall be subject to seizure upon complaint of the Commissioner or any of his agents, inspectors, or representatives to a superior court in the county in which said brake fluid is located. In the event the court finds that any brake fluid is adulterated or misbranded, it may order the condemnation of said brake fluid; and such brake fluid shall be disposed of in any manner consistent with the rules and regulations of the Commissioner and the laws of this state, provided that in no instance shall the disposition of said brake fluid be ordered by the court without first giving the claimant or owner of same an opportunity to apply to the court for the release of said brake fluid or for permission to process or label said brake fluid so as to bring it into compliance with this part.

(d) In case any "stop-sale" order shall be issued under this part, the agents, inspectors, or representatives of the Commissioner shall release the brake fluid so withdrawn from sale when the requirements of this part have been complied with and upon payment of all costs and expenses incurred in connection with the withdrawal.

10-1-203. Inspection of antifreeze samples; annual license to sell.

Before any antifreeze shall be sold, exposed for sale, or stored, packed, or held with intent to sell within this state, a current certified test report thereof prepared by an independent laboratory recognized by the Department of Agriculture to do such testing must be submitted and evaluated under the supervision of the state oil chemist in the Department of Agriculture. Upon application of the manufacturer or packer or distributor, submission of container label, and the payment of a license fee of $50.00 for each brand or type of antifreeze submitted, the state oil chemist shall evaluate the test report so submitted. Any fees collected pursuant to this Code section shall be retained pursuant to the provisions of Code Section 45-12-92.1. If the antifreeze is not adulterated or misbranded, if it meets the standards established and promulgated by the Commissioner of Agriculture, and if the antifreeze is not a type or kind that is in violation of this part, the Commissioner shall issue the applicant a written license or permit authorizing the wholesale and retail sale by the applicant and by others of such antifreeze in this state for the fiscal year in which the license is issued, which license or permit shall be subject to renewal annually. The appropriate superior court shall have jurisdiction, upon hearing and for cause shown, to grant such temporary or permanent injunction restraining further violations as the circumstances appear to require.

History.
Code 1981, § 10-1-223, enacted by Ga. L. 2023, p. 376, § 2-2/SB 146, effective January 1, 2026.

10-1-224. (Effective January 1, 2026.) Inspection of stations; seal of accurate stations; condemnation of inaccurate stations; secrete manipulation prohibited; regulatory authority.

(a) Electric vehicle charging station inspectors shall inspect all electric vehicle charging stations located in the territory assigned to them.

(b) All electric vehicle charging stations found to be giving accurate measure of the amount of electricity delivered within the tolerance established by regulations of the Commissioner shall have the electric vehicle charging station sealed with an official seal applied by an inspector duly authorized by the Commissioner.

(c) If any electric vehicle charging station shall be found to be giving inaccurate measure of the amount of electricity delivered in excess of the tolerance established by regulations of the Commissioner, the inspector shall then and there notify the electric vehicle charging provider, whether owner or lessee. Should the electric vehicle charging provider fail or refuse to then and there make such adjustments as shall be necessary to bring the measure within the allowed variation, the same shall be condemned and rendered inoperable immediately by the inspector examining the same; and such electric vehicle charging station shall not again be operated without the written consent of the Commissioner. Inspectors shall be required to report to the Commissioner immediately the name and number of any electric vehicle charging station condemned and rendered inoperable.

(d) When any electric vehicle charging station is condemned under this article by any inspector, it shall be the duty of the inspector immediately to make affidavit before the judge of the probate court of the county in which the electric vehicle charging station is located that such station is being operated contrary to law by the electric vehicle charging provider who shall be named in the affidavit. Thereupon the judge of the probate court shall issue an order to the electric vehicle charging provider named in the affidavit to show cause before him or her on the day named in the order, not more than ten days nor fewer than three days from the issuance of the order, why the electric vehicle charging station should not be forfeited, confiscated to the state, and dismantled. On such day named in the order, it shall be the duty of the judge of the probate court to hear the respective parties and to determine whether or not the electric vehicle charging station has been operated contrary to the provisions of this article. If the judge of the probate court finds that the electric vehicle charging station has been so operated, he or she shall forthwith issue an order adjudging the electric vehicle charging station to be forfeited and confiscated to the state and directing the sheriff of the county to dismantle the electric vehicle charging station and take it into his or her possession, and, after ten days' notice by posting or publication, as the court may direct, to sell the electric vehicle charging station to the highest bidder for cash. The proceeds of sale, or as much thereof as may be necessary, shall be used by the sheriff, first, to pay the costs associated with sale, which shall be the same as in cases of attachment, and the sheriff shall thereupon pay over and deliver the residue, if any, to the person from whose possession the electric vehicle charging station has been taken.

(e) It shall be unlawful to install or operate any electric vehicle charging station which can be secretly manipulated in such manner as to give short measure. Such inaccurate electric vehicle charging station shall be condemned as provided in this Code section, and thereafter it shall be unlawful for any person to resell any electricity from such electric vehicle charging station until such station has been made or altered to comply with this article and has been inspected and approved for service by the inspector.

(f) It shall be unlawful for anyone to remove a seal applied by an inspector to an electric vehicle charging station without first securing consent of the Commissioner, whose consent may be given through one of the duly authorized inspectors.

(g) The department shall have the power to implement rules and regulations necessary to carry out the inspections of electric vehicle charging stations as provided for by this Code section.

History.
Code 1981, § 10-1-224, enacted by Ga. L. 2023, p. 376, § 2-2/SB 146, effective January 1, 2026.

10-1-225. (Effective January 1, 2026.) Advertising requirements for electric vehicle charging stations; advertisements offering free gifts or services; enforcement; penalties.

(a) Any sign or placard or other means used to advertise the price of electricity for sale at retail through an electric vehicle charging station may contain a separate listing of the price and a separate listing of each tax thereon, but must contain a total of such price and taxes which shall be at least as large as the listing of the price or any tax thereon. Numbers used to advertise the total price of such electricity shall be of uniform size; and, where fractions are used, the numerator and denominator thereof combined shall be of the same size as any whole numbers used. It shall not be necessary that a denominator be used to indicate fractions; but, if one is not used, the numerator must be at least half the size of the whole number used. When the price of electricity for sale at retail through an electric vehicle charging station is advertised on any sign, billboard, placard, or other advertising medium, it shall be unlawful to place a higher price on any electric vehicle charging station delivering such electricity or to charge a higher price for such electricity. An electric vehicle charging station provider shall not be precluded from giving a discount from the posted or advertised price if the purchaser of the electricity buys additional merchandise.

(b) It shall be unlawful for any electric vehicle charging provider to advertise upon the purchase of electricity either free:

(1) Gifts or other products unless such provider has sufficient number of gifts or products on hand to supply the reasonably expectable demand or the advertisement discloses a limitation of quantity; or

(2) Car washes or other services unless such provider is prepared, in the absence of causes beyond the reasonable control of the offerer, to perform such car washes or the services advertised at the time of the purchase at such provider's place of business or at a place of business affiliated by trademark or agreement with such provider. If the free car washes or other services advertised are to be performed at a place of business affiliated by trademark or agreement but in a separate location, such fact shall be so stated on the sign, billboard, placard, or other advertising medium used.

(c) Nothing in this Code section shall preclude posting on any electric vehicle charging station a separate statement of taxes included in the total purchase price for the purpose of complying with Chapter 8 of Title 48.

(d) Electric vehicle charging station inspectors and any and all law enforcement officers in this state are charged with enforcement of this Code section.

(e) Any person, firm, association, or corporation violating this Code section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Amendments.

10-1-233. Acts of distributor violating article.

It shall be a violation of this article for any gasoline distributor who has a marketing agreement with a gasoline dealer, directly or indirectly, through any officer, agent, or employee, to commit any of the following acts:

(1) To terminate or cancel such marketing agreement without good cause prior to the expiration date;

(2) To terminate or cancel an existing marketing agreement prior to this expiration date or to fail to enter into subsequent agreements without having first given written notice setting forth all the reasons for such action to the gasoline dealer at least 60 days in advance of such termination, cancellation, or expiration of the existing agreement; provided, however, that such notice shall not be required of a gasoline distributor acting with reasonable cause to believe the dealer is maliciously and willfully damaging the property rights of the gasoline distributor or if the dealer has voluntarily abandoned the marketing relationship or after five days' notice has failed to pay his just debts when due to the distributor;

(3) By the use of coercion, intimidation, or threats, to force or induce such gasoline dealer to deal exclusively in products manufactured, distributed, or sponsored by the gasoline distributor or to participate in promotions. Hours of operation which are set in any written agreement in effect prior to July 1, 1978, can only be changed by mutual consent. It shall also be the duty of the distributor to advise the dealer in writing prior to execution of the agreement the projected potential gallonage and the dealer shall acknowledge same in writing prior to execution of the marketing agreement that he is willing to accept same;

(4) To engage in any acts which have the purpose, intent, or effect of fixing or maintaining prices or of forcing or inducing adherence to prices at which such gasoline distributor's products are to be resold by such gasoline dealers, provided that nothing in this paragraph shall be deemed to prohibit recommendation, suggestion, urging, or discussion;

(5) To require a gasoline dealer, at the time of entering into a marketing agreement, to assent to a release, assignment, novation, waiver, or estoppel which would relieve any person from liability imposed by this article;

(6) To require or prohibit any change in management of any gasoline dealer unless such requirement or prohibition of change shall be for good cause, which cause shall be stated in writing by the gasoline distributor;

(7) To impose standards of performance upon the gasoline dealer other than those in the marketing agreement;

(8) To provide any term or condition in any marketing agreement, or other agreement ancillary or collateral thereto, which term or condition directly or indirectly violates this article;

(9) After July 1, 1978, to require operation in excess of a six-day week or in excess of a 12 hour day if the dealer can prove it results in substantially lessening the profits earned in his entire operation to the extent that it is not economically feasible to continue said operation; provided, however, that this paragraph shall in no way impair the obligation of contracts made prior to July 1, 1978; and provided, further, that this paragraph shall not impair the writing of a contract for hours in excess of the hours expressed in this paragraph or impair the right to enforce the hours contained in any contract until sufficient evidence is available to a dealer to exercise the rights provided in this article; and provided, further, that this paragraph shall not be applicable to dealers or distributors who operate a food or convenience store in conjunction with the retail sale of automotive gasoline and related products.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Paragraph (6) of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-233 is unconstitutional under the due process clause of the Georgia Constitution in that the paragraph purports to regulate an industry not affected with a public interest. O'Brien v. Union Oil Co., 699 F. Supp. 1562, 1988 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 13210 (N.D. Ga. 1988).

Paragraph (6) of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-233 is contrary to public policy in that the paragraph adversely impacts upon the rights of gasoline distributors with respect to the individual personal service contracts between themselves and their retailers. O'Brien v. Union Oil Co., 699 F. Supp. 1562, 1988 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 13210 (N.D. Ga. 1988).

Paragraphs (8) and (9) of this section are not preempted by the federal Petroleum Marketing Practices Act, 15 U.S.C. § 2801 et seq. Exxon Corp. v. Georgia Ass'n of Petro. Retailers, 484 F. Supp. 1008, 1979 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 7715 (N.D. Ga. 1979), aff'd, 644 F.2d 1030, 1981 U.S. App. LEXIS 13419 (5th Cir. 1981).

10-1-234. Selling controlled product to another distributor for retail sale when selling to dealers at distress prices.

It shall be an unlawful predatory and unfair business practice for an automotive gasoline distributor who controls a product supply, controls the price of that product, and has the power to require the purchase of that product by another automotive gasoline distributor or an automotive gasoline dealer doing business in this state to sell said product at prevailing automotive gasoline distributor prices at any time to another automotive gasoline distributor for resale to automotive gasoline dealers with the purpose or intent that said product will be sold at retail by said automotive gasoline distributor and fails to offer its automotive gasoline dealers an opportunity to purchase an equal volume of product upon the same terms and conditions, excepting expenses for advertising, credit cards, and other expenses relative to its automotive gasoline dealers, when said automotive gasoline distributor is selling said product at distress prices to other automotive gasoline dealers in the dealer's marketing area. As used in this Code section, the term "distress prices" shall not be construed to include or embrace a price established for the purpose of meeting competition.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

This section not void for vagueness. — Parties are sufficiently apprised of proscribed conduct under this section so as not to be deprived of due process of law by its application, so this section is not void for vagueness. Exxon Corp. v. Georgia Ass'n of Petro. Retailers, 484 F. Supp. 1008, 1979 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 7715 (N.D. Ga. 1979), aff'd, 644 F.2d 1030, 1981 U.S. App. LEXIS 13419 (5th Cir. 1981).

O.C.G.A. § 10-1-234 is, while most assuredly not a model of clarity, at least amenable to some sensible construction; thus, it is constitutional because it does alert parties to character of proscribed conduct and does amount to something more than no rule at all. Exxon Corp. v. Busbee, 644 F.2d 1030, 1981 U.S. App. LEXIS 13419 (5th Cir.), cert. denied, 454 U.S. 932, 102 S. Ct. 430, 70 L. Ed. 2d 239, 1981 U.S. LEXIS 4057 (1981).

O.C.G.A. § 10-1-234 violates the due process clause of Ga. Const. 1983, Art. I, Sec. I, Para. I, in that the statute seeks to regulate a business not affected with a public interest. Batton-Jackson Oil Co. v. Reeves, 255 Ga. 480, 340 S.E.2d 16, 1986 Ga. LEXIS 584 (1986).

Constitutional evaluation. — While the void-for-vagueness doctrine is most rigorously applied in the context of penal statutes and in the area of First Amendment rights, the United States Supreme Court has recognized that vague laws in any area suffer a constitutional infirmity; thus, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-234 may not escape scrutiny simply because the statute is a commercial regulatory statute. But, because this statute is not concerned with either the First Amendment or the definition of criminal conduct a court must be lenient in evaluating the statute's constitutionality. Exxon Corp. v. Busbee, 644 F.2d 1030, 1981 U.S. App. LEXIS 13419 (5th Cir.), cert. denied, 454 U.S. 932, 102 S. Ct. 430, 70 L. Ed. 2d 239, 1981 U.S. LEXIS 4057 (1981).

Standard for evaluating constitutionality of nonpenal, commercial regulatory statutes. — Because O.C.G.A. § 10-1-234 is a nonpenal, commercial regulatory statute, the standard for evaluating the statute's constitutionality is whether the statute is so indefinite as to amount to no rule or standard at all. Exxon Corp. v. Busbee, 644 F.2d 1030, 1981 U.S. App. LEXIS 13419 (5th Cir.), cert. denied, 454 U.S. 932, 102 S. Ct. 430, 70 L. Ed. 2d 239, 1981 U.S. LEXIS 4057 (1981).

Section must be substantially incomprehensible to be unconstitutional. — For O.C.G.A. § 10-1-234 to constitute a deprivation of due process, the statute must be so vague and indefinite as really to be no rule or standard at all, that is, uncertainty in the statute is not enough for the statute to be unconstitutionally vague; rather, the statute must be substantially incomprehensible. Exxon Corp. v. Busbee, 644 F.2d 1030, 1981 U.S. App. LEXIS 13419 (5th Cir.), cert. denied, 454 U.S. 932, 102 S. Ct. 430, 70 L. Ed. 2d 239, 1981 U.S. LEXIS 4057 (1981).

Section does not conflict with federal Emergency Petroleum Allocation Act, as amended, 15 U.S.C. § 751 et seq. Exxon Corp. v. Georgia Ass'n of Petro. Retailers, 484 F. Supp. 1008, 1979 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 7715 (N.D. Ga. 1979), aff'd, 644 F.2d 1030, 1981 U.S. App. LEXIS 13419 (5th Cir. 1981).

Section does not conflict with Sherman Act. — There presently exists no conflict with the Sherman Act, 15 U.S.C. §§ 1-7, sufficient to invalidate this section. Exxon Corp. v. Georgia Ass'n of Petro. Retailers, 484 F. Supp. 1008, 1979 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 7715 (N.D. Ga. 1979), aff'd, 644 F.2d 1030, 1981 U.S. App. LEXIS 13419 (5th Cir. 1981).

10-1-234.1. Suppliers may not inhibit gasoline distributors from being blenders.

Regardless of other products offered, any supplier which, pursuant to a marketing agreement, supplies gasoline from a terminal in this state to a gasoline distributor shall offer to supply such party with gasoline that has not been blended with, but is suitable for blending with, fuel alcohol. No supplier shall prevent or inhibit a gasoline distributor in this state from being a blender or from qualifying for any federal or state tax credit due to blenders. If a supplier supplies gasoline to a gasoline distributor pursuant to this Code section which is then blended, the gasoline distributor shall indemnify and hold harmless such supplier against any losses or damages arising out of claims, costs, judgments, and expenses, including reasonable attorney's fees, or suits relating to or arising out of such blending.

(a) Any automotive gasoline dealer may bring an action against its automotive gasoline distributor for violation of this article in the superior court of the county where such distributor resides or, if the distributor is a corporation, in accordance with Title 14, to recover damages sustained by reason of any violation of this article, provided that the dealer shall show as a prerequisite to recovery under this Code section that he has:

(1) Complied with the reasonable requirements of the marketing agreement; and

(2) Has acted in good faith in carrying out the terms of the marketing agreement.

(b) The court may grant such equitable relief as is proper, including declaratory judgment and injunctive relief.

10-1-237. Early termination of lease; hold over; hearing; vacating premises.

Upon receipt of notice to cancel or terminate an existing lease prior to expiration date, it shall be the duty of the dealer to notify the distributor within 30 days thereof of his intention to hold over and to set forth in writing to the distributor his reasons and justifications therefor and thereafter within ten days to file his complaint or application for injunction in the court of proper jurisdiction; and the judge of said court shall within 15 days conduct a hearing in said matter and thereafter within five days hand down a ruling based upon evidence presented as to the granting of a temporary injunction; and, upon the judge's failure to grant the injunction, the dealer shall vacate the premises all according to the lease agreement.

BELOW COST SALES

Editor's notes.
Ga. L. 1985, p. 458, § 2, not codified by the General Assembly, provides: "All laws and parts of laws in conflict with this Act are repealed; provided, however, nothing contained in this Act shall be construed to repeal any part of Article 9 of Chapter 1 of Title 10, it being the intent of the General Assembly that this Act shall be in addition to said Code sections."

10-1-250. Short title.

This article shall be known and may be cited as the "Below Cost Sales Act."

History.
Code 1981, § 10-1-250, enacted by Ga. L. 1985, p. 458, § 1; Ga. L. 2017, p. 774, § 10/HB 323.

10-1-251. Definitions.

As used in this article, the term:

(1) "Person" means an individual, partnership, association, corporation, joint-stock company, or business trust.

(2) "Product" means octane or cetane rated fuels for use in the propulsion of motor vehicles.

(3) "Purchase" includes any acceptance or receipt of product by a person from a related entity.

(4) "Related entity" of a person means any person who, directly or through an affiliated person, holds more than 50 percent of the assets or voting securities of such person.

(5) "Sale" or "to sell" includes any transfer or delivery of product to a person from a related entity.

History.

10-1-252. Reasonable transfer price.

For the purposes of this article, a transfer price from a related entity to a person is reasonable (1) if it is the same or greater than the price that such related entity contemporaneously charges unrelated persons at the same level of distribution and in the same geographic area as the person for a similar volume of product of like grade and quality or (2) if it is arrived at by including all uniform costs imposed upon purchasers in the operation of the retail business as determined pursuant to generally accepted accounting principles.

History.

10-1-253. Computation of cost.

For the purposes of this article, "cost" shall be computed as follows:

(1)(A) When product is purchased by a person from an independent entity, the lowest invoice cost to the person from the independent entity for product of like grade and quality within 15 days prior to the date of resale of the product by the person; or

(B) When product is purchased by a person from a related entity, the lowest transfer price charged to the person for product of like grade and quality within 15 days prior to the date of resale of the product by the person, provided that the transfer price is reasonable; or

(C) If neither subparagraph (A) nor (B) of this paragraph applies, the lowest posted or published wholesale price of all sellers of product of like grade and quality normally serving the geographic area in which the person is located during the 15 days prior to the date of resale of the product by the person; plus

(2) A reasonable cost of doing business as determined pursuant to generally accepted accounting principles; plus

(3) Freight charges and any credit against federal or state motor fuel or sales tax not already included in the invoice cost, transfer price, or lowest posted or published wholesale price of the product; less

(4) All trade discounts, allowances, or rebates actually granted to the person on the product; provided, however, that such trade discounts, allowances, or rebates are received on proportionally equal terms by all other customers competing in the distribution of such products.

History.
Code 1981, § 10-1-253, enacted by Ga. L. 1985, p. 458, § 1; Ga. L. 2024, p. 1052, § 2(11)/SB 448, effective July 1, 2024.
Amendments.
The 2024 amendment, effective July 1, 2024, part of an Act to revise, modernize, and correct the Code, substituted "however, that" for "however," in paragraph (4).

10-1-254. Prohibited acts in sale of octane or cetane fuels; burden of rebutting prima-facie case.

(a) It shall be unlawful for any person engaged in the sale of octane or cetane fuels in this state, in the course of such sales, either directly or indirectly:

(1) To sell product below cost; or

(2) To discriminate in price between different purchasers of product of like grade and quality, where either or any of the purchases involved in such discrimination is in commerce in this state, and where the effect of such below-cost sale or discrimination may be substantially to lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly, or to injure, destroy, or prevent competition with any person who either grants or knowingly receives the benefit of such below-cost sale or discrimination, or with customers of either of them. Nothing contained in this Code section shall prevent differentials which make only a due allowance for differences in the cost of refining, sale, or delivery resulting from the differing methods or quantities in which such product is sold or delivered to such purchasers. Nothing contained in this Code section shall prevent persons from selecting their own customers in bona fide transactions and not in restraint of trade. Nothing contained in this Code section shall prevent price changes, from time to time, which are in response to changing conditions affecting the market for or the marketability of product of the grade and quality concerned, such as, but not limited to, imperfect or damaged product, obsolescence of product, distress sales under court process, or sales in good faith in discontinuance of business at a particular location or with respect to the product itself.

(b) Upon proof being made in any action to enforce this article that there has been a below-cost sale or discrimination, the burden of rebutting the prima-facie case thus made by showing justification shall be upon the person charged with a violation of this article. Nothing contained in this article shall prevent a seller from rebutting the prima-facie case thus made by showing that such seller's below-cost sale or lower price or the furnishing of services or facilities to any purchaser or purchasers was made in good faith to meet an equally low price of a competitor.

(c) It shall be unlawful for any person engaged in the sale of octane or cetane fuels in this state, in the course of such sales, to pay, grant, receive, or accept any thing of value as a commission or other compensation, or any allowance or discount in lieu thereof, except for services rendered in connection with the sale or purchase of product, either to the other party to such transaction or to an agent, representative, or other intermediary therein where such intermediary is acting in fact for or in behalf of or is subject to the direct or indirect control of any party to such transaction other than the person by whom such compensation is granted or paid.

(d) It shall be unlawful for any person engaged in the sale of octane or cetane fuels in this state to pay or contract for the payment of any thing of value to or for the benefit of a customer of such person in the course of such sales as compensation or in consideration for any services or facilities furnished by or through such customer in connection with the processing, handling, sale, or offering for sale of product refined, sold, or offered for sale by such person, unless such payment or consideration is available on proportionally equal terms to all other customers competing in the distribution of such product.

(e) It shall be unlawful for any person engaged in the sale of octane or cetane fuels in this state, in the course of such sales, to discriminate in favor of one purchaser against another purchaser or purchasers of product bought for resale, with or without processing, by contracting to furnish, furnishing, or contributing to the furnishing of any services or facilities connected with the processing, handling, sale, or offering for sale of such product so purchased upon terms not accorded to all purchasers on proportionally equal terms.

(f) It shall be unlawful for any person engaged in the sale of octane or cetane fuels in this state, in the course of such sales, knowingly to induce or receive a below-cost or discriminatory price which is prohibited by this article.

not affected with a public interest. Strickland v. Ports Petroleum Co., 256 Ga. 669, 353 S.E.2d 17, 1987 Ga. LEXIS 601 (1987).

10-1-255. Civil actions; effect of written tender of settlement; limitation of actions.

(a) Any person who sustains or is threatened with competitive injury by reason of a violation of this article may maintain an action in any superior court of this state having jurisdiction over the defendant to enjoin such violation. A successful petitioner shall be entitled to recover reasonable attorneys' fees and costs of litigation.

(b) In addition to the action provided in subsection (a) of this Code section, any person who sustains a competitive injury by reason of a violation of this article may maintain an action in any court of this state having jurisdiction over the defendant to recover the actual, or special, damages sustained thereby including, but not limited to, reasonable attorneys' fees and costs of litigation. A successful claimant under this subsection shall be awarded punitive damages not to exceed $1,000.00 for each day on which the defendant continued to commit the violation of this article resulting in competitive injury after having received from the plaintiff a written notice that the defendant was engaging in such violation. The maximum amount of such punitive damages which may be awarded to any one plaintiff from any one defendant, however, shall be $200,000.00.

(c) A claim for damages for violation of this article may be asserted in an individual action only and may not be the subject of a class action under Code Section 9-11-23 or any other provisions of law. It is the intention of the General Assembly that this prohibition against class actions is an integral substantive provision of this article, and that its unenforceability for any reason in any action shall preclude the recovery of damages in such action.

(d) At any time subsequent to the filing of an action for damages under this article, and prior to any award of such damages, the defendant may make a written tender of settlement to the complaining person. If the complaining person is awarded no damages or less damages than the amount of the written tender of settlement, the complaining person shall under no circumstances be entitled to recover any costs of the litigation, including attorneys' fees, that were incurred after the date of the written tender of settlement. All written tenders of settlement that are made pursuant to this subsection shall be presumed to be offered without prejudice in compromise of a disputed matter.

(e) Any action brought under this article must be brought within two years of the date of the alleged violation. All other actions are forever barred.

(iv) Regardless of the number of persons offering or displaying personal property or the absence of fees, at which used personal property is offered or displayed for sale or exchange if the event is held more than six times in any 12 month period.

(B) The term "flea market" is interchangeable with and applicable to "swap meet," "indoor swap meet," or other similar terms regardless of whether these events are held inside a building or outside in the open. The primary characteristic is that these activities involve a series of sales sufficient in number, scope, and character to constitute a regular course of business.

(C) The term "flea market" shall not mean and shall not apply to:

(i) An event which is organized for the exclusive benefit of any community chest, fund, foundation, association, or corporation organized and operated for religious, educational, or charitable purposes, provided that no part of any admission fee or parking fee charged vendors or prospective purchasers or the gross receipts or net earnings from the sale or exchange of personal property, whether in the form of a percentage of the receipts or earnings, as salary, or otherwise, inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or person participating in the organization or conduct of the event; or

(ii) Any event at which all of the personal property offered for sale or displayed is new, and all persons selling, exchanging, or offering or displaying personal property for sale or exchange are manufacturers or licensed retail or wholesale merchants.

(2) "Nonregistered vendor" means a person who, without a certificate of registration issued by the state revenue commissioner pursuant to Chapter 8 of Title 48, engages in the retail sale of personal property to the general public.

(3) "Used personal property" includes personal property which has previously been sold or delivered to a retailer prior to being acquired by a vendor when the vendor's cost exceeds $50.00 per item.

(4) "Vendor" means a person who engages in the retail sale of personal property at a flea market.

(b) Every nonregistered vendor and vendor shall maintain a permanent record book in which shall be entered in ink and in legible English at the time any property is acquired for the purpose of retail sale:

(1) The date of the transaction;

(2) The name, age, and address of the person, corporation, or entity from whom the property was acquired, a description of the general appearance of any such person, and the distinctive number from such person's driver's license or other similar identification card;

(3) An identification and description of the property acquired including, if reasonably available, the serial, model, or other number and all identifying marks inscribed thereon;

(4) The price paid for such property; and

(5) The signature of the seller.

All entries shall appear in ink and shall be in chronological order. No blank lines may be left between entries. No obliterations, alterations, or erasures may be made. Corrections shall be made by drawing a line of ink through the entry without destroying the legibility. Such record book shall be open to the inspection of any law enforcement officer during the ordinary hours of business or at any reasonable time.

(c) The record of each purchase transaction provided for in this Code section shall be maintained for a period of not less than two years and shall be kept by the nonregistered vendor or vendor and made available during any period at which such person is open for business or is offering property for sale.

(d) Any nonregistered vendor or vendor required to maintain a record book under the provisions of this Code section who shall:

(1) Fail to make an entry of any material matter in his or her permanent record book;

(2) Make any false entry therein;

(3) Falsify, obliterate, destroy, or remove such record book from his or her place of business during any time such record book is required to be present;

(4) Refuse to allow any law enforcement officer to inspect his or her permanent record book or any goods or property in his or her possession during the ordinary hours of business or at any reasonable time; or

(5) Fail to maintain the records required by this Code section for at least two years

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Crux of complaint based on this part is likelihood of confusion between goods. Rolls-Royce Motors, Ltd. v. A & A Fiberglass, Inc., 428 F. Supp. 689, 1976 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 12523 (N.D. Ga. 1976); Amstar Corp. v. Domino's Pizza, Inc., 615 F.2d 252, 1980 U.S. App. LEXIS 18834 (5th Cir.), cert. denied, 449 U.S. 899, 101 S. Ct. 268, 66 L. Ed. 2d 129, 1980 U.S. LEXIS 3487 (1980).

Consumer's failure to show the plaintiff had to establish a likelihood of damage to the plaintiff by an automobile dealer's fraudulent practices made summary judgment denying the plaintiff's claim under the Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq., proper. Catrett v. Landmark Dodge, Inc., 253 Ga. App. 639, 560 S.E.2d 101, 2002 Ga. App. LEXIS 168 (2002).

Requirements for injunctive relief under O.C.G.A. Pt. 1, Art. 15, Ch. 1, T. 10 are less stringent than under any other sections dealing with protection of trade names and trademarks. Giant Mart Corp. v. Giant Disct. Foods, Inc., 247 Ga. 775, 279 S.E.2d 683, 1981 Ga. LEXIS 877 (1981).

Standing. — Patentee of a weight loss drug who had not produced or marketed a weight control product, and was not a person likely to be damaged by the practices of alleged competitors, lacked standing to bring suit under the Uniform Deceptive Trade Practice Act, O.C.G.A. Pt. 1, Art. 15, Ch. 1, T. 10. Friedlander v. HMS-PEP Prods., 226 Ga. App. 123, 485 S.E.2d 240, 1997 Ga. App. LEXIS 454 (1997), cert. denied, No. S97C1268, 1997 Ga. LEXIS 851 (Ga. Oct. 3, 1997).

No basis for claim. — See Yarway Corp. v. Eur-Control USA, Inc., 775 F.2d 268, 1985 U.S. App. LEXIS 15284 (Fed. Cir. 1985).

The Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. Pt. 1, Art. 15, Ch. 1, T. 10, did not apply to an action by students against schools and student loan guarantors based on allegations that the schools recruited the students, induced the students to sign up for federally guaranteed student loans, and then failed to provide the promised quality of education or job placement. Bartels v. Alabama Commer. College, 918 F. Supp. 1565, 1995 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 20447 (S.D. Ga. 1995), aff'd in part, rev'd, 189 F.3d 483, 1999 U.S. App. LEXIS 19902 (11th Cir. 1999).

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Analogy with Lanham Act. — In an action by a manufacturer against a competitor under the Lanham Act (15 U.S.C. § 1125(a)) for trade dress infringement, it was error to apply the statute of limitations in the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., since the Georgia Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. 10-1-370 et seq., is the proper analogous statute to apply for such purpose. Kason Indus. v. Component Hdwe. Group, 120 F.3d 1199, 1997 U.S. App. LEXIS 22846 (11th Cir. 1997).

Statute of limitations. — Four-year period of O.C.G.A. § 9-3-31 was applicable for purposes of the Georgia Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. 10-1-370 et seq., not the 20-year period of O.C.G.A. § 9-3-22. Kason Indus. v. Component Hdwe. Group, 120 F.3d 1199, 1997 U.S. App. LEXIS 22846 (11th Cir. 1997).

No valid claim. — When an employee resigned while in the process of trying to obtain certain business for the employer, and the employee formed a company, which later obtained this business, the employer did not show that the employee violated the Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq., because the employer did not show that the employee caused any confusion as to the source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods or services. Looney v. M-Squared, Inc., 262 Ga. App. 499, 586 S.E.2d 44, 2003 Ga. App. LEXIS 875 (2003), cert. denied, No. S03C1783, 2003 Ga. LEXIS 1032 (Ga. Nov. 17, 2003).

Standing. — Company's motion to dismiss pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6) made applicable in bankruptcy through Fed. R. Bankr. P. 7012, was denied because nothing in the language of Georgia's Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act (UDTPA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq., required the debtor to be a consumer or required a consumer to be injured; therefore, the "consumer" issue was irrelevant to standing under the UDTPA. Johnston Indus. Ala., Inc. v. Nat'l Contract Assocs. (In re Johnston Indus.), 300 B.R. 821, 2003 Bankr. LEXIS 1384 (Bankr. M.D. Ga. 2003).

Sovereign immunity barred claims against Georgia Lottery Corporation. — Trial court erred in denying the Georgia Lottery Corporation's motion to dismiss the appellee's claim under Georgia's Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act (UDTPA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq., as the appellee's UDTPA claim for injunctive relief against the Georgia Lottery Corporation was barred by sovereign immunity because the UDTPA did not expressly waive the state's sovereign immunity; did not specifically create a cause of action against the state; and exempted conduct in compliance with a statute administered by a state agency, and the Georgia Lottery Corporation was a state agency created by statute to administer the lottery. Ga. Lottery Corp. v. Patel, 353 Ga. App. 320, 836 S.E.2d 634, 2019 Ga. App. LEXIS 688 (2019).

Amended complaint alleging violation of Georgia Deceptive Trade Practices Act granted. — In an action in which an interexchange carrier asserted the carrier was not obligated to pay fees to a local carrier for misrepresented toll-free cell calls, an amendment to add claims alleging violations under the Georgia RICO Act, O.C.G.A. § 16-14-1 et seq., common law fraud, and the Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq., was not futile given the court's denial of summary judgment on the local carrier's counterclaims. ITC Deltacom Communs. v. US LEC Corp., No. 3:02-CV-116-JTC, 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 27557 (N.D. Ga. Mar. 15, 2004).

Unfair insurance practices not subject to Georgia's Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act. — Pursuant to O.C.G.A. § 10-1-374(a)(1), insurance transactions are exempt from Georgia's Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act (UDTPA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq. Claims of unfair trade practices in insurance transactions are instead governed by the Georgia Insurance Code. Northeast Ga. Cancer Care, LLC v. Blue Cross & Blue Shield of Ga., Inc., 297 Ga. App. 28, 676 S.E.2d 428, 2009 Ga. App. LEXIS 350 (2009), cert. denied, No. S09C1241, 2009 Ga. LEXIS 805 (Ga. Sept. 28, 2009).

Trade name infringement. — Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq., provides for injunctive relief to prevent damage caused by a deceptive trade practice, including the use of a confusingly similar trade name which infringes on a protected trade name. Relief may be obtained from the deceptive practice, whether or not the protected trade name was registered, and without proof that the alleged infringer intended to deceive the public by causing confusion. Inkaholiks Luxury Tattoos Georgia, LLC v. Parton, 324 Ga. App. 769, 751 S.E.2d 561, 2013 Ga. App. LEXIS 929 (2013).

Residential mortgage transactions not covered. — In a suit asserting wrongful foreclosure and other claims, the trial court properly dismissed the plaintiff's claims asserting unfair business and deceptive trade practices because those statutory acts did not apply to residential mortgage transactions. Marques v. JP Morgan Chase Bank, N.A., 370 Ga. App. 305, 896 S.E.2d 1, 2023 Ga. App. LEXIS 552 (2023).

Dismissal when injunction would serve no purpose as information on dark web. — Patients' claim under the Georgia Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq., was properly dismissed because, pretermitting whether the patients alleged an unfair trade practice, an injunction would serve no purpose because the patients' personal information was already sold and was available on the dark web. Collins v. Athens Orthopedic Clinic, 356 Ga. App. 776, 849 S.E.2d 213, 2020 Ga. App. LEXIS 524 (2020).

Analysis

Relief
1. Medical Field
2. Other Businesses

General Consideration

Preemption by federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act. — District court properly dismissed the plaintiff's claim under the Georgia Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq., because the federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act's, 21 U.S.C. § 301 et seq., express-preemption provision barred the claim as it would impose liability for conduct that did not violate the Act. Hi-Tech Pharms., Inc. v. HBS Int'l Corp., 910 F.3d 1186, 2018 U.S. App. LEXIS 34051 (11th Cir. 2018).

Standing. — Company's motion to dismiss pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6) made applicable in bankruptcy through Fed. R. Bankr. P. 7012 was denied because nothing in the language of Georgia's Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act (UDTPA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq., required the debtor to be a consumer or required a consumer to be injured; therefore, the "consumer" issue was irrelevant to standing under the UDTPA.

Johnston Indus. Ala., Inc. v. Nat'l Contract Assocs. (In re Johnston Indus.), 300 B.R. 821, 2003 Bankr. LEXIS 1384 (Bankr. M.D. Ga. 2003).

Failure to register or otherwise protect name. — Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq., does not require a party seeking relief thereunder to have registered the relevant trade or service mark or name. To the extent this court ruled otherwise in Elite Personnel, Inc. v. Elite Personnel Services, Inc., 259 Ga. 192, 378 S.E.2d 117, 1989 Ga. LEXIS 204 (1989) that opinion is hereby overruled. Future Professionals v. Darby, 266 Ga. 690, 470 S.E.2d 644, 1996 Ga. LEXIS 238 (1996).

Failure to authorize use of name. — Customer sufficiently pled a counterclaim for false endorsement under the Lanham Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1125(a)(1)(A) and the Georgia Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq., specifically O.C.G.A. § 10-1-372(a), because there was evidence in the record that the customer did not authorize a copyright owner's use of the customer's name and quote when the owner initially displayed the material on its website and the owner continued to display the material after the customer expressly withdrew any authorization. SCQuARE Int'l, Ltd. v. BBDO Atlanta, Inc., 455 F. Supp. 2d 1347, 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 68407 (N.D. Ga. 2006).

In a suit by owner of a registered mark that consisted of the name of a well-known racehorse against companies that filmed a fictionalized movie of the horse's career, further discovery under Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(f) was allowed as to owner's state law claim of false endorsement under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-372 because consumers might have been confused by marketing that stated that the film was a true story, even though it lacked endorsement of the horse's well-known trainer and jockey, who were portrayed by actors in the film. Thoroughbred Legends, LLC v. Walt Disney Co., No. 1:07-CV-1275-BBM, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 19960 (N.D. Ga. Feb. 12, 2008).

Protection despite failure to register. — Because a sole proprietor's use of "ATG" had acquired secondary meaning as a trade name, the proprietor was entitled to enjoin a corporation from using the same name since it was shown that the corporation's use caused confusion and misunderstanding on the part of the public. Eckles v. Atlanta Tech. Group, 267 Ga. 801, 485 S.E.2d 22, 1997 Ga. LEXIS 105 (1997).

Jurisdiction of issue involving similar names. — A claim under the Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq., involving deceptively similar business logos was a claim for equitable relief and was not within the jurisdiction of the court of appeals. Akron Pest Control v. Radar Exterminating Co., 216 Ga. App. 495, 455 S.E.2d 601, 1995 Ga. App. LEXIS 216 (1995).

Confusingly similar names. — Claims for service mark infringement under the federal Lanham Act, the Georgia Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq., and the Georgia law of unfair competition turn on the same question — confusion of similar names. Jellibeans, Inc. v. Skating Clubs of Ga., Inc., 716 F.2d 833, 1983 U.S. App. LEXIS 16353 (11th Cir. 1983).

Plaintiffs made requisite showing for injunction that trade name reacquired upon foreclosure of their security interest had acquired a secondary meaning and that defaulting buyers knowingly had adopted a confusingly similar name, which had in fact confused the plaintiffs' former customers. Reis v. Ralls, 250 Ga. 721, 301 S.E.2d 40, 1983 Ga. LEXIS 614 (1983).

Showing that, on more than one occasion, customers misdirected their inquiries and that legal documents were misserved was evidence that the corporation's use of the plaintiff's trade name caused confusion and misunderstanding on the part of the public entitling the plaintiff to injunctive relief. Eckles v. Atlanta Tech. Group, 267 Ga. 801, 485 S.E.2d 22, 1997 Ga. LEXIS 105 (1997).

Promoter presented sufficient evidence of the strength of the promoter's marks and of actual confusion amongst the relevant consumer class to avoid summary judgment, and the appellate court reversed the district court's grant of summary judgment for the group and remanded for trial on the claims of infringement under the Lanham Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1114, false designation of origin under 15 U.S.C. § 1125, deceptive trade practices under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-372 and unfair competition under O.C.G.A. § 23-2-55 et seq. because: (1) the car dealership promoter had shown actual confusion and the district court erred by overvaluing lack of confusion exhibited by the general public, an audience with no experience in the advertisement buying market; (2) "Slash-It! Sales Event" attained federal incontestable status, so the district court erred in holding that the mark was merely descriptive, and not entitled to strong protection; (3) the promoter created a disputed issue of material fact that the slasher slogans left the same impression, weighing in favor of likelihood of confusion; and (4) the similarities between the two sales allowed for the inference that a reasonable consumer could possibly attribute the products here to the same source. Caliber Auto. Liquidators, Inc. v. Premier Chrysler, Jeep, Dodge, LLC, 605 F.3d 931, 2010 U.S. App. LEXIS 9373 (11th Cir. 2010).

Summary judgment was inappropriate as to trademark infringement liability and a deceptive trade practices claim because while the "Xylem" mark was at least suggestive, the marks were substantially similar, and the trademark holder documented over 100 instances of actual confusion resulting from misdirected checks, phone calls, faxes, and emails; the court could not find that no reasonable juror would find there was no confusion created by the accused infringer's use of the Xylem name and mark. ITT Corp. v. Xylem Group, LLC, 963 F. Supp. 2d 1309, 2013 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 109381 (N.D. Ga. 2013).

Disparaging remarks actionable. — Dismissal of a claim under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-372(a)(2) was ordered since that section was deemed to prohibit confusion of trade names, of which there were no allegations in a complaint by a dialysis center against its former medical directors arising from breaches of a non-competition clause; however, there were sufficient statements to deny dismissal of a claim under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-372(a)(8) since it was alleged that disparaging and damaging comments were made about the services at the center, which were entirely untrue, and which were made with the intent to convey the impression that the center's facilities were inferior to other competing facilities. DaVita Inc. v. Nephrology Assocs., P.C., 253 F. Supp. 2d 1370, 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 4770 (S.D. Ga. 2003).

Presumption against a likelihood of confusion is raised if marks have coexisted in the marketplace over a significant period of time with no evidence of actual confusion. However, the presumption may be rebutted by evidence of other factors tending to support a finding of a likelihood of confusion. Ackerman Sec. Sys. v. Design Sec. Sys., 201 Ga. App. 805, 412 S.E.2d 588, 1991 Ga. App. LEXIS 1577 (1991).

False impression not given. — Supplier's claims of unfair competition under § 43(a) of the Lanham Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1125(a), and under the Georgia Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, specifically O.C.G.A. § 10-1-372(a), failed on summary judgment because there was no evidence that a distributor substituted its product on store shelves while suggesting that the source was a supplier or that the distributor's product was manufactured by anyone other than the distributor; further, the supplier failed to allege evidence to support a claim of passing off at the level of retail stores. Optimum Techs., Inc. v. Henkel Consumer Adhesives, Inc., 496 F.3d 1231, 2007 U.S. App. LEXIS 19918 (11th Cir. 2007).

Relief

Injunctive relief is sole remedy. — Sole remedy provided for a violation of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-372 is injunctive relief. Lauria v. Ford Motor Co., 169 Ga. App. 203, 312 S.E.2d 190, 1983 Ga. App. LEXIS 3026 (1983).

Injunctive relief and damages available for infringement of trade name. — If the right to protection of a trade name exists, the injured party may seek both injunctive relief and damages. Diedrich v. Miller & Meier & Assocs., 254 Ga. 734, 334 S.E.2d 308, 1985 Ga. LEXIS 849 (1985).

Injunctive relief was denied to plaintiff business association pursuant to Georgia's Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq., because the association failed to show that the actions taken by a federal advisory committee in adopting more stringent threshold limit values for certain chemicals appeared unrelated to the course of a person's business, vocation, or occupation. Int'l Brominated Solvents Ass'n v. Am. Conf. of Governmental Indus. Hygienists, Inc., No. 5:04CV394, 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 27605 (M.D. Ga. Nov. 26, 2004), dismissed, 393 F. Supp. 2d 1362, 2005 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5802 (M.D. Ga. 2005).

Monetary relief not available. — A count alleging violation of the Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq., could not provide a basis for relief because the remedy sought in the complaint, i.e., monetary relief, is not available under the Act. Taylor Auto Group, Inc. v. Jessie, 241 Ga. App. 602, 527 S.E.2d 256, 1999 Ga. App. LEXIS 1680 (1999), cert. denied, No. S00C0694, 2000 Ga. LEXIS 464 (Ga. May 26, 2000).

No confusion with doctor's business. — Doctor's claims alleging that defendants initiated a peer review process for the purpose of driving the doctor's competing dialysis center out of business were not actionable under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-372(a)(2) of the Georgia Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq., because nothing in the complaint suggested that defendants used a trade name to cause confusion with the doctor's business. Wood v. Archbold Med. Ctr., No. 6:05-CV-53, 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 44292 (M.D. Ga. June 28, 2006).

Disparaging remarks by doctor not actionable. — Doctor's claims alleging that defendants initiated a peer review process for the purpose of driving the doctor's competing dialysis center out of business were not actionable under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-372(a)(8) of the Georgia Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq., because none of defendants' alleged conduct, including the solicitation of the doctor's patients and the refusal to make community-donated blood available to the doctor, involved false or misleading statements of fact. Wood v. Archbold Med. Ctr., No. 6:05-CV-53, 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 44292 (M.D. Ga. June 28, 2006).

Privilege and lack of malice bars recovery by hospital. — Because the defendant's direct testimony was that the defendant was motivated to report the defendant's concerns about the level of emergency room care solely out of a sense of duty and concern for patient safety and that the defendant bore no animus against the plaintiff, because there was no other evidence of ill will, and because there was a showing of privilege in the disclosure of patient information, the plaintiff's failure to show express malice made summary judgment against the plaintiff proper for failure to state a claim under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-372. Dominy v. Shumpert, 235 Ga. App. 500, 510 S.E.2d 81, 1998 Ga. App. LEXIS 1550 (1998).

Claims against hospital dismissed. — Court dismissed, without prejudice, an uninsured patient's Georgia Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq., claims against a non-profit hospital and an affiliated health company because: (1) the patient alleged that the defendants violated state and federal law with regard to the defendant's billing practices for uninsured and/or indigent patients and the patient should not have to pay the treatment costs because the hospital was a non-profit hospital; and (2) I.R.S. § 501(c)(3) did not confer subject matter jurisdiction on the court over the patient's trade practice claims because the claims were based on the theory that § 501(c)(3) created an enforceable trust between the hospital and the federal government, and no such trust was created under federal law. Ellis v. Phoebe Putney Health Sys., No. 1:04-CV-80, 2005 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 19935 (M.D. Ga. Apr. 8, 2005).

Because the uninsured patients failed to allege that a non-profit hospital made false or misleading statements with respect to price reductions, but merely alleged that the hospital's disparate pricing was confusing and likely to create a misunderstanding, it failed to adequately state a claim under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-372. Cox v. Athens Reg'l Med. Ctr., Inc., 279 Ga. App. 586, 631 S.E.2d 792, 2006 Ga. App. LEXIS 647 (2006), cert. denied, No. S06C1722, 2006 Ga. LEXIS 721 (Ga. Sept. 8, 2006).

Claims against health provider dismissed. — Mere fact that the "chargemaster" rates for medical care charged to two uninsured patients pursuant to their contracts with a health care provider exceeded the rates the provider normally charged for medical care covered by insurance and Medicare/Medicaid benefits, even assuming the patients were unaware of the pricing difference, did not establish a violation of the Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq. Morrell v. Wellstar Health Sys., Inc., 280 Ga. App. 1, 633 S.E.2d 68, 2006 Ga. App. LEXIS 736 (2006), cert. denied, No. S06C1867, 2006 Ga. LEXIS 848 (Ga. Oct. 16, 2006).

Cancellation of agreement to sell insurance and surgical products. — Insurer's verbal cancellation of a written contract with a marketer to sell health, medical, and surgical insurance products did not constitute the type of deceptive trade practice covered by Georgia's Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq., specifically O.C.G.A. § 10-1-372(a), because its actions were not directed at misleading the general public in connection with one of its products. Med S. Health Plans, LLC v. Life of the S. Ins. Co., No. 4:07-CV-134, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 40223 (M.D. Ga. May 19, 2008).

2. Other Businesses

Use of existing trademark. — Corporate poultry producer and marketer, by adopting and using the trademark GOLDEN MEDALLION on its frozen poultry products, infringed poultry cooperative's existing MEDALLION trademark and engaged in unfair competition and deceptive trade practices. Gold Kist, Inc. v. ConAgra, Inc., 708 F. Supp. 1291, 1989 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 2438 (N.D. Ga. 1989).

Descriptive mark without acquired distinctiveness. — Genuine fact issues existed under § 43(a) of the Lanham Act and the Georgia Unfair Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-372(a)(1)-(2), (12), as to whether a corporation's unique coating numbering system, which it accused a competitor of usurping in order to sell surface coating services to mutual clients, was merely a descriptive mark that had not acquired distinctiveness through secondary meaning. Impreglon, Inc. v. Newco Enters., 508 F. Supp. 2d 1222, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 23640 (N.D. Ga. 2007).

Use of family name. — This part authorizes injunction restraining use of family name previously appropriated by another as a trade name, when under all the circumstances, such as the other descriptive words of the trade name, the type of business carried on, the geographical area in which the trade name has acquired a meaning, and other distinguishing factors, there remains a likelihood of confusion and misunderstanding among the general public. Baker Realty Co. v. Baker, 228 Ga. 766, 187 S.E.2d 850, 1972 Ga. LEXIS 902 (1972); Giant Mart Corp. v. Giant Disct. Foods, Inc., 247 Ga. 775, 279 S.E.2d 683, 1981 Ga. LEXIS 877 (1981).

Copyright owner sufficiently stated a claim of violation of the Georgia Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq. because the customer's employees who received a manual and training materials created by the customer copied in part from an owner's copyrighted manual qualified as members of the public and the limited distribution did not foreclose such a claim. SCQuARE Int'l, Ltd. v. BBDO Atlanta, Inc., 455 F. Supp. 2d 1347, 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 68407 (N.D. Ga. 2006).

Use of balloons, costumes, and names of comic book characters by singing telegram company created confusion. DC Comics Inc. v. Unlimited Monkey Bus., Inc., 598 F. Supp. 110, 1984 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 22828 (N.D. Ga. 1984).

Liability of telephone directory company for copying directory. — As a result of the special treatment of directories in copyright law, a telephone directory company's copying of the telephone company's compilation was infringement, and the use of a confusing solicitation made the directory company liable for both unfair competition and deceptive trade act violations. Southern Bell Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Associated Tel. Directory Publishers, 756 F.2d 801, 1985 U.S. App. LEXIS 28735 (11th Cir. 1985).

Sufficient allegations of unfair practices involving cellular phones. — Because plaintiff cellular telephone trademark holder's complaint properly alleged that defendant competitor was a knowing and willing participant in an enterprise that bought the holder's phones in bulk then altered the phones to circumvent prepaid airtime then resold those phones under the holder's marks, the complaint properly stated claims for unfair competition and deceptive trade practices. Tracfone Wireless, Inc. v. Zip Wireless Prods., 716 F. Supp. 2d 1275, 2010 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 60639 (N.D. Ga. 2010).

Use of "mutual" in name and advertisement of insurance company. — Use of the word "mutual" in the name and advertising of defendant insurance company and defendant's statement, which plaintiffs claimed gave the false impression, in promotional materials that it would pass along to policy holders any savings resulting from efficient operations did not constitute a violation of the Georgia Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq., given the clear statements and the company's policy that the plaintiff is entitled to share the company's earnings and savings only to the extent dividends were declared by the board in the board's discretion. A name or promotion violates that Act only if it is misleading or confusing to those using reasonable care. Boynton v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., 207 Ga. App. 756, 429 S.E.2d 304, 1993 Ga. App. LEXIS 356 (1993).

False impression not given. — Hotel franchisor's use of its name and the term "airport" for a hotel in competition with a franchisee did not violate O.C.G.A. § 10-1-372, since the designation was accurate and did not create a false impression. Camp Creek Hospitality Inns, Inc. v. Sheraton Franchise Corp., 139 F.3d 1396, 1998 U.S. App. LEXIS 8337 (11th Cir. 1998).

Joint software venture had no likelihood of confusion. — In a lawsuit between business entities over a failed joint venture to develop a multimedia e-mail software program to be marketed to a certain company, there was no showing of a likelihood of confusion as to the source of the program to support a claim under the Unfair and Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-372(a). OnBrand Media v. Codex Consulting, Inc., 301 Ga. App. 141, 687 S.E.2d 168, 2009 Ga. App. LEXIS 1347 (2009).

Trade dress claim infringement. — Plaintiff adequately stated a claim for trade dress infringement; the plaintiff alleged that the plaintiff had a protectable trade dress in the overall shape and profile of the product and the configuration, design, and placement of the door of the plaintiff's electric digital smoker, which adequately identified the features that comprised the plaintiff's alleged trade dress. Masterbuilt Mfg. v. Bruce Foods Corp., No. 4:10-CV-35, 2011 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 4009 (M.D. Ga. Jan. 14, 2011).

Opening office near competitor. — Defendant did not engage in a deceptive trade practice when the defendant leased an office in the same building as the plaintiff, with which it competed, since the defendant used its own name and a different telephone number and there was no evidence that it attempted to pass itself as the plaintiff. Wolff v. Protege Sys., 234 Ga. App. 251, 506 S.E.2d 429.

Evidence of improper competition with former employer. — Evidence that a former employee solicited an employer's former students and clients on behalf of the employee's new company, despite promising not to do so, falsely held out as being Project Management Professional certified, falsely represented that the employer's customers were the employee's company's customers, and used nearly duplicate versions of certain course materials without the employer's consent, supported a jury's finding that the Amended complaint alleging violation of Georgia Deceptive Trade Practices Act granted. — In an action in which an interexchange carrier asserted it was not obligated to pay fees to a local carrier for misrepresented toll-free cell calls, it's amendment to add claims alleging violations under the Georgia RICO Act, O.C.G.A. § 16-14-1 et seq., common law fraud, and the Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq., was not futile given the court's denial of summary judgment on the local carrier's counterclaims. ITC Deltacom Communs. v. US LEC Corp., No. 3:02-CV-116-JTC, 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 27557 (N.D. Ga. Mar. 15, 2004).

Two decades for actual confusion to result. — Claims of trademark infringement and false advertising under 15 U.S.C. § 1125, and violation of the Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act (UDTPA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq., specifically O.C.G.A. § 10-1-372, were not barred under the doctrine of estoppel by laches, because even though the plaintiff did not take action for over two decades of the parties' coexistence using the disputed mark, the claims did not ripen until the plaintiff learned that the defendant intended to open an office inside the plaintiff's territory, at which time incidents of actual confusion began to occur. Angel Flight of Ga., Inc. v. Angel Flight Southeast, Inc., 424 F. Supp. 2d 1366, 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 16422 (N.D. Ga. 2006).

Association issuing opinion on safety standards not misrepresentation. — Georgia's Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq., specifically O.C.G.A. § 10-1-372(a)(8), did not bar a nonprofit professional association from issuing an opinion on workplace safety standards for chemicals because the opinion did not constitute a misleading representation of fact. Int'l Brominated Solvents Ass'n v. Am. Conf. of Governmental Indus. Hygienists, 625 F. Supp. 2d 1310, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 36901 (M.D. Ga. 2008).

Georgia's Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq., specifically O.C.G.A. § 10-1-372(a)(7), does not apply to an entity's formation and dissemination of opinions on workplace safety if the entity is not engaged in the business practices it is evaluating. Int'l Brominated Solvents Ass'n v. Am. Conf. of Governmental Indus. Hygienists, 625 F. Supp. 2d 1310, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 36901 (M.D. Ga. 2008).

Association offering workplace safety opinions. — Georgia's Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq., was inapplicable to a national trade group's suit alleging that a nonprofit professional association disparaged the association's members by forming and disseminating the association's opinion about acceptable workplace-safety exposure levels for chemicals because the association was not a consumer or engaged in trade. Int'l Brominated Solvents Ass'n v. Am. Conf. of Governmental Indus. Hygienists, 625 F. Supp. 2d 1310, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 36901 (M.D. Ga. 2008).

Evidence of improper competition with former employer. — Evidence that a former employee solicited an employer's former students and clients on behalf of the employee's new company, despite promising not to do so, falsely held out as being Project Management Professional certified, falsely represented that the employer's customers were the employee's company's customers, and used nearly duplicate versions of certain course materials without the employer's consent, supported a jury's finding that the employee violated the Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq. Amended complaint alleging violation of Georgia Deceptive Trade Practices Act granted. — In an action in which an interexchange carrier asserted it was not obligated to pay fees to a local carrier for misrepresented toll-free cell calls, it's amendment to add claims alleging violations under the Georgia RICO Act, O.C.G.A. § 16-14-1 et seq., common law fraud, and the Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq., was not futile given the court's denial of summary judgment on the local carrier's counterclaims. Color trademark owner's infringement claim under 15 U.S.C. § 1114 was not barred by laches because the four year limitations period of the Georgia Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-372, applied and the relevant time period for purposes of laches was the date that the competitors began selling their tennis racquet overgrips that were similar in color to the owner's color mark, which was less than four years prior. Unique Sports Prods., Inc. v. Babolat VS, 403 F. Supp. 2d 1229, 2005 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 40023 (N.D. Ga. 2005).

Claims of trademark infringement and false advertising under 15 U.S.C. § 1125. — Claims of trademark infringement and false advertising under 15 U.S.C. § 1125, and violation of the Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act (UDTPA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-372, were not barred under the doctrine of estoppel by laches, because even though the plaintiff did not take action for over two decades of the parties' coexistence using the disputed mark, the claims did not ripen until the plaintiff learned that the defendant intended to open an office inside the plaintiff's territory, at which time incidents of actual confusion began to occur. 10-1-373. Enjoining deceptive trade practices; costs and attorney's fees; relief cumulative.

(a) A person likely to be damaged by a deceptive trade practice of another may be granted an injunction against it under the principles of equity and on terms that the court considers reasonable. Proof of monetary damage, loss of profits, or intent to deceive is not required. Relief granted for the copying of an article shall be limited to the prevention of confusion or misunderstanding as to source.

(b) Costs shall be allowed to the prevailing party unless the court otherwise directs. The court, in its discretion, may award attorney's fees to the prevailing party if:

(1) The party complaining of a deceptive trade practice has brought an action which he knew to be groundless; or

(2) The party charged with a deceptive trade practice has willfully engaged in the trade practice knowing it to be deceptive.

(c) The relief provided in this Code section is in addition to remedies otherwise available against the same conduct under the common law or other statutes of this state.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Consumer. — Company's motion to dismiss pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6) made applicable in bankruptcy through Fed. R. Bankr. P. 7012, was denied because nothing in the language of Georgia's Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act (UDTPA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq., required the debtor to be a consumer or required a consumer to be injured; therefore, the "consumer" issue was irrelevant to standing under the UDTPA. Johnston Indus. Ala., Inc. v. Nat'l Contract Assocs. (In re Johnston Indus.), 300 B.R. 821, 2003 Bankr. LEXIS 1384 (Bankr. M.D. Ga. 2003).

Injunction is sole remedy. — Sole remedy provided under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-373 is injunctive relief. Lauria v. Ford Motor Co., 169 Ga. App. 203, 312 S.E.2d 190, 1983 Ga. App. LEXIS 3026 (1983).

Sole remedy available under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-373 was injunctive relief; however, a plaintiff had to establish a likelihood of damage to plaintiff by a deceptive trade practice of another. Moore-Davis Motors, Inc. v. Joyner, 252 Ga. App. 617, 556 S.E.2d 137, 2001 Ga. App. LEXIS 1100 (2001), cert. dismissed, No. S02C0541, 2002 Ga. LEXIS 359 (Ga. Apr. 16, 2002).

Because a marketer did not seek injunctive relief, an insurer's verbal cancellation of a written contract with the marketer to sell health, medical, and surgical insurance products did not give rise to a cause of action under Georgia's Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq., specifically O.C.G.A. § 10-1-372(a), because an injunction was the sole remedy available under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-373. Med S. Health Plans, LLC v. Life of the S. Ins. Co., No. 4:07-CV-134, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 40223 (M.D. Ga. May 19, 2008).

In a deceptive trade case, the trial court erred in granting permanent injunctive relief at the interlocutory hearing as the defendant had no notice that the trial court intended at that hearing to consider the merits of permanent injunctive relief. McHugh Fuller Law Group, PLLC v. PruittHealth-Toccoa, LLC, 297 Ga. 94, 772 S.E.2d 660, 2015 Ga. LEXIS 297 (2015).

Proof of neither direct competition nor actual confusion is required to obtain relief under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-373. All that is required is that use of name cause confusion to others using reasonable care. Giant Mart Corp. v. Giant Disct. Foods, Inc., 247 Ga. 775, 279 S.E.2d 683, 1981 Ga. LEXIS 877 (1981).

Proof of falsity is sufficient to sustain a finding of irreparable injury for purposes of a preliminary injunction. Energy Four, Inc. v. Dornier Medical Sys., 765 F. Supp. 724, 1991 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 7139 (N.D. Ga. 1991).

Proof of lost sales. — Plaintiff who can prove actual lost sales is entitled to an injunction even though the decline in the plaintiff's sales is mostly attributable to factors other than the plaintiff's competitor's allegedly false or misleading representations. Because detailed proof of individual lost sales goes to the issue of damages, it is not a prerequisite for equitable relief. Energy Four, Inc. v. Dornier Medical Sys., 765 F. Supp. 724, 1991 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 7139 (N.D. Ga. 1991).

Proof of monetary damages may not be necessary to sustain every cause of action based on the plaintiff's disparagement claim, but a showing that some customer's buying decision was adversely affected is a threshold requirement for each. Servicetrends, Inc. v. Siemens Medical Sys., 870 F. Supp. 1042, 1994 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 11383 (N.D. Ga. 1994), amended, No. 1:93-CV-299-JTC, 1994 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 15997 (N.D. Ga. June 24, 1994).

Confusingly similar names. — This part authorizes injunctions restraining use of a family name previously appropriated by another as a trade name, where under all the circumstances, such as the other descriptive words of the trade name, the type of business carried on, the geographical area in which the trade name has acquired a meaning, and other distinguishing factors, there remains a likelihood of confusion and misunderstanding among the general public. Baker Realty Co. v. Baker, 228 Ga. 766, 187 S.E.2d 850, 1972 Ga. LEXIS 902 (1972).

Infringement of trade names. — If the right to protection of a trade name exists, the injured party may seek both injunctive relief and damages. Diedrich v. Miller & Meier & Assocs., 254 Ga. 734, 334 S.E.2d 308, 1985 Ga. LEXIS 849 (1985).

Chapter 11 debtor was entitled to a preliminary injunction under the Lanham Act, 11 U.S.C. § 1125(a), and O.C.G.A. §§ 10-1-373 and 10-1-451, against a competing user of its trade name "Reliable Heating and Air" because the debtor clearly demonstrated a substantial likelihood of success on the merits of its claims and demonstrated that it would suffer irreparable harm if an injunction were not issued. Reliable Air, Inc. v. Jape (In re Reliable Air, Inc.), No. 05-85627, No. 07-6352, 2007 Bankr. LEXIS 3711 (Bankr. N.D. Ga. Sept. 14, 2007).

Denial of interlocutory injunction reversed only for abuse of discretion. — The denial of an interlocutory injunction against alleged deceptive trade practices will not be reversed unless it appears that the trial court has abused the court's discretion. Baker Realty Co. v. Baker, 228 Ga. 766, 187 S.E.2d 850, 1972 Ga. LEXIS 902 (1972).

Requirement of harm. — Unpublished decision: O.C.G.A. § 10-1-373(a) of the Georgia Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq., required the plaintiff dry cleaners to allege they were likely to be damaged by a deceptive trade practice and the allegations that the defendant natural gas supplier disseminated information about future natural gas prices did not pose any future harm, nor were the dry cleaners entitled to injunctive relief for a hypothetical future harm; thus, the Deceptive Trade Practices Act claims failed. Byung Ho Cheoun v. Infinite Energy, Inc., 363 Fed. Appx. 691, 2010 U.S. App. LEXIS 1866 (11th Cir. 2010).

Punitive damages. — Trademark holder was not entitled to summary judgment regarding punitive damages under Georgia state law because O.C.G.A. § 10-1-373 applied only to causes of action for torts arising before July 1, 1987, and this issue was required to be decided only if there was an award of damages in the action for trademark infringement. ITT Corp. v. Xylem Group, LLC, 963 F. Supp. 2d 1309, 2013 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 109381 (N.D. Ga. 2013).

Attorneys' fees determined in bifurcated proceeding. — When an alleged Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act (UDTPA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370, et seq., violation is one of several claims being tried, the UDTPA contemplates a bifurcated proceeding. The statute anticipates that the fact finder will first determine the prevailing party before the trial court makes a decision as to whether an award of attorney fees is warranted. Logically, therefore, neither party would present evidence as to their attorney fees during the trial, and the issue is not required to be raised in the pretrial order. Bearoff v. Craton, 350 Ga. App. 826, 830 S.E.2d 362, 2019 Ga. App. LEXIS 384 (2019).

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Unfair insurance practices not subject to Georgia's Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act. — Pursuant to O.C.G.A. § 10-1-374(a)(1), insurance transactions are exempt from Georgia's Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act (UDTPA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq. Claims of unfair trade practices in insurance transactions are instead governed by the Georgia Insurance Code. Northeast Ga. Cancer Care, LLC v. Blue Cross & Blue Shield of Ga., Inc., 297 Ga. denied, No. S09C1241, 2009 Ga. LEXIS 805 (Ga. Sept. 28, 2009).

Conduct in compliance with statute administered by state agency exempt. — Trial court erred in denying the Georgia Lottery Corporation's motion to dismiss the appellee's claim under Georgia's Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act (UDTPA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq, as the appellee's UDTPA claim for injunctive relief against the Georgia Lottery Corporation was barred by sovereign immunity because the UDTPA did not expressly waive the state's sovereign immunity; did not specifically create a cause of action against the state; and exempted conduct in compliance with a statute administered by a state agency, and the Georgia Lottery Corporation was a state agency created by statute to administer the lottery. JUDICIAL DECISIONS

O.C.G.A. Pt. 2, Art. 15, Ch. 1, T. 10 is cumulative of other laws and is not exclusive. Pendigrass v. Edmonds, 247 Ga. 508, 277 S.E.2d 247, 1981 Ga. LEXIS 766 (1981).

Claim under Fair Business Practices Act adjudicated by dismissal of federal suit. — When an accord and satisfaction agreed to between the parties was expressly limited to certain truth-in-lending claims under 15 U.S.C. § 1601 et seq. and 12 C.F.R. § 226.1 et seq. between the parties, the dismissal of the suit brought under that federal Act did not operate as an adjudication of a cause of action under the Fair Business Practices Act, since the two statutes are predicated upon different goals and remedies. Standish v. Hub Motor Co., 149 Ga. App. 365, 254 S.E.2d 416, 1979 Ga. App. LEXIS 1850 (1979).

"Intentionally deceiving" buyer not required. — Car dealer violated the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., when although the dealer had allegedly not "intentionally deceived" a buyer, the dealer had ample reason to know the dealer had misrepresented to the buyer the actual mileage of a car. When the dealer had purchased the vehicle, the dealer received an odometer disclosure statement, signed by the dealer's employee, indicating the vehicle had been driven in excess of 20,000 miles, but furnished the buyer with a statement showing the vehicle's mileage as 4,172 miles, and later informed the state that this mileage figure was inaccurate. JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Applicability to natural persons. — The 1996 amendment of the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., negates any legislative intent that the act apply to business entities. It applies to natural persons. Blue Cross & Blue Shield of Ga., Inc. v. Kell, 227 Ga. App. 266, 488 S.E.2d 735, 1997 Ga. App. LEXIS 879 (1997).

Federal preemption. — Consumer's claim under Georgia's Fair Business Practices Act of 1975, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., was preempted by the Fair Credit Reporting Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1681 et seq., because the consumer alleged that defendants, a business, a debt collector, and a creditor, violated Georgia's act through the use of unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of consumer transactions and consumer acts or practices in trade and commerce. Russell-Allgood v. Resurgent Capital Servs., L.P., 515 F. Supp. 2d 1307, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 41409 (N.D. Ga. 2007).

Residential mortgage transactions not covered. — Mortgagor's apparent claims under the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act (GFBPA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., were dismissed because the mortgagor did not identify what the alleged misrepresentations were or the damages; the GFBPA did not apply to residential mortgage transactions that did not affect the consuming public generally. Zinn v. GMAC Mortg., No. 1:05-CV-01747-MHS, 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 8202 (N.D. Ga. Feb. 21, 2006).

In a suit asserting wrongful foreclosure and other claims, the trial court properly dismissed the plaintiff's claims asserting unfair business and deceptive trade practices because those statutory acts did not apply to residential mortgage transactions. Marques v. JP Morgan Chase Bank, N.A., 370 Ga. App. 305, 896 S.E.2d 1, 2023 Ga. App. LEXIS 552 (2023).

Lanham Act not analogous. — In an action by a manufacturer against a competitor under the Lanham Act (15 U.S.C. § 1125(a)) for trade dress infringement, it was error to apply the statute of limitations in the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., since the Georgia Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq., is the proper analogous statute to apply for such purpose. Kason Indus. v. Component Hdwe. Group, 120 F.3d 1199, 1997 U.S. App. LEXIS 22846 (11th Cir. 1997).

Construction with Federal Arbitration Act. — Boilerplate, mandatory arbitration clause in a cable television subscription contract was enforceable under the Federal Arbitration Act, 9 U.S.C. § 2, which preempted the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., because the contract's class action waiver clause was not unconscionable under Georgia law. Honig v. Comcast of Ga. I, LLC, 537 F. Supp. 2d 1277, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 19617 (N.D. Ga. 2008).

Fair Business Practices Act claim covered by arbitration clause. — Trial court erred in refusing to compel arbitration as to all counts of buyers' complaint against a seller to recover damages for construction defects in the buyers' new home because the claim the buyers asserted under the Fair Business Practices Act of 1975, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., was covered by the arbitration clause of the parties' agreement since the arbitration clause of the agreement was specifically included within the ambit of the Georgia Arbitration Code (GAC) by O.C.G.A. § 9-9-2(c)(8) when the parties initialed the arbitration clause as required by the GAC; because the GAC applied to the agreement's arbitration clause by reason of § 9-9-2(c)(8), the arbitration clause was not excluded from the GAC by the "consumer transactions" exception of § 9-9-2(c)(7). Order Homes, LLC v. Iverson, 300 Ga. App. 332, 685 S.E.2d 304, 2009 Ga. App. LEXIS 967 (2009).

Effect of failure to specify unfair and deceptive act. — Individual's Georgia Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., counterclaim failed as the individual failed to specify the unfair and deceptive act that constituted a violation of the Act. Alexander v. A. Atlanta Autosave, Inc., 272 Ga. App. 73, 611 S.E.2d 754, 2005 Ga. App. LEXIS 220 (2005).

Relation back of amended complaint. — Creditor's claim for violation of Georgia's Fair Business Practices Act (FBPA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., was based on the construction of the creditor's home, which the creditor attempted to set out in the creditor's original complaint. While the amended complaint was substantially more thorough, it merely asserted a new legal theory arising out of the same conduct asserted in the original complaint, and thus, the FBPA claim was not time-barred because the claim related back to the original complaint. Vanbenschoten v. Turner (In re Turner), No. 15-40525-EJC, No. 16-04004-EJC, 2017 Bankr. LEXIS 918 (Bankr. S.D. Ga. Mar. 31, 2017).

Not deceptive for association to stop water service for nonpayment. — Nothing in Georgia's Fair Business Practices Act (GFBPA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., arguably implied that it was unfair or deceptive for a homeowners association or the associations' management company, after providing notice, to stop water service for admitted nonpayment (particularly when the other homeowners have to pay higher assessments as a result of the delinquencies). Harris v. Liberty Cmty. Mgmt., 702 F.3d 1298, 2012 U.S. App. LEXIS 26004 (11th Cir. 2012).

Showing required by plaintiff similar to fraud claim. — Like a claim for common-law fraud, a claim under the Fair Business Practices Act of 1975, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., requires a showing that a defendant committed a volitional act constituting an unfair or deceptive act or practice conjoined with culpable knowledge of the nature, but not necessarily the illegality, of the act. Paulk v. Thomasville Ford Lincoln Mercury, Inc., 317 Ga. App. 780, 732 S.E.2d 297, 2012 Ga. App. LEXIS 781 (2012), cert. denied, No. S13C0223, 2013 Ga. LEXIS 342 (Ga. Apr. 15, 2013).

Judgment on the pleadings in favor of auto dealership in error. — Trial court erred by granting an auto dealership judgment on the pleadings as to a buyer's consumer fraud suit because it could not be said, as a matter of law, that the buyer would not be unable to show that the reliance on representations that the minivan was undamaged and never had been in a wreck was reasonable. Raysoni v. Payless Auto Deals, LLC, 296 Ga. 156, 766 S.E.2d 24, 2014 Ga. LEXIS 906 (2014).

Trial court erred by granting summary judgment to an auto dealership on a buyer's claim for fraud against the dealership because the record created a question of fact as to whether the dealership issued a substantially inaccurate odometer statement even when more than one employee either knew that the written statement was false or recklessly disregarded the possibility that it was so. Alvear v. Sandy Springs Toyota, Inc., 332 Ga. App. 798, 775 S.E.2d 172, 2015 Ga. App. LEXIS 392 (2015).

Buyer proved violations. — Trial court properly denied an auto sales company's motion for directed verdict as to the buyer's claims of fraud and violation of the fair business and odometer statutes because the company pointed to no evidence that the buyer was put on notice that the odometer reading was false or that the car did not have a valid emissions inspection at the time of the sale plus the buyer testified that the company responded that the odometer reflected the car's actual mileage. Gobran Auto Sales, Inc. v. Bell, 335 Ga. App. 873, 783 S.E.2d 389, 2016 Ga. App. LEXIS 101 (2016).

Debtors were not misled, deceived, or otherwise misled. — Trial court properly granted summary judgment to a creditor because the debtors did not allege or show that the debtors were misled, deceived, or otherwise duped by the different dates given for the assignment of the debt and even if the failure to itemize the court costs in a letter was a false statement, the debtors failed to point to specific evidence that the omission was material in order to have an actionable Fair Debt Collection Practices Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1692 et seq., claim. Summer v. Sec. Credit Servs., LLC, 335 Ga. App. 197, 779 S.E.2d 124, 2015 Ga. App. LEXIS 681 (2015), cert. denied, No. S16C0614, 2016 Ga. LEXIS 284 (Ga. Apr. 4, 2016).

Summary judgment. — Because pool installers failed to respond to a pool purchaser's request for admissions, pursuant to O.C.G.A. § 9-11-36(a), those admissions were deemed admitted and were sufficient to establish the purchaser's claims of fraud and conspiracy to defraud and, accordingly, summary judgment was properly granted to the purchaser on those claims; however, summary judgment to the purchaser was error on the claim that the installers violated the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., as there was no evidence that the actions by the installers were introduced into the stream of commerce or were reasonably intended to impact on any market other than on the purchaser, and the commensurate awards of attorney fees and treble damages, pursuant to O.C.G.A. § 10-1-399(c) and (d), were vacated. Brown v. Morton, 274 Ga. App. 208, 617 S.E.2d 198, 2005 Ga. App. LEXIS 709 (2005).

Trial court erred by failing to grant a succeeding franchisee's motion for summary judgment in a fraud suit brought by car dealership consumers as the consumers failed to establish the succeeding franchisee's participation or involvement in any of the complained of transactions; thus, no unfair business violations were established, and no direct claim against a transferee was permitted under the Bulk Transfer Act, O.C.G.A. § 11-6-101 et seq. Additionally, the consumers' claims under Georgia's Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations statute, O.C.G.A. § 16-14-1 et seq., likewise failed since the uncontroverted evidence established without question that the succeeding franchisee did not make any misrepresentations to the consumers nor participated in any of the transactions that formed the basis of the consumers' claims. Summit Auto. Group, LLC v. Clark Kia Motors Ame., Inc., 298 Ga. App. 875, 681 S.E.2d 681, 2009 Ga. App. LEXIS 821 (2009).

Trial court erred in granting summary judgment on the buyers' fraud and Georgia's Fair Business Practices Act (FBPA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., claims because the evidence was in conflict regarding the timing of the disclosure of the vehicle's accident history; thus, it could not be said that reliance on any oral representations was unreasonable and therefore inadequate to sustain a fraud or FBPA claim or that the seller did not engage in a deceptive act prohibited by the FBPA. Edel v. Southtowne Motors of Newnan II, Inc., 338 Ga. App. 376, 789 S.E.2d 224, 2016 Ga. App. LEXIS 467 (2016).

Terms of warranty not proved. — Summary judgment should have been granted to a store, pursuant to O.C.G.A. § 9-11-56(c), in an action by a dissatisfied customer which asserted causes of action for breach of an express warranty and a violation of the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., as the customer failed to offer evidence of the terms of the warranty, which made both claims lack any foundation; the alleged warranty was based on a store employee's notation on the customer's receipt that the kitchen cabinets which the customer purchased had a "10-year warranty," but there was no indication of any further terms, so there was no enforceable warranty proven. Home Depot U.S.A., Inc. v. Miller, 268 Ga. App. 742, 603 S.E.2d 80, 2004 Ga. App. LEXIS 1014 (2004).

No violation as Fair Debt Collections Practices Act not violated. — Defendant did not violate the Fair Debt Collections Practices Act (FDCPA), 15 U.S.C. § 1692, and, therefore, did not violate the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., because: (1) the defendant timely responded to the plaintiff's first dispute on August 19, 2016; (2) the plaintiff signed for the response on August 24, 2016; (3) the defendant sent the plaintiff the Notice of Foreclosure Sale on August 19, 2016; (4) the defendant caused the first publication of the Notice of Sale on September 7, 2016, after the defendant responded to the plaintiff's dispute and verified the plaintiff's debt; and (5) the FDCPA required a debt collector to validate a debt only after the debt collector's initial communication with the consumer. Hughes v. J.P. Morgan Chase (In re Hughes), No. 17-52260-LRC, No. 17-5169-LRC, 2019 Bankr. LEXIS 927 (Bankr. N.D. Ga. Mar. 28, 2019).

Measure of damages. — Award for general damages under the Fair Business Practices Act (Act), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., is limited to those damages that can be measured by an actual injury suffered, and the general provisions of O.C.G.A. § 51-12-2 are not applicable; furthermore, claims under the Act for equitable relief, exemplary damages, treble damages, and attorney's fees are dependent on actual injury or damage resulting from a violation of the Act. Tiismann v. Linda Martin Homes Corp., 279 Ga. 137, 610 S.E.2d 68, 2005 Ga. LEXIS 146 (2005).

Judgment was properly entered in favor of the plaintiff on the defendant's counterclaim under the Fair Business Practices Act (FBPA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., as the defendant did not establish damages resulting from a violation of the FBPA because the defendant did not refute the trial court's finding that no evidence was presented that the defendant or the defendant's property was injured or harmed as a result of the repairs made to the defendant's home by the subcontractors; the defendant did not identify any record evidence suggesting that the value of the repairs was less than $41,355.92; and the defendant did not identify evidence of any injury to the defendant or the defendant's property that might have resulted from the existence of the plaintiff's lien. Ussery v. Goodrich Restoration, Inc., 341 Ga. App. 390, 800 S.E.2d 606, 2017 Ga. App. LEXIS 208 (2017).

Treble damages properly awarded. — When punitive damages of $500,000 was awarded in a homeowner's suit against a construction company for failing to remedy a defect in the homeowner's house, in which the homeowner was awarded $100,000 as compensatory damages, and that award was reduced, pursuant to the statutory cap in O.C.G.A. § 51-12-5.1(g), to $250.000, and, under the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., treble damages could be awarded for similar conduct, the award did not exceed constitutional limitations. Bowen & Bowen Constr. Co. v. Fowler, 265 Ga. App. 274, 593 S.E.2d 668, 2004 Ga. App. LEXIS 2 (2004), cert. denied, No. S04C0965, 2004 Ga. LEXIS 385 (Ga. May 3, 2004).

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Purpose. — Objective of the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., is elimination of deceptive acts and practices in "consumer marketplace." Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

Liberal construction. — The Fair Business Practices Act is to be liberally construed and applied to promote its underlying purposes and policies, which are to protect consumers. Standish v. Hub Motor Co., 149 Ga. App. 365, 254 S.E.2d 416, 1979 Ga. App. LEXIS 1850 (1979).

Part applies to consumers market. — Legislature intended to limit scope of the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., to the consumer market. Its coverage is limited to activities in the conduct of consumer transactions and consumer acts or practices in trade or commerce. Larson v. Tandy Corp., 187 Ga. App. 893, 371 S.E.2d 663, 1988 Ga. App. LEXIS 1004 (1988).

Part applied to debt collection. — A debtor who was provided medical services could recover against a collection agency under the Fair Business Practices Act (FBPA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq. A consumer transaction occurred when the debtor was provided medical services, and collecting a debt incurred by a consumer for medical services could harm the general consuming public if conducted deceptively; moreover, the trial court found that the agency violated the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act (FDCPA), under 15 U.S.C. § 1692*l*(a), a violation of the FDCPA was a violation of the Federal Trade Commission Act (FTCA), and the FBPA was to be construed consistently with interpretations of the FTCA. 1st Nationwide Collection Agency, Inc. v. Werner, 288 Ga. App. 457, 654 S.E.2d 428, 2007 Ga. App. LEXIS 1222 (2007).

To be subject to the Fair Business Practices Act, the allegedly offensive activity must have taken place "in the conduct of . . . consumer acts or practices," i.e., within the context of consumer marketplace. State ex rel. Ryles v. Meredith Chevrolet, Inc., 145 Ga. App. 8, 244 S.E.2d 15, 1978 Ga. App. LEXIS 1840, aff'd, 242 Ga. 294, 249 S.E.2d 87, 1978 Ga. LEXIS 1180 (1978); Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

Any act or practice which is outside the context of the public consumer marketplace, no matter how unfair or deceptive, is not directly regulated by O.C.G.A. Pt. 2, Art. 15, Ch. 1, T. 10. O'Brien v. Union Oil Co., 699 F. Supp. 1562, 1988 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 13210 (N.D. Ga. 1988).

Even if a homeowner's debt survived cancellation, a history of the debt was insufficient to prove a chain of valid written assignments from the original creditor to the assignee under the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1692 et seq., and the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-391 et seq. Arrow Fin. Servs., LLC v. Wright, 311 Ga. App. 319, 715 S.E.2d 725, 2011 Ga. App. LEXIS 676 (2011), cert. denied, No. S11C1924, 2012 Ga. LEXIS 51 (Ga. Jan. 9, 2012).

Part applied to banks. — After the plaintiff bank customers alleged the defendant bank had a practice of manipulating the posting of transactions to impose overdraft fees, such claims under O.C.G.A. §§ 10-1-391, 10-1-393, and 10-1-399, were not preempted under the National Bank Act regulations and if the allegations that the bank shrouded the bank's actions in a broadly worded "largest-to-smallest" transaction posting policy, unqualified by time limits or other restrictions, the plaintiff stated claims under the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq. White v. Wachovia Bank, N.A., 563 F. Supp. 2d 1358, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 88112 (N.D. Ga. 2008).

Consumers' lack of diligence not protected. — It is not the intent of the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., to protect consumers from their own lack of diligence and to render every written and ostensibly final sale of a product a potential source of liability for the seller. Heidt v. Potamkin Chrysler-Plymouth, Inc., 181 Ga. App. 903, 354 S.E.2d 440, 1987 Ga. App. LEXIS 1582 (1987).

Part inapplicable to actions based on violation of HUD regulations. — Violation of Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) regulations by a mortgagee would not support a private action by the mortgagor against the mortgagee under the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq. Krell v. National Mtg. Co., 214 Ga. App. 503, 448 S.E.2d 248, 1994 Ga. App. LEXIS 964 (1994), cert. denied, No. S94C1938, 1995 Ga. LEXIS 224 (Ga. Jan. 19, 1995).

Federal Trade Commission Act standards apply. — Federal Trade Commission Act, 15 U.S.C. § 45, is expressly made the appropriate standard by which purpose and intent of the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., is to be effectuated, implemented, and construed. Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

District court erred when the court denied a consumer's motion for default judgment on the consumer's claim that a debt collector violated Georgia's Fair Business Practices Act of 1975 (FBPA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., because the consumer's alleged debt was incurred during a consumer transaction for lawn care services, and the consumer pled facts in the consumer's complaint sufficient to establish that the collector was part of the consumer credit and debt collection industry, and further, the collector's conduct necessarily violated the FBPA when it violated the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act (FDCPA), 15 U.S.C. § 1692-92p, as the FBPA was to be interpreted in accordance with the Federal Trade Commission Act, 15 U.S.C. § 45(a)(1), pursuant to O.C.G.A. § 10-1-391(b), and for purpose of the exercise by the Commission of its functions and powers under the Federal Trade Commission Act, a violation of the FDCPA should be deemed an unfair or deceptive act or practice in violation of that Act pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 1692l(a). Gilmore v. Account Mgmt., 357 Fed. Appx. 218, 2009 U.S. App. LEXIS 27601 (11th Cir. 2009).

Consumer contract not void or voidable. — The purpose of the Fair is to protect consumers from unfair or deceptive practices in conduct of any trade or commerce, but it does not declare a consumer contract which violates it to be void or voidable so as to rescind the contract or otherwise set it aside. Little v. Paco Collection Servs., Inc., 156 Ga. App. 175, 274 S.E.2d 147, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2934 (1980).

Not every breach of contract deemed violation of part. — The Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., is no panacea for the congenital ills of the marketplace and does not instantly convert every alleged breach of contract into a violation. DeLoach v. Foremost Ins. Co., 147 Ga. App. 124, 248 S.E.2d 193, 1978 Ga. App. LEXIS 2807 (1978).

Unfair act or deceptive practice is prerequisite. — A prerequisite to stating a claim for relief under the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., is the commission of some unfair act or deceptive practice from which the Act is designed to protect the public. Castellana v. Conyers Toyota, Inc., 200 Ga. App. 161, 407 S.E.2d 64, 1991 Ga. App. LEXIS 799 (1991).

Private transactions. — O.C.G.A. Pt. 2, Art. 15, Ch. 1, T. 10 does not encompass suits based upon allegedly deceptive or unfair acts or practices which occur in an essentially private transaction. Waller v. Scheer, 175 Ga. App. 1, 332 S.E.2d 293, 1985 Ga. App. LEXIS 1998 (1985); Rivergate Corp. v. McIntosh, 205 Ga. App. 189, 421 S.E.2d 737, 1992 Ga. App. LEXIS 1107 (1992), cert. denied, No. S92C1449, 1992 Ga. LEXIS 880 (Ga. Oct. 16, 1992); Chancellor v. Gateway Lincoln-Mercury, 233 Ga. App. 38, 502 S.E.2d 799, 1998 Ga. App. LEXIS 885 (1998).

Medium used and market impacted are determinative. — In analyzing whether defendant's allegedly wrongful activities are in violation of the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., to protect the public or an "isolated" incident not covered under the Act two factors are determinative: (a) medium through which act or practice is introduced into stream of commerce; and (b) market on which act or practice is reasonably intended to impact. Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

Businessperson and consumer in underlying transaction required. — For there to be a "consumer marketplace," the underlying transaction must involve a businessperson as well as a consumer. Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

Potential harm to consumer public required. — Unless it can be said that defendant's actions had or have potential harm for consumer public, the act or practice cannot be said to have "impact" on consumer marketplace, and any act or practice which is outside that context, no matter how unfair or deceptive, is not directly regulated by the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq. Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

Though the plaintiff may be a "consumer" with regard to the transaction, if the deceptive or unfair act or practice had or has no potential for harm to general consuming public, the allegedly wrongful act of the defendant was not made in the context of the consumer marketplace. Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

Misrepresentation as to single parcel. — It is arguable that in order to trigger the applicability of the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., misrepresentation concerning a single parcel of real property must be made either in the context of a public medium addressed to the general public or, if not made "public," be made in the context of an overall development of a larger tract of which an individual parcel is a part. Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

Private suit must implement part's purpose of Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq. — Purpose and intent of Ga. L. 1975, p. 376, § 1 et seq. is protection of public, and a private suit under Ga. L. 1975, p. 376, § 10 may be brought only if it implements that underlying purpose and intent. Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

Notice under Fair Business Practices Act. — A trial court erred in granting summary judgment to an auto dealership in a purchaser's suit asserting fraud and violations of Georgia's Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., with regard to the purchase of a vehicle as genuine issues of material fact existed as to each element, and the purchaser's certified letter to the auto dealership was sufficient to satisfy the ante litem notice requirement of the Act; it was irrelevant that the sale was rescinded as there was evidence that the auto dealership offered a vehicle for sale that was not the more valuable model that the dealership represented; and the merger clause in the purchase agreement did not prevent the purchaser from standing on any representation allegedly made by a salesperson since that provision directly contradicted the express provisions of the Act. Johnson v. GAPVT Motors, Inc., 292 Ga. App. 79, 663 S.E.2d 779, 2008 Ga. App. LEXIS 684 (2008).

No remedy for private wrongs not affecting consumer public. — Stated intent of the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., is to protect public from acts and practices which are injurious to consumers, not to provide additional remedy for private wrongs which do not and could not affect consuming public generally. Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

Ga. L. 1975, p. 376, § 10, providing for private right of action, was enacted to give effect to intent of General Assembly that such practices be swiftly stopped and is part of the enforcement and regulatory scheme underlying public protection policy of the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., and as such it does not create an additional remedy for redress of the private wrongs occurring outside the context of the public consumer marketplace. Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

No deceptive act. — Claim under the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., was subject to summary judgment because the disclaimers, indicating that no refunds would be given and the organization was not responsible for loss related to non-performance, were sufficiently prominent and clear, and were clearly delineated. The bidder had the opportunity to read the policy containing the no refund clause before the bidder attended the auction and the opportunity to read the buyer's agreement before the bidder signed. Wright v. Safari Club Int'l, Inc., 322 Ga. App. 486, 745 S.E.2d 730, 2013 Ga. App. LEXIS 550 (2013).

Direct-suit wrongdoer must have used channels of consumer commerce. — Legislature has evidenced a clear intent to limit scope of the Fair Business Practices Act to the consumer market, and to be subject to direct suit under the Act, an alleged offender must have done some volitional act to avail oneself of channels of consumer commerce. State ex rel. Ryles v. Meredith Chevrolet, Inc., 145 Ga. App. 8, 244 S.E.2d 15, 1978 Ga. App. LEXIS 1840, aff'd, 242 Ga. 294, 249 S.E.2d 87, 1978 Ga. LEXIS 1180 (1978); Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

Suit alleging fraudulent breach of employment contract did not involve "consumer transaction." Employment is not a consumer item. Larson v. Tandy Corp., 187 Ga. App. 893, 371 S.E.2d 663, 1988 Ga. App. LEXIS 1004 (1988).

Consumer acts not found. — Georgia Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., claim failed as the nurses' false notations in a decedent's medical records, and presumably in others' records, that a treatment was performed pursuant to a doctor's orders, were made in confidential records that were not revealed to the public; the notations had no effect on the general consuming public and could not constitute consumer acts within the meaning of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-392(a)(2.1). Henderson v. Gandy, 270 Ga. App. 827, 608 S.E.2d 248, 2004 Ga. App. LEXIS 1533 (2004), aff'd, 280 Ga. 95, 623 S.E.2d 465, 2005 Ga. LEXIS 856 (2005).

Actions not within consumer marketplace. — Allegation, that the nurses' false notations in a decedent's medical records, and presumably in others' records, that treatment was performed pursuant to a doctor's orders and was based on a medical practice's general policy, did not bring a wife's claim within the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., as the actions did not occur within the public consumer marketplace. Henderson v. Gandy, 270 Ga. App. 827, 608 S.E.2d 248, 2004 Ga. App. LEXIS 1533 (2004), aff'd, 280 Ga. 95, 623 S.E.2d 465, 2005 Ga. LEXIS 856 (2005).

"Intentional violation" as contemplated by the Fair Business Practices Act is a volitional act constituting an unfair or deceptive act or practice conjoined with culpable knowledge of the nature, but not necessarily the illegality, of the act. Colonial Lincoln-Mercury Sales, Inc. v. Molina, 152 Ga. App. 379, 262 S.E.2d 820, 1979 Ga. App. LEXIS 2933 (1979).

10-1-393. Unfair or deceptive practices in consumer transactions unlawful; examples.

(a) Unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of consumer transactions and consumer acts or practices in trade or commerce are declared unlawful.

(b) By way of illustration only and without limiting the scope of subsection (a) of this Code section, the following practices are declared unlawful:

(1) Passing off goods or services as those of another;

(2) Causing actual confusion or actual misunderstanding as to the source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods or services;

(3) Causing actual confusion or actual misunderstanding as to affiliation, connection, or association with or certification by another;

(4)(A) Using deceptive representations or designations of geographic origin in connection with goods or services. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, it is specifically declared to be unlawful:

(i) For any nonlocal business to cause to be listed in any local telephone directory a local telephone number for the business if calls to the local telephone number are routinely forwarded or otherwise transferred to the nonlocal business location that is outside the calling area covered by such local telephone directory or to a toll-free number which does not have a local address and the listing fails to state clearly the principal place of business of the nonlocal business;

(ii) For any person operating a business to cause to be listed in any local telephone directory a toll-free number for the business if the listing fails to state clearly the principal place of business of such business; or

(iii) For any person to use an assumed or fictitious name in the conduct of such person's business, if the use of such name could reasonably be construed to be a misrepresentation of the geographic origin or location of such person's business.

(B) For purposes of this paragraph, the term:

(i) "Local" or "local area" means the area in which any particular telephone directory is distributed or otherwise provided free of charge to some or all telecommunications services subscribers.

(ii) "Local telephone directory" means any telecommunications services directory, directory assistance data base, or other directory listing which is distributed or otherwise provided free of charge to some or all telecommunications services subscribers in any area of this state and includes such directories distributed by telecommunications companies as well as such directories distributed by other parties.

(iii) "Local telephone number" means any telecommunications services number which is not clearly identifiable as a long-distance telecommunications services number and which has a three-number prefix typically used by the local telecommunications company for telecommunications services devices physically located within the local area.

(iv) "Nonlocal business" means any business which does not have within the local area a physical place of business providing the goods or services which are the subject of the advertisement or listing in question.

(v) "Telecommunications company" shall have the same meaning as provided in Code Section 46-5-162.

(6) Representing that goods are original or new if they are deteriorated, reconditioned, reclaimed, used, or secondhand;

(7) Representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another;

(8) Disparaging goods, services, or business of another by false or misleading representation;

(9) Advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised;

(10) Advertising goods or services with intent not to supply reasonably expectable public demand, unless the advertisement discloses a limitation of quantity;

(11) Making false or misleading statements concerning the reasons for, existence of, or amounts of price reductions;

(12) Failing to comply with the provisions of Code Section 10-1-393.2 concerning health spas;

(13) Failure to comply with the following provisions concerning career consulting firms:

(A) A written contract shall be employed which shall constitute the entire agreement between the parties, a fully completed copy of which shall be furnished to the consumer at the time of its execution which shows the date of the transaction and the name and address of the career consulting firm;

(B) The contract or an attachment thereto shall contain a statement in boldface type which complies substantially with the following:

"The provisions of this agreement have been fully explained to me and I understand that the services to be provided under this agreement by the seller do not include actual job placement."

The statement shall be signed by both the consumer and the authorized representative of the seller;

(C) Any advertising offering the services of a career consulting firm shall contain a statement which contains the following language: "A career consulting firm does not guarantee actual job placement as one of its services.";

(14) Failure of a hospital or long-term care facility to deliver to an inpatient who has been discharged or to his or her legal representative, not later than six business days after the date of such discharge, an itemized statement of all charges for which the patient or third-party payor is being billed;

(15) Any violation of 49 U.S.C. Sections 32702 through 32704 and any violation of regulations prescribed under 49 U.S.C. Section 32705. Notwithstanding anything in this part to the contrary, all such actions in violation of such federal statutes or regulations shall be consumer transactions and consumer acts or practices in trade or commerce;

(16) Failure to comply with the following provisions concerning promotions:

(A) For purposes of this paragraph, the term:

(i) "Conspicuously," when referring to type size, means either a larger or bolder type than the adjacent and surrounding material.

(ii) "In conjunction with and in immediate proximity to," when referring to a listing of verifiable retail value and odds for each prize, means that such value and odds must be adjacent to that particular prize with no other printed or pictorial matter between the value and odds and that listed prize.

(iii) "Notice" means a communication of the disclosures required by this paragraph to be given to a consumer that has been selected, or has purportedly been selected, to participate in a promotion. If the original notice is in writing, it shall include all of the disclosures required by this paragraph. If the original notice is oral, it shall include all of the disclosures required by this paragraph and shall be followed by a written notice to the consumer of the same disclosures. In all cases, written notice shall be received by the consumer before any agreement or other arrangement is entered into which obligates the consumer in any manner.

(iv) "Participant" means a person who is offered an opportunity to participate in a promotion.

(v) "Promoter" means the person conducting the promotion.

(vi) "Sponsor" means the person on whose behalf the promotion is conducted in order to promote or advertise the goods, services, or property of that person.

(vii) "Verifiable retail value," when referring to a prize, means:

(I) The price at which the promoter or sponsor can substantiate that a substantial number of those prizes have been sold at retail by someone other than the promoter or sponsor; or

(II) In the event that substantiation as described in subdivision (I) of this division is not readily available to the promoter or sponsor, no more than three times the amount which the promoter or sponsor has actually paid for the prize;

(A.1) Persons who are offered an opportunity to participate in a promotion must be given a notice as required by this paragraph. The written notice must be given to the participant either prior to the person's traveling to the place of business or, if no travel by the participant is necessary, prior to any seminar, sales presentation, or other presentation, by whatever name denominated. Written notices may be delivered by hand, by mail, by newspaper, by periodical, or by electronic mail or any other form of electronic, digital, or internet based communication. Any offer to participate made through any other medium must be preceded by or followed by the required notice at the required time. It is the intent of this paragraph that full, clear, and meaningful disclosure shall be made to the participant in a manner such that the participant can fully study and understand the disclosure prior to deciding whether to travel to the place of participation or whether to allow a presentation to be made in the participant's home; and that this paragraph be liberally construed to effect this purpose. The notice requirements of this paragraph shall be applicable to any promotion offer made by any person in the State of Georgia or any promotion offer made to any person in the State of Georgia;

(B) The promotion must be an advertising and promotional undertaking, in good faith, solely for the purpose of advertising the goods, services, or property, real or personal, of the sponsor. The notice shall contain the name and address of the promoter and of the sponsor, as applicable. The promoter and the sponsor may be held liable for any failure to comply with the provisions of this paragraph;

(C) A promotion shall be a violation of this paragraph if a person is required to pay any money including, but not limited to, payments for service fees, mailing fees, or handling fees payable to the sponsor or seller or furnish any consideration for the prize, other than the consideration of traveling to the place of business or to the presentation or of allowing the presentation to be made in the participant's home, in order to receive any prize; provided, however, that the payment of any deposit made in connection with an activity described in subparagraph (B) of paragraph (22) of this subsection shall not constitute a requirement to pay any money under this subparagraph;

(D) Each notice must state the verifiable retail value of each prize which the participant has a chance of receiving. Each notice must state the odds of the participant's receiving each prize if there is an element of chance involved. The odds must be clearly identified as "odds." Odds must be stated as the total number of that particular prize which will be given and of the total number of notices. The total number of notices shall include all notices in which that prize may be given, regardless of whether it includes notices for other sponsors. If the odds of winning a particular prize would not be accurately stated on the basis of the number of notices, then the odds may be stated in another manner, but must be clearly stated in a manner which will not deceive or mislead the participant regarding the participant's chance of receiving the prize. The verifiable retail value and odds for each prize must be stated in conjunction and in immediate proximity with each listing of the prize in each place where it appears on the written notice and must be listed in the same size type and same boldness as the prize. Odds and verifiable retail values may not be listed in any manner which requires the participant to refer from one place in the written notice to another place in the written notice to determine the odds and verifiable retail value of the particular prize. Verifiable retail values shall be stated in Arabic numerals;

(E) Upon arriving at the place of business or upon allowing the sponsor to enter the participant's home, the participant must be immediately informed which, if any, prize the participant will receive prior to any seminar, sales presentation, or other presentation; and the prize, or any voucher, certificate, or other evidence of obligation in lieu of the prize, must be given to the participant at the time the participant is so informed;

(F) No participant shall be required or invited to view, hear, or attend any sales presentation, by whatever name denominated, unless such requirement or invitation has been conspicuously disclosed to the participant in the written notice in at least ten-point boldface type;

(G) Except in relation to an activity described in subparagraph (B) of paragraph (22) of this subsection, in no event shall any prize be offered or given which will require the participant to purchase additional goods or services, including shipping fees, handling fees, or any other charge by whatever name denominated, from any person in order to make the prize conform to what it reasonably appears to be in the mailing or delivery, unless such requirement and the additional cost to the participant is clearly disclosed in each place where the prize is listed in the written notice using a statement in the same size type and boldness as the prize listed;

(H) Any limitation on eligibility of participants must be clearly disclosed in the notice;

Pursuant to Code Section 28-9-5, in 1989, "spas;" was substituted for "spas." in paragraph (b)(12) and "going-out-of-business" was substituted for "going out of business" in subparagraphs (b)(24)(A) and (b)(24)(B).

Pursuant to Code Section 28-9-5, in 2004, "Code section; and" was substituted for "Act." in subparagraph (b)(29.1)(A).

Pursuant to Code Section 28-9-5, in 2009, a semicolon was substituted for a period at the end of subparagraph (b)(30.1)(E) and "or" was deleted at the end of paragraph (b)(32).

Editor's notes.

Ga. L. 1985, p. 938 contained a § 2 which amended this Code section and a second § 2, not codified by the General Assembly, which contained a standard repeal provision.

Ga. L. 1989, p. 14, § 10 which amended paragraph (b)(12) was superseded by Ga. L. 1989, p. 1606, § 1.

Ga. L. 1990, p. 1653, § 3, not codified by the General Assembly, provides that the Act shall not be construed to repeal or modify any provisions of law relative to the utterance or delivery of a worthless check and the provisions of the Act shall be cumulative of such other provisions.

Ga. L. 2001, p. 1170, § 1, not codified by the General Assembly, provides: "The General Assembly finds that managed health care has benefited consumers by negotiating contracts with physicians which prohibit such physicians from billing consumers for fees above and beyond the amount paid by the managed care plan. In order to ensure that the consumers of this state continue to receive such benefits, it is imperative that physicians adhere to their contractual obligations to charge only those fees contractually agreed to and not attempt to pass additional or hidden costs along to consumers. The purpose of Section 2 of this Act is to ensure that consumers are not charged fees above and beyond those already contracted for between their physician and their health benefit plans."

Ga. L. 2004, p. 149, § 1, which amended this Code section, did not specify which subsection was amended but actually amended subsection (b).

Ga. L. 2005, p. 1183, § 1, not codified by the General Assembly, provides that: "This Act shall be known and may be cited as the 'Gift Card Integrity Act of 2005.'"

Ga. L. 2005, p. 1183, § 3, not codified by the General Assembly, provides that the second 2005 amendment applies to any gift certificates, store gift cards, or general use gift cards sold on or after October 1, 2005.

Ga. L. 2012, p. 1136, § 4/SB 431, not codified by the General Assembly, provides, in part, that this Code section shall apply to conduct that occurs on and after May 2, 2012. It is not the intention of this Act to abate any prosecution undertaken for conduct occurring under the law in effect prior to such date, and any offense committed before May 2, 2012, shall be prosecuted and punished under the statutes in effect at the time the offense was committed.

General Consideration

Purpose. — Objective of the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., is elimination of deceptive acts and practices in "consumer marketplace". For there to be a "consumer marketplace," the underlying transaction must involve a businessperson as well as a consumer. Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

Test as to whether activities covered. — In analyzing whether defendant's allegedly wrongful activities are in violation of the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., to protect the public or an "isolated" incident not covered under this Act, two factors are determinative: (a) medium through which act or practice is introduced into stream of commerce; and (b) market on which act or practice is reasonably intended to impact. Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

Transaction must be part of ongoing, public business. — This section requires that alleged wrongful act in "consumer transaction" occur in context of ongoing business in which defendant holds oneself out to the public. Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

No impact on general consuming public and beyond reach of FBPA. — Although the department store deviated from the store's credit fraud policy by not promptly investigating the plaintiff's claim after the plaintiff sent the information requesting the store to correct the plaintiff's account, there was no evidence of other instances in which the store failed to follow the store's policy, and any deviation this time was viewed as a isolated event that had no impact on the general consuming public and is therefore beyond the reach of the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq. Davis v. Rich's Dep't Stores, Inc., 248 Ga. App. 116, 545 S.E.2d 661, 2001 Ga. App. LEXIS 193 (2001).

Trial court correctly determined that the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., did not apply to the matter since the case involved an apartment complex's alleged denial of reasonable accommodations that were specific to the tenant alone, and it did not involve any promises or representations that were held out to the general consumer public at large. Leslie v. 1125 Hammond LP, 368 Ga. App. 793, 889 S.E.2d 148, 2023 Ga. App. LEXIS 255 (2023).

Activity must be in context of consumer marketplace. — To be subject to direct suit under the Fair Business Practices Act, an alleged offender must perform some volitional act to avail the offender of the channels of consumer commerce and the allegedly offensive activity must take place within the context of the consumer marketplace. State ex rel. Ryles v. Meredith Chevrolet, Inc., 145 Ga. App. 8, 244 S.E.2d 15, 1978 Ga. App. LEXIS 1840, aff'd, 242 Ga. 294, 249 S.E.2d 87, 1978 Ga. LEXIS 1180 (1978); Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

Any act or practice which is outside the context of the public consumer marketplace, no matter how unfair or deceptive, is not directly regulated by O.C.G.A. Pt. 2, Art. 15, Ch. 1, T. 10. O'Brien v. Union Oil Co., 699 F. Supp. 1562, 1988 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 13210 (N.D. Ga. 1988).

Since a bank's commercial checking accounts were not offered to consumers, the bank's practices concerning those accounts were outside the consumer market place and the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., did not apply to an action against the bank based on misrepresentation of the "standard, quality, or grade" of the bank's services. Eason Publications, Inc. v. Nationsbank, 217 Ga. App. 726, 458 S.E.2d 899, 1995 Ga. App. LEXIS 587 (1995).

Claim against a private school after a student was dismissed from the school due to misbehavior was properly denied since the school's alleged acts and conduct did not arise in the context of the consumer marketplace. Pryor v. CCEC, Inc., 257 Ga. App. 450, 571 S.E.2d 454, 2002 Ga. App. LEXIS 1178 (2002).

Bankruptcy trustee failed to show that a loan servicer engaged in unfair and deceptive practices since the loan was secured by real property which the debtor held as an investment property and, thus, the serviced debt did not arise from a consumer transaction. Gordon v. Bank of Am., N.A. (In re Merriweather), No. 13-53022-BEM, No. 15-5096-BEM, 2015 Bankr. LEXIS 3664 (Bankr. N.D. Ga. Aug. 28, 2015).

Consumer sufficiently alleged that a lender's deceptive practice of collecting on debt which was paid reasonably had potential to harm the general consuming public. Goodwyn v. Capital One, N.A., No., 127 F. Supp. 3d 1367, 2015 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 114786 (M.D. Ga. 2015).

Plaintiff's allegation that the defendant violated the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act (FBPA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., by engaging in a pattern of unfair and deceptive acts and practices both in the conduct of consumer transactions and in trade and commerce did not state a claim under the FBPA because the plaintiff did not allege any deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of consumer transactions such as passing off goods or services as those of another or causing confusion as to the source of goods or services. Vanbenschoten v. Turner (In re Turner), No. 15-40525-EJC, No. 16-04004-EJC, 2017 Bankr. LEXIS 918 (Bankr. S.D. Ga. Mar. 31, 2017).

No complaint when goods and services not provided at all. — Trial court did not err in ruling that the complaint failed to state a claim under the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-393, because the plaintiff alleged that the goods and services were not provided at all — not that the defendant advertised the defendant's donation of a safari without any intention of performing. Wright v. Waterberg Big Game Hunting Lodge Otjahewita (Pty), Ltd., 330 Ga. App. 508, 767 S.E.2d 513, 2014 Ga. App. LEXIS 842 (2014).

Nonconsumers do not have a cause of action under the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., when nonconsumers allege an injury due to a competitor's misrepresentations to the general public. Friedlander v. PDK Labs, Inc., 266 Ga. 180, 465 S.E.2d 670, 1996 Ga. LEXIS 41 (1996).

Action under § 40-1-5. — Court properly granted the plaintiff's motion for partial summary judgment on plaintiff's Fair Business Practices Act (FBPA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., claim because the undisputed facts established a violation of O.C.G.A. § 40-1-5 and, thus, a per se violation of the FBPA. Neal Pope, Inc. v. Garlington, 245 Ga. App. 49, 537 S.E.2d 179, 2000 Ga. App. LEXIS 904 (2000), cert. denied, No. S00C1893, 2001 Ga. LEXIS 7 (Ga. Jan. 5, 2001).

Part applied to banks. — After the plaintiff bank customers alleged the defendant bank had a practice of manipulating the posting of transactions to impose overdraft fees, such claims under O.C.G.A. §§ 10-1-391, 10-1-393, and 10-1-399, were not preempted under the National Bank Act regulations and if the allegations that the bank shrouded the bank's actions in a broadly worded "largest-to-smallest" transaction posting policy, unqualified by time limits or other restrictions, the plaintiffs stated claims under the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq. White v. Wachovia Bank, N.A., 563 F. Supp. 2d 1358, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 88112 (N.D. Ga. 2008).

Unpublished decision: Borrower failed on summary judgment to state a claim against two banks under the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., because the borrower presented no evidence that the application of funds to an escrow account was improper, that any unfair business practice existed, or that any damages were suffered under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-393 of the Act. Cornelius v. Home Comings Fin. Network, Inc., 293 Fed. Appx. 723, 2008 U.S. App. LEXIS 19745 (11th Cir. 2008).

Private transactions not covered. — Even though a single instance of an unfair or deceptive act can be a sufficient basis for a claim under the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., the Act does not apply to suits based upon deceptive practices which occur in transactions that are essentially private. Borden v. Pope Jeep-Eagle, Inc., 200 Ga. App. 176, 407 S.E.2d 128, 1991 Ga. App. LEXIS 793 (1991).

Fraudulent failure to furnish an ample supply of yarn was a matter strictly between private business parties, who are nonconsumers, and therefore does not give rise to the application of the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq. Benchmark Carpet Mills, Inc. v. Fiber Indus., Inc., 168 Ga. App. 932, 311 S.E.2d 216, 1983 Ga. App. LEXIS 2958 (1983); Medley v. Boomershine Pontiac-GMC Truck, Inc., 214 Ga. App. 795, 449 S.E.2d 128, 1994 Ga. App. LEXIS 1062 (1994), cert. denied, No. S95C0214, 1995 Ga. LEXIS 292 (Ga. Feb. 17, 1995).

Genuine issues of fact existed as to terms of contract. — College trust did not establish entitlement to summary judgment on the borrower's counterclaim under Georgia's Fair Business Practice Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., since a genuine issue of material fact existed as to the terms of the contract. Zahler v. Nat'l Collegiate Student Loan Trust 2006-1, 355 Ga. App. 458, 844 S.E.2d 530, 2020 Ga. App. LEXIS 331 (2020).

Contract provision that it is "absolutely noncancellable". — If the contract on the contract's face fails to state clearly "the cancellation and refund policies of seller" and states that the contract "is absolutely noncancellable," the contract is violative of the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., in attempting to limit operation of the statute. Little v. Paco Collection Servs., Inc., 156 Ga. App. 175, 274 S.E.2d 147, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2934 (1980).

Failure of consumer to exercise requisite diligence. — There was no violation of subsection (c) of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-393 in precluding the introduction of testimony as to an alleged oral misrepresentation because the proffered evidence was inadmissible to vary the terms of the written contract, when the nonviability of the purchaser's claim was not the result of defendant's contractual limitation of the applicability of O.C.G.A. Pt. 2, Art. 15, Ch. 1, T. 10 but was the result of the purchaser's own failure to exercise the requisite diligence to read the contract that the purchaser signed. Heidt v. Potamkin Chrysler-Plymouth, Inc., 181 Ga. App. 903, 354 S.E.2d 440, 1987 Ga. App. LEXIS 1582 (1987).

Consumer's remedies in satellite transaction. — Motion to compel arbitration of a putative class action was improperly denied under 9 U.S.C. §§ 2 and 16 because it was not unconscionable to require arbitration of the validity of an early cancellation fee charged by a satellite television provider in that the subscriber had the ability to recoup fees and expenses under the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act under O.C.G.A. §§ 10-1-393 and 10-1-399 if the subscriber prevailed individually. Cappuccitti v. DirecTV, Inc., 623 F.3d 1118, 2010 U.S. App. LEXIS 21348 (11th Cir. 2010).

Incentive fund cards. — Licensors of an incentive funds card that was marketed and sold by a charter jet company were not liable to a purchaser who bought an incentive funds card from the jet company under the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., because the licensors made no statements verbally or in writing to the purchaser prior to the purchaser's signing the incentive card purchase agreement. Williams v. Jet One Jets, Inc., 755 F. Supp. 2d 1281, 2010 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 134810 (N.D. Ga. 2010).

Damages. — Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., authorized punitive damages in addition to mandating treble damages for intentional violations. Conseco Fin. Servicing Corp. v. Hill, 252 Ga. App. 774, 556 S.E.2d 468, 2001 Ga. App. LEXIS 1284 (2001).

Statute of limitations. — Unpublished decision: Because plaintiff dry cleaners sued defendant natural gas supplier 33 months after the alleged misdeeds, and it was not alleged that any Georgia Public Service Commission proceedings had been initiated that would have postponed the accrual date, the O.C.G.A. § 10-1-393(a) claim was time-barred by O.C.G.A. § 10-1-401(a)'s two-year limitations period. Byung Ho Cheoun v. Infinite Energy, Inc., 363 Fed. Appx. 691, 2010 U.S. App. LEXIS 1866 (11th Cir. 2010).

Appeal of order compelling investigative demand. — Corporation's direct appeal of a trial court order compelling the corporation to comply with an investigative demand issued by the Governor's Office of Consumer Affairs was dismissed because under binding Georgia Supreme Court authority, an investigative demand constitutes the decision of an administrative agency for the purpose of the discretionary appeal provisions of O.C.G.A. § 5-6-35(a)(1) and, consequently, the corporation was required to apply for a discretionary appeal. Financial Education Services, Inc. v. State of Ga., 336 Ga. App. 606, 785 S.E.2d 544, 2016 Ga. App. LEXIS 104 (2016), cert. denied, 580 U.S. 1173, 137 S. Ct. 1234, 197 L. Ed. 2d 465, 2017 U.S. LEXIS 1717 (2017).

Automobiles

Sale between two non-businesspeople. — Sale of motor vehicle in the course of private negotiations between two individual parties, neither of whom was a businessperson, did not constitute a transaction "in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Reilly v. Mosley, 165 Ga. App. 479, 301 S.E.2d 649, 1983 Ga. App. LEXIS 1917 (1983).

Transaction between auto dealer and finance company. — After a dealer paid a discount to a finance company to take the assignment of an auto buyer's retail installment sales contract, the transaction was essentially private and outside the protection of the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq. Chancellor v. Gateway Lincoln-Mercury, 233 Ga. App. 38, 502 S.E.2d 799, 1998 Ga. App. LEXIS 885 (1998).

Seller's claims as to condition of car. — Trial court properly granted summary judgment as to a car buyer's claims based on the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., after the seller's claims as to the condition of the car, which were relied on by the buyer to support the buyer's claim of fraud, were mere sales puffing. Hill v. Jay Pontiac, Inc., 191 Ga. App. 258, 381 S.E.2d 417, 1989 Ga. App. LEXIS 560 (1989).

Misrepresentation by car dealer's salesperson that used vehicle was a demonstrator was within the scope of the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq. Catrett v. Landmark Dodge, Inc., 253 Ga. App. 639, 560 S.E.2d 101, 2002 Ga. App. LEXIS 168 (2002).

Pre-sale notice to seller of defects in title to merchandise. — It would constitute an unfair business practice if, before merchandise is sold in the consumer marketplace, a seller is placed on reasonable notice that the seller's claim of title to the merchandise could be legally defective and thereafter in blatant disregard of the rights of innocent purchasers fails to take reasonable measures to ascertain the true state of facts concerning title before consummating the sale. Regency Nissan, Inc. v. Taylor, 194 Ga. App. 645, 391 S.E.2d 467, 1990 Ga. App. LEXIS 253 (1990).

Seller's knowledge of discrepancy in vehicle identification number. — It was not error, in an action alleging violation of the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., to refuse to grant summary judgment in favor of the defendant automobile seller, since the truck sold to the plaintiff buyer was confiscated as a stolen vehicle, and the evidence was that the seller's agent was timely notified of a model number discrepancy on the vehicle identification number plate. Regency Nissan, Inc. v.

Taylor, 194 Ga. App. 645, 391 S.E.2d 467, 1990 Ga. App. LEXIS 253 (1990).

Failure of manufacturer to notice defective door and the manufacturer's refusal to give the buyers, upon the buyer's refusal to allow the manufacturer to attempt to repair the vehicle, a new car, are not by themselves an unfair or deceptive practice affecting the consuming public. DeLoach v. General Motors, 187 Ga. App. 159, 369 S.E.2d 484, 1988 Ga. App. LEXIS 653 (1988).

Lease of "used demo" automobile. — Automobile leased by plaintiffs from defendant dealer as a "used demo" was a "new" car, not a "used" car, and the fact that the car was previously titled to the dealer's son-in-law did not create an issue of fraud in violation of the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq. Toirkens v. Willett Toyota, Inc., 192 Ga. App. 109, 384 S.E.2d 218, 1989 Ga. App. LEXIS 959 (1989).

Fraud involving representing vehicle as more valuable model, which vehicle was not. — Trial court erred in granting summary judgment to an auto dealership in a purchaser's suit asserting fraud and violations of Georgia's Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., with regard to the purchase of a vehicle as genuine issues of material fact existed as to each element, and the purchaser's certified letter to the auto dealership was sufficient to satisfy the ante litem notice requirement of the Act; it was irrelevant that the sale was rescinded as there was evidence that the auto dealership offered a vehicle for sale that was not the more valuable model that the dealership represented; and the merger clause in the purchase agreement did not prevent the purchaser from standing on any representation allegedly made by a salesperson since that provision directly contradicted the express provisions of the Act. Johnson v. GAPVT Motors, Inc., 292 Ga. App. 79, 663 S.E.2d 779, 2008 Ga. App. LEXIS 684 (2008).

Advertisement offering option between lease and financed sale. — Automobile dealer's advertisement offering either an annual finance rate of 7.7 percent or a 48-month lease was not misleading or deceptive, when, although the customer may have misunderstood the distinction between the various offers made in the advertisement, the consumer admitted the consumer understood the difference between a financed sale and a lease. Blum v. GMAC, 185 Ga. App. 714, 365 S.E.2d 474, 1988 Ga. App. LEXIS 243 (1988).

Negligent repair of individual vehicle. — Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., does not apply to negligent repair of individual vehicle when the damaged vehicle's owner brings the vehicle to a body shop and enters into a repair agreement and the body shop represents only that the vehicle has been repaired when the vehicle has not. Burdakin v. Hub Motor Co., 183 Ga. App. 90, 357 S.E.2d 839, 1987 Ga. App. LEXIS 1896 (1987).

Dealership's role in odometer statement. — Trial court erred by granting summary judgment to an auto dealership on a buyer's claim for fraud against the dealership because the record created a question of fact as to whether the dealership issued a substantially inaccurate odometer statement even when more than one employee either knew that the written statement was false or recklessly disregarded the possibility that it was so. Alvear v. Sandy Springs Toyota, Inc., 332 Ga. App. 798, 775 S.E.2d 172, 2015 Ga. App. LEXIS 392 (2015).

Arbitration agreement enforceable. — Car buyer's claim against a lender's assignee under the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., could be compelled to arbitration pursuant to an agreement signed by the buyer. O.C.G.A. § 10-1-393(c) was preempted by the Federal Arbitration Act (FAA), 9 U.S.C. § 1 et seq., to the extent it conflicted with the FAA. Wells Fargo Auto Fin., Inc. v. Wright, 304 Ga. App. 621, 698 S.E.2d 17, 2010 Ga. App. LEXIS 589 (2010).

Medical Professionals

Application to sperm bank. — Parents' Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., claim against a sperm bank was erroneously dismissed; the parents' claims that the sperm bank made misrepresentations about the quality of their product (sperm) and services (screening process) to the public could have resulted in injuries other than the life of the child (for which no damages were recoverable). At a minimum, the parents may have paid more for the sperm than the sperm was worth, and injunctive relief and punitive damages were potentially available. Norman v. Xytex Corp., 310 Ga. 127, 848 S.E.2d 835, 2020 Ga. LEXIS 662 (2020).

FBPA not a substitute for medical malpractice action. — Touchstone for a legally sufficient Fair Business Practices Act (FBPA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., claim against a health care provider is an allegation that an entrepreneurial or business aspect of the provision of services aside from medical competence is implicated, or aside from medical malpractice based on the adequacy of staffing, training, equipment or support personnel, so medical malpractice claims recast as FBPA claims cannot form the basis for an FBPA violation. Henderson v. Gandy, 280 Ga. 95, 623 S.E.2d 465, 2005 Ga. LEXIS 856 (2005).

Claim not related to business of medical practice. — When a widow sued a physician for allowing nurses to manage the care of the deceased husband's pressure sore, and for allegedly falsifying medical records to reflect that the care was done pursuant to the physician's orders, when the care was not, this did not state a claim involving the entrepreneurial, commercial, or business aspects of the physician's practice, and did not state a claim within the contemplation of the Fair Business Practices Act of 1975, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq. Henderson v. Gandy, 280 Ga. 95, 623 S.E.2d 465, 2005 Ga. LEXIS 856 (2005).

Application to medical profession. — It was the Georgia legislature's stated intent that the Fair Business Practice Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., be interpreted and construed consistently with interpretations given by the Federal Trade Commission in federal court pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 45(a)(1) of the Federal Trade Commission Act, 15 U.S.C. § 41 et seq., pursuant to O.C.G.A. § 10-1-391(b), and federal courts had determined that the Federal Trade Commission Act, 15 U.S.C. § 41 et seq., applied to the commercial aspects of the medical profession. Henderson v. Gandy, 280 Ga. 95, 623 S.E.2d 465, 2005 Ga. LEXIS 856 (2005).

Application to dentists. — Patient's suit against a dentist, alleging the dentist failed to disclose treatment alternatives and associated risks prior to commencing dental work, did not establish a violation of Georgia's Fair Business Practices Act (FBPA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., as there was no evidence showing that this omission resulted in the patient's damages as required by the FBPA. Tookes v. Murray, 297 Ga. App. 765, 678 S.E.2d 209, 2009 Ga. App. LEXIS 532 (2009), cert. denied, No. S09C1492, 2009 Ga. LEXIS 613 (Ga. Oct. 5, 2009).

Physician's statements about nurse-midwife. — Physician's allegedly disparaging statements about a nurse-midwife, which were made during a conversation between the two at a hospital nurses' station, took place outside the context of consumer commerce and therefore did not fall within the regulatory authority of the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq. Sweeney v. Athens Regional Medical Ctr., 709 F. Supp. 1563, 1989 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 2721 (M.D. Ga. 1989).

Parole evidence could not contradict written agreement in patient's claim. — Patient's claim that a dentist violated Georgia's Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., was based on an allegation that a member of the dentist's staff told the patient that a loan for dental work would be at a lower interest rate than that stated in the financing authorization. The claim failed as such parol evidence was inadmissible to contradict the clear written provisions of the authorization, which the patient signed, and the promissory note referenced therein. Tookes v. Murray, 297 Ga. App. 765, 678 S.E.2d 209, 2009 Ga. App. LEXIS 532 (2009), cert. denied, No. S09C1492, 2009 Ga. LEXIS 613 (Ga. Oct. 5, 2009).

Real Property

Misrepresentation by homeowner selling own house is not likely recurring "consumer" threat and, therefore, has no potential "impact" on general consuming public. Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

Any misrepresentation made by seller in context of selling the seller's own home is not made "in the conduct of any trade or business" but rather in course or private negotiations between two individual parties who have countervailing rights and liabilities established under common-law principles of contract, tort, and property law. Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

Misrepresentation by mortgage lender. — Homeowner's Fair Business Practices Act (FBPA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., claim against the homeowner's mortgage lender arising out of foreclosure of the homeowner's home failed because the Georgia Residential Mortgage Act, O.C.G.A. § 7-1-1000 et seq., prohibited mortgage businesses from, among other things, pursuing a course of misrepresentation by use of fraudulent or unauthorized documents or other means, O.C.G.A. § 7-1-1013(1), foreclosing a claim under the FBPA, pursuant to O.C.G.A. § 10-1-396. Stewart v. SunTrust Mortg., Inc., 331 Ga. App. 635, 770 S.E.2d 892, 2015 Ga. App. LEXIS 216 (2015).

Misrepresentation by real estate broker. — Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., incorporates the "reliance" element of the common law tort of misrepresentation into the causation element of an FBPA claim; thus, a claim by purchasers against a real estate broker and sales associates for a violation of FBPA was barred for failure to show reasonable or justifiable reliance on the broker's representations. Allen v. Remax N. Atlanta, Inc., 213 Ga. App. 644, 445 S.E.2d 774, 1994 Ga. App. LEXIS 693 (1994), cert. denied, No. S94C1590, 1994 Ga. LEXIS 1113 (Ga. Oct. 17, 1994).

Residential mortgage transactions not covered. — In a suit asserting wrongful foreclosure and other claims, the trial court properly dismissed the plaintiff's claims asserting unfair business and deceptive trade practices because those statutory acts did not apply to residential mortgage transactions. Marques v. JP Morgan Chase Bank, N.A., 370 Ga. App. 305, 896 S.E.2d 1, 2023 Ga. App. LEXIS 552 (2023).

Sale of farm private transaction. — Trial court properly concluded that the defendants were entitled to summary judgment on the plaintiff's claim for a violation of the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., since the sale of the farm to the plaintiffs, and any representations preceding the sale, involved a private transaction which would not affect the consuming public generally. Condon v. Kunse, 208 Ga. App. 856, 432 S.E.2d 266, 1993 Ga. App. LEXIS 703 (1993).

Single misrepresentation by business in isolated sale. — Single oral misrepresentation made by real estate business in context of isolated nondevelopmental sale of real property relating to unique facts concerning that property appears to be an essentially "private" controversy with no impact whatsoever on consumer marketplace. Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

Misrepresentation made to public or in connection with larger development. — It is arguable that in order to trigger the applicability of the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., misrepresentation concerning a single parcel of real property must be made either in the context of a public medium addressed to the general public or, if not made "public," be made in context of an overall development of a larger tract of which an individual parcel is a part. Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

Landlord's failure to repair fuse box. — Evidence that a landlord failed to repair a fuse box which malfunctioned in the tenant's trailer did not establish a prima facie cause of action under the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq. Simpson v. Yonts, 197

Trademarks, Names

Use of existing trademark. — Corporate poultry producer and marketer, by adopting and using the trademark GOLDEN MEDALLION on its frozen poultry products, infringed poultry cooperative's existing MEDALLION trademark and engaged in unfair competition and deceptive trade practices. Gold Kist, Inc. v. ConAgra, Inc., 708 F. Supp. 1291, 1989 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 2438 (N.D. Ga. 1989).

Use of trade names. — Buyers' claim that the buyers were confused by the use of trade names belied the record because one buyer testified that the buyer knew exactly who the buyer was dealing with. Isbell v. Credit Nation Lending Serv., LLC, 319 Ga. App. 19, 735 S.E.2d 46, 2012 Ga. App. LEXIS 1021 (2012).

Trade name infringement. — Fair Business Practices Act (FBPA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., protects businesses from unfair or deceptive practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, including passing off goods or services as those of another, or causing actual confusion as to the source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods or services. Thus, the FBPA broadly protects against infringement on a protected trade name by use of a confusingly similar name. Inkaholiks Luxury Tattoos Georgia, LLC v. Parton, 324 Ga. App. 769, 751 S.E.2d 561, 2013 Ga. App. LEXIS 929 (2013).

Use of balloons, costumes, and names of comic book characters by singing telegram company created confusion. DC Comics Inc. v. Unlimited Monkey Bus., Inc., 598 F. Supp. 110, 1984 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 22828 (N.D. Ga. 1984).

OPINIONS OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Fingerprinting of offenders. — A violation of paragraph (b)(29) of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-393 is an offense for which those charged with a violation are to be fingerprinted. 1996 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 96-17.

(a) Unfair or deceptive acts or practices by an office supplier in the conduct of office supply transactions in trade or commerce are declared unlawful.

(b) By way of illustration only and without limiting the scope of subsection (a) of this Code section, the following practices by office suppliers in the conduct of office supply transactions are declared unlawful:

(1) Passing off goods or services as those of another;

(2) Falsely representing to any person that the office supplier is the usual supplier of goods, services, or property purchased by that person;

(3) Falsely representing to any person that the goods, services, or property sold, leased, rented, or shipped by the office supplier are the same brand as that person usually uses;

(4) Misrepresenting in any manner, including the use of a confusingly similar name, the manufacturer, supplier, or seller of the goods, services, or property;

(5) Representing that the prices an office supplier charges are less than a person usually pays for goods, services, or property, unless the goods, services, or property compared are identical and the representation is true;

(6) Shipping or supplying an amount or quantity of goods, services, or property to a person which is substantially greater than the amount or quantity which the person actually orders;

(7) Misrepresenting in any manner, including but not limited to failure to disclose material facts regarding the value of, any gift, prize, or award which will be given by an office supplier in conjunction with any office supply transaction;

(8) Falsely representing that there is an imminent price increase;

(9) Substituting any brand or quality of goods, services, or property for that actually ordered without prior approval of such substitution from the person ordering; or

(10)(A) Solicitation for inclusion in the listing of a telephone classified advertising directory unless such solicitation form has prominently printed therein at least one inch apart from any other text on the form and in type size and boldness equal to or greater than any other type size and boldness on the form the words:

"THIS IS NOT A BILL. THIS IS A SOLICITATION."

(B) For the purposes of this paragraph, the term "telephone classified advertising directory" refers to any telephone classified advertising directory which is distributed to some or all telephone subscribers in any area of the state and includes such directories distributed by telephone service companies as well as such directories distributed by other parties.

(c) An office supplier may not by contract, agreement, or otherwise limit the operation of this part, notwithstanding any other provision of law.

10-1-393.2. Requirements for health spas.

(a) Health spas shall comply with the provisions of this Code section.

(b) A written contract shall be employed which shall constitute the entire agreement between the parties, a fully completed copy of which shall be furnished to the consumer at the time of its execution and which shall show the date of the transaction and the name and address of the seller; provided, however, that no contract shall be valid which has a term in excess of 36 months. Contracts may be renewable at the end of each 36 month period of time at the option of both parties to the contract.

(c) The contract or an attachment thereto shall state clearly any rules and regulations of the seller which are applicable to the consumer's use of the facilities or receipt of its services.

(d) The contract shall state clearly on its face the cancellation and refund policies of the seller.

(e) The health spa member shall have the right to cancel the contract within seven business days after the date of the signing of the contract by notifying the seller in writing of such intent and by either mailing the notice before 12:00 Midnight of the seventh business day after the date of the signing of the contract or by hand delivering the notice of cancellation to the health spa before 12:00 Midnight of the seventh business day following the date of the signing of the contract. The notice must be accompanied by the contract forms, membership cards, and any and all other documents and evidence of membership previously delivered to the buyer. If the health spa member so cancels, any payments made under the contract will be refunded and any evidence of indebtedness executed by the health spa member will be canceled by the seller, provided that the member shall be liable for the fair market value of services actually received, which in no event shall exceed $100.00. The preparation of any documents shall not be construed to be services; provided, however, that any documents prepared which are merely ancillary to services which are actually rendered shall not prevent the health spa from charging for such services actually rendered up to the limits specified in this subsection. Each health spa contract shall contain the following paragraphs separated from all other paragraphs:

"You (the buyer) have seven business days to cancel this contract. To cancel, mail or hand deliver a letter to the following address:

Name of health spa

Street address

City, State, ZIP Code

Do not sign this contract if there are any blank spaces above. In the event optional services are offered, be sure that any options you have not selected are lined through or that it is otherwise indicated that you have not selected these options. It is recommended that you send your cancellation notice by registered or certified mail or statutory overnight delivery, return receipt requested, in order to prove that you did cancel. If you do hand deliver your cancellation, be sure to get a signed statement from an official of the spa acknowledging your cancellation.

To be effective, your cancellation must be postmarked by midnight, or hand delivered by midnight on _____(date)_____, _____, and must include all contract forms, membership cards, and any and all other documents and evidence of membership previously delivered to you."

The health spa shall fill in the blank spaces in the above paragraph before the consumer signs the contract. In the event a consumer fails to provide with the cancellation notice all contract forms, membership cards, and any and all other documents and evidence of membership previously delivered, the health spa shall either cancel the contract or provide written notice by certified mail or statutory overnight delivery to the consumer that such documents must be provided within 30 days in order for the cancellation to be effective. In the event that the consumer provides the documents within 30 days, the contract shall be canceled as of the date on which the cancellation notice was delivered; provided, however, that should the consumer continue to use the facilities or services during the 30 day period, the cancellation shall be effective on the first business day following the last day on which the consumer uses the facilities or services.

(f) In the event a health spa no longer offers a substantial service which was offered at the time of the initiation of the contract, or in the event a health spa which previously limited its membership to members of one sex should become coeducational or one which was previously coeducational should become limited to members of one sex, the member shall have 30 days from the time the member knew or should have known of the change to cancel the remainder of the membership and receive a refund. The refund shall be calculated by dividing the total cost of the membership by the total number of months under the membership and refunding the monthly cost for any months or fractions of months remaining under the membership. The contract shall contain a clause in at least ten-point boldface type which reads as follows:

"You (the buyer) may cancel this agreement within 30 days from the time you knew or should have known of any substantial change in the services or programs available at the time you joined. Substantial changes include, but are not limited to, changing from being coed to being exclusively for one sex and vice versa. To cancel, send written notice of your cancellation to the address provided in this contract for sending a notice of cancellation. The best way to cancel is by keeping a photocopy and sending the cancellation by registered or certified mail or statutory overnight delivery, return receipt requested."

The provisions of this subsection shall not apply in any instance where a court has ordered that a change be made in the sexual character of the health spa. The Attorney General is authorized upon petition to issue a declaratory ruling under Code Section 50-13-11 as to whether any planned change in a health spa is a substantial change or whether alternate locations are substantially similar under this Code section. Such declaratory rulings shall be subject to review as under Chapter 13 of Title 50, the "Georgia Administrative Procedure Act."

(g) Every contract for health spa services shall contain a clause providing that if the member becomes totally and permanently disabled during the membership term, he or she may cancel his or her contract and that the health spa is entitled to a reasonable predetermined fee in such event in addition to an amount equal to the value of services made available for use. This amount shall be computed by dividing the total cost of the membership by the total number of months under the membership and multiplying the result by the number of months expired under the membership term. The health spa shall have the right to require and verify reasonable evidence of total and permanent disability. For purposes of this subsection, "total and permanent disability" means a condition which has existed or will exist for more than 45 days and which will prevent the member from using the facility to the same extent as the member used it before commencement of the condition.

(h) The health spa contract shall state that if a consumer has a history of heart disease, he should consult a physician before joining a spa.

(i) Every health spa contract shall comply with either paragraph (1) or paragraph (2) of this subsection:

(1)(A) The written contract used shall contain the following clause: "Under this contract, no further payments shall be due to anyone, including any purchaser of any note associated with or contained in this contract, in the event the health spa at which the contract is entered into ceases operation and fails to offer an alternate location, substantially similar, within ten miles."

(B) All payments due under the contract must be in equal monthly installments spread over the entire term of the contract.

(C) There can be no payments of any type, including, but not limited to, down payments, enrollment fees, membership fees, or any other direct payment to the health spa, other than the equal monthly installment payments.

(D) There can be no complimentary, compensatory, or other extensions of the term incident to the term of the contract, including but not limited to a promise of lifetime renewal for a minimal annual fee, provided that an agreement of both parties to extend the term of the contract to compensate for time during which the member could not fully utilize the spa due to a temporary physical or medical condition arising after the member joined shall not be considered to bring the spa into noncompliance under this paragraph; or

(B) The written contract shall contain the following statement in boldface type which is larger and bolder than any other type which is in the contract and in at least 14 point boldface, which statement must be separately signed by the consumer:

"NOTICE

State law requires that we inform you that should you (the buyer) choose to pay for any part of this agreement in advance, be aware that you are paying for future services and may be risking loss of your money in the event this health spa ceases to conduct business. Health spas do not post a bond, and there may be no other protections provided to you should you choose to pay in advance."

(j) An alternate location for a health spa shall not be considered substantially similar if:

(1) The original facility was limited to use by members of one sex and the alternate facility is used by members of both sexes;

(2) The original facility was for use by members of both sexes and the alternate facility's use is limited to members of one sex; or

(3) The size, facilities, equipment, or services available to the member at the alternate location are not substantially equal to or do not exceed the size, facilities, equipment, or services available to the member at the health spa location at which the contract was entered into.

(k) Every contract for health spa services shall contain a clause providing that if the member dies during the membership term or any renewal term, his or her estate may cancel the contract and that the health spa is entitled to a reasonable predetermined fee in such event in addition to an amount computed by dividing the total cost of the membership by the total number of months under the membership and multiplying the result by the number of months expired under the membership term. The contract may require the member's estate seeking relief under this subsection to provide reasonable proof of death.

(l)(1) A health spa shall not enter or offer to enter into a health spa agreement with a consumer unless the health spa is fully operational and available for use.

(2) For purposes of this subsection, "fully operational and available for use" means that all of the facilities, equipment, or services which are promised at the time of entering into the membership contract are operational and available for use at that time. Nothing contained in this subsection shall be construed to prohibit a health spa from selling a membership for existing services and facilities at a location under construction which can be converted at a later date to a membership for additional services and facilities, provided that:

(A) The additional services and facilities are fully operational and available for use at the time of the conversion;

(B) Additional consideration, other than just a nominal consideration, is required from the consumer under the terms of the conversion; and

(C) The member has until seven days following the date the additional consideration or a part of the additional consideration becomes due and owing to cancel the remainder of the contract and receive a refund computed by dividing the total cost of the membership by the total number of months under the membership and multiplying the result by the number of months remaining under the membership term.

(3) The provisions of this subsection shall not apply if all of the following conditions are met:

(A) The health spa has submitted forms prescribed by the Attorney General requiring, in addition to whatever other information the Attorney General may require, as much detail as to the size, facilities, equipment, or services to be provided as the Attorney General may require;

(B) The health spa has obtained the approval in writing of the Attorney General to sell memberships to a health spa before it is fully operational and available for use;

(C) The health spa has agreed in writing with the Attorney

General, on forms prescribed by the Attorney General, to deposit all funds obtained by selling memberships before a health spa is fully operational and available for use in a single account in a bank or trust company domiciled in the State of Georgia. Such deposits are to be held in safekeeping for release only upon authorization of the Attorney General. The bank or trust company must be approved by the Attorney General. The Attorney General may consult with the commissioner of banking and finance or with any of the employees of the commissioner of banking and finance regarding whether the bank or trust company should be approved and may disapprove the bank or trust company if he or she has reason to believe any deposits into the account might not be secure;

(D) Each deposit to the single account established under this paragraph shall be identified by the name and address of the individual who purchased the membership. The bank or trust company and the health spa shall maintain a list of the deposits, their amount, and the name and address of the membership purchaser, which list shall be available to the Attorney General or for inspection or copying by the Attorney General;

(E) The condition of the account established under this paragraph shall be that no funds shall be released from the account to any person unless the Attorney General has certified in writing to the bank or trust company that either the health spa is fully operational and available for use or that the health spa has not complied and does not appear likely to comply with its obligation to make the health spa fully operational and available for use in accordance with the documents submitted to the Attorney General or in accordance with representations made to membership purchasers. No action may be maintained in any court against the Attorney General or any of his or her employees for any determination or as a consequence of any determination made by the Attorney General under this subparagraph. Nothing contained or implied in this subparagraph shall operate or be construed or applied to deprive the Attorney General or any employee of any immunity, indemnity, benefits of law, rights, or any defense otherwise available by law;

(F) If the Attorney General certifies to the bank or trust company that the health spa is fully operational and available for use, then the funds in the account shall be released to the health spa, along with any accrued interest. If the Attorney General certifies to the bank or trust company that the health spa has not complied and does not appear likely to comply with its obligation to make the health spa fully operational and available for use, then the funds in the account shall be released to the Attorney General on behalf of the individuals who purchased memberships prior to the health spa's being fully operational and available for use. Any accrued interest on the account shall be paid on a pro rata basis to the membership purchasers;

(G) Any costs imposed by the bank or trust company for administering the account shall be borne by the health spa; and

(H) The member shall have until seven business days following the date upon which the health spa becomes fully operational and available for use to cancel the contract and receive a full refund of any payments and the cancellation of any evidence of indebtedness, provided that the member shall be liable for the fair market value of any services actually received, which in no event shall exceed $50.00. The preparation of any documents shall not be construed to be services; provided, however, that all documents prepared which are merely ancillary to services which are actually rendered shall not prevent the health spa from charging for such services actually rendered up to the limits specified in this subparagraph.

(m) All moneys due the consumer under contracts canceled for the reasons contained in this Code section shall be refunded within 30 days of receipt of such notice of cancellation. The notice must be accompanied by the contract forms, membership cards, and any and all other documents and evidence of membership previously delivered to the buyer, except in the case of a deceased member. In the event a consumer fails to provide with the cancellation notice all contract forms, membership cards, and any and all other documents and evidence of membership previously delivered, the health spa shall either cancel the contract or provide written notice by certified mail or statutory overnight delivery to the consumer that such documents must be provided within 30 days in order for the cancellation to be effective. In the event that the consumer provides the documents within 30 days, the contract shall be canceled as of the date on which the cancellation notice was delivered; provided, however, that should the consumer continue to use the facilities or services during the 30 day period, the cancellation shall be effective on the first business day following the last day on which the consumer uses the facility or services.

(n) Any contract which does not comply with this Code section shall be void and unenforceable; no purchaser of any note associated with or contained in any health spa contract shall make any attempt to collect on the note or to report the buyer as delinquent to any consumer reporting or consumer credit reporting agency if there has been any violation by the health spa of subsections (b) through (m) or of subsection (o) of this Code section. Any attempt by any purchaser or by any agent of any purchaser to collect on the note or to report the buyer as delinquent as described in this subsection shall be considered an unfair and deceptive act or practice as provided in Code Section 10-1-393.

(o) After November 15, 1989, no health spa contract shall be valid or enforceable unless the health spa operator has on file a statement signed by the Attorney General certifying that a copy of the contract is on file with the Attorney General and is in compliance with this part. Health spas may begin submitting a copy of their contract for approval by the Attorney General on July 1, 1989, and shall submit all contract changes thereafter for approval prior to entering or offering to enter into that contract with a consumer. In addition to any action which may be taken by the Attorney General under this part, and in addition to any recovery of a consumer in the private action provided for under this part, any consumer who has entered into a contract which has not been approved by the Attorney General prior to the date of the contract shall be entitled to recover as an additional penalty an amount equal to any amount paid plus any amount claimed owing on the contract.

(p) In addition to any other penalties provided for in this part, any person who operates or aids or assists in the operation of a health spa in violation of any of the provisions of subsection (i) or (o) of this Code section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Each day of operation of a health spa in violation of subsection (i) or (o) shall be considered a separate and distinct violation. In addition to any other penalties provided in this part, any person who violates subsection (l) of this Code section shall be guilty of a felony. Each sale of a membership in violation of subsection (l) of this Code section shall be considered a separate and distinct violation. Each failure to place properly all of the funds generated from a particular membership agreement into a properly approved and established trust account shall be considered a separate and distinct violation.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Violation of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-393.2. — Since it was apparent from the face of the health club contracts that the contracts did not comply with the requirements of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-393.2, summary judgment was properly granted to defendants. Georgia Receivables, Inc. v. Te, 240 Ga. App. 292, 523 S.E.2d 352, 1999 Ga. App. LEXIS 1307 (1999).

Contract was void and unenforceable for failing to comply with statute. — If the required language was not set out in three separate paragraphs as the statute requires, the language in the contract regarding the buyer's rights was not separated from all other paragraphs as the statute requires, and the consumer was not given a specific date for the last date to cancel the contract, then the health spa membership contract was void and unenforceable. Georgia Receivables, Inc. v. Welch, 242 Ga. App. 146, 529 S.E.2d 164, 2000 Ga. App. LEXIS 114 (2000).

Compliance with O.C.G.A. § 10-1-393.2 required. — In an action to collect payment under a health spa contract, grant of summary judgment to defendant based upon violations of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-393.2 was authorized even though defendant failed to raise the issue because any contract that does not comply with § 10-1-393.2 is void and unenforceable under subsection (n). Georgia Receivables, Inc. v. Kirk, 242 Ga. App. 801, 531 S.E.2d 393, 2000 Ga. App. LEXIS 355 (2000).

Exculpatory clauses upheld in gym contract. — Trial court properly granted various gym defendants summary judgment in a member's suit for negligence because three agreements signed by the member contained unambiguous exculpatory clauses and constituted clear and express waivers and releases from liability. Herren v. Sucher, 325 Ga. App. 219, 750 S.E.2d 430, 2013 Ga. App. LEXIS 873 (2013), cert. denied, No. S14C0576, 2014 Ga. LEXIS 339 (Ga. Apr. 22, 2014).

(2) Make or use any false or misleading representations or omit any material fact in the offer or sale of the services of a broker or engage, directly or indirectly, in any act that operates or would operate as fraud or deception upon any person in connection with the offer or sale of the services of a broker, notwithstanding the absence of reliance by the buyer; or

OPINIONS OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Administrator may authorize delegate to receive documentary materials. — The administrator does not have to be present and personally receive documentary materials required of persons pursuant to the Fair Business Practices Act; the administrator, on the contrary, may authorize a delegate to perform this function for the administrator. 1975 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 75-134.

Not all complaints need be referred to other agencies. — Pursuant to subsection (c) of Ga. L. 1975, p. 376, § 5 (see now O.C.G.A. § 10-1-393), the administrator is required to refer to the Board of Registration of Used Car Dealers all complaints concerning conduct

(2) Acts done by the publisher, owner, agent, or employee of a newspaper, periodical, radio station or network, or television station or network in the publication or dissemination in print or electronically of:

(A) News or commentary; or

(B) An advertisement of or for another person, when the publisher, owner, agent, or employee did not have actual knowledge of the false, misleading, or deceptive character of the advertisement, did not prepare the advertisement, or did not have a direct financial interest in the sale or distribution of the advertised product or service.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Insurance transactions are among those types of transactions which are exempt from the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq. Ferguson v. United Ins. Co. of Am., 163 Ga. App. 282, 293 S.E.2d 736, 1982 Ga. App. LEXIS 2467 (1982).

Trades by brokerage firms and brokers. — Georgia Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., does not apply to an investor's claims against brokerage firms and a broker for allegedly unauthorized trades; the alleged wrongful transactions that provide the basis for the action entail conduct that is "specifically authorized and regulated" by the Securities and Commodity Exchange Acts. Taylor v. Bear Stearns & Co., 572 F. Supp. 667, 1983 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 13167 (N.D. Ga. 1983).

Area of finance charges, disclosure, and truth in lending falls outside the Fair Business Practice Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., except where expressly covered. Chancellor v. Gateway Lincoln-Mercury, 233 Ga. App. 38, 502

Publisher of advertising periodical. — Publisher of telephone "yellow pages" was exempt from a claim under the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., because the allegedly improper acts were committed in the course of the publisher's business as the publisher of an advertising periodical. Robin v. BellSouth Adv. & Publishing Co., 221 Ga. App. 360, 471 S.E.2d 294, 1996 Ga. App. LEXIS 491 (1996).

Regulation under another act. — In an action in which the plaintiff consumer filed a complaint under the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act (FBPA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., and the Georgia Unfair or Deceptive Practices Toward the Elderly Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-850 et seq., alleging that the lender deceptively and without the consumer's knowledge inflated the amount of the consumer's income on the loan application, causing the loan to be underwritten in a far greater amount and in turn making the loan payments much larger than the consumer could afford, while "settlement services" under the Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act (RESPA), 12 U.S.C. § 2602, included taking of loan applications, loan processing, and the underwriting and funding of loans, the lender failed to show that the alleged conduct was regulated by RESPA such that, under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-396(a), the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act would not apply. Kitchen v. Ameriquest Mortg. Co., No. 1:04-CV-2750-BBM, 2005 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 43937 (N.D. Ga. Apr. 29, 2005).

Mortgage borrower stated a claim against a loan servicer under the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act (FBPA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., based on allegations that the servicer failed to properly credit payments, sent harassing collection letters, wrongfully threatened foreclosure, and improperly reported to credit bureaus that the loan was in default. Residential mortgage transactions were not categorically excluded from the FBPA, and the unfair and deceptive conduct alleged by the borrower was not specifically authorized under another statute. Stroman v. Bank of Am. Corp., 852 F. Supp. 2d 1366, 2012 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 54677 (N.D. Ga. 2012).

Homeowner's Fair Business Practices Act (FBPA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., claim against the homeowner's mortgage lender arising out of foreclosure of the homeowner's home failed because the Georgia Residential Mortgage Act, O.C.G.A. § 7-1-1000 et seq., prohibited mortgage businesses from, among other things, pursuing a course of misrepresentation by use of fraudulent or unauthorized documents or other means, O.C.G.A. § 7-1-1013(1), foreclosing a claim under the FBPA, pursuant to O.C.G.A. § 10-1-396. Stewart v. SunTrust Mortg., Inc., 331 Ga. App. 635, 770 S.E.2d 892, 2015 Ga. App. LEXIS 216 (2015).

10-1-397. Cease and desist orders; civil penalty; judicial relief; receivers.

(a) As used in this Code section, the term:

(1) "Call" means any communication, message, signal, or transmission.

(2) "Telecommunications company" shall have the same meaning as provided in Code Section 46-5-162.

(3) "Telecommunications services" shall have the same meaning as provided in Code Section 46-5-162.

(b) Whenever it may appear to the Attorney General that any person is using, has used, or is about to use any method, act, or practice declared by this part or by regulations made under Code Section

10-1-394 to be unlawful and that proceedings would be in the public interest, whether or not any person has actually been misled, the Attorney General may:

(1) Subject to notice and opportunity for hearing in accordance with Code Section 10-1-398, unless the right to notice is waived by the person against whom the sanction is imposed, take any or all of the following actions:

(A) Issue a cease and desist order prohibiting any unfair or deceptive act or practice against any person;

(B) Issue an order against a person who willfully violates this part, imposing a civil penalty of up to a maximum of $2,000.00 per violation; or

(C) Issue an order requiring a person whose actions are in violation of this part to pay restitution to any person or persons adversely affected by such actions; or

(2) Without regard as to whether the Attorney General has issued any orders under this Code section, upon a showing by the Attorney General in any superior court of competent jurisdiction that a person has violated or is about to violate this part, a rule promulgated under this part, or an order of the Attorney General, the court may enter or grant any or all of the following relief:

(A) A temporary restraining order or temporary or permanent injunction;

(B) A civil penalty of up to a maximum of $5,000.00 per violation of this part;

(C) A declaratory judgment;

(D) Restitution to any person or persons adversely affected by a defendant's actions in violation of this part;

(E) The appointment of a receiver, auditor, or conservator for the defendant or the defendant's assets; or

(F) Other relief as the court deems just and equitable.

(c) Unless the Attorney General determines that a person subject to this part designs quickly to depart from this state or to remove his or her property therefrom or to conceal himself or herself or his or her property therein or that there is immediate danger of harm to citizens of this state or of another state, the Attorney General shall, unless he or she seeks a temporary restraining order to redress or prevent an injury resulting from a violation of paragraph (20) of subsection (b) of Code Section 10-1-393, before initiating any proceedings as provided in this Code section, give notice in writing that such proceedings are contemplated and allow such person a reasonable opportunity to appear before the Attorney General and execute an assurance of voluntary compliance as provided in this part. The determination of the Attorney General under this subsection shall be final and not subject to judicial review.

(d) With the exception of consent judgments entered before any testimony is taken, a final judgment under this Code section shall be admissible as prima-facie evidence of such specific findings of fact as may be made by the court which enters the judgment in subsequent proceedings by or against the same person or his or her successors or assigns.

(e) When a receiver is appointed by the court pursuant to this part, he or she shall have the power to sue for, collect, receive, and take into his or her possession all the goods and chattels, rights and credits, moneys and effects, lands and tenements, books, records, documents, papers, choses in action, bills, notes, and property of every description derived by means of any practice declared to be illegal and prohibited by this part, including property with which such property has been mingled if it cannot be identified in kind because of such commingling, and to sell, convey, and assign the same and hold and dispose of the proceeds thereof under the direction of the court. In the case of a partnership or business entity, the receiver may, in the discretion of the court, be authorized to dissolve the business and distribute the assets under the direction of the court. The court shall have jurisdiction of all questions arising in such proceedings and may make such orders and judgments therein as may be required.

(f)(1) Whenever the Attorney General issues a cease and desist order to any person regarding the use of a telephone number which when called automatically imposes a per-call charge or other costs to the consumer, other than a regular charge imposed for long distance service, including, but not limited to, a telephone number in which the local prefix is 976 or in which the long distance prefix is 900, the Attorney General may certify to the appropriate local or long distance telecommunications company responsible for billing consumers for the charges that billing for the charges or for certain of the charges should be suspended. The telecommunications company shall then suspend such billing with reasonable promptness to preserve the assets of consumers in accordance with the certification, without incurring any liability to any person for doing so. For the purposes of this Code section, "reasonable promptness to preserve the assets of consumers" shall mean to act as quickly as the telecommunications company would act to preserve its own assets, provided that the telecommunications company cannot be required to make any changes to its existing systems, technologies, or methods used for billing, other than any minimal procedural changes necessary to actually suspend the billing. The telecommunications company shall not be made a party to any proceedings under this part for complying with this requirement but shall have a right to be heard as a third party in any such proceedings.

(2) The suspension of billing under this subsection shall remain in effect until the Attorney General certifies to the telecommunications company that the matter has been resolved. The Attorney General shall certify to the telecommunications company with reasonable promptness when the matter has been resolved. In this certification, the Attorney General shall advise the telecommunications company to collect none of, all of, or any designated part of the billings in accordance with the documents or orders which resolved the matter. The telecommunications company shall collect or not collect the billings in the manner so designated and shall not incur any liability to any person for doing so.

(3) Nothing contained in this subsection shall limit or restrict the right of the telecommunications company to place its own restrictions, guidelines, or criteria, by whatever name denominated, upon the use of such telecommunications services, provided such restrictions, guidelines, or criteria do not conflict with the provisions of this subsection.

(d) In the case of any hearing conducted under this Code section, the Attorney General or his or her designated representative may conduct the hearing.

(e) The Attorney General shall have authority to do the following:

(1) Administer oaths and affirmations;

(2) Sign and issue subpoenas;

(3) Rule upon offers of proof;

(4) Regulate the course of the hearing, set the time and place for continued hearings, and fix the time for filing briefs;

(5) Dispose of motions to dismiss for lack of agency jurisdiction over the subject matter or parties or for any other ground;

(6) Dispose of motions to amend or to intervene;

(7) Provide for the taking of testimony by deposition or interrogatory; and

(8) Reprimand or exclude from the hearing any person for any indecorous or improper conduct committed in the presence of the agency.

(f) Subpoenas shall be issued without discrimination between public and private parties. When a subpoena is disobeyed, any party may apply to the superior court of the county where the hearing is being heard for an order requiring obedience. Failure to comply with such order shall be cause for punishment as for contempt of court. The costs of securing the attendance of witnesses, including fees and mileage, shall be computed and assessed in the same manner as prescribed by law in civil cases in the superior court.

(g) A record shall be kept in each contested case and shall include:

(1) All pleadings, motions, and intermediate rulings;

(2) A summary of the oral testimony plus all other evidence received or considered except that oral proceedings or any part thereof shall be transcribed or recorded upon request of any party. Upon written request therefor, a transcript of the oral proceedings or any part thereof shall be furnished to any party of the proceedings. The Attorney General shall set a uniform fee for such service;

(3) A statement of matters officially noticed;

(4) Questions and offers of proof and rulings thereon;

(5) Proposed findings and exceptions;

(6) Any decision, including any initial, recommended, or tentative decision, opinion, or report by the officer presiding at the hearing; and

(7) All staff memoranda or data submitted to the hearing officer or members of the agency in connection with their consideration of the case.

(h) Findings of fact shall be based exclusively on the evidence and on matters officially noticed.

(i) If the Attorney General does not receive a request for a hearing within the prescribed time where he or she has issued an order prohibiting any unfair or deceptive act or practices, he or she may permit an order previously entered to remain in effect or he or she may enter a proposed order. If a hearing is requested and conducted as provided in this Code section, the Attorney General shall issue a written order which shall:

(1) Set forth his or her findings with respect to the matters involved; and

(2) Enter an order in accordance with his or her findings.

(j) The Attorney General may promulgate such procedural rules and regulations as may be necessary for the effective administration of the authority granted to the Attorney General under this Code section.

Editor's notes.
Ga. L. 1988, p. 1659, § 2, effective July 1, 1988, repealed former Code Section 10-1-398, as enacted by Ga. L. 1975, p. 376, § 9, relating to actions by the administrator for damages, and enacted the current Code section.

10-1-398.1. Judicial review.

Any person who has exhausted all administrative remedies available and who is aggrieved by a final decision in a contested case is entitled to judicial review in accordance with the procedures, standards, and requirements set forth in Code Section 50-13-19.

History. Code 1981, § 10-1-398.1, enacted by Ga. L. 1988, p. 1659, § 3; Ga. L. 2015, p. 1088, § 2/SB 148.

10-1-399. Civil actions for violations; remedies.

(a) Any person who suffers injury or damages as a result of a violation of Chapter 5B of this title, as a result of consumer acts or practices in violation of this part, as a result of office supply transactions in violation of this part or whose business or property has been injured or damaged as a result of such violations may bring an action individually, but not in a representative capacity, against the person or persons engaged in such violations under the rules of civil procedure to seek equitable injunctive relief and to recover his or her general and exemplary damages sustained as a consequence thereof in any court having jurisdiction over the defendant; provided, however, that exemplary damages shall be awarded only in cases of intentional violation. Notwithstanding any other provisions of law, a debtor seeking equitable relief to redress an injury resulting from a violation of paragraph (20) of subsection (b) of Code Section 10-1-393, upon facts alleged showing a likelihood of success on the merits, may not, within the discretion of the court, be required to make a tender. Nothing in this subsection or paragraph (20) of subsection (b) of Code Section 10-1-393 shall be construed to interfere with the obligation of the debtor to a lender who is not in violation of paragraph (20) of subsection (b) of Code Section 10-1-393. A claim under this Code section may also be asserted as a defense, setoff, cross-claim, or counterclaim or third-party claim against such person.

(b) At least 30 days prior to the filing of any such action, a written demand for relief, identifying the claimant and reasonably describing the unfair or deceptive act or practice relied upon and the injury suffered, shall be delivered to any prospective respondent. Any person receiving such a demand for relief who, within 30 days of the delivering of the demand for relief, makes a written tender of settlement which is rejected by the claimant may, in any subsequent action, file the written tender and an affidavit concerning this rejection and thereby limit any recovery to the relief tendered if the court finds that the relief tendered was reasonable in relation to the injury actually suffered by the petitioner. The demand requirements of this subsection shall not apply if the prospective respondent does not maintain a place of business or does not keep assets within the state. The 30 day requirement of this subsection shall not apply to a debtor seeking a temporary restraining order to redress or prevent an injury resulting from a violation of paragraph (20) of subsection (b) of Code Section 10-1-393, provided that said debtor gives, or attempts to give the written demand required by this subsection at least 24 hours in advance of the time set for the hearing of the application for the temporary restraining order. Such respondent may otherwise employ the provisions of this Code section by making a written offer of relief and paying the rejected tender into court as soon as practicable after receiving notice of an action commenced under this Code section. All written tenders of settlement such as described in this subsection shall be presumed to be offered without prejudice in compromise of a disputed matter.

(c) Subject to subsection (b) of this Code section, a court shall award three times actual damages for an intentional violation.

(d) If the court finds in any action that there has been a violation of this part, the person injured by such violation shall, in addition to other relief provided for in this Code section and irrespective of the amount in controversy, be awarded reasonable attorneys' fees and expenses of litigation incurred in connection with said action; provided, however, that the court shall deny a recovery of attorneys' fees and expenses of litigation which are incurred after the rejection of a reasonable written offer of settlement made within 30 days of the mailing or delivery of the written demand for relief required by this Code section; provided, further, that, if the court finds the action continued past the rejection of such reasonable written offer of settlement in bad faith or for the purposes of harassment, the court shall award attorneys' fees and expenses of litigation to the adverse party. Any award of attorneys' fees and expenses of litigation shall become a part of the judgment and subject to execution as the laws of Georgia allow.

(e) Any manufacturer or supplier of merchandise whose act or omission, whether negligent or not, is the basis for action under this part shall be liable for the damages assessed against or suffered by retailers charged under this part. A claim of such liability may be asserted by cross-claim, third-party complaint, or by separate action.

(f) It shall not be a defense in any action under this part that others were, are, or will be engaged in like practices.

(g) In any action brought under this Code section the Attorney General shall be served by certified or registered mail or statutory overnight delivery with a copy of the initial complaint and any amended complaint within 20 days of the filing of such complaint. The Attorney General shall be entitled to be heard in any such action, and the court where such action is filed may enter an order requiring any of the parties to serve a copy of any other pleadings in an action upon the Attorney General.

General Consideration

Factors determining if part violated. — In analyzing whether defendant's allegedly wrongful activities are in violation of the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., or an "isolated" incident not covered under the statute, two factors are determinative: (a) medium through which act or practice is introduced into stream of commerce; and (b) market on which act or practice is reasonably intended to impact. Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

Impact on consumer marketplace required. — Unless it can be said that defendant's actions had or has potential harm for consumer public, the act or practice cannot be said to have "impact" on consumer marketplace and any act or practice which is outside that context, no matter how unfair or deceptive, is not directly regulated by the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq. Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

Though the plaintiff may be a "consumer" with regard to the transaction, if the deceptive or unfair act or practice had or has no potential for harm to the general consuming public, the allegedly wrongful act of the defendant was not made in the context of the consumer marketplace. Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

Trade name infringement. — Fair Business Practices Act (FBPA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., protects businesses from unfair or deceptive practices in the conduct of trade or commerce, including passing off goods or services as those of another, or causing actual confusion as to the source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods or services. Thus, the

FBPA broadly protects against infringement on a protected trade name by use of a confusingly similar name. Inkaholiks Luxury Tattoos Georgia, LLC v. Parton, 324 Ga. App. 769, 751 S.E.2d 561, 2013 Ga. App. LEXIS 929 (2013).

Contractual defense of forum selection clause did not apply. — Trial court erred in granting summary judgment in favor of a health and nutrition multi-level distribution company in a physician's action alleging violations of the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act (FBPA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., and the Georgia Sale of Business Opportunities Act (SBOA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-410 et seq., because the physician's claims were not res judicata based on a default judgment entered in favor of the company in a Texas court, and since the four corners of the physician's complaint reveal that the physician's claims were not based on breach of contract but were based on violation of the SBOA, the contractual defense of a forum selection clause did not apply; FBPA claims are not contract claims. Walker v. Amerireach.com, 306 Ga. App. 658, 703 S.E.2d 100, 2010 Ga. App. LEXIS 1017 (2010), aff'd in part and rev'd in part, 290 Ga. 261, 719 S.E.2d 489, 2011 Ga. LEXIS 948 (2011), vacated in part, 313 Ga. App. 584, 722 S.E.2d 201, 2012 Ga. App. LEXIS 28 (2012).

Court of appeals erred in ruling that a physician's claims that a limited liability company (LLC) violated the Fair Business Practices Act (FBPA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-399(b), were not barred by res judicata because the physician was barred by a Texas judgment from filing an FBPA claim against the LLC in Georgia, and a Georgia court could not make its own determination regarding whether the forum selection clause in the parties' agreement precluded the filing of an FBPA claim in Georgia; there was no public policy exception to the Full Faith and Credit Clause, and the Texas judgment went to the merits of, and adversely controlled, the physician's claim that the forum selection clause was inapplicable to an FBPA claim. Amerireach.com, LLC v. Walker, 290 Ga. 261, 719 S.E.2d 489, 2011 Ga. LEXIS 948 (2011).

Demand for Relief

Section incorporates common law. — Since subsection (b) contemplates notice of deception relied upon as prerequisite to suit for recovery of damages resulting from that deception, this section is construed as incorporating "reliance" element of common-law tort of misrepresentation into causation element of an individual claim. Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

Liberal construction. — Notice requirement of subsection (b) of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-399 is to be liberally construed and the sufficiency of notice is a question for the court. Lynas v. Williams, 216 Ga. App. 434, 454 S.E.2d 570, 1995 Ga. App. LEXIS 180 (1995), cert. denied, No. S95C0968, 1995 Ga. LEXIS 585 (Ga. May 15, 1995).

Sufficiency of complaint. — Defendant's motion to dismiss was denied because a claim under the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act (GFBPA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-399, was not subject to heightened pleading requirements and the plaintiffs did not seek punitive damages; rather, the plaintiffs sought statutory treble damages for a legitimately stated claim available by the statute. Pries v. Greenpath, Inc., No., 528 F. Supp. 3d 1353, 2021 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 819 (M.D. Ga. 2021).

Notice sufficient although Fair Business Practices Act not cited. — Even though a letter of notice does not cite Ga. L. 1975, p. 376, if the letter is sufficient in and of itself to independently apprise defendant of the underlying facts giving rise to the claim, then the letter is sufficient notice. Colonial Lincoln-Mercury Sales, Inc. v. Molina, 152 Ga. App. 379, 262 S.E.2d 820, 1979 Ga. App. LEXIS 2933 (1979).

Notice under Fair Business Practices Act. — While the notice pursuant to O.C.G.A. § 10-1-399 is not technically an element of a cause of action for a Fair Business Practices Act (FBPA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., violation, it is a statutory prerequisite to the filing of a FBPA suit that adequate written notice be timely sent. Lynas v. Williams, 216 Ga. App. 434, 454 S.E.2d 570, 1995 Ga. App. LEXIS 180 (1995), cert. denied, No. S95C0968, 1995 Ga. LEXIS 585 (Ga. May 15, 1995).

Tenant's letter to a former landlord informing the landlord that the tenant's eviction was unfair and requesting that the landlord pay for damages done to the tenant's family was adequate notice for purposes of the tenant's Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., claim. Stringer v. Bugg, 254 Ga. App. 745, 563 S.E.2d 447, 2002 Ga. App. LEXIS 316 (2002), cert. denied, No. S02C1221, 2002 Ga. LEXIS 696 (Ga. Sept. 6, 2002).

Trial court erred in granting summary judgment to an auto dealership in a purchaser's suit asserting fraud and violations of Georgia's Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., with regard to the purchase of a vehicle as genuine issues of material fact existed as to each element, and the purchaser's certified letter to the auto dealership was sufficient to satisfy the ante litem notice requirement of the Act; it was irrelevant that the sale was rescinded as there was evidence that the auto dealership offered a vehicle for sale that was not the more valuable model that the dealership represented; and the merger clause in the purchase agreement did not prevent the purchaser from standing on any representation allegedly made by a salesperson since that provision directly contradicted the express provisions of the Act. Johnson v. GAPVT Motors, Inc., 292 Ga. App. 79, 663 S.E.2d 779, 2008 Ga. App. LEXIS 684 (2008).

Former homeowner was required to give notice to a defendant under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-399 even though the defendant was incorporated and had the defendant's principal place of business in a different state. There was no evidence that the defendant did not maintain a place of business in Georgia or keep some assets in Georgia, and the homeowner's contention was predicated on uncertified computer printouts from the Secretary of State's website, which were inadmissible under former O.C.G.A. § 24-7-20 (see now O.C.G.A. § 24-9-920). Steed v. Fed. Nat'l Mortg. Corp., 301 Ga. App. 801, 689 S.E.2d 843, 2009 Ga. App. LEXIS 1452 (2009).

No tolling of limitations period. — The 30-day notice requirement of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-399(b) does not toll or extend the limitations period provided for in O.C.G.A. § 10-1-401 and does not constitute the bringing of an action. Greene v. Team Props., Inc., 247 Ga. App. 544, 544 S.E.2d 726, 2001 Ga. App. LEXIS 27 (2001), overruled in part, Tiismann v. Linda Martin Homes Corp., 279 Ga. 137, 610 S.E.2d 68, 2005 Ga. LEXIS 146 (2005), overruled in part, Foster v. Ga. Reg'l Transp. Auth., 297 Ga. 714, 777 S.E.2d 446, 2015 Ga. LEXIS 653 (2015).

Demand not required when claim raised as a counterclaim. — Because a debtor asserted a Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., claim as a counterclaim, the debtor was not required to deliver a written demand for relief under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-399(b). 1st Nationwide Collection Agency, Inc. v. Werner, 288 Ga. App. 457, 654 S.E.2d 428, 2007 Ga. App. LEXIS 1222 (2007).

Tender of Settlement

Tender of settlement must be in writing. — Subsection (b) of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-399 expressly requires that the tender of settlement be in writing and is so plain and unambiguous that judicial construction is both unnecessary and unauthorized, and the legislature's clear intent that the settlement offer be in writing will not be thwarted by invocation of the rule of substantial compliance. Regency Nissan, Inc. v. Taylor, 194 Ga. App. 645, 391 S.E.2d 467, 1990 Ga. App. LEXIS 253 (1990).

Plaintiff not deprived of cause of action. — Although a tender of settlement may limit the amount of damages recoverable, it does not deprive a plaintiff of the plaintiff's cause of action. Crown Ford v. Crawford, 221 Ga. App. 881, 473 S.E.2d 554, 1996 Ga. App. LEXIS 744 (1996).

Cause of Action

1. In General

Section gives separate cause of action. — There is a separate and distinct cause of action under the provisions of this section, and a consumer who is damaged has an independent right to recover under the Fair Business Practices Act regardless of any other theory of recovery. Attaway v. Tom's Auto Sales, Inc., 144 Ga. App. 813, 242 S.E.2d 740, 1978 Ga. App. LEXIS 1795 (1978); Standish v. Hub Motor Co., 149 Ga. App. 365, 254 S.E.2d 416, 1979 Ga. App. LEXIS 1850 (1979); Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

Suit must serve public interest. — Suits brought pursuant to Ga. L. 1975, p. 376, § 10 must serve public interest and implement purpose of Ga. L. 1975, p. 376 — the end to unfair or deceptive acts or practices in public consumer marketplace. Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

Purpose and intent of Ga. L. 1975, p. 376 is protection of public, and private suit under Ga. L. 1975, p. 376, § 10 may be brought only if the suit implements that underlying purpose and intent. Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

Justifiable reliance must be shown if misrepresentation is alleged. — O.C.G.A. § 10-1-401(a)(1) did not bar a home buyer's claim under the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., because the buyer did not suffer any actual damages at the time of the alleged violation, and could not have suffered any such damages at least until the homebuilder conveyed the house to the buyer without complying with code requirements or used the contractual language in question to deny liability; therefore, the buyer's cause of action did not accrue until less than two years prior to the date the buyer filed suit. Tiismann v. Linda Martin Homes Corp., 279 Ga. 137, 610 S.E.2d 68, 2005 Ga. LEXIS 146 (2005).

In an action in which the injured party alleged that the builder made a misrepresentation in the construction contract by including conflicting provisions regarding liability for construction of the property in accordance with building codes, justifiable reliance, pursuant to O.C.G.A. § 10-1-399, was an essential element of the injured party's Georgia Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., claim. Tiismann v. Linda Martin Homes Corp., 276 Ga. App. 846, 625 S.E.2d 32, 2005 Ga. App. LEXIS 1270 (2005), aff'd, 281 Ga. 137, 637 S.E.2d 14, 2006 Ga. LEXIS 827 (2006).

Owner was unable to hold the builder liable under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-399 based upon an alleged misrepresentation in a contract purporting to limit the builder's liability for failing to build the owner's home to code; the owner did not rely on the provision at issue, as the owner had read the provision and signed the agreement anyway, believing the provision to be unenforceable. Tiismann v. Linda Martin Homes Corp., 281 Ga. 137, 637 S.E.2d 14, 2006 Ga. LEXIS 827 (2006).

Case law interpreting O.C.G.A. § 10-1-399 to include an element of reliance in cases involving misrepresentation is still valid despite amendments to § 10-1-399. Tiismann v. Linda Martin Homes Corp., 281 Ga. 137, 637 S.E.2d 14, 2006 Ga. LEXIS 827 (2006).

Purchasers of condominium units could not maintain the purchasers' claims against the developers and a broker for violation of the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., because the purchasers could not show justifiable reliance as the purchasers were estopped from relying on an alleged representation that was made outside of a written agreement into which the purchasers entered. Novare Group, Inc. v. Sarif, 290 Ga. 186, 718 S.E.2d 304, 2011 Ga. LEXIS 939 (2011).

Volitional act and impact on marketplace required. — To be subject to direct suit under the Fair Business Practices Act, an alleged offender must perform some volitional act to avail oneself of the channels of consumer commerce, and the allegedly offensive activity must take place within the context of the consumer marketplace. State ex rel. Ryles v. Meredith Chevrolet, Inc., 145 Ga. App. 8, 244 S.E.2d 15, 1978 Ga. App. LEXIS 1840, aff'd, 242 Ga. 294, 249 S.E.2d 87, 1978 Ga. LEXIS 1180 (1978); Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

In action on contract when defendant denied liability on contract on ground of partial failure of consideration and brought a counterclaim against the plaintiff under the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., but failed to present evidence of a volitional unfair or deceptive act or practice, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-399 was not applicable and the plaintiff's failure to comply with the statute's terms was irrelevant. Gresham v. White Repair & Contracting Co., 158 Ga. App. 235, 279 S.E.2d 528, 1981 Ga. App. LEXIS 2143 (1981).

Plaintiff's allegation that the defendant violated the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act (FBPA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., by engaging in a pattern of unfair and deceptive acts and practices both in the conduct of consumer transactions and in trade and commerce did not state a claim under the FBPA because the plaintiff did not allege any deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of consumer transactions such as passing off goods or services as those of another or causing confusion as to the source of goods or services. Harlander v. Turner (In re Turner), No. 15-40525-EJC, No. 15-04037-EJC, 2017 Bankr. LEXIS 917 (Bankr. S.D. Ga. Mar. 31, 2017).

Damage must be in capacity as member of consuming public. — While suit under this section is brought in the plaintiff's individual capacity, it must be in the plaintiff's capacity as an individual member of a consuming public who has suffered damage as a result of unfair or deceptive act or practice which had or has potential harmful effect on general consuming public. Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

Owner of a trademark in a trademark infringement case was not a consumer who sustained damage and thus the owner was not entitled to an award of attorney fees under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-399. Lone Star Steakhouse & Saloon v. Longhorn Steaks, Inc., 106 F.3d 355, 1997 U.S. App. LEXIS 3276 (11th Cir.), modified, 122 F.3d 1379, 1997 U.S. App. LEXIS 26388 (11th Cir. 1997).

Right of nonconsumers to bring action unsettled. — Contrary to Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910 (1980), subsection (a) of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-399 does not appear to limit actions under the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., to individual members of the consuming public; instead, it simply allows any person injured as a result of a violation to bring an action and, thus, whether a FBPA plaintiff must be an individual member of the consuming public seems to be an unsettled question of Georgia law. Friedlander v. PDK, Labs, Inc., 59 F.3d 1131, 1995 U.S. App. LEXIS 19935 (11th Cir. 1995) (see annotation under catchline "Damage must be in capacity as member of consuming public").

Injury to individual by breach of duty to consuming public. — One may bring a private suit under the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., only if one is individually injured by breach of duty owed to consuming public in general. Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

Private transactions. — This section does not encompass suits based upon allegedly deceptive or unfair acts or practices which occur in essentially private transactions. Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

This section, providing for a private right of action, was enacted to give effect to the intent of the General Assembly that such practices be swiftly stopped, and is part of enforcement and regulatory scheme underlying public protection policy of the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., and as such does not create an additional remedy for redress of private wrongs occurring outside the context of the public consumer marketplace. Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

That Ga. L. 1975, p. 376, § 10 provides for equitable injunctive relief and for recovery of treble damages for intentional violations is evidence that the legislature intended the statute to serve as an aid in enforcing the underlying public protection policy of Ga. L. 1975, p. 376 by enlisting litigative assistance of those individual members of consuming public damaged by unfair or deceptive acts or practices and not as a basis for new private remedy for individuals who are damaged by acts or practices which have no potential for impact on general consuming public. Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

Private claim under the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., has three elements: violation of the Act, causation, and injury. Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980); Moore-Davis Motors, Inc. v. Joyner, 252 Ga. App. 617, 556 S.E.2d 137, 2001 Ga. App. LEXIS 1100 (2001), cert. dismissed, No. S02C0541, 2002 Ga. LEXIS 359 (Ga. Apr. 16, 2002).

Single instance of unfair or deceptive act or practice is sufficient predicate upon which to base claim for damages if public consumer interest would be served thereby. Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

Jury trial may be ordered. — Despite the inherent equitable nature of the claim, the trial court retains the authority to order a jury trial of claims under the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., or as to ex delicto actions involving unliquidated damages which must be determined by a jury. Greenbriar Dodge, Inc. v. May, 155 Ga. App. 892, 273 S.E.2d 186, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2828 (1980).

Question of law and fact. — While the fact of notice under subsection (b) of this section is a question for jury resolution, the sufficiency of notice, if given, is a matter for court determination. Colonial Lincoln-Mercury Sales, Inc. v. Molina, 152 Ga. App. 379, 262 S.E.2d 820, 1979 Ga. App. LEXIS 2933 (1979).

Question of sufficiency of notice is one for court. Plaza Pontiac, Inc. v. Shaw, 158 Ga. App. 799, 282 S.E.2d 383, 1981 Ga. App. LEXIS 2425 (1981).

Dismissal of claims against non-profit hospital. — Court dismissed, without prejudice, an uninsured patient's Georgia Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., claims against a non-profit hospital and an affiliated health company because: (1) the patient alleged that the defendants violated state and federal law with regard to its billing practices for uninsured and/or indigent patients and that the patient should not have to pay the patient's treatment costs because the hospital was a non-profit hospital; and (2) I.R.S. § 501(c)(3) did not confer subject matter jurisdiction on the court over the patient's fair business practice claims because the claims were based on the theory that § 501(c)(3) created an enforceable trust between the hospital and the federal government, and no such trust was created under federal law. Ellis v. Phoebe Putney Health Sys., No. 1:04-CV-80, 2005 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 19935 (M.D. Ga. Apr. 8, 2005).

2. Diligence of Plaintiff

Plaintiff must be diligent in discovering truth. — Under Ga. L. 1975, p. 376, p. 10, a claimant who alleges Ga. L. 1975, p. 376 was violated as a result of misrepresentation must demonstrate that the claimant was injured as a result of reliance upon alleged misrepresentation and, therefore, the claimant is not entitled to recover if the claimant had equal and ample opportunity to ascertain the truth but failed to exercise proper diligence to do so. Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980); Nims v. Otter, 188 Ga. App. 516, 373 S.E.2d 396, 1988 Ga. App. LEXIS 1081 (1988); Massey v. Thomaston Ford Mercury, 196 Ga. App. 278, 395 S.E.2d 663, 1990 Ga. App. LEXIS 898 (1990).

When any damage purchaser may have suffered was charged to the purchaser's lack of diligence and not to the purchaser's reliance upon any misrepresentation, the purchaser suffered no damage as a result of a violation of the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq. Heidt v. Potamkin Chrysler-Plymouth, Inc., 181 Ga. App. 903, 354 S.E.2d 440, 1987 Ga. App. LEXIS 1582 (1987).

Failure to read lease agreements. — Trial court erred in denying automobile dealer's motion for summary judgment with respect to the customers' claims that the lease transactions violated the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq. since the customers alleged no artifice or fraud which would have prevented the customers from reading the lease agreements prior to signing the leases. Delta Chevrolet, Inc. v. Wells, 187 Ga. App. 694, 371 S.E.2d 250, 1988 Ga. App. LEXIS 842 (1988).

Diligence not shown as a matter of law. — In a case in which the injured party alleged that the builder violated the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., because the construction contract contained contradictory language that assured the injured party that the builder was to build the home in accordance with the building codes but also incorporated a limited warranty disclaiming responsibility for any violations of the building codes, the injured party's claim under the Act failed, as the injured party did not, as a matter of law, reasonably rely upon the contradictory contract provisions as required for an action under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-399; there was no confidential relationship between the parties, and the injured party was not prevented by artifice or fraud from making an inspection to determine the truth or falsity of the alleged representation. Tiismann v. Linda Martin Homes Corp., 276 Ga. App. 846, 625 S.E.2d 32, 2005 Ga. App. LEXIS 1270 (2005), aff'd, 281 Ga. 137, 637 S.E.2d 14, 2006 Ga. LEXIS 827 (2006).

3. Evidence

Oral misrepresentation contrary to written agreement. — If the alleged oral misrepresentation attributed to the defendant was contrary to the express terms of the written agreement underlying the sale, the trial court did not err in ruling that the purchaser's testimony regarding that misrepresentation was inadmissible. Heidt v. Potamkin Chrysler-Plymouth, Inc., 181 Ga. App. 903, 354 S.E.2d 440, 1987 Ga. App. LEXIS 1582 (1987).

A mere showing that a person became sick subsequent to eating food was insufficient to establish a claim for violation of the Fair Business Practice Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., predicated upon the allegation that the plaintiff was injured because of the unfair and deceptive practice of selling foodstuffs after the expiration date. Stevenson v. Winn-Dixie Atlanta, Inc., 211 Ga. App. 572, 440 S.E.2d 465, 1993 Ga. App. LEXIS 1577 (1993), cert. denied, No. S94C0533, 1994 Ga. LEXIS 528 (Ga. Feb. 18, 1994).

Damages

Measure of damages is the actual injury suffered. Standish v. Hub Motor Co., 149 Ga. App. 365, 254 S.E.2d 416, 1979 Ga. App. LEXIS 1850 (1979); Givens v. Bourrie, 190 Ga. App. 425, 379 S.E.2d 223, 1989 Ga. App. LEXIS 248 (1989).

An award for general damages under the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., is limited to those damages that can be measured by actual injury suffered, and the general provisions of O.C.G.A. § 51-12-2(a) are not applicable. Regency Nissan, Inc. v. Taylor, 194 Ga. App. 645, 391 S.E.2d 467, 1990 Ga. App. LEXIS 253 (1990).

Actual injury suffered. — The measure of damages to be applied for in a statutory violation was that of actual injury suffered; the general provisions of O.C.G.A. § 51-12-2(a), damages recoverable without proof of amount, were not applicable. Moore-Davis Motors, Inc. v. Joyner, 252 Ga. App. 617, 556 S.E.2d 137, 2001 Ga. App. LEXIS 1100 (2001), cert. dismissed, No. S02C0541, 2002 Ga. LEXIS 359 (Ga. Apr. 16, 2002).

When a consumer sued a car dealer under the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., concerning the car purchased from the dealer, the consumer did not show an actual injury by any alleged violation because there was no evidence of the actual value of the car at the time the car was bought, as actual damages, for purposes of the Act, meant relief other than a refund of the purchase price and restitution. Small v. Savannah Int'l Motors, Inc., 275 Ga. App. 12, 619 S.E.2d 738, 2005 Ga. App. LEXIS 872 (2005).

"Actual damages" more than refund of purchase price. — Within the meaning of the Fair Business Practices Act, "actual damages" means relief other than the refund of the purchase price and the return to the status quo that constitutes restitution. Colonial Lincoln-Mercury Sales, Inc. v. Molina, 152 Ga. App. 379, 262 S.E.2d 820, 1979 Ga. App. LEXIS 2933 (1979).

Sperm banks causing damage to parents. — Parents' Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., claim against a sperm bank was erroneously dismissed; the parents' claims that the sperm bank made misrepresentations about the quality of their product (sperm) and services (screening process) to the public could have resulted in injuries other than the life of the child (for which no damages were recoverable). At a minimum, the parents may have paid more for the sperm than the sperm was worth, and injunctive relief and punitive damages were potentially available. Norman v. Xytex Corp., 310 Ga. 127, 848 S.E.2d 835, 2020 Ga. LEXIS 662 (2020).

Damages award under Fair Debt Collection Practices Act and Fair Business Practices Act. — Damages award was not in error because: (1) the debtor's declaration supported finding a debt collector's false representation of a debt and failure to notify credit reporting agencies that the debt was disputed caused the debtor emotional distress; and (2) those acts constituted violations of the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1692 et seq., for which damages could be recovered under the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq. Carlisle v. Nat'l Commer. Servs., 722 Fed. Appx. 864, 2018 U.S. App. LEXIS 28 (11th Cir. 2018).

Treble damages and attorney fees may be awarded for certain egregious or intentional misconduct. Standish v. Hub Motor Co., 149 Ga. App. 365, 254 S.E.2d 416, 1979 Ga. App. LEXIS 1850 (1979).

Debtor was properly awarded treble damages in the debtor's claim against a collection agency. The trial court found that the agency intentionally violated the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act, 15 U.S.C. § 16921, thereby violating the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq. 1st Nationwide Collection Agency, Inc. v. Werner, 288 Ga. App. 457, 654 S.E.2d 428, 2007 Ga. App. LEXIS 1222 (2007).

Trial court erred by awarding treble damages of the entire compensatory damages award for each violation, which amounted to sextuple damages for each violation, as the jury awarded the car buyer compensatory damages of $4,114.50 and, in addition, the jury awarded $24,684 on the basis of both the treble damages provision in the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-399(c) , and the treble damages provision in the odometer statute, O.C.G.A. § 40-8-5(g)(1)(A), with no verdict allocation. Gobran Auto Sales, Inc. v. Bell, 335 Ga. App. 873, 783 S.E.2d 389, 2016 Ga. App. LEXIS 101 (2016).

Exemplary damages are not necessarily subsumed in treble damages allowed under subsection (c) of this section. Colonial Lincoln-Mercury Sales, Inc. v. Molina, 152 Ga. App. 379, 262 S.E.2d 820, 1979 Ga. App. LEXIS 2933 (1979).

Full trial damages recovered under subsection (b) of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-399. — See Park Leasing Co. v. TWS, Inc., 206 Ga. App. 864, 426 S.E.2d 620, 1992 Ga. App. LEXIS 1817 (1992), cert. denied, No. S93C0573, 1993 Ga. LEXIS 350 (Ga. Apr. 8, 1993).

Awards. — Trial court was authorized to award punitive damages, but not required to award three times the compensatory damages, or any amount at all. Conseco Fin. Servicing Corp. v. Hill, 252 Ga. App. 774, 556 S.E.2d 468, 2001 Ga. App. LEXIS 1284 (2001).

Attorney fees awarded. — When jury rendered a verdict in favor of a beauty pageant contestant, finding that the pageant promoters violated the statutory requirements regarding the providing of certain information to contestants, the posting of a bond, and the maintaining of an escrow account, in violation of O.C.G.A. §§ 10-1-831, 10-1-832, and 10-1-837, the trial court's award of attorney fees and litigation expenses to the contestant pursuant to O.C.G.A. §§ 10-1-835 and 10-1-399 was proper. Galardi v. Steele-Inman, 266 Ga. App. 515, 597 S.E.2d 571, 2004 Ga. App. LEXIS 420 (2004), cert. denied, No. S04C1331, 2004 Ga. LEXIS 757 (Ga. Sept. 7, 2004).

Debtor was properly awarded attorney fees in the debtor's claim against a collection agency. The agency, which did not appear at the trial, did not provide the appellate court with a transcript of the nonjury trial sufficient to enable the appellate court to determine the issue at hand; moreover, the affidavit submitted by the debtor's attorneys clearly provided detailed information sufficient to enable the fact finder to determine what each of the attorneys did, to allocate the services provided between successful and unsuccessful claims, and to determine whether any services rendered were duplicative. 1st Nationwide Collection Agency, Inc. v. Werner, 288 Ga. App. 457, 654 S.E.2d 428, 2007 Ga. App. LEXIS 1222 (2007).

Attorney fees, arbitration clauses, and federal law. — Because a cable television subscriber would automatically recover attorney fees if the subscriber prevailed on the subscriber's claim against cable television providers under the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-399(d), and was highly likely to recover fees under O.C.G.A. § 13-6-11 if the subscriber prevailed on intentional tort claims for fraud and trespass, an attorney would have an incentive to represent the subscriber during arbitration. Therefore, a class action waiver contained in an arbitration clause in the parties' subscription contract was not unconscionable under Georgia law, and the arbitration clause was enforceable under the Federal Arbitration Act, 9 U.S.C. § 2. Honig v. Comcast of Ga. I, LLC, 537 F. Supp. 2d 1277, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 19617 (N.D. Ga. 2008).

Illustrative Cases

Misrepresentation in selling own home. — Misrepresentation made by homeowner selling the seller's own house is not likely to be a recurring "consumer" threat and, therefore, has no potential "impact" on general consuming public. Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

Any misrepresentation made by a seller in the context of selling the seller's own home is not made "in the conduct of any trade or business" but rather in the course of private negotiations between two individual parties who have countervailing rights and liabilities established under common law principles of contract, tort, and property law. Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

Single misrepresentation by business in isolated sale. — Single oral misrepresentation made by real estate business in content of isolated nondevelopmental sale of real property relating to unique facts concerning that property appears to be an essentially "private" controversy with no impact whatsoever on consumer marketplace. Zeeman v. Black, 156 Ga. App. 82, 273 S.E.2d 910, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2888 (1980).

Advertisement of "buy one get one free sale." — In an action against a store based on a sign advertising a "buy one get one free" sale without indicating limitations, if the sale actually applied only to certain items, plaintiff was not entitled to recovery because of the plaintiff's inability to prove causation and damages. 232 Ga. App. 708, 502 S.E.2d 735, 1998 Ga. App. LEXIS 721.

Borrower whose loan was disapproved for a bona fide reason unrelated to a lender's allegedly deceptive interest rate commitment could not claim to have been injured by the alleged unfair practice; moreover, statistical evidence of recent loan applications tended to negate the borrower's allegation that the lender engaged in a "bait and switch" operation. Whisenant v. Fulton Fed. Sav. & Loan Ass'n, 200 Ga. App. 31, 406 S.E.2d 793, 1991 Ga. App. LEXIS 759 (1991).

Pressure to purchase more expensive van. — Evidence, which included a showing of an auto dealership's attempt to pressure a customer into purchasing a more expensive van, was insufficient to support the jury's award of actual and punitive damages. Miles Rich Chrysler-Plymouth, Inc. v. Mass, 201 Ga. App. 693, 411 S.E.2d 901, 1991 Ga. App. LEXIS 1557 (1991).

Judgment on the pleadings in favor of auto dealership in error. — Trial court erred by granting an auto dealership judgment on the pleadings as to a buyer's consumer fraud suit because it could not be said, as a matter of law, that the buyer would not be unable to show that the reliance on representations that the minivan was undamaged and never had been in a wreck was reasonable. Raysoni v. Payless Auto Deals, LLC, 296 Ga. 156, 766 S.E.2d 24, 2014 Ga. LEXIS 906 (2014).

Pool installation. — Because the pool installers failed to respond to a pool purchaser's request for admissions, pursuant to O.C.G.A. § 9-11-36(a), those admissions were deemed admitted and were sufficient to establish the purchaser's claims of fraud and conspiracy to defraud and, accordingly, summary judgment was properly granted to the purchaser on those claims; however, summary judgment to the purchaser was error on the claim that the installers violated the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., as there was no evidence that the actions by the installers were introduced into the stream of commerce or were reasonably intended to impact on any market other than on the purchaser, and the commensurate awards of attorney fees and treble damages, pursuant to O.C.G.A. § 10-1-399(c) and (d), were vacated. Brown v. Morton, 274 Ga. App. 208, 617 S.E.2d 198, 2005 Ga. App. LEXIS 709 (2005).

Building code. — In a case involving a contract in which a builder limited the builder's liability for failing to build to code, the builder's post-closing refusal to accept responsibility for remedying the code violations was not unfair or deceptive under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-399, as it was based on the contract that the owner had signed, and the builder's decision to litigate the issue was not unfair or deceptive and did not injure the owner, who received a substantial sum in arbitration as a result. Tiismann v. Linda Martin Homes Corp., 281 Ga. 137, 637 S.E.2d 14, 2006 Ga. LEXIS 827 (2006).

Arbitration clause in cable television subscription agreement. — Because the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-399(a), by the Act's terms, prohibited consumer class actions, an arbitration clause in a cable television subscription agreement that contained a class action waiver clause was not unconscionable under Georgia law and was enforceable under the Federal Arbitration Act, 9 U.S.C. § 2. Honig v. Comcast of Ga. I, LLC, 537 F. Supp. 2d 1277, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 19617 (N.D. Ga. 2008).

Arbitration clause in a satellite television provider subscriber agreement. — Motion to compel arbitration of a putative class action was improperly denied under 9 U.S.C. §§ 2 and 16 because it was not unconscionable to require arbitration of the validity of an early cancellation fee charged by a satellite television provider in that the subscriber had the ability to recoup fees and expenses under the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act under O.C.G.A. §§ 10-1-393 and 10-1-399 if the subscriber prevailed individually. Cappuccitti v. DirecTV, Inc., 623 F.3d 1118, 2010 U.S. App. LEXIS 21348 (11th Cir. 2010).

"Largest to smallest" transaction policy by bank. — After plaintiff bank customers alleged defendant bank had a practice of manipulating the posting of transactions to impose overdraft fees, such claims under O.C.G.A. §§ 10-1-391, 10-1-393, and 10-1-399, were not preempted under the National Bank Act regulations and if the allegations that the bank shrouded the bank's actions in a broadly worded "largest to smallest" transaction posting policy, unqualified by time limits or other restrictions, it stated claims under the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq. White v. Wachovia Bank, N.A., 563 F. Supp. 2d 1358, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 88112 (N.D. Ga. 2008).

Health and nutrition multi-level distribution company. — Trial court erred in dismissing a physician's complaint against a health and nutrition multi-level distribution company's officers alleging violations of the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., and the Georgia Sale of Business Opportunities Act (SBOA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-410 et seq., on the ground that the court lacked personal jurisdiction because in response to requests for admissions, the company admitted that the company was a "multilevel distribution company" as defined in the SBOA, that the provisions of the SBOA, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-415(c)(4), applied to any agreement made in Georgia, that the officers were founding members of the company and were officers when the physician became a marketer; the officers also admitted that the physician's cancellation rights under Georgia law were generally known to the officers. Walker v. Amerireach.com, 306 Ga. App. 658, 703 S.E.2d 100, 2010 Ga. App. LEXIS 1017 (2010), aff'd in part and rev'd in part, 290 Ga. 261, 719 S.E.2d 489, 2011 Ga. LEXIS 948 (2011), vacated in part, 313 Ga. App. 584, 722 S.E.2d 201, 2012 Ga. App. LEXIS 28 (2012).

Dealership's role in odometer statement. — Trial court erred by granting summary judgment to an auto dealership on a buyer's claim for fraud against the dealership because the record created a question of fact as to whether the dealership issued a substantially inaccurate odometer statement even when more than one employee either knew that the written statement was false or recklessly disregarded the possibility that it was so. Alvear v. Sandy Springs Toyota, Inc., 332 Ga. App. 798, 775 S.E.2d 172, 2015 Ga. App. LEXIS 392 (2015).

In any action in which damages are demanded under Code Section 10-1-399, recovery will be limited to the amount, if any, by which the injured party suffered injury or damage caused by the violation if the adverse party proves that the violation resulted from a bona fide error notwithstanding the maintenance of procedures reasonably adopted to avoid any such error and that such error was not the result of negligence in the maintenance of such procedures.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Application to alleged unfair trade practices. — Two-year statute of limitation under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-401 applied to a vending machine purchaser's unfair trade practices claim against the sellers. League v. U.S. Postamatic, Inc., 235 Ga. App. 171, 508 S.E.2d 210, 1998 Ga. App. LEXIS 1374 (1998), cert. denied, No. S99C0342, 1999 Ga. LEXIS 226 (Ga. Feb. 26, 1999).

Commencement of limitations period. — Plaintiffs' cause of action under the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., was barred by the two year statute of limitations since the action was commenced more than two years after the defendant obtained the plaintiffs' property without complying with statutory requirements, notwithstanding the plaintiffs' contention that the statute of limitations did not begin to run until the plaintiffs discovered the plaintiffs had been injured, which occurred when the plaintiffs received notice of a dispossessory action, since the failure of the defendant to provide a written contract or notice of the right to rescind as required by statute was evident and complete at the time the property was transferred to the defendant. Greene v. Team Props., Inc., 247 Ga. App. 544, 544 S.E.2d 726, 2001 Ga. App. LEXIS 27 (2001), overruled in part, Tiismann v. Linda Martin Homes Corp., 279 Ga. 137, 610 S.E.2d 68, 2005 Ga. LEXIS 146 (2005), overruled in part, Foster v. Ga. Reg'l Transp. Auth., 297 Ga. 714, 777 S.E.2d 446, 2015 Ga. LEXIS 653 (2015).

O.C.G.A. § 10-1-401(a)(1) did not bar a home buyer's claim under the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., because the buyer did not suffer any actual damages at the time of the alleged violation, and could not have suffered any such damages at least until the homebuilder conveyed the house to the buyer without complying with code requirements or used the contractual language in question to deny liability; therefore, the buyer's cause of action did not accrue until less than two years prior to the date suit was filed. Tiismann v. Linda Martin Homes Corp., 279 Ga. 137, 610 S.E.2d 68, 2005 Ga. LEXIS 146 (2005).

Thirty day demand for relief provision does not toll limitations period. — Because plaintiffs knew or should have known of alleged Sale of Business Opportunity Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-410 et seq., violations more than two years before bringing claims, the trial court properly held that the plaintiff's claims were time-barred. Touchton v. Amway Corp., 247 Ga. App. 269, 543 S.E.2d 782, 2000 Ga. App. LEXIS 1457 (2000), overruled in part, Pollard v. Great Dane, LLC, No. A24A0545, 2024 Ga. App. LEXIS 236 (Ga. Ct. App. June 18, 2024).

The 30-day notice requirement of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-399(b) does not toll or extend the limitations period provided for in O.C.G.A. § 10-1-401 and does not constitute the bringing of an action. Greene v. Team Props., Inc., 247 Ga. App. 544, 544 S.E.2d 726, 2001 Ga. App. LEXIS 27 (2001), overruled in part, Tiismann v. Linda Martin Homes Corp., 279 Ga. 137, 610 S.E.2d 68, 2005 Ga. LEXIS 146 (2005), overruled in part, Foster v. Ga. Reg'l Transp. Auth., 297 Ga. 714, 777 S.E.2d 446, 2015 Ga. LEXIS 653 (2015).

Complaint time-barred. — Unpublished decision: Because plaintiff dry cleaners sued defendant natural gas supplier 33 months after the alleged misdeeds, and it was not alleged that any Georgia Public Service Commission proceedings had been initiated that would have postponed the accrual date under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-401(a)(2), the O.C.G.A. § 10-1-393(a) claim was time-barred by § 10-1-401(a)'s two-year limitations period. Byung Ho Cheoun v. Infinite Energy, Inc., 363 Fed. Appx. 691, 2010 U.S. App. LEXIS 1866 (11th Cir. 2010).

10-1-402. Assurances of voluntary compliance.

In the administration of this part the Attorney General may accept an assurance of voluntary compliance with respect to any act or practice deemed to be violative of this part from any person who has engaged or was about to engage in such act or practice. Any such assurance shall be in writing and be filed with the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the alleged violator resides or has his or her principal place of business or with the clerk of the Superior Court of Fulton County. Such assurance of voluntary compliance shall not be considered an admission of violation for any purpose. Matters thus processed may at any time be reopened by the Attorney General for further proceedings in the public interest, pursuant to Code Section 10-1-397. This Code section shall not bar any claim against any person who has engaged in any act or practice in violation of this part.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Discretion as to acceptance of assurance. — Permissive wording of Ga. L. 1975, p. 376, § 12 indicates that it is not mandatory that the administrator accept an assurance of voluntary compliance with respect to acts or practices violative of Ga. L. 1975, p. 376. State ex rel. Ryles v. Meredith Chevrolet, Inc., 145 Ga. App. 8, 244 S.E.2d 15, 1978 Ga. App. LEXIS 1840, aff'd, 242 Ga. 294, 249 S.E.2d 87, 1978 Ga. LEXIS 1180 (1978).

10-1-403. Investigations; demands for evidence.

(a) When it reasonably appears to the Attorney General that a person has engaged in, is engaging in, or is about to engage in any act or practice declared to be unlawful by this part or when he believes it to be in the public interest that an investigation should be made to ascertain whether a person in fact has engaged in, is engaging in, or is about to engage in any act or practice declared to be unlawful by this part, he may execute in writing and cause to be served upon any person who is believed to have information, documentary material, or physical evidence relevant to the alleged or suspected violation an investigative demand requiring such person to furnish, under oath or otherwise, a report in writing setting forth the relevant facts and circumstances of which he has knowledge or to appear and testify or to produce relevant documentary material or physical evidence for examination at such reasonable time and place as may be stated in the investigative demand, concerning the advertisement, sale, or offering for sale of any goods or services or the conduct of any trade or commerce that is the subject matter of the investigation.

(b) If a matter that the Attorney General makes the subject of an investigative demand is located outside the state, the person receiving the investigative demand may either make it available to the Attorney General at a convenient location within this state or pay the reasonable and necessary expenses for the Attorney General or his or her representative to examine the matter at the place where it is located. The Attorney General may designate representatives, including officials of the state in which the matter is located, to inspect the matter on his or her behalf, and may respond to similar requests from officials of other states.

(c)(1) Each such investigative demand shall state the nature of the conduct constituting the alleged violation of this part which is under investigation and the provision of law applicable thereto; describe the class or classes of documentary material to be produced thereunder with such definiteness and certainty as to permit such material to be fairly identified; describe the nature, scope, and purpose of the investigation with such definiteness and certainty as to permit any person whose testimony is sought to be fairly appraised of the subject matter of the inquiry; prescribe a return date which will provide a reasonable period of time within which the material so demanded may be assembled and made available for inspection and copying or reproduction and the person or persons whose testimony is sought may prepare for the same; and identify the person to whom such material shall be made available.

(2) No such investigative demand shall:

(A) Contain any requirement which would be held to be unreasonable as contained in a subpoena for the production of documentary evidence issued by a court of this state in aid of a grand jury investigation of such alleged violation; or provided, however, that the limitations on the scope of demand contained in this paragraph do not require as a condition to the issuance of an investigative demand that the alleged violation be of sufficient seriousness as to constitute a violation of the criminal laws of this state, as opposed to the civil provisions of this part.

(B) Require the production of any documentary evidence or oral testimony which would be privileged from disclosure if demanded by a subpoena for the production of documentary evidence issued by a court of this state in aid of a grand jury investigation of such alleged violation;

History. Ga. L. 1975, p. 376, § 13; Ga. L. 1988, p. 1659, § 4; Ga. L. 2015, p. 1088, § 2/SB 148.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Appeal of investigative demand. — Under binding Georgia Supreme Court authority, an investigative demand issued by the Governor's Office of Consumer Affairs constitutes the decision of an administrative agency for the purpose of O.C.G.A. § 5-6-35(a)(1) and, consequently, that provision requires a party to apply for a discretionary appeal. Financial Education Services, Inc. v. State of Ga., 336 Ga. App. 606, 785 S.E.2d 544, 2016 Ga. App. LEXIS 104 (2016), cert. denied, 580 U.S. 1173, 137 S. Ct. 1234, 197 L. Ed. 2d 465, 2017 U.S. LEXIS 1717 (2017).

Appeal of order compelling compliance with investigative demand. — Corporation's direct appeal of a trial court order compelling the corproation to comply with an investigative demand issued by the Governor's Office of Consumer Affairs was dismissed because under binding Georgia Supreme Court authority, an investigative demand constitutes the decision of an administrative agency for the purpose of the discretionary appeal provisions of O.C.G.A. § 5-6-35(a)(1) and, consequently, the corporation was required to apply for a discretionary appeal. Financial Education Services, Inc. v. State of Ga., 336 Ga. App. 606, 785 S.E.2d 544, 2016 Ga. App. LEXIS 104 (2016), cert. denied, 580 U.S. 1173, 137 S. Ct. 1234, 197 L. Ed. 2d 465, 2017 U.S. LEXIS 1717 (2017).

OPINIONS OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Investigative demand, notice of contemplated civil action, combinable. — Whenever the administrator has reason to believe that any person has violated or is about to violate any provision of the Fair Business Practices Act or any regulations promulgated thereunder, it would be proper for the administrator to issue an investigative demand and notice of contemplated civil action simultaneously under that Act, and such may be included in one document. 1975 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 75-91.

Forwarding of documentary materials by registered mail authorized. — Administrator would not be acting beyond the scope of the administrator's authority to permit documentary materials to be forwarded to the administrator's office by use of registered mail under the terms of the investigative demand. 1975 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 75-134.

Receipt of documentary materials by administrator's delegate. — The administrator does not have to be present and personally receive documentary materials required of persons pursuant to the Fair Business Practices Act; the administrator, on the contrary, may authorize a delegate to perform this function for the administrator. 1975 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 75-134.

10-1-404. Attorney General's subpoena and hearing powers; procedural rules; court enforcement orders; self-incrimination; confidentiality.

(a) To carry out the duties prescribed by Code Sections 10-1-394, 10-1-395, 10-1-397, 10-1-398, and 10-1-403, the Attorney General, in addition to other powers conferred upon him or her by this part, may issue subpoenas to any person, administer an oath or affirmation to any person, conduct hearings in aid of any investigation or inquiry, prescribe such forms, and promulgate such procedural rules and regulations as may be necessary, which procedural rules and regulations shall have the force of law.

(b) The recipient of an investigative demand or subpoena may file an objection with the Attorney General within the reasonable time allotted for responding on grounds that it fails to comply with this part or upon any constitutional or other legal right or privilege of such person. Upon failure of a person without lawful excuse to obey an investigative demand or subpoena, the Attorney General may apply to a superior court having jurisdiction for an order compelling compliance. The court may issue an order directing compliance with the original demand or subpoena or modifying or setting aside such demand or subpoena based on any objection that was raised before the Attorney General.

(c) The Attorney General may request that a natural person who refuses to testify or to produce relevant matter on the ground that the testimonial matter may incriminate him be ordered by the court to provide the testimonial matter. With the exception of a prosecution for perjury and an action under Code Section 10-1-397, 10-1-398, 10-1-399, or 10-1-405, a natural person who complies with the court order to provide a testimonial matter after asserting a privilege against self-incrimination to which he is entitled by law shall not be prosecuted or subjected to any penalty or forfeiture for or on account of any transaction, matter, or thing concerning which he may testify or produce evidence, documentary or otherwise.

(d)(1) Information obtained pursuant to investigative demands, subpoenas, oaths, affirmations, or hearings enforced by this part shall not be made public or, except as authorized in paragraph (2) of this subsection, disclosed by the Attorney General or his or her employees beyond the extent necessary for the enforcement of this part.

(2) The Attorney General or his or her employees shall be authorized to provide to any federal, state, or local law enforcement agency any information acquired under this part which is sought pursuant to an investigative demand or subpoena by such agency. State or local law enforcement agencies shall be authorized to provide any information to the Attorney General when the Attorney General issues an investigative demand or subpoena for such information.

10-1-405. Civil penalties; individual liability.

(a) Any person who violates the terms of an injunction issued under Code Section 10-1-397 shall forfeit and pay to the state a civil penalty of not more than $25,000.00 per violation. For purposes of this Code section, the superior court issuing an injunction shall retain jurisdiction and the cause shall be continued and in such cases the Attorney General, acting in the name of the state, may petition for recovery of civil penalties.

(b) In the case of a continuing violation under this part, each day shall be regarded as a separate violation.

(c) Any intentional violation by a corporation, partnership, or association shall be deemed to be also that of the individual directors, officers, partners, employees, or agents of the corporation, partnership, or association who knew or should have known of the acts constituting the violation and who directly authorized, supervised, ordered, or did any of the acts constituting in whole or in part the violation; provided, however, that no such individual directors, officers, partners, employees, or agents shall have any individual liability under this subsection unless the corporation, partnership, or association, as the case may be, which has committed the intentional violation shall fail to pay into the court within 30 days after judgment sufficient moneys or assets to satisfy the judgment.

(d) The Attorney General shall have the authority to compromise or settle claims for penalty brought under this Code section.

10-1-410. Definitions.

As used in this part, the term:

(1) "Agreement" means any agreement relating to a business opportunity or multilevel distribution company, including, but not limited to, the contract.

(2)(A) "Business opportunity" means the sale or lease of, or offer to sell or lease, any products, equipment, supplies, or services for the purpose of enabling the purchaser to start a business and in which the seller or company represents:

(i) That the seller or company will provide locations or assist the purchaser in finding locations for the use or operation of vending machines, racks, display cases or other similar devices, or currency operated amusement machines or devices. For purposes of this subparagraph, "assist the purchaser in finding locations" includes but is not limited to supplying the purchaser with names of locator companies, contracting with the purchaser to provide assistance or supply names, or collecting a fee on behalf of or for a locator company;

(ii) That the seller or company will purchase any or all products made, produced, fabricated, grown, bred, or modified by the purchaser using, in whole or in part, the supplies, services, or chattels sold to the purchaser; or

(iii) That the company, in conjunction with any agreement which requires a total initial payment of an amount exceeding $500.00, will provide a sales program or marketing program; provided, however, that this subparagraph shall not apply to the sale of a sales program or a marketing program made in conjunction with the licensing of a registered trademark or service mark.

(B) The term "business opportunity" does not include:

(i) The sale of an ongoing business when the owner of that business sells and intends to sell only that one business opportunity;

(ii) Any relationship created solely by or involving:

(I) The relationship between an employer and an employee or among general business partners; or

(II) Membership in a bona fide cooperative association or transactions between bona fide cooperative associations and their members. As used in this subdivision, the term "cooperative association" means either (1) an association of producers of agricultural products organized pursuant to Article 3 of Chapter 10 of Title 2 or statutes similar thereto enacted by other states, or (2) an organization operated on a cooperative basis by and for independent retailers which wholesales goods or furnishes services primarily to its member-retailers;

(iii) Any agribusiness corporation;

(iv) Any insurance agency;

(v) Any offer or sale of a business opportunity where the seller has a net worth on a consolidated basis of not less than $15 million as determined on the basis of the seller's most recent audited financial statement; and where the seller satisfies all of the following conditions or is a wholly owned subsidiary of a company that satisfies all of the following conditions:

(I) Seller is a publicly traded company;

(II) Seller has a class of securities registered pursuant to Section 12(b) or 12(g) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and has timely filed all reports required under Sections 13 and 14 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 for a period of 36 months;

(III) Seller has not failed to pay any dividend or defaulted on any loan payment in the last five fiscal years;

(IV) Seller has an annual trading volume of stock of 3,000,000 shares or more; and

(V) Seller has an aggregate market value of the voting stock held by nonaffiliates of $100 million or more; or

(vi) A landlord, property manager, or owner who licenses or leases pushcarts or kiosks within or adjacent to a retail center containing divided retail floor space and common areas which will be used by any such licensee or lessee to sell goods or services not supplied by the landlord, property manager, or owner or any entity affiliated or associated with the landlord, property manager, or owner. For the purposes of this division, the term "pushcart" means a mobile retail unit from which goods or services are sold in the common area of a retail center, and the term "kiosk" means a temporary retail unit from which goods or services are sold in the common area of a retail center.

(3) "Business opportunity seller or company" means any corporation, whether domestic or foreign, or any business, whether a partnership, limited partnership, sole proprietorship, joint venture, association, trust, unincorporated organization, or other entity, which shall solicit, advertise, offer, or contract for any business opportunity or cause to be solicited, advertised, offered, or contracted for any business opportunity in this state, or which has a principal place of business in this state, even if solicitations are of nonresidents of Georgia.

(4) "Company" means any multilevel distribution company or business opportunity company or seller.

(5) "Initial payment" means the total amount which a purchaser or participant is obligated or agrees to pay under the terms of an agreement before or at the time of delivery of the goods or services to the purchaser or participant and which a purchaser or participant is obligated to pay within six months of the date that the purchaser or participant commences operation of the business. If the agreement states a total price and provides that the total price is to be paid partially as an initial cash payment and the remainder in specific monthly payments, the term means the total price. The term does not include any amount required by the seller to be deposited as security for the performance by a purchaser or participant of the operation of the business or that secures an extension of credit. If purchasers or participants may enter a multilevel distribution company or business opportunity at different levels, "initial payment" means the total sum the purchaser or participant is obligated to pay to enter at the level chosen by the purchaser or participant.

(6) "Multilevel distribution company" means any person, firm, corporation, or other business entity which sells, distributes, or supplies for a valuable consideration goods or services through independent agents, contractors, or distributors at different levels wherein such participants may recruit other participants and wherein commissions, cross-commissions, bonuses, refunds, discounts, dividends, or other considerations in the program are or may be paid as a result of the sale of such goods or services or the recruitment, actions, or performances of additional participants. The term shall not include licensed insurance agents, insurance agencies, licensed real estate brokers, licensed real estate agents, licensed real estate agencies, licensed securities dealers, licensed limited securities dealers, licensed securities salesmen, or licensed limited securities salesmen. Any multilevel distribution company which operates in any of the forms precluded by paragraphs (1) through (4) of subsection (a) of Code Section 10-1-411 shall be considered an unlawful pyramid club under Code Section 16-12-38.

(7) "Participant" means anyone who participates at any level in a multilevel distribution company.

(8) "Person" means any individual, corporation, partnership, joint venture, association, trust, unincorporated organization, or other entity and shall include any other person that has a substantive interest in or effectively controls such person as well as the individual officers, directors, general partners, trustees, or other individuals in control of the activities of such person.

(9) "Purchaser" means any person who is solicited to become obligated, or does become obligated, under any agreement.

(10) "Seller" means any multilevel distribution company or it means any person who offers to sell to individuals any business opportunity, either directly or through any agent.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

"Seller" includes lessors to corporations. — Term "individual", as used in paragraph (10) of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-410, may include artificial persons. Therefore, the fact that the lessee is a corporation would not preclude a finding that the lessor is a "seller" as defined in paragraph (10). Park Leasing Co. v. TWS, Inc., 206 Ga. App. 864, 426 S.E.2d 620, 1992 Ga. App. LEXIS 1817 (1992), cert. denied, No. S93C0573, 1993 Ga. LEXIS 350 (Ga. Apr. 8, 1993).

Defendant found to be "seller." — Because the defendant headed a field installation and maintenance services division of a business engaged in designing, manufacturing, and marketing electronic components and equipment for the coin operated telephone market, defendant was personally a "seller" within the meaning of paragraph (10) of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-410 in that the defendant was an individual who had a substantive interest in a corporation which offered to sell a business opportunity. Hornsby v. Phillips, 190 Ga. App. 335, 378 S.E.2d 870, 1989 Ga. App. LEXIS 231 (1989).

Officers of a limited liability company were "sellers" within the meaning of the Sale of Business Opportunities Act (SBOA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-410(10), because the officers were individuals who had a substantive interest in a multilevel distribution company or effectively controlled such company or the company's activities; accordingly, pursuant to the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-399(a), and the SBOA, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-417(b), each officer was subject to personal liability for any violation of the SBOA which he or she had committed and which was proved by a physician. Amerireach.com, LLC v. Walker, 290 Ga. 261, 719 S.E.2d 489, 2011 Ga. LEXIS 948 (2011).

Sale of franchise not a "business opportunity." — Franchiser's sale of a restaurant franchise to a franchisee did not meet the definition of a business opportunity under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-410(2)(A)(iii) because the sales and marketing program associated with the franchise system were provided to the franchisee in conjunction with the licensing of registered trademarks and service marks; thus, the Georgia Sale of Business Opportunities Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-410 et seq., did not apply to the sale. Am. Casual Dining, L.P. v. Moe's Southwest Grill, L.L.C., 426 F. Supp. 2d 1356, 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 19422 (N.D. Ga. 2006).

Statute of limitations. — General statute of limitations, providing that an action to enforce a right accruing to an individual under state statute must be brought within 20 years after the action accrues, governs a cause of action arising solely under the Sale of Business Opportunities Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-410 et seq., since the Act itself contains no statute of limitations. Hornsby v. Phillips, 190 Ga. App. 335, 378 S.E.2d 870, 1989 Ga. App. LEXIS 231 (1989).

Contractual defenses are inapplicable when an action is based not on the contract but solely on an alleged violation of the Sale of Business Opportunities Act, O.C.G.A § 10-1-410 et seq. Hornsby v. Phillips, 190 Ga. App. 335, 378 S.E.2d 870, 1989 Ga. App. LEXIS 231 (1989).

Agribusiness exemption. — Investment in cattle feeding and sales program was exempt under the agribusiness exemption in division (2)(B)(iii) of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-410. Seale v. Miller, 698 F. Supp. 883, 1988 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 11837 (N.D. Ga. 1988).

Claim sufficient against corporate officers. — Trial court erred in dismissing a physician's complaint against a health and nutrition multi-level distribution company's officers alleging violations of the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., and the Georgia Sale of Business Opportunities Act (SBOA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-410 et seq., on the ground that the court lacked personal jurisdiction because in response to requests for admissions, the company admitted that the company was a "multilevel distribution company" as defined in the SBOA, that the provisions of the SBOA, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-415, applied to any agreement made in Georgia, that the officers were founding members of the company and were officers when the physician became a marketer; the officers also admitted that the physician's cancellation rights under Georgia law were generally known to the officers, and the complaint was sufficient to state a claim against the officers. Walker v. Amerireach.com, 306 Ga. App. 658, 703 S.E.2d 100, 2010 Ga. App. LEXIS 1017 (2010), aff'd in part and rev'd in part, 290 Ga. 261, 719 S.E.2d 489, 2011 Ga. LEXIS 948 (2011), vacated in part, 313 Ga. App. 584, 722 S.E.2d 201, 2012 Ga. App. LEXIS 28 (2012).

(a) No multilevel distribution company or participant in its marketing program shall:

(1) Operate or, directly or indirectly, participate in the operation of any multilevel marketing program wherein the financial gains to the participants are primarily dependent upon the continued, successive recruitment of other participants and where sales to nonparticipants are not required as a condition precedent to realization of such financial gains;

(2) Offer to pay, pay, or authorize the payment of any finder's fee, bonus, refund, override, commission, cross-commission, dividend, or other consideration to any participant in a multilevel marketing program solely for the solicitation or recruitment of other participants therein;

(3) Offer to pay, pay, or authorize the payment of any finder's fee, bonus, refund, override, commission, cross-commission, dividend, or other consideration to any participant in a multilevel marketing program in connection with the sale of any product or service unless the participant performs a bona fide supervisory, distributive, selling, or soliciting function in the sale or delivery of such product or services to the ultimate consumer;

(4) Offer to pay, pay, or authorize the payment of any finder's fee, bonus, refund, override, commission, cross-commission, dividend, or other consideration to any participant:

(A) Where payment thereof is or would be dependent on the element of chance dominating over the skill or judgment of such participant;

(B) Where no amount of judgment or skill exercised by the participant has any appreciable effect upon any finder's fee, bonus, refund, override, commission, cross-commission, dividend, or other consideration which the participant may receive; or

(C) Where the participant is without that degree of control over the operation of such plan as to enable him substantially to affect the amount of finder's fee, bonus, refund, override, commission, cross-commission, dividend, or other consideration which he may receive or be entitled to receive; or

(5) Represent, directly or by implication, that participants in a multilevel marketing program will earn or receive any stated gross or net amount or represent in any manner the past earnings of participants except as may be permitted under this part; provided, however, that a written or verbal description of the manner in which the marketing plan operates shall not, standing alone, constitute a representation of earnings, past or future. 10-1-412. When bond or trust account required; escrow account required.

(a) Any business opportunity seller or company which represents, in conjunction with any agreement which requires a total initial payment of an amount exceeding $500.00, that the seller or company will refund all or part of the price paid for the business opportunity or will repurchase any of the products, equipment, supplies, or chattels supplied by the seller or company if the purchaser is dissatisfied with the business opportunity and any multilevel distribution company must either have obtained a surety bond issued by a surety company authorized to do business in this state or have established a trust account with a licensed and insured bank or savings institution located in this state. For purposes of this subsection, deposits shall not be considered part of the price paid for the business opportunity. The amount of the bond or trust account shall be an amount not less than $75,000.00. The bond or trust account shall be in favor of the state for the benefit of any person who is damaged by any violation of this part or by the seller's or company's breach of the contract or agreement or of any obligation arising therefrom. Such person may bring an action against the bond or trust account to recover damages suffered; provided, however, that the aggregate liability of the surety or trustee shall be only for actual damages and in no event shall exceed the amount of the bond or trust account. A multilevel distribution company which requires an initial payment of less than $500.00 from each participant shall be exempt from the requirements of this Code section.

(b) In any sale of a business opportunity, the seller shall collect no more than 15 percent of the total purchase price, with the balance to be placed in an independent escrow account agreed upon by both parties. The balance in the escrow account shall be paid to the seller 60 days after the date the purchaser commences operation of the business or upon complete compliance with the terms of the contract, whichever happens first.

(1) The name and principal business address of the company; whether the company is doing business as a proprietorship, partnership, or corporation; the names under which the company has done, is doing, or intends to do business; and the name of any parent or affiliated company that will engage in business transactions with participants;

10-1-413 as often as any material change in the required information occurs, but not less than annually.

(c) Whenever a multilevel distribution company must provide the disclosure statement required by subsection (a) of this Code section, the multilevel distribution company, prior to obtaining any participant, shall provide that participant with an 8 ½ inch by 11 inch document in at least ten-point type, which reads as follows:

"NOTICE REQUIRED BY STATE LAW REGARDING DISCLOSURES

If you waive these rights, you are giving up an important consumer protection that the State of Georgia has found you should be provided. If you wish to exercise these rights, please indicate below that you want to see the disclosures before agreeing to be a participant, then do not agree to become a participant until the disclosures have been made available to you.

SIGN ONLY ONE OF THE FOLLOWING STATEMENTS:

I wish to see the disclosures required by law before I agree to become a participant. _____

Date: _____

I do not wish to see the disclosures required by law; I understand that I will not be seeing important information which might affect my decision to participate in this multilevel distribution company. _____

(3) Whether he or she is currently subject to any state or federal agency or court injunctive or restrictive order or is a party to a proceeding currently pending in which such an order is sought relating to fraud, including violation of any franchise law, unfair or deceptive acts or practices law, business opportunity law, multilevel distributing law, or pyramid law; embezzlement; fraudulent conversion; misappropriation of property; or restraint of trade; and

(4) Whether he or she has at any time during the previous seven fiscal years filed in bankruptcy, been adjudged bankrupt, or been reorganized due to insolvency or has been a principal, director, executive officer, or partner of any other person that has so filed or was so adjudged or reorganized during or within one year after the period that such person held such position in such other person.

10-1-414. Prohibited acts by sellers.

Sellers shall not:

(1) Represent that a business opportunity or multilevel program provides income or earning potential of any kind unless the seller has documented data to substantiate the claims of income or earning potential, which data shall be furnished to the Attorney General or his or her representatives upon request;

(2) Use the trademark, service mark, trade name, logotype, advertising, or other commercial symbol of any business which does not either control the ownership interest in the seller or accept responsibility for all representations made by the seller unless it is clear from the circumstances that the owner of the commercial symbol is not involved in the business opportunity or multilevel distribution company; or

(3) Make or authorize the making of any reference to its compliance with this part in any advertisement or other contract with purchasers or participants or in any manner represent, explicitly or implicitly, that the State of Georgia or any department, agency, officer, or employee has reviewed, approved, sanctioned, or endorsed a business opportunity or multilevel program.

10-1-415. Written contract required; delivery of copy; required provisions; cancellation rights.

(a) Every business opportunity or multilevel distribution contract shall be in writing, and a copy shall be given to the purchaser or participant at the time he or she signs the contract.

(b) Every contract or any material incorporated therein by reference shall include the following:

(1) The terms and conditions of payment, including but not limited to compensation paid to a participant by the company and any payments to be made by the participant to the company within the first six months of the agreement;

(2) A full and detailed description of the acts or services that the seller undertakes to perform for the purchaser or participant, including a specific description of the product or service being marketed;

(3) The seller's principal business address. For purposes of this paragraph, a post office box shall not be considered a principal place of business; and

(4) The approximate delivery date of any products, equipment, supplies, or services that the seller is to deliver to the purchaser or participant.

(c) In addition to the information required in subsection (b) of this Code section, every multilevel distribution contract, or an addendum thereto, shall contain the following:

(1) If training of any type is promised by the seller or company, a complete description of the training and the length of the training;

(2) If a bond is required under Code Section 10-1-412, the following statement, with all blanks properly filled:

> "As required by Georgia law, the company has secured a bond or established a trust account for your protection. This bond or trust account can be identified as # _____ in the name of _____, provided by the following bonding company or trust company: _____, which is located at the following address: _____ in the City of _____, State of _____.";

(3) A participant in a multilevel marketing plan has a right to cancel at any time, regardless of reason. If a participant will be under an obligation to make any payment after the agreement has been entered into, a statement in ten-point boldface type as follows must appear in the contract or an addendum thereto:

> "A participant in this multilevel marketing plan has a right to cancel at any time, regardless of reason. Cancellation must be submitted in writing to the company at its principal business address."; and

(4) A description of any cancellation rights.

(d) Cancellation rights pursuant to paragraph (4) of subsection (c) of this Code section must, at a minimum, provide the following:

(1) If the participant has purchased products or paid for administrative services while the contract of participation was in effect, the seller shall repurchase all unencumbered products, sales aids, literature, and promotional items which are in a reasonably resalable or reusable condition and which were acquired by the participant from the seller; such repurchase shall be at a price not less than 90 percent of the original net cost to the participant of the goods being returned.

For purposes of this paragraph, "original net cost" means the amount actually paid by the participant for the goods, less any consideration received by the participant for purchase of the goods which is attributable to the specific goods now being returned. Goods shall be deemed "resalable or reusable" if the goods are in an unused, commercially resalable condition at the time the goods are returned to the seller. Goods which are no longer marketed by a company shall be deemed "resalable or reusable" if the goods are in an unused, commercially resalable condition and are returned to the seller within one year from the date the company discontinued marketing the goods; provided, however, that goods which are no longer marketed by a multilevel distribution company shall not be deemed "resalable or reusable" if the goods are sold to participants as nonreturnable, discontinued, or seasonal items and the nonreturnable, discontinued, or seasonal nature of the goods was clearly disclosed to the participant seeking to return the goods prior to the purchase of the goods by the participant. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in this paragraph, a multilevel distribution company may not assert that any more than 15 percent of its total yearly sales per calendar year to participants in dollars are from nonreturnable, discontinued, or seasonal items;

(2) The repayment of all administrative fees or consideration paid for other services shall be at not less than 90 percent of the costs to the participant of such fees or services and shall reflect all other administrative services that have not, at the time of termination, been provided to the participant; and

(3) The participant may be held responsible for all shipping expenses incurred in returning sales aids or products to the company but only if such responsibility of a canceling participant is disclosed in the written description of the cancellation rights.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Cancellation of multi-level distribution agreement. — Trial court erred in dismissing a physician's complaint against a health and nutrition multi-level distribution company's officers alleging violations of the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., and the Georgia Sale of Business Opportunities Act (SBOA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-410 et seq., on the ground that the court lacked personal jurisdiction because in response to requests for admissions, the company admitted that the company was a "multilevel distribution company" as defined in the SBOA, that the provisions of the SBOA, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-415(c)(4), applied to any agreement made in Georgia, that the officers were founding members of the company and were officers when the physician became a marketer; the officers also admitted that the physician's cancellation rights under Georgia law were generally known to the officers. Walker v. Amerireach.com, 306 Ga. App. 658, 703 S.E.2d 100, 2010 Ga. App. LEXIS 1017 (2010), aff'd in part and rev'd in part, 290 Ga. 261, 719 S.E.2d 489, 2011 Ga. LEXIS 948 (2011), vacated in part, 313 Ga. App. 584, 722 S.E.2d 201, 2012 Ga. App. LEXIS 28 (2012).

Summary judgment improper. — Trial court erred in holding that a physician failed to allege that the physician sustained damages due to the failure of a health and nutrition multi-level distribution company to inform the physician of the physician's buy-back rights under the Georgia Sale of Business Opportunities Act (SBOA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-410 et seq., because the physician presented sufficient evidence of reliance and damages to withstand a motion for summary judgment since the physician alleged that the physician relied on the company to disclose the physician's rights under Georgia law and that the company refused to comply with the product repurchase requirements of the SBOA, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-415(d)(1); the company's contract clause providing that state laws on termination applied if the laws were inconsistent with the contract was insufficient to constitute compliance with O.C.G.A. § 10-1-415(c)(3), and whether the company gave proper "notice" to the physician that the company amended the company's online policies and procedures to comply with Georgia law and whether the physician should have asserted the physician's legal rights earlier were genuine issues of material fact for a jury to decide. Walker v. Amerireach.com, 306 Ga. App. 658, 703 S.E.2d 100, 2010 Ga. App. LEXIS 1017 (2010), aff'd in part and rev'd in part, 290 Ga. 261, 719 S.E.2d 489, 2011 Ga. LEXIS 948 (2011), vacated in part, 313 Ga. App. 584, 722 S.E.2d 201, 2012 Ga. App. LEXIS 28 (2012).

Contractual defense of forum selection clause did not apply. — Trial court erred in granting summary judgment in favor of a health and nutrition multi-level distribution company in a physician's action alleging violations of the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act (FBPA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., and the Georgia Sale of Business Opportunities Act (SBOA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-410 et seq., because the physician's claims were not res judicata based on a default judgment entered in favor of the company in a Texas court, and since the four corners of the physician's complaint reveal that the physician's claims were not based on breach of contract but were based on violation of the SBOA, the contractual defense of a forum selection clause did not apply; FBPA claims are not contract claims. Walker v. Amerireach.com, 306 Ga. App. 658, 703 S.E.2d 100, 2010 Ga. App. LEXIS 1017 (2010), aff'd in part and rev'd in part, 290 Ga. 261, 719 S.E.2d 489, 2011 Ga. Jurisdiction over corporate officers in action alleging violations of the Georgia Sale of Opportunities Act. — Court of appeals did not err in ruling that a trial court had personal jurisdiction over the officers of a limited liability company (LLC) in a physician's action alleging that the officers violated the Sale of Business Opportunities Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-415(d)(1), because the allegations of a physician's complaint were sufficient to withstand the attack on the trial court's jurisdiction over the officers on the ground that the officers acted in the officers' corporate capacities; the "fiduciary shield" doctrine did not apply, and the allegations in the complaint supported a finding that the officers were "primary participants" in the LLC's transaction of business within the state, that the cause of action arose from or was connected with such act or transaction, and that the "minimum contacts" test was therefore met. Amerireach.com, LLC v. Walker, 290 Ga. 261, 719 S.E.2d 489, 2011 Ga. LEXIS 948 (2011).

10-1-416. Appointment of Secretary of State as agent for service of process.

(a) Each seller numbering among its participants or purchasers any resident of this state, which has agreements made in this state, or which has its principal place of business in this state, shall irrevocably appoint the Secretary of State of this state as its agent for service of process for any alleged violation of this part and shall pay a $10.00 filing fee. Compliance with this Code section shall not in and of itself subject any seller to the provisions or consequences of any other statute of this state.

(b) Any seller which numbers among its participants or purchasers any resident of this state, which has agreements made in this state, or which has its principal place of business in this state, and which fails to comply with subsection (a) of this Code section shall be deemed to have thereby irrevocably appointed the Secretary of State as its agent for service of process for any alleged violation of this part.

(c) Service shall be made by delivering to and leaving with the Secretary of State duplicate copies of such process, notice, or demand, together with an affidavit giving the last known post office address of such seller; and such service shall be sufficient if notice thereof and a copy of the process, notice, or demand are forwarded by registered mail or certified mail or statutory overnight delivery addressed to such seller at the address given in such affidavit.

10-1-417. Purchaser and participant remedies; violations as unfair or deceptive acts; penalty.

(a) If a business opportunity seller or multilevel distribution company uses any untrue or misleading statements; or fails to comply with Code Section 10-1-411; or fails to deliver the equipment, supplies, or products necessary to begin substantial operation within 45 days of the delivery date stated in the contract; or if the business opportunity seller or multilevel distribution company does not comply with the requirements of Code Sections 10-1-410 through 10-1-416, then, within one year of the date of the contract, upon written notice to the seller, the purchaser or participant may void the contract and shall be entitled to receive from the seller all sums paid to the seller. Upon receipt of such sums, the purchaser or participant shall make available to the seller at the purchaser's or participant's address or at the places at which they are located at the time notice is given, all products, equipment, or supplies received by the purchaser or participant. However, the purchaser or participant shall not be entitled to unjust enrichment by exercising the remedies provided for in this subsection.

(b) The violation of any provision of this part shall constitute an unfair or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of a consumer act or practice or consumer transactions under Part 2 of this article, the "Fair Business Practices Act of 1975," and shall authorize an affected participant or purchaser to seek the remedies provided for in Code Section 10-1-399 and in subsection (a) of Code Section 10-1-417.

(c) Nothing contained in this part shall be construed to limit, modify, or repeal any provisions of Chapter 5 of this title, the "Georgia Uniform Securities Act of 2008," including, but not limited to, the definition of the term "security" as contained in paragraph (31) of Code Section 10-5-2.

(d) Any person who fails to comply with this part shall be guilty of a misdemeanor of a high and aggravated nature. In addition thereto, if the violator is a corporation, each of its officers and directors may be subjected to a like penalty; and, if the violator is a sole proprietorship, the owner thereof may be subjected to a like penalty; and, if the violator is a partnership, each of the partners may be subjected to a like penalty, provided that no person shall be subjected to a like penalty if the person did not have actual knowledge of the acts violating this part.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Remedies dependent on written notice. — Statutory right to rescind the transaction and recover the investment that is derived from the Sale of Business Opportunities Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-410 et seq., is not available to a plaintiff who has not notified the seller of the exercise of that right within one year. League v. U.S. Postamatic, Inc., 235 Ga. App. 171, 508 S.E.2d 210, 1998 Ga. App. LEXIS 1374 (1998), cert. denied, No. S99C0342, 1999 Ga. LEXIS 226 (Ga. Feb. 26, 1999).

Jurisdiction over corporate officers in action alleging violations of the Georgia Sale of Opportunities Act. — Court of appeals did not err in ruling that a trial court had personal jurisdiction over the officers of a limited liability company (LLC) in a physician's action alleging that the officers violated the Sale of Business Opportunities Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-415(d)(1), because the allegations of a physician's complaint were sufficient to withstand the attack on the trial court's jurisdiction over the officers on the ground that the officers acted in the officers' corporate capacities; the "fiduciary shield" doctrine did not apply, and the allegations in the complaint supported a finding that the officers were "primary participants" in the LLC's transaction of business within the state, that the cause of action arose from or was connected with such act or transaction, and that the "minimum contacts" test was therefore met. Amerireach.com, LLC v. Walker, 290 Ga. 261, 719 S.E.2d 489, 2011 Ga. LEXIS 948 (2011).

Corporate officers personally liable. — Officers of a limited liability company were "sellers" within the meaning of the Sale of Business Opportunities Act (SBOA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-410(10), because the sellers were individuals who had a substantive interest in a multilevel distribution company or effectively controlled such company or the company's activities; accordingly, pursuant to the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-399(a), and the SBOA, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-417(b), each officer was subject to personal liability for any violation of the SBOA which he or she had committed and which was proved by a physician. 10-1-424.1. False solicitations regarding legal services prohibited; required rules and regulations concerning legal services solicitations; civil penalties.

(a) As used in this Code section, the term:

(1) "Duly licensed attorney at law" means a person authorized to provide legal services in this state.

(2) "Legal services" means acts recited in Code Section 15-19-50 and in subsection (a) of Code Section 15-19-51.

(3) "Media" means any publication, including, but not limited to, any radio or television advertising device, public outcry, proclamation, internet search engine advertisement, or any other such manner or means of public outreach.

(4) "Solicit" means actions taken directly or indirectly to perform or to do anything of any nature whatsoever to induce the public to enter into any obligation relating thereto.

(b) It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, association, or corporation to solicit in any media regarding the provision of legal services by:

(1) Misrepresenting the true nature of its business by use of the words "legal services," "practice of law," "law firm," "attorney," "attorney at law," "lawyer," or equivalent terms in any language in such manner as to convey the impression that such person, firm, association, or corporation is entitled to practice law or is entitled to furnish legal advice, services, or counsel;

(2) Representing itself as providing legal services or use the words "practice of law," "law firm," "attorney," "attorney at law," "lawyer," or equivalent terms in any language in such manner as to convey the impression that such person, firm, association, or corporation is entitled to practice law or is entitled to furnish legal advice, services, or counsel, unless such person is a duly licensed attorney at law;

(3) Representing that any person featured in media for legal services is licensed to practice law in this state when such person in such media is not a duly licensed attorney at law, even if such representation is made by a person featured in such media, who is not a duly licensed attorney at law, employs a person who is a duly licensed attorney at law; or

(4) Otherwise failing to disclose or otherwise provide qualifying language that accurately reflects the legal services, abilities, practice areas, scope of work, success rate, claim or case management and oversight, or fees of a person.

(c) The State Bar of Georgia shall promulgate rules and regulations relative to soliciting in any media regarding the provision of legal services. Such rules and regulations shall include, but shall not be limited to, the following:

(1) Prohibitions against and penalties for false representations, misrepresentations, and misleading claims covered by this Code section;

(3) A prohibition against depicting an individual who is not employed by the soliciting person, firm, association, or corporation as being so employed or in such a manner that a reasonable person could believe such individual is so employed; provided, however, that such prohibition shall not apply to depictions of individuals who are immediate family members of the soliciting person or immediate family members of individuals employed by the soliciting firm, association, or corporation;

(4) A prohibition against depicting an individual who is not a client of the soliciting person, firm, association, or corporation as being such a client or in such a manner that a reasonable person could believe such individual is such a client; provided, however, that such prohibition shall not preclude sponsorships with local organizations or the depictions of such sponsorships by the soliciting person, firm, association, or corporation; and

(5) A requirement that disclosures provided for in such rules and regulations shall comprise no less than 10 percent of the total composition of the solicitation.

(d)(1) The State Bar of Georgia, any member of the State Bar of Georgia in good standing, such member's firm, association, or corporation, or any individual who sees or hears a solicitation that violates this Code section or any rule or regulation of the State Bar of Georgia promulgated pursuant to this Code section, shall have a cause of action against the soliciting person, firm, association, or corporation for violating this Code section or any rule or regulation of the State Bar of Georgia promulgated pursuant to this Code section.

(B) Omit a fact or law resulting in the information conveyed being a material misrepresentation or unsubstantiated;

(i) Formulate erroneous conclusions:

(I) About the legal services, abilities, practice areas, scope of work, success rate, claim or case management and oversight, or fees of a duly licensed attorney at law;

(II) Regarding comparing a duly licensed attorney at law to another or similarly situated duly licensed attorney at law; or

(III) To take action to preserve such person's rights or claims when, in fact, no action is required; or

Anti-SLAPP suit involving lawyer placed ad challenging nursing home standards. — In a suit involving ads placed by a lawyer challenging nursing home standards, the Supreme Court of Georgia held that the trial court overlooked certain preliminary questions as the court did not properly apply the required two step analysis under the anti-SLAPP statute, O.C.G.A. § 9-11-11.1, with respect to the plaintiffs' claims as there was no discussion or analysis of whether the plaintiffs had stated and substantiated a legally sufficient claim for the violations of the statutes. Part 5

Limited Edition Art Reproductions

10-1-430. Definitions.

As used in this part, the term:

(1) "Art dealer" means a person who is in the business of dealing exclusively or nonexclusively in fine art multiples, a person who by his occupation holds himself out as having knowledge or skill peculiar to fine art multiples or persons to whom that knowledge or skill may be attributed by his employment of an agent or other intermediary who by his occupation holds himself out as having that knowledge or skill, or an auctioneer who sells fine art multiples at public auction. The term shall not include consignors or principals of auctioneers unless such consignors or principals are otherwise specifically defined as art dealers by this paragraph.

(2) "Artist" means the person who created the image which is contained in or constitutes the master or who conceived of and approved the image which is contained in or constitutes the master.

(3) "Fine art multiple" or "multiple" means any print, positive or negative photograph, or similar art object produced in more than one copy. The term includes pages or sheets taken from books or magazines but shall not include books or magazines.

(4) "Limited edition" means fine art multiples produced from a master all of which are the same image and which bear numbers or other markings to denote the limited production thereof to a stated maximum number of multiples or which are otherwise held out as limited to a maximum number of multiples.

(5) "Master" means a printing plate, stone, block, screen, photographic negative, or other device which contains an image and is used to produce fine art objects in multiples.

(6) "Person" means an individual, partnership, corporation, association, or other entity.

(7) "Print" means a multiple produced by, but not limited to, engraving, etching, woodcutting, lithography, and serigraphy and a multiple produced or developed from photographic negatives.

(8) "Proofs" means multiples which are the same as and which are produced in a limited edition from the same master as the multiples but which, whether so designated or not, are set aside from and are in addition to the limited edition to which they relate.

(9) "Signed" means autographed by the artist's own hand, and not by mechanical means of reproduction, after the multiple is produced.

(10) "Written instrument" means a written or printed agreement, bill of sale, invoice, certificate of authenticity, catalogue, note, memorandum, or label describing a multiple which is to be sold, exchanged, or consigned by an art dealer.

History.

10-1-431. Requirements relating to the advertisement and sale of multiples.

(a) An art dealer shall not sell or consign a multiple in, into, or out of this state unless a written instrument is furnished to the purchaser or consignee prior to the sale or consignment which sets forth as to each multiple the descriptive information required by Code Section 10-1-432. If a prospective purchaser so requests, the information shall be transmitted to him prior to the payment or placing of an order for a multiple. If payment is made by a purchaser prior to delivery of such a multiple, this information shall be supplied at the time of or prior to delivery. With respect to auctions, this information may be furnished in catalogues or other written materials which are made readily available for consultation and purchase prior to sale, provided that a bill of sale, receipt, or invoice describing the transaction is then provided which makes reference to the catalogue and lot number in which this information is supplied. Information supplied pursuant to this subsection shall be clearly, specifically, and distinctly addressed to each of the items listed in Code Section 10-1-432 unless the required data is not applicable. This Code section is applicable to transactions by and between art dealers and others considered to be art dealers for the purposes of this part.

(b)(1) An art dealer shall not cause a catalogue, prospectus, flyer, or other written material or advertisement to be distributed in, into, or from this state which solicits a direct sale, by inviting transmittal of payment for a specific multiple, unless it clearly sets forth, in close physical proximity to the place in such material where the multiple is described, the descriptive information required by Code Section 10-1-432. In lieu of this required information, the written material or advertising may set forth the material contained in the following quoted passage, or the passage itself, if the art dealer then supplies the required information prior to or with delivery of the multiple. The nonobservance of the terms within the following passage shall constitute a violation of this part:

"Georgia law provides for disclosure in writing of information concerning certain fine prints and photographs prior to effecting a sale of them. This law requires disclosure of such matters as the identity of the artist, the artist's signature, the medium, whether the multiple is a reproduction, the time when the multiple was produced, use of the plate which produced the multiple, and the number of multiples in a 'limited edition.' If a prospective purchaser so requests, the information shall be transmitted to him prior to payment or the placing of an order for a multiple. If payment is made by a purchaser prior to delivery of the multiple, this information will be supplied at the time of or prior to delivery, in which case the purchaser is entitled to a refund if, for reasons related to matter contained in such information, he returns the multiple in the condition in which received within 30 days of receiving it. In addition, if after payment and delivery, it is ascertained that the information provided is incorrect, the purchaser may be entitled to certain remedies, including refund upon return of the multiple in the condition in which received."

(2) This requirement is not applicable to general written material or advertising which does not constitute an offer to effect a specific sale.

(c) In each place of business in the state where an art dealer is regularly engaged in sales of multiples, the art dealer shall post in a conspicuous place, a sign which, in a legible format, contains the information included in the following passage:

"Georgia law provides for the disclosure in writing of certain information concerning prints and photographs. This information is available to you, and you may request to receive it prior to purchase."

(d) If an art dealer offering multiples by means of a catalogue, prospectus, flyer, or other written material or advertisement distributed in, into, or from this state disclaims knowledge as to any relevant detail referred to in Code Section 10-1-432, he shall so state specifically and categorically with regard to each such detail to the end that the purchaser shall be able to judge the degree of uniqueness or scarcity of each multiple contained in the edition so offered. Describing the edition as an edition of "reproductions" eliminates the need to furnish further informational details unless the edition was allegedly published in a signed, numbered, or limited edition, or any combination thereof, in which case all of the informational details are required to be furnished.

(e) Whenever an artist sells or consigns a multiple of his own creation or conception, the artist shall disclose the information required by Code Section 10-1-432, but an artist shall not otherwise be regarded as an art dealer.

History.

10-1-432. Information to be disclosed.

(a) Except as provided in subsections (c), (d), and (e) of this Code section, the following information shall be provided as required by Code Section 10-1-431:

(1) The name of the artist;

(2) If the artist's name appears on the multiple, a statement whether the multiple was signed by the artist; or if the multiple was not signed by the artist, a statement of the source of the artist's name on the multiple, such as whether the artist placed his signature on the multiple or on the master, whether his name was stamped or estate stamped on the multiple or on the master, or was from some other source or in some other manner placed on the multiple or on the master;

(3) A description of the medium or process, and where pertinent to photographic processes, the material used in producing the multiple, such as whether the multiple was produced through the etching, engraving, lithographic, serigraphic, or a particular method or material used in photographic developing processes. If an established term, in accordance with the usage of the trade, cannot be employed accurately to describe the medium or process, a brief, clear description shall be made;

(4) If the multiple or the image on or in the master constitutes a photomechanical or photographic type of reproduction of an image produced in a different medium, for a purpose other than the creation of the multiple being described, a statement of this information and the respective mediums;

(5) If paragraph (4) of this subsection is applicable, and the multiple is not signed, a statement whether the artist authorized or approved in writing the multiple or the edition of which the multiple being described is one;

(6) If the purported artist was deceased at the time the master was made which produced the multiple, this shall be stated;

(7) If the multiple is a "posthumous" multiple, that is, if the master was created during the life of the artist but the multiple was produced after the artist's death, this shall be stated;

(8) If the multiple was made from a master which produced a prior limited edition, or from a master which constitutes or was made from a reproduction of a prior multiple or the master which produced the prior limited edition, this shall be stated as shall the total number of multiples, including proofs, of all other editions produced from that master;

(9) As to multiples produced after 1949, the year or approximate year the multiple was produced shall be stated. As to multiples produced prior to 1950, state the year, approximate year, or period when the master was made which produced the multiple and when the particular multiple being described was produced. The requirements of this paragraph shall be satisfied when the year stated is approximately accurate;

(10) Whether the edition is being offered as a limited edition, and if so the authorized maximum number of signed or numbered impressions, or both, in the edition; the authorized maximum number of unsigned or unnumbered impressions, or both, in the edition; the authorized maximum number of artist's, publisher's, or other proofs, if any, outside of the regular edition; and the total size of the edition; and

(11) Whether or not the master has been destroyed, effaced, altered, defaced, or canceled after the current edition.

(b) If the multiple is part of a limited edition and was printed after July 1, 1986, the statement of the size of the limited edition, as stated pursuant to paragraph (10) of subsection (a) of this Code section, shall also constitute an express warranty that no additional multiples of the same image, including proofs, have been produced in this or in any other limited edition.

(c) If the multiple was produced in the period from 1950 to July 1, 1986, the information required to be supplied need not include the information required by paragraphs (5) and (8) of subsection (a) of this Code section.

(d) If the multiple was produced in the period from 1900 to 1949, the information required to be supplied need only consist of the information required by paragraphs (1), (2), (3), and (9) of subsection (a) of this Code section.

(e) If the multiple was produced before the year 1900, the information to be supplied need only consist of the information required by paragraphs (1), (3), and (9) of subsection (a) of this Code section.

History.
Code 1981, § 10-1-432, enacted by Ga. L. 1986, p. 635, § 1; Ga. L. 1992, p. 6, § 10.

10-1-433. Warranties.

(a)(1) Except as provided in paragraph (2) of this subsection, whenever an art dealer furnishes information as required by Code Section 10-1-432, such information shall be a part of the basis of the bargain and shall create express warranties as to the information provided. Such warranties shall not be negated or limited because the art dealer in the written instrument did not use formal words such as "warrant" or "guarantee" or because the art dealer did not have a specific intention or authorization to make a warranty or because any required statement is or purports to be the art dealer's opinion. The existence of a basis in fact for information warranted by virtue of this subsection shall not be a defense in an action to enforce such warranty.

(2) With respect to photographic multiples produced prior to 1950 and other multiples produced prior to 1900, the information required by paragraph (3) of subsection (a) of Code Section 10-1-432 shall be deemed to be correct if a reasonable basis in fact exists for the information provided.

(b) When information is not supplied, this shall constitute the express warrant that such information is not required to be disclosed.

(c) Whenever an art dealer disclaims knowledge as to a particular item about which information is required, such disclaimer shall be ineffective unless clearly, specifically, and categorically stated as to the particular item and contained in the physical context of other language setting forth the required information as to a specific multiple.

History.

10-1-434. Remedies not exclusive.

(a) The rights, liabilities, and remedies created by this part shall be construed to be in addition to and not in substitution, exclusion, or displacement of other rights, liabilities, and remedies provided by law.

(b) Whenever an artist sells or consigns a multiple of his own creation, the artist shall incur the obligations prescribed by this part for an art dealer.

(c) An artist or merchant who consigns a multiple to an art dealer for the purpose of effecting a sale of the multiple shall have no liability to a purchaser under this part if such consignor, as to the consignee, has complied with the provisions of this part.

(d) When an art dealer has agreed to sell a multiple on behalf of a consignor who is not an art dealer or when an artist has not consigned a multiple to an art dealer, but the art dealer has agreed to act as the agent for an artist for the purpose of supplying the information required by this part, such art dealer shall incur the liabilities of other art dealers prescribed by this part as to a purchaser.

(e) When an art dealer is liable to a purchaser pursuant to the provisions of this part, as a result of providing information in the situations referred to in this Code section, as well as when such an art dealer purchased such a multiple from another art dealer, if the art dealer can establish that his liability results from incorrect information which was provided by the consignor, artist, or art dealer to him in writing, and the art dealer who is liable in good faith relied on such information, the consignor, artist, or art dealer shall similarly incur such liabilities as to the purchaser and such art dealer.

History.

10-1-435. Civil remedies for violations.

(a) An art dealer, including a dealer consignee, who offers or sells a multiple in, into, or from this state without providing the information required in Code Sections 10-1-431 and 10-1-432 or who provides information which is mistaken, erroneous, or untrue, except for harmless errors such as typographical errors, shall be liable to the purchaser of the multiple. The art dealer's liability shall consist of the consideration paid by the purchaser for the multiple, with interest at the legal rate thereon, upon the return of the multiple in the condition in which received by the purchaser.

(b) In any case in which an art dealer, including a dealer consignee, willfully offers or sells a multiple in violation of this part, the person purchasing such multiple may recover from the art dealer, including a dealer consignee, who offers or sells such multiple an amount equal to three times the amount required under subsection (a) of this Code section.

(c) No action shall be maintained to enforce any liability under this Code section unless brought within one year after discovery of the violation upon which it is based and in no event more than three years after the multiple was sold.

(d) In any action to enforce any provision of this part, the court may allow the prevailing purchaser the costs of the action together with reasonable attorneys' and expert witnesses' fees. In the event, however, the court determines that an action to enforce was brought in bad faith, it may allow such expenses to the seller as it deems appropriate.

(e) These remedies shall not bar or be deemed inconsistent with a claim for damages or with the exercise of additional remedies otherwise available to the purchaser.

(f) In any proceeding in which an art dealer relies upon a disclaimer of knowledge as to any relevant information set forth in Code Section 10-1-432 for any time period, such disclaimer shall be effective unless the claimant is able to establish that the art dealer failed to make reasonable inquiries, according to the custom and usage of the trade, to ascertain the relevant information or that such relevant information would have been ascertained as a result of such reasonable inquiries.

History.

10-1-436. Civil penalties; injunctions.

(a) Whenever the Attorney General or any district attorney has reason to believe that any person is violating any provision of this part, he may bring an action against such person to restrain or enjoin continued violations. With the exception of consent judgments entered before any testimony is taken, a final judgment under this Code section is admissible as prima-facie evidence of such specific findings of fact as may be made by the court which enters the judgment in subsequent proceedings by or against the same person or his successors or assigns.

(b) Any person who violates any provision of this part may be liable for a civil penalty not to exceed $500.00 for each violation. Such penalty may be assessed and recovered in a civil action brought by the Attorney General or any district attorney.

History.

10-1-437. Exemptions.

(a) This part shall not apply to any fine art multiple when offered for sale or sold at wholesale or retail for $100.00 or less, exclusive of any frame.

(b) Any charitable organization which conducts a sale or auction of fine art multiples shall be exempt from the disclosure requirements of this part if it posts in a conspicuous place, at the site of the sale or auction, a disclaimer of any knowledge of the information specified in Code Section 10-1-432 and includes such a disclaimer in a catalogue, if any, distributed by the organization with respect to the sale or auction of fine art multiples. (a) An aggrieved food service establishment alleging a third-party delivery service is in violation of this part may seek judicial enforcement of the requirements of this part in an action brought against such service in the county in which the violation occurred. The following civil penalties shall be imposed for a violation of this part: for the first violation, $1,000.00; for the second violation, $2,000.00; and for a third and any subsequent violation, $10,000.00.

(b) In addition to the penalties provided for in subsection (a) of this Code section, an aggrieved food service establishment may bring an action to enjoin a third-party delivery service's violation of this part. If the court finds a violation of this part, the court shall issue an injunction against such service and may require such service to pay the injured establishment all profits derived from or damages resulting from the wrongful acts; provided, however, that, if the court finds that such service committed a wrongful act in bad faith, in the court's discretion, the court shall enter a judgment in an amount not to exceed three times the amount of profits derived and damages resulting from such wrongful acts and award reasonable attorney's fees to such establishment.

10-1-440. Definitions; when trademark or service mark deemed used in state.

(a) As used in this part, the term:

(1) "Applicant" means the person filing an application for registration of a trademark or service mark under this part and the legal representatives, successors, or assigns of the person filing an application for registration of a trademark or service mark under this part.

(2) "Person" means any individual, firm, partnership, corporation, association, union, or other organization.

(3) "Registrant" means the person to whom the registration of a trademark or service mark under this part is issued and the legal representatives, successors, or assigns of the person to whom the registration of a trademark or service mark under this part is issued.

(4) "Service mark" means any word, name, symbol, or device or any combination thereof adopted and used by a person to identify the services of one person and to distinguish them from the services of others.

(5) "Trademark" means any word, name, symbol, or device or any combination thereof adopted and used by a person to identify goods made or sold by him and to distinguish them from goods made or sold by others.

(b) For the purposes of this part, a trademark shall be deemed to be "used" in this state when it is placed in any manner on the goods or their containers or on the tags or labels affixed thereto and such goods are sold or otherwise distributed in this state.

(c) For the purposes of this part, a service mark shall be deemed to be "used" in this state when it is used to identify the services of one person and to distinguish them from the services of others and such services are sold or otherwise rendered in this state.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

"Trademark" distinguished from "trade name". — Provisions of the law restrict the meaning and function of a trademark to the identification of goods and their manufacturer. However, a trade name primarily identifies the owner or operator of a business and may also be used to identify the goods handled by such owner. Gordy v. Dunwody, 209 Ga. 627, 74 S.E.2d 886, 1953 Ga. LEXIS 351 (1953) (commented on in 17 Ga. B.J. 395 (1955)).

Bona fide use of trademark required to make infringement claim. — Trial court did not err in granting the Georgia Lottery Corporation (GLC) and a company summary judgment in trademark holders' action alleging trademark infringement because Georgia law did not authorize the holders' claims against GLC since the latter used the logo first and extensively on a series of lottery games over ten years when the holders' efforts to market their game were a conspicuous failure, and since there was no likelihood of confusion between the two games; O.C.G.A. § 10-1-440 requires the bona fide use of a trademark to make out a claim concerning the trademark's infringement. Kyle v. Ga. Lottery Corp., 304 Ga. App. 635, 698 S.E.2d 12, 2010 Ga. App. LEXIS 529 (2010), aff'd, 290 Ga. 87, 718 S.E.2d 801, 2011 Ga. LEXIS 934 (2011).

Court of appeals did not err in affirming an order granting the Georgia Lottery Corporation summary judgment as to a trademark infringement claim on the ground that the trademark holders did not make a "bona fide" use of their mark in commerce sufficient to establish protectable rights in the mark because the court of appeals properly ruled that O.C.G.A. § 10-1-440 required the bona fide use of a trademark to make out a claim concerning the trademark's infringement; interpreting O.C.G.A. § 10-1-440(b) to contain a bona fide use requirement is neither inconsistent with the statutory definition nor does it improperly expand the application of the statute because it merely excludes from the definition of "use" any dishonest or bad faith motives on the part of the person obtaining and using a trademark, a result not inconsistent with the language of the General Assembly. Kyle v. Ga. Lottery Corp., 290 Ga. 87, 718 S.E.2d 801, 2011 Ga. LEXIS 934 (2011).

Interlocutory injunction proper in dispute over service marks. — In a suit alleging, inter alia, the infringement of state registered service marks, the trial court properly granted the plaintiff interlocutory relief because it was undisputed that the plaintiff was the last entity to hold the named pageants prior to the interlocutory injunction hearing, regardless of any issues of registration of service marks or abandonment or assignment by the defendant; thus, the status quo was plaintiff being the host of the events using the marks. India-American Cultural Ass'n v. iLink Professionals, Inc., 296 Ga. 668, 769 S.E.2d 905, 2015 Ga. LEXIS 149 (2015).

Consumer confusion. — Author failed to state a claim for trademark infringement based on the alleged wrongful appropriation of materials from the author's autobiography, wardrobe, and personal history by the creators of a line of perfumes as it was not sufficiently alleged that the consumers were likely to be misled into associating the author and the author's sibling with the perfumes. Mobley v. Fermont-Langlais, 705 Fed. Appx. 788, 2017 U.S. App. LEXIS 12841 (11th Cir. 2017).

Statutory use requirement not satisfied. — District properly cancelled plaintiff's Georgia registration of a service mark because registration was granted improperly as the plaintiff did not satisfy the statutory use requirement, and there was no basis for reformation of registration. Underwood v. Bank of Am., Corp., 996 F.3d 1038, 2021 U.S. App. LEXIS 12949 (10th Cir. 2021).

OPINIONS OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

"Goods" defined. — Word "goods" as used in this section is not defined therein, but is used to mean wares, merchandise, and commodities bought and sold by merchants and traders. 1958-59 Ga. Op. Att'y Gen. 398.

"Trademark" defined. — It has been said by appellate courts in other jurisdictions that a "trademark" consists of the use in trade of a mark placed upon goods manufactured (or sold) by a particular person and placed in market with such marks for sale and trade and does not become a trademark until it is actually stamped on or otherwise becomes affixed to goods to be sold. It may be broadly defined as a mark by which the wares of the owner are known in trade, and its objects are two-fold: first, to protect the party using it from competition of inferior articles; and, second, to protect the public from imposition of fraud, and this latter is one of the basic concepts of all trademark law. 1957 Ga. Op. Att'y Gen. 330.

Word not used in trade nor used for protection not registerable as trademark. — Holding company, owning outright certain corporations and the controlling stocks in others, which manufactures, sells, or distributes for sale no commodity whatsoever may not register as a trademark a word used on a gummed label obviously intended for the applicant's own use and a director of subsidiaries for the applicant and such subsidiaries, when there is no indication, claim, or evidence of any kind that either of the items are sold, offered for sale, or distributed to any one other than subsidiaries and no indication that they pay for them directly or indirectly, and there is no showing that the use of the name on either piece of material is designed to or does protect the manufacturer or the public against inferior goods of others in the marts of trade. 1958-59 Ga. Op. Att'y Gen. 398.

10-1-441. Ineligibility of trademark or service mark for registration.

A trademark or service mark shall be entitled to registration unless it:

(1) Consists of or comprises immoral, deceptive, or scandalous matter; or

(2) Consists of or comprises matter which may disparage or falsely suggest a connection with persons, living or dead, institutions, beliefs, or national symbols or bring them into contempt or disrepute; or

(3) Consists of or comprises the flag or coat of arms or other insignia of the United States or of any state, county, or municipality or of any foreign nation or any simulation thereof, except that a county, municipality, or board of education shall be entitled to have registered its own service mark for use by that county, municipality, or board of education; or

(4) Consists of or comprises the name, signature, or portrait of any living individual, except with his or her written consent; or

(5) Consists of a mark which:

(A) When applied to the goods or services of the applicant, is merely descriptive or deceptively misdescriptive of them; or

(B) When applied to the goods or services of the applicant, is primarily geographically descriptive or deceptively misdescriptive of them; or

(C) Is primarily merely a surname; or

(6) Consists of or comprises a trademark or service mark which so resembles a trademark or service mark registered in this state or a trademark or service mark or trade name previously used in this state by another and not abandoned as to be likely, when applied to the goods or services of the applicant, to cause confusion or mistake or to deceive; or provided, however, that, should the applicant prove that the applicant is the owner of a concurrent registration in the United States Patent Office of a trademark or service mark covering an area including this state, the applicant may register such trademark or service mark under this part.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Registration cannot deprive another of vested right. — Provisions as to registration were permissive and not mandatory, and a compliance by one with the provisions thereof cannot operate to deprive another of the use of a trade name or trademark previously acquired, although not thus registered, or to nullify the provisions of former Code 1933, § 37-712, that any attempt to encroach upon the business of a trader, or other person, by the use of similar trademarks, names, or devices, with the intention of deceiving and misleading the public, was a fraud for which equity will grant relief. Womble v. Parker, 208 Ga. 378, 67 S.E.2d 133, 1951 Ga. LEXIS 380 (1951).

Statutory use requirement not satisfied. — District properly cancelled plaintiff's Georgia registration of a service mark because registration was granted improperly as the plaintiff did not satisfy the statutory use requirement, and there was no basis for reformation of registration. JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Registration cannot deprive another of vested right. — Provisions as to registration were permissive and not mandatory, and a compliance by one with the provisions thereof cannot operate to deprive another of the use of a trade name or trademark previously acquired, although not thus registered, or to nullify the provisions of former Code 1933, § 37-712, that any attempt to encroach upon the business of a trader, or other person, by the use of similar trade-marks, names, or devices, with the intention of deceiving and misleading the public, was a fraud for which equity will grant relief. Womble v. Parker, 208 Ga. 378, 67 S.E.2d 133, 1951 Ga. LEXIS 380 (1951).

A renewal fee of $15.00, payable to the Secretary of State, shall accompany the application for renewal of the registration.

(b) A trademark or service mark registration may be renewed for successive periods of ten years in like manner.

An assignment of any registration under this part shall be ineffective as against a subsequent purchaser for value without notice unless it is recorded with the Secretary of State prior to the subsequent purchase.

Any person who shall for himself or on behalf of any person procure the filing or registration of any trademark or service mark in the office of the Secretary of State under the provisions of this part, by knowingly making any false or fraudulent representation or declaration, verbally or in writing, or by any other fraudulent means, shall be liable to pay all damages sustained in consequence of such filing or registration, to be recovered by or on behalf of the party injured thereby in any court of competent jurisdiction.

10-1-450. Civil action for infringement of registered mark.

Subject to Code Section 10-1-452, any person who shall:

(1) Use, without the consent of the registrant, any reproduction, counterfeit, copy, or colorable imitation of a trademark or service mark registered under this part in connection with the sale, offering for sale, or advertising of any goods or services on or in connection with which such use is likely to cause confusion or mistake or to deceive as to the source of origin of such goods or services; or shall be liable to a civil action by the owner of such registered trademark or service mark for liquidated damages in the amount of $10,000.00, if such act has been committed with knowledge that the trademark or service mark has been registered under this part and such act has been committed without previously obtaining the consent of the owner thereof, and for any or all of the remedies provided in subsection (a) of Code Section 10-1-451, except that actual damages shall not be recoverable when liquidated damages are sought, and except that under paragraph (2) of this Code section the registrant shall not be entitled to recover profits or damages unless the acts have been committed with knowledge that such trademark or service mark is intended to be used to cause confusion or mistake or to deceive.

(2) Reproduce, counterfeit, copy, or colorably imitate any such trademark or service mark and apply such reproduction, counterfeit, copy, or colorable imitation to labels, signs, prints, packages, wrappers, receptacles, or advertisements intended to be used upon or in connection with the sale or other distribution in this state of such goods or services;

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Part similar to federal statute. — Georgia law on registration of trademarks and service marks provides for a civil action to remedy infringements and is, both in structure and purpose, similar to its federal counterpart. Rolls-Royce Motors, Ltd. v. A & A Fiberglass, Inc., 428 F. Supp. 689, 1976 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 12523 (N.D. Ga. 1976).

Actions involving trademarks or service marks are limited to infringements of registered marks. Miller & Meier & Assocs. v. Diedrich, 174 Ga. App. 249, 329 S.E.2d 918, 1985 Ga. App. LEXIS 1795, aff'd in part and rev'd in part, 254 Ga. 734, 334 S.E.2d 308, 1985 Ga. LEXIS 849 (1985).

Registration required. — Registration of a logo as a service mark or trademark is a prerequisite to relief under O.C.G.A. §§ 10-1-450 and 10-1-451. Diedrich v. Miller & Meier & Assocs., 254 Ga. 734, 334 S.E.2d 308, 1985 Ga. LEXIS 849 (1985).

Limited liability company was entitled to summary judgment on the investment partnership's claims under § 43(a) (15 U.S.C. § 1125(a)) of the Lanham Act and O.C.G.A. §§ 10-1-450 and 10-1-451 that the company infringed the trademarks and trade dress associated with three brands because: (1) the trademark was not registered with the Georgia Secretary of State pursuant to §§ 10-1-450 and 10-1-451; and (2) there was no evidence to show that the trade dress associated with the products at issue was inherently distinctive as a matter of law and there was no evidence that the mark had secondary meaning identifying the investment partnership as the source of any products. Brown Bark II, L.P. v. Dixie Mills, LLC, 732 F. Supp. 2d 1353, 2010 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 79867 (N.D. Ga. 2010).

Marks found to be substantially similar. — Summary judgment was inappropriate as to trademark infringement liability because while the "Xylem" mark was at least suggestive, the marks were substantially similar, and the trademark holder documented over 100 instances of actual confusion resulting from misdirected checks, phone calls, faxes, and emails; the court could not find that no reasonable juror would find there was no confusion created by the accused infringer's use of the Xylem name and mark. ITT Corp. v. Xylem Group, LLC, 963 F. Supp. 2d 1309, 2013 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 109381 (N.D. Ga. 2013).

Preliminary injunction granted. — Tattoo studio owner showed that it had achieved secondary meaning in the name Inkaholics in the metro Atlanta area before the defendants commenced using the similar name Inkaholiks in that area (and evidence of resulting confusion); the trial court did not err in granting the owner a preliminary injunction in the metro Atlanta area. Inkaholiks Luxury Tattoos Georgia, LLC v. Parton, 324 Ga. App. 769, 751 S.E.2d 561, 2013 Ga. App. LEXIS 929 (2013).

Interlocutory injunction properly granted in service mark dispute. — In a suit alleging, inter alia, the infringement of state registered service marks, the trial court properly granted the plaintiff interlocutory relief because it was undisputed that the plaintiff was the last entity to hold the named pageants prior to the interlocutory injunction hearing, regardless of any issues of registration of service marks or abandonment or assignment by the defendant; thus, the status quo was the plaintiff being the host of the events using the marks. India-American Cultural Ass'n v. iLink Professionals, Inc., 296 Ga. 668, 769 S.E.2d 905, 2015 Ga. LEXIS 149 (2015).

10-1-451. Injunctions against infringement; recovery of profits and damages; destruction or disposal of counterfeit trademarks; seizure.

(a) Any owner of a trademark or service mark registered under this part may proceed by action to enjoin the manufacture, use, display, or sale of any counterfeits or imitations thereof; and any court of competent jurisdiction may grant injunctions to restrain such manufacture, use, display, or sale as may be by the court deemed just and reasonable and may require the defendants to pay to such owner all profits derived from such wrongful manufacture, use, display, or sale, and all damages suffered by reason of such wrongful manufacture, use, display, or sale, or both profits and damages. The enumeration of any right or remedy in this part shall not affect a registrant's right to prosecute under any penal law of this state.

(b) Every person, association, or union of working men adopting and using a trademark, trade name, label, or form of advertisement may proceed by action; and all courts having jurisdiction thereof shall grant injunctions to enjoin subsequent use by another of the same or any similar trademark, trade name, label, or form of advertisement if there exists a likelihood of injury to business reputation or of dilution of the distinctive quality of the trademark, trade name, label, or form of advertisement of the prior user, notwithstanding the absence of competition between the parties or of confusion as to the source of goods or services, except that this Code section shall not deprive any party of any vested lawful rights acquired prior to March 4, 1955.

(c) If, in any action brought under this Code section, the court determines that a trademark or service mark is counterfeit, the court may order the destruction of all such trademarks or service marks and all goods, articles, or other matter bearing the trademarks or service marks, which are in the possession or control of the court or any party to the action; or, after obliteration of the counterfeit trademark or service mark, the court may order the disposal of any of those materials to the State of Georgia, a civil claimant, an eleemosynary institution, or any appropriate private person other than the person from whom the materials were obtained.

(d)(1) The court, upon motion or upon ex parte application by a plaintiff in an action to enjoin the manufacture, use, display, or sale of counterfeits, may order seizure of the counterfeit goods from persons manufacturing, displaying for sale, or selling the goods, upon a showing of good cause and a probability of success on the merits and upon the posting of bond. The amount of the bond shall be set in accordance with the probable recovery of damages and costs under subsection (e) of this Code section if it were ultimately determined that the goods seized were not counterfeit. If it appears from an ex parte application that there is good reason for proceeding without notification to the defendant, the court may, for good cause shown, waive the requirement of notice for the ex parte proceeding. The order of seizure shall be served at the time of seizure upon any person from whom seizure is effected. The order shall specifically set forth:

(A) The date or dates on which the seizure is ordered to take place;

(B) A description of the counterfeit goods to be seized;

(C) The identity of the persons or class of persons to effect seizure;

(D) A description of the location or locations at which seizure is to occur; and

(E) A hearing date not more than ten court days after the last date on which seizure is ordered at which any person from whom goods are seized may appear and seek release of the seized goods.

(2) The order shall include a statement advising the person from whom the goods are seized that bond has been filed, informing the person of the right to object to the bond on the grounds that the surety or the amount of the bond is insufficient, and advising the person from whom the goods are seized that such objection to the bond shall be made within 30 days after the date of seizure.

(e)(1) Any person who causes seizure of goods which are not counterfeits shall be liable in an amount equal to the following:

(A) Any damages proximately caused to any person having a financial interest in the seized goods by the seizure of goods which are not counterfeit;

(B) Costs incurred in defending against seizure of noncounterfeit goods; and

(C) Upon a showing that the person causing the seizure to occur acted in bad faith, expenses, including reasonable attorneys' fees expended in defending against the seizure of any noncounterfeit or noninfringing goods.

(2) A person seeking a recovery pursuant to this subsection may join any surety on a bond posted pursuant to subsection (d) of this Code section, and any judgment of liability shall bind the person liable and the surety jointly and severally, but the liability of the surety shall be limited to the amount of the bond.

(3) Any person entitled to seek recovery under this subsection may, within 30 days after the date of seizure, object to the bond on the grounds that the surety or the amount of bond is insufficient.

Analysis

Dilution of Distinctive Quality

"Infringement" defined. — Infringement upon the real name or trade name of an individual or corporation is such a colorable imitation of the name that the general public, in the exercise of ordinary care, might think that it is the name of the individual or corporation first appropriating the name. Multiple Listing Serv., Inc. v. Metropolitan Multi-List, Inc., 223 Ga. 837, 159 S.E.2d 52, 1968 Ga. LEXIS 980 (1968).

Test for trade name infringement. — In a suit to enjoin alleged trade name infringement, the test seems to be whether the public is likely to be deceived and a person of ordinary caution misled. Gordy v. Dunwody, 210 Ga. 810, 83 S.E.2d 7, 1954 Ga. LEXIS 450 (1954) (commented on in 17 Ga. B.J. 395 (1955)).

Basis of relief under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-451 is that use of same or similar name by another injures business reputation or dilutes distinctive quality of trade name even in absence of direct competition between parties or of confusion as to source of goods or services. Giant Mart Corp. v. Giant Disct. Foods, Inc., 247 Ga. 775, 279 S.E.2d 683, 1981 Ga. LEXIS 877 (1981).

Registration required for relief. — Registration of a logo as a service mark or trademark is a prerequisite to relief under O.C.G.A. §§ 10-1-450 and 10-1-451. Diedrich v. Miller & Meier & Assocs., 254 Ga. 734, 334 S.E.2d 308, 1985 Ga. LEXIS 849 (1985).

Limited liability company was entitled to summary judgment on the investment partnership's claims under § 43(a) (15 U.S.C. § 1125(a)) of the Lanham Act and O.C.G.A. §§ 10-1-450 and 10-1-451 that the company infringed the trademarks and trade dress associated with three brands because: (1) the trademark was not registered with the Georgia Secretary of State pursuant to §§ 10-1-450 and 10-1-451; and (2) there was no evidence to show that the trade dress associated with the products at issue was inherently distinctive as a matter of law and there was no evidence that the mark had secondary meaning identifying the investment partnership as the source of any products. Brown Bark II, L.P. v. Dixie Mills, LLC, 732 F. Supp. 2d 1353, 2010 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 79867 (N.D. Ga. 2010).

Registration cannot deprive another of vested right. — Provisions as to registration were permissive and not mandatory, and a compliance by one with the provisions thereof cannot operate to deprive another of the use of a trade name or trademark previously acquired, although not thus registered, or to nullify the provisions of former Code 1933, § 37-712, that any attempt to encroach upon the business of a trader, or other person, by the use of similar trademarks, names, or devices, with the intention of deceiving and misleading the public, was a fraud for which equity will grant relief. Womble v. Parker, 208 Ga. 378, 67 S.E.2d 133, 1951 Ga. LEXIS 380 (1951).

Long use may give special meaning to words. — While generic names, geographical names, and names composed of words which are merely descriptive are incapable of exclusive appropriation, words or names which have a primary meaning of their own, such as words descriptive of the goods, service, or place where they are made, or the name of the maker, may nevertheless, by long use in connection with the business of the particular trade, come to be understood by the public as designating the goods, service, or business of a particular trader. Multiple Listing Serv., Inc. v. Metropolitan Multi-List, Inc., 223 Ga. 837, 159 S.E.2d 52, 1968 Ga. LEXIS 980 (1968).

Secondary meaning may attach to generic and geographical names and names composed of merely descriptive words which, by long use in connection with business or trade, come to be understood by public as designating goods, services, or business of a particular trader. Giant Mart Corp. v. Giant Disct. Foods, Inc., 247 Ga. 775, 279 S.E.2d 683, 1981 Ga. LEXIS 877 (1981).

Long use may entitle words to protection. — While geographical names and words which are merely descriptive are not generally the subject of exclusive appropriation as trademarks or trade names, such names and words when used so long and exclusively by a trader, manufacturer, or producer that the names and words are generally understood to designate a particular business or merchandise, may acquire a secondary signification or meaning indicative not only of the place of manufacture, but of the name of the manufacturer or producer, or of the character of the product, so that the name or title thus employed, including the geographical name and descriptive words, may be the subject of protection against unfair competition in trade, and authorize equity to enjoin a newcomer competitor from the appropriation and use of a trade name or trademark bearing such resemblances to those of the pioneer as to be likely to produce uncertainty and confusion, and to pass off the goods or business of one as those of the other. Womble v. Parker, 208 Ga. 378, 67 S.E.2d 133, 1951 Ga. LEXIS 380 (1951).

A person by long and exclusive use may acquire a trade name; and when thus acquired, such trade name is as much descriptive of the manufacturer or producer as is the person's own name, and the infringement of such trade name of an individual will be enjoined by a court of equity when a proper case is made. Womble v. Parker, 208 Ga. 378, 67 S.E.2d 133, 1951 Ga. LEXIS 380 (1951).

To obtain injunction under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-451, plaintiff must show, first, that trade name sought to be protected is one of such originality as to be capable of exclusive appropriation, or one not capable of exclusive appropriation but which has acquired secondary meaning. Giant Mart Corp. v. Giant Disct. Foods, Inc., 247 Ga. 775, 279 S.E.2d 683, 1981 Ga. LEXIS 877 (1981).

Subsequent knowing use of name presumed fraudulent. — If the person first appropriating and using a name has a clear right to the name's use, the name's subsequent use by another, knowing of the right, is presumed by law to be fraudulent. Womble v. Parker, 208 Ga. 378, 67 S.E.2d 133, 1951 Ga. LEXIS 380 (1951).

Direct market competition need not be alleged and shown. — It is not an essential prerequisite to the granting of equitable relief in an action for infringement of a trade name that the plaintiff allege and show that the alleged infringer is in actual and direct market competition with the plaintiff in the sense that the parties deal in competitive goods or are engaged in a competitive business. Kay Jewelry Co. v. Kapiloff, 204 Ga. 209, 49 S.E.2d 19, 1948 Ga. LEXIS 561 (1948) (commented on in Ga. B.J. 224 (1948)).

Confusingly similar names. — Plaintiffs made requisite showing for injunction that trade name reacquired upon foreclosure of their security interest had acquired a secondary meaning and that defaulting buyers knowingly had adopted a confusingly similar name, which had in fact confused plaintiffs' former customers. Reis v. Ralls, 250 Ga. 721, 301 S.E.2d 40, 1983 Ga. LEXIS 614 (1983).

Unpublished decision: Trademark owners were entitled to summary judgment on infringement under 15 U.S.C. §§ 1114 and 1125 and O.C.G.A. § 10-1-451 because the mark used by former agents of the owners was decidedly similar, there was a substantial likelihood of consumer confusion, and the agents intended to capitalize on the reputation and to infringe on the market for money orders and money transfers created by the owners. W. Union Holdings, Inc. v. E. Union, Inc., 316 Fed. Appx. 850, 2008 U.S. App. LEXIS 13226 (11th Cir. 2008), cert. denied, 555 U.S. 1139, 129 S. Ct. 1014, 173 L. Ed. 2d 296, 2009 U.S. LEXIS 630 (2009).

Infringement of trade names. — Chapter 11 debtor was entitled to a preliminary injunction under the Lanham Act, 11 U.S.C. § 1125(a), and O.C.G.A. §§ 10-1-373 and 10-1-451, against a competing user of the debtor's trade name "Reliable Heating and Air" because the debtor clearly demonstrated a substantial likelihood of success on the merits of the debtor's claims and demonstrated that the debtor would suffer irreparable harm if an injunction were not issued. Reliable Air, Inc. v. Jape (In re Reliable Air, Inc.), No. 05-85627, No. 07-6352, 2007 Bankr. LEXIS 3711 (Bankr. N.D. Ga. Sept. 14, 2007).

Liability for use of trade names and labels of comic book characters by singing telegram company established. DC Comics Inc. v. Unlimited Monkey Bus., Inc., 598 F. Supp. 110, 1984 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 22828 (N.D. Ga. 1984).

Internet advertising. — Because the plaintiff corporation's claim under Georgia's Anti-Dilution Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-451, would likely place no greater discovery burdens on the defendant corporation than would the development of the factual record upon the plaintiff's claims alleging that the defendant violated federal trademark laws by contracting with an Internet search engine for a sponsored link to the defendant's website each time an Internet user performed a search for the plaintiff's name, the defendant's motion to dismiss the O.C.G.A. § 10-1-451 claim was denied when the court denied the defendant's motion to dismiss the federal claims on the ground that the novel questions presented in the suit could not be determined as a matter of law at this early stage of the case. Rescuecom Corp. v. Computer Troubleshooters USA, Inc., 464 F. Supp. 2d 1263, 2005 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 43679 (N.D. Ga. 2005).

Corporation was not required to prove actual damages but could seek the award of profits illegally derived by the first purchaser's infringement by showing the first purchaser's gross sales and shifting the burden to the first purchaser to provide an accounting to show which sales, if any, were not derived from the infringement, along with deductible expenses, to show profits derived from the infringement; doing so promoted the statutory intent to make infringement unprofitable, to deprive the infringer of unjust enrichment, and to deter similar activity. DeCelles v. Morgan Cleaners & Laundry, Inc., 261 Ga. App. 690, 583 S.E.2d 462, 2003 Ga. App. LEXIS 614 (2003).

Failure to challenge issue in appellate brief. — Promoter did not in the promoter's brief challenge the adverse judgment on the promoter's dilution of trademark claim under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-451 which the district court did not base on a likelihood of confusion. Therefore, because the appellate court deemed issues not clearly briefed on appeal to be abandoned, it left the state-law dilution of trademark portion of the judgment undisturbed. Caliber Auto. Liquidators, Inc. v. Premier Chrysler, Jeep, Dodge, LLC, 605 F.3d 931, 2010 U.S. App. LEXIS 9373 (11th Cir. 2010).

Preliminary injunction granted. — Tattoo studio owner showed that it had achieved secondary meaning in the name Inkaholics in the metro Atlanta area before the defendants commenced using the similar name Inkaholiks in that area (and evidence of resulting confusion); the trial court did not err in granting the owner a preliminary injunction in the metro Atlanta area. Inkaholiks Luxury Tattoos Georgia, LLC v. Parton, 324 Ga. App. 769, 751 S.E.2d 561, 2013 Ga. App. LEXIS 929 (2013).

Interlocutory injunction properly granted in service mark dispute. — In a suit alleging, inter alia, the infringement of state registered service marks, the trial court properly granted the plaintiff interlocutory relief because it was undisputed that the plaintiff was the last entity to hold the named pageants prior to the interlocutory injunction hearing, regardless of any issues of registration of service marks or abandonment or assignment by the defendant; thus, the status quo was the plaintiff being the host of the events using the marks. India-American Cultural Ass'n v. iLink Professionals, Inc., 296 Ga. 668, 769 S.E.2d 905, 2015 Ga. LEXIS 149 (2015).

Dilution of Distinctive Quality

Term "distinctive quality" in subsection (b) of former Code 1933, § 106-103 meant that the trade name must be one of such originality as to be capable of exclusive appropriation, or one not capable of exclusive appropriation but which acquired a secondary meaning in order to come within the protection of the law. Dolphin Homes Corp. v. Tocomc Dev. Corp., 223 Ga. 455, 156 S.E.2d 45, 1967 Ga. LEXIS 567 (1967).

"Dilution of the distinctive quality" under subsection (b) of former Code 1933, § 106-103 occurs when the use of the trademark by the subsequent user will lessen the uniqueness of the prior user's mark, with the possible future result that a strong mark may become a weak mark. Amstar Corp. v. Domino's Pizza, Inc., 615 F.2d 252, 1980 U.S. App. LEXIS 18834 (5th Cir.), cert. denied, 449 U.S. 899, 101 S. Ct. 268, 66 L. Ed. 2d 129, 1980 U.S. LEXIS 3487 (1980).

Required showing in dilution claims. — In order to prevail under a dilution claim in which it is alleged that a defendant has used the same or similar marks in a way that creates an undesirable, unwholesome, or unsavory mental association with the plaintiff's mark, the plaintiff needs to show that the marks in question are similar and that the contested use is likely to injure the plaintiff's commercial reputation or dilute the distinctive quality of the plaintiff's marks. Original Appalachian Artworks, Inc. v. Topps Chewing Gum, Inc., 642 F. Supp. 1031, 1986 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 20947 (N.D. Ga. 1986).

Dilution claim evidence held sufficient for preliminary injunction. — Evidence which included testimony indicating that any association of defendant's "Garbage Pail Kids" with plaintiff's "Cabbage Patch Kids" would disparage the wholesome image plaintiff attempted to present for plaintiff's doll products was sufficient to show that plaintiff was substantially likely to prevail on the merits as to plaintiff's anti-dilution claim for purposes of obtaining a preliminary injunction. Original Appalachian Artworks, Inc. v. Topps Chewing Gum, Inc., 642 F. Supp. 1031, 1986 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 20947 (N.D. Ga. 1986).

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Confusion of names. — Claims for service mark infringement under the federal Lanham Act, the Georgia Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-370 et seq., and the Georgia law of unfair competition turn on the same question — confusion of similar names. Jellibeans, Inc. v. Skating Clubs of Ga., Inc., 716 F.2d 833, 1983 U.S. App. LEXIS 16353 (11th Cir. 1983).

Common law claim. — Customer was denied summary judgment as to a copyright owner's common law trademark infringement action because O.C.G.A. § 10-1-452 expressly preserved common law trademark rights and the owner produced sufficient evidence to raise a question of fact on the claim as to the likelihood of confusion. Use of another's name with consent. — By the express provisions of this section, the name of a person can be used by another in the conduct of the other's business with the consent of the person whose name is used. Tanner-Brice Co. v. Sims, 174 Ga. 13, 161 S.E. 819, 1931 Ga. LEXIS 2 (1931).

In absence of statute, the right to use the name of an individual in a corporate trade name without the individual's consent depends entirely on the law in relation to trademarks, trade names, and unfair competition, and for a corporation or an individual to adopt and use as a part of a trade name a personal surname is not unlawful as against an individual having the same surname but not engaged in the same business, even though no one of that name is connected with such corporation or individual, unless the name is adopted or used purposely to mislead the public as to the identity of the corporation with another establishment, and thus cause injury to the latter, or the adoption is prohibited by statute. Tanner-Brice Co. v. Sims, 174 Ga. 13, 161 S.E. 819, 1931 Ga. LEXIS 2 (1931).

Use of surname. — Right of a corporation to use the surname of another person with the person's consent is not prohibited. Tanner-Brice Co. v. Sims, 174 Ga. 13, 161 S.E. 819, 1931 Ga. LEXIS 2 (1931).

Use of trade name other than corporate name. — Corporation may acquire right to use trade name other than corporate name in connection with the corporation's business. Tanner-Brice Co. v. Sims, 174 Ga. 13, 161 S.E. 819, 1931 Ga. LEXIS 2 (1931).

Right to use own name. — In the absence of license, contract, fraud, or estoppel, every man has the right to use the man's own name in any legitimate way. Tanner-Brice Co. v. Sims, 174 Ga. 13, 161 S.E. 819, 1931 Ga. LEXIS 2 (1931).

A natural person, in the absence of self-imposed restraint, has a right to the honest use of the person's surname in conducting any business, though such use may be detrimental to other individuals of the same name, or to corporations in the charters of which such name forms the whole or an integral part. Tanner-Brice Co. v. Sims, 174 Ga. 13, 161 S.E. 819, 1931 Ga. LEXIS 2 (1931).

10-1-454. Penalties for forged or counterfeited trademarks, service marks, copyrighted or registered designs, or unauthorized reproductions; forfeiture.

(a) As used in this Code section, the term "forged or counterfeited trademark, service mark, or copyrighted or registered design" means any mark or design which is identical to, substantially indistinguishable from, or an imitation of a trademark, service mark, or copyrighted or registered design which is registered for those types of goods or services with the Secretary of State pursuant to this part or registered on the Principal Register of the United States Patent and Trademark Office or registered under the laws of any other state or protected by the federal Amateur Sports Act of 1978, 36 U.S.C. Section 380, whether or not the offender knew such mark or design was so registered or protected, if the use of such trademark, service mark, or copyrighted or registered design has not been authorized by the owner thereof. The unregistered symbols, emblems, trademarks, insignias, and words covered by the federal Amateur Sports Act of 1978, 36 U.S.C. Section 380, shall be afforded protection under the trademark law in the same manner as registered trademarks, service marks, and copyrighted or registered designs.

(b) Any person who knowingly and willfully forges or counterfeits any trademark, service mark, or copyrighted or registered design, without the consent of the owner of such trademark, service mark, or copyrighted or registered design, or who knowingly possesses any tool, machine, device, or other reproduction instrument or material with the intent to reproduce any forged or counterfeited trademark, service mark, or copyrighted or registered design shall be guilty of the offense of trademark, service mark, or copyrighted or registered design counterfeiting and, upon conviction, shall be punished as follows:

(1) If the goods or services to which the forged or counterfeit trademarks, service marks, or copyrighted or registered designs are attached or affixed, or in connection with which they are used, or to which the offender intended they be attached or affixed, or in connection with which the offender intended they be used, have, in the aggregate, a retail sale value of $100,000.00 or more, such person shall be guilty of a felony and, upon conviction, shall be punished by imprisonment for not less than five nor more than 20 years and by a fine not to exceed $200,000.00 or twice the retail sale value of the goods or services, whichever is greater;

(2) If the goods or services to which the forged or counterfeit trademarks, service marks, or copyrighted or registered designs are attached or affixed, or in connection with which they are used, or to which the offender intended they be attached or affixed, or in connection with which the offender intended they be used, have, in the aggregate, a retail sale value of $10,000.00 or more but less than $100,000.00, such person shall be guilty of a felony and, upon conviction, shall be punished by imprisonment for not less than two nor more than ten years and by a fine not to exceed $20,000.00 or twice the retail sale value of the goods or services, whichever is greater;

(3) If the goods or services to which the forged or counterfeit trademarks, service marks, or copyrighted or registered designs are attached or affixed, or in connection with which they are used, or to which the offender intended they be attached or affixed, or in connection with which the offender intended they be used, have, in the aggregate, a retail sale value of less than $10,000.00, such person shall be guilty of a misdemeanor of a high and aggravated nature; or

(4) If a person who violates this subsection previously has been convicted of another violation of this subsection, such person shall be guilty of a felony and, upon conviction of the second or subsequent such violation, shall be punished by imprisonment for not less than ten nor more than 20 years and by a fine not to exceed $200,000.00 or twice the retail sale value of the goods or services, whichever is greater.

(c) Any person who sells or resells or offers for sale or resale or who purchases and keeps or has in his or her possession with the intent to sell or resell any goods he or she knows or should have known bear a forged or counterfeit trademark or copyrighted or registered design or who sells or offers for sale any service which is sold or offered for sale in conjunction with a forged or counterfeit service mark or copyrighted or registered design, knowing the same to be forged or counterfeited, shall be guilty of the offense of selling or offering for sale counterfeit goods or services and, upon conviction, shall be punished as follows:

(1) If the goods or services sold or offered for sale to which the forged or counterfeit trademarks, service marks, or copyrighted or registered designs are attached or affixed, or in connection with which they are used, have, in the aggregate, a retail sale value of $10,000.00 or more, such person shall be guilty of a felony and, upon conviction, shall be punished by imprisonment for not less than one nor more than five years and by a fine not to exceed $50,000.00 or twice the retail sale value of the goods or services, whichever is greater;

(2) If the goods or services to which the forged or counterfeit trademarks, service marks, or copyrighted or registered designs are attached or affixed, or in connection with which they are used, have, in the aggregate, a retail sale value of less than $10,000.00, such person shall be guilty of a misdemeanor of a high and aggravated nature; or

(3) If a person who violates this subsection previously has been convicted of another violation of paragraph (1) of this subsection, such person shall be guilty of a felony and, upon conviction of the second or subsequent such violation, shall be punished by imprisonment for not less than five nor more than ten years and by a fine not to exceed $100,000.00 or twice the retail sale value of the goods or services, whichever is greater.

(d)(1) The State of Georgia finds and declares that the citizens of this state have a right to receive those goods and services which they reasonably believe they are purchasing or for which they contract. The state further finds that the manufacture and sale of counterfeit goods or goods which are not what they purport to be and the offering of services through the use of counterfeit service marks constitutes a fraud on the public and results in economic disruption to the legitimate businesses of this state. In order to protect the citizens and businesses of this state it is necessary to take appropriate actions to remove counterfeit goods from the channels of commerce and prevent the manufacture, sale, and distribution of such goods or the offering of such services through the use of counterfeit service marks.

(2) As used in this subsection, the terms "proceeds" and "property" shall have the same meanings as set forth in Code Section 9-16-2.

(3) Any property which is, directly or indirectly, used or intended for use in any manner to facilitate a violation of this Code section and any proceeds are declared to be contraband and no person shall have a property right in them.

(4) Any property subject to forfeiture pursuant to paragraph (3) of this subsection shall be forfeited in accordance with the procedures set forth in Chapter 16 of Title 9.

(e) An owner, officer, employee, or agent who provides, rents, leases, licenses, or sells real property upon which a violation of this Code section occurs shall not be subject to a criminal penalty pursuant to this Code section unless he or she sells or possesses for sale articles such person knows bear a counterfeit trademark or copyrighted or registered design or offers services through the use of a counterfeit service mark or copyrighted or registered design in violation of this Code section. This subsection shall not be construed to abrogate or limit any civil rights or remedies for a trademark or service mark violation.

Editor's notes.

Ga. Corporations organized for religious, fraternal, or charitable purposes generally, § 14-5-40 et seq.

10-1-470. Imitation of name or emblem prohibited; priority of right to use name.

No person or organization shall assume, use, adopt, become incorporated under, or continue to use the name and style or emblems of any benevolent, fraternal, social, humane, or charitable organization previously existing in this state, and which has been incorporated under the laws of this or any other state or of the United States, or a name and style or emblem so nearly resembling the name and style of such incorporated organization as to be a colorable imitation thereof. In all cases where two or more of such societies, associations, or corporations claim the right to the same name or to names substantially similar as above provided, the organization which was first organized and used the name and first became incorporated under the laws of the United States or of any state, whether incorporated in this state or not, shall be entitled in this state to the prior and exclusive use of such name; and the rights of such societies, associations, or corporations and of their individual members shall be fixed and determined accordingly.

Constitutionality. — Part is not violative of Fourteenth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States. Emory v. Grand United Order of Odd Fellows, 140 Ga. 423, 78 S.E. 922, 1913 Ga. LEXIS 149 (1913).

Part creates new remedy without abrogating existing one. — Enactment of this part for the protection of such organizations as are named therein against the infringement and unauthorized use of their names and emblems merely created a new remedy for an existing right and did not expressly, or by necessary implication, abrogate the preexisting remedy. Supreme Grand Lodge v. Most Worshipful Prince Hall Grand Lodge, 209 F.2d 156, 1954 U.S. App. LEXIS 4713 (5th Cir.), cert. denied, 347 U.S. 953, 74 S. Ct. 679, 98 L. Ed. 1099, 1954 U.S. LEXIS 2737 (1954).

Voluntary associations. — Former Civil Code 1910, §§ 1933 and 1934 were for the protection of any benevolent or other organization which was incorporated, against others using or adopting its name, style, or emblems, and the statutes cannot be invoked by voluntary associations. Faisan v. Adair, 144 Ga. 797, 87 S.E. 1080, 1915 Ga. LEXIS 254 (1915); Methodist Episcopal Church S., Inc. v. Decell, 60 Ga. App. 843, 5 S.E.2d 66, 1939 Ga. App. LEXIS 188 (1939).

Exclusive right to use name must be shown. — Under this part, unless the plaintiffs have established that the plaintiffs are entitled to the exclusive use of the name or words in question, the plaintiffs are not entitled to the equitable relief sought. To show that the plaintiffs have obtained a charter, or have organized and are using that name, is not sufficient. Plaintiffs must not only show that the plaintiffs have the right to use the name in question, but that the plaintiffs have the exclusive right to so use the name. Independent Order of Good Samaritans & Daughters v. Mack, 139 Ga. 835, 78 S.E. 336, 1913 Ga. LEXIS 622 (1913).

Right to use name depends upon priority of incorporation. — Right to the exclusive use of a particular name as between incorporated associations organized for beneficial and charitable purposes, etc., depends upon priority of the Act of incorporation, whether the charter is derived from this state, the United States, or any other state in the Union. A fraternal order by adopting the same name which was previously used by a fraternal association, acquires no additional right to the use of the name by incorporation. Incorporation in this state does not give the fraternal corporation an exclusive right to use the corporate name as against prior use of the same name by a fraternal association incorporated under the laws of a sister state. Graves v. District Grand Lodge No. 18, 155 Ga. 147, 116 S.E. 613, 1923 Ga. LEXIS 28 (1923).

Name held colorable imitation. — Name "Ancient Order of Odd Fellows Leeds Unity" is substantially similar to and a colorable imitation of the name "The Grand United Order of Odd Fellows in America." Emory v. Grand United Order of Odd Fellows, 140 Ga. 423, 78 S.E. 922, 1913 Ga. LEXIS 149 (1913).

Subsequent use of appropriated name presumed fraudulent. — If the association or corporation first appropriating and using the name has a clear right to the name's use, the name's subsequent use by another corporation knowing of the right is presumed to be fraudulent. Graves v. District Grand Lodge No. 18, 161 Ga. 110, 129 S.E. 783, 1925 Ga. LEXIS 310 (1925).

Burden of proving right to exclusive use of the distinctive name and words in question is upon the organization asserting the right. Independent Order of Good Samaritans & Daughters v. Mack, 139 Ga. 835, 78 S.E. 336, 1913 Ga. LEXIS 622 (1913) (injunction denied).

Sufficiency of evidence. — Since the court was authorized to find from the evidence that the plaintiffs' order existed in this state and had been incorporated under the laws of this state prior to the date upon which the defendants' order sought to organize and become incorporated, and that so far as the record disclosed there was no other order of a similar name having a prior existence and incorporation to that of the plaintiffs in this state, under former Code 1933, § 106-202, the plaintiffs were entitled to injunctive relief. Emory v. Grand United Order of Odd Fellows, 140 Ga. 423, 78 S.E. 922, 1913 Ga. LEXIS 149 (1913).

When it is charged that one beneficial incorporated association is using a name which by prior use appertains to another fraternal organization, mere proof by the plaintiff that the defendant was using the name which the plaintiff had adopted to distinguish the plaintiff from similar organizations would not entitle the plaintiff to relief. Graves v. District Grand Lodge No. 18, 161 Ga. 110, 129 S.E. 783, 1925 Ga. LEXIS 310 (1925).

In order for a plaintiff to obtain the aid of this section, it must appear that such plaintiff is: (1) an incorporated association; (2) that it is a benevolent, etc., organization previously existing in this state; and (3) that the defendants propose to use, or are using, the name and style or emblems of such incorporated organization, as so nearly resemble the same as to be a colorable imitation. Methodist Episcopal Church S., Inc. v. Decell, 60 Ga. App. 843, 5 S.E.2d 66, 1939 Ga. App. LEXIS 188 (1939).

10-1-471. Injunction against infringement.

Whenever there shall be an actual or threatened violation of Code Section 10-1-470, the organization entitled to the exclusive use of the name in question under the terms of said Code section shall have the right to apply to the proper court for an injunction to restrain the infringement of its name and the use of its emblems; and, if it shall be made to appear to the court that the defendants are in fact infringing or about to infringe on the name and style of a previously existing benevolent, fraternal, social, humane, or charitable organization in the manner prohibited in said Code section or that the defendant or the defendants are wearing or using the badge, insignia, or emblems of said organization without the authority thereof and in violation of said Code section, an injunction may be issued by the court under the principles of equity without requiring proof that any person has been in fact misled or deceived by the infringement of such name or the use of such emblem.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Part creates new remedy without abrogating existing remedy. — Enactment of this part for the protection of such organizations as are named therein against the infringement and unauthorized use of their names and emblems merely created a new remedy for an existing right, and did not expressly, or by necessary implication, abrogate the preexisting remedy. Supreme Grand Lodge v. Most Worshipful Prince Hall Grand Lodge, 209 F.2d 156, 1954 U.S. App. LEXIS 4713 (5th Cir.), cert. denied, 347 U.S. 953, 74 S. Ct. 679, 98 L. Ed. 1099, 1954 U.S. LEXIS 2737 (1954).

Voluntary associations. — Former Civil Code 1910, §§ 1993 and 1994 were for the protection of any benevolent or other organization which was incorporated, against others using or adopting its name, style, or emblems, and the statutes cannot be invoked by voluntary associations. Faisan v. Adair, 144 Ga. 797, 87 S.E. 1080, 1915 Ga. LEXIS 254 (1915); Methodist Episcopal Church S., Inc. v. Decell, 60 Ga. App. 843, 5 S.E.2d 66, 1939 Ga. App. LEXIS 188 (1939).

Infringement will be enjoined. — Equity will enjoin a corporation or individuals that are using the name, insignia, and emblems of an existing benevolent fraternal association to the injury of the latter. Under the facts of this case, there was no abuse of discretion in granting the injunction. Faisan v. Adair, 144 Ga. 797, 87 S.E. 1080, 1915 Ga. LEXIS 254 (1915).

Including use of name. — When it is made to appear that the name in question is being used, or indeed if it is shown that it can be used, to mislead the public and induce the belief that the association which is using the name which another is justly entitled to use, the defendant should be enjoined from the use of this name in toto, and not merely partially enjoined. Graves v. District Grand Lodge No. 18, 161 Ga. 110, 129 S.E. 783, 1925 Ga. LEXIS 310 (1925).

Use of ritual, passwords, and tokens. — It was error to omit or refuse to enjoin the use by the defendant of the ritual, passwords, signs, tokens, etc., of the national order. Graves v. District Grand Lodge No. 18, 161 Ga. 110, 129 S.E. 783, 1925 Ga. LEXIS 310 (1925).

Addition of suffix "Incorporated" is not sufficient relief. Graves v. District Grand Lodge No. 18, 161 Ga. 110, 129 S.E. 783, 1925 Ga. LEXIS 310 (1925).

Analysis

Effect of Noncompliance

General Consideration

General Assembly repealed the Trade Name Act of 1929 (Ga. L. 1929, p. 233) by the passage of Ga. L. 1937, p. 804. Bullard v. Holman, 184 Ga. 788, 193 S.E. 586, 1937 Ga. LEXIS 640 (1937); Bowers v. Keller, 185 Ga. 435, 195 S.E. 447, 1938 Ga. LEXIS 464 (1938).

Purpose. — Evident purpose of this part is to enable persons making contracts with those trading under a fictitious trade name to know with whom they are dealing. Maxwell v. Pierce, 183 Ga. 856, 189 S.E. 847, 1937 Ga. LEXIS 413 (1937).

Part strictly construed. — Since this part imposes a hitherto unrecognized restriction upon the right to contract, the part's terms will be strictly construed. Maxwell v. Pierce, 183 Ga. 856, 189 S.E. 847, 1937 Ga. LEXIS 413 (1937).

Applicability to corporation using trade name. — If a corporation transacts business in a trade name or a name or style other than its true corporate name, it is amenable to the requirements and prohibitions of this part the same as others. Constitution Publishing Co. v. Lyon, 52 Ga. App. 434, 183 S.E. 653, 1936 Ga. App. LEXIS 658 (1936).

"Company" may be used in individual's trade name. — Under this part, the appellation, "company" may be used by an individual and is as appropriate to unincorporated associations as to corporations. An individual may use the word "company" as a part of the individual's trade name. Dixie Queen Produce Co. v. Brown, 100 Ga. App. 150, 110 S.E.2d 421, 1959 Ga. App. LEXIS 554 (1959).

Allegation of partnership as evidenced by registration must be denied. — Admissions in the answer of allegations in the petition are taken as true, and accordingly, if two or more individuals are sued jointly in connection with the operation of a business under a trade name, and such individuals file an answer admitting that the individuals jointly operate such business, file no denial of partnership, but on the contrary file a joint answer as partners, and the petition is later amended alleging such partnership as evidenced by trade name registration under this part, the defendants by the defendant's pleadings have admitted the existence of such partnership and are estopped to produce evidence to the contrary. Petkas v. Wright Co., 87 Ga. App. 189, 73 S.E.2d 224, 1952 Ga. App. LEXIS 647 (1952).

Noncompliance does not prohibit property ownership. — This part does not prohibit ownership of property by persons who may have acquired title under a trade name that has not been registered. Maxwell v. Pierce, 183 Ga. 856, 189 S.E. 847, 1937 Ga. LEXIS 413 (1937).

Liability under contract. — Defendant corporation doing business under a trade name which has not registered as required by this part cannot avoid liability under its contract which is the subject matter of the suit upon the ground of the defendant's not having registered as required by this part. Atlanta Butchers Abattoir & Stock Yard Co. v. Reaves, 54 Ga. App. 138, 187 S.E. 162, 1936 Ga. App. LEXIS 474 (1936).

Forfeiture of lease. — If lease was made to plaintiff and plaintiff's partner in their individual names, the failure of the plaintiff to register plaintiff's trade name in compliance with this part, although plaintiff ran a business on the premises rented from the defendant under the trade name, would not entitle the defendant to declare the lease forfeited, and to evict the plaintiff for that reason alone. Hudgens v. Douglas, 56 Ga. App. 877, 194 S.E. 398, 1937 Ga. App. LEXIS 258 (1937).

Action for conversion of property. — Partners doing business under a trade name that has not been registered as required by law, who have bought and paid for personal property and have taken from the owner a bill of sale therefor in such trade name, may maintain an action in the trade name against a tort-feasor who has seized and converted the property to the tort-feasor's own use. Maxwell v. Pierce, 183 Ga. 856, 189 S.E. 847, 1937 Ga. LEXIS 413 (1937).

Suit by lessee for trespass. — If lease was made to the plaintiff and the plaintiff's partner in their individual names, the failure of the plaintiff to register the plaintiff's trade name in compliance with this part, although plaintiff ran a business on the premises rented from defendant under the trade name, would not prevent the plaintiff from bringing a tort suit against the defendant for damages growing out of certain alleged acts of trespass committed by defendant if the plaintiff was otherwise entitled to bring such a suit. The failure to register has no causal relation to the injury. Hudgens v. Douglas, 56 Ga. App. 877, 194 S.E. 398, 1937 Ga. App. LEXIS 258 (1937).

Enforcement of note and conditional sale contract. — Fact that a promissory note and conditional sale contract are taken by the payee in a trade name which the payee has failed to register as required by law will not prevent the enforcement of such note and contract in the hands of a holder in due course. Southern Sec. Co. v. American Disct., 184 Ga. 82, 190 S.E. 350, 1937 Ga. LEXIS 440 (1937).

Registration essential to acquiring interest in trade name. — Compliance with the provisions of this part as to registration in the office of the clerk of the superior court is essential to the right of a person to conduct business under another or assumed name, and to acquire such interest in the name as will be protected by a court of equity. National Brands Stores, Inc. v. Muse & Assocs., 183 Ga. 88, 187 S.E. 84, 1936 Ga. LEXIS 276 (1936).

Costs cast on plaintiff not registering. — Since the evidence showed conclusively that the plaintiff had not registered the plaintiff's trade name at the time of filing suit with the clerk of the superior court of the county of the plaintiff's residence, the costs of court included within the judgment must be cast against the plaintiff. Bancroft v. Conyers Realty Co., 63 Ga. App. 106, 10 S.E.2d 286, 1940 Ga. App. LEXIS 20 (1940).

10-1-490. Required registration statement for business using trade, partnership, or other name not showing ownership.

(a) Every person, firm, or partnership carrying on in this state any trade or business under any trade name or partnership name or other name which does not disclose the individual ownership of the trade, business, or profession carried on under such name shall, within 30 days from March 29, 1937, or thereafter before commencing to do business, file in the office of the clerk of the superior court of the county in which the business is chiefly carried on or, in the case of a domestic corporation using any name other than its corporate name, in the county of its legal domicile, a registration statement, verified by affidavit, setting forth the name or names and addresses of the person, persons, firm, or partnership owning and carrying on said trade or business and stating the nature of the business being carried on and the trade, partnership, or other name used and shall, upon any change of ownership, likewise file a new and amended statement of registration. Notice of such filing giving the names and addresses of each person, firm, or partnership to engage in business under such trade name or partnership name shall be published in the paper in which the sheriff's advertisements are printed once a week for two weeks. No person, firm, or partnership already registered shall be required to reregister except in the event of a change of ownership.

(b) The clerk shall register the same by filing the verified statement in his office and shall keep an alphabetical index of all such registrations in a permanent record book to be kept in his office, the index to show the trade, partnership, or other name registered and in connection therewith the names of the owners. The applicant for registration shall accompany each registration statement with the fee prescribed by Code Section 15-6-77, relating to fees of clerks of the superior courts, as amended.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Affidavit must be made by person operating under trade name. — This section, requiring registration, in the office of the clerk of the superior court of persons doing business under a trade name by filing an affidavit signed by the person doing business, in which is set forth the name and address of the true owner of the business, requires that the affidavit be made by the person who operates under the trade name referred to in the affidavit. Laurens Glass Works v. Childs, 49 Ga. App. 590, 176 S.E. 665, 1934 Ga. App. LEXIS 501 (1934).

Affidavit does not create presumption against prior registration. — Evidence that the members of a partnership filed an affidavit in the office of the clerk of the superior court to register a partnership trade name does not create a presumption of fact that such trade name had not been previously registered. Butler v. Ragsdale, 54 Ga. App. 565, 188 S.E. 578, 1936 Ga. App. LEXIS 702 (1936).

History.
Ga. L. 1937, p. 804, § 5.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Ga. L. 1937, p. 804, § 5 applies to contract made before the statute's enactment by any person or partnership conducting or transacting a business in this state under an assumed or fictitious or trade name, other than the real name or names of the individual or individuals conducting or transacting such business without having registered in the office of the clerk of the superior court as required by former Code 1933, §§ 106-301 and 106-302. Walker v. Abbot, 57 Ga. App. 381, 195 S.E. 450, 1938 Ga. App. LEXIS 604 (1938).

Section bars defense of noncompliance in action on contract. — If a suit was filed on a contract entered into between the plaintiff and the defendant in connection with and while the plaintiff was operating a business under an assumed or fictitious name, without having registered that name as required by Ga. L. 1929, p. 233, and the defendant filed a pleading setting up these facts as a defense to the suit, and the judge sustained such defense and entered a judgment of nonsuit, and thereafter the plaintiff brought the case to the Court of Appeals, properly presented the question whether the court erred in sustaining such defense, and it appeared that since the judgment of the trial court, and while the case was in the process of being brought to the Court of Appeals, the legislature, by Ga. L. 1937, p. 804, repealed Ga. L. 1929, p. 233, and expressly provided by Ga. L. 1937, p. 804, § 5 no suit or action heretofore or hereafter instituted by any such person, firm, partnership, or corporation, whether sounding in contract or tort, should be defeated because of any such failure to register, the Court of Appeals, under Ga. L. 1937, p. 804, should have applied Ga. L. 1937, p. 804, § 5 and reversed the judgment, not because the judge erred at the time of its rendition, but because it had subsequently become erroneous by operation of Ga. L. 1937, p. 804, § 5. Bowers v. Keller, 185 Ga. 435, 195 S.E. 447, 1938 Ga. LEXIS 464 (1938).

Retroactive application of section not unconstitutional. — Section 5 of Ga. L. 1937, p. 804, providing that no contract should be invalidated on the ground that it was entered into in an unregistered trade or partnership name, was not violative of the constitutional prohibition against enactment of retroactive laws as applied to a note which had become barred under Ga. L. 1929, p. 233. Bullard v. Holman, 184 Ga. 788, 193 S.E. 586, 1937 Ga. LEXIS 640 (1937).

Ga. L. 1937, p. 804, § 5 is not unconstitutional as applied to a note which was subject to defense under Ga. L. 1929, p. 233, relating to trade names, and was executed before the passage of Ga. L. 1937, p. 804. Sweat & Gaskins v. Williamson, 185 Ga. 495, 195 S.E. 408, 1938 Ga. LEXIS 448 (1938).

Undertaking by individual in fictitious or trade name is obligation of individual. NCR Co. v. Sikes, 94 Ga. App. 391, 94 S.E.2d 782, 1956 Ga. App. LEXIS 553 (1956).

Section binds sole proprietor who contracts in unregistered trade name. Goger v. United States (In re Eady), 4 B.R. 1, 1980 Bankr. LEXIS 5428 (Bankr. N.D. Ga. 1980).

Use of trade name on security agreement. — Fact that title-retention contract was signed in a trade name by the owner of such business does not in anyway invalidate the contract. NCR Co. v. Sikes, 94 Ga. App. 391, 94 S.E.2d 782, 1956 Ga. App. LEXIS 553 (1956).

Recording security agreement gives constructive notice of trade name. — Title-retention contract signed by the purchaser in the purchaser's trade name by the purchaser in the purchaser's individual name is entitled to recording when it otherwise meets the requirements of the statute, and after being duly recorded constitutes constructive notice of the right and interest of the vendor therein as against the purchase of the property at a judicial sale on an execution issued against the purchaser in the purchaser's individual capacity. NCR Co. v. Sikes, 94 Ga. App. 391, 94 S.E.2d 782, 1956 Ga. App. LEXIS 553 (1956).

Use of fictitious names in financing statements. — While this section has the effect of binding those persons who contract in fictitious names to the contract so executed, it does not have the effect of saying that financing statements given in fictitious names are sufficient to notify subsequent creditors of the identity of the party using the fictitious name. Were a court to hold otherwise, the purpose of the statutory scheme of requiring a security interest to be perfected by filing a financing statement — to give notice to future creditors of the debtor — would be seriously undermined. In re Firth, 363 F. Supp. 369, 1973 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 12015 (M.D. Ga. 1973); Goger v. United States (In re Eady), 4 B.R. 1, 1980 Bankr. LEXIS 5428 (Bankr. N.D. Ga. 1980).

Burden of proving registration. — O.C.G.A. § 10-1-491 places no burden on party using trade name to prove that the party has been registered. Barker v. Century 21-Atlanta E. Realty, Inc., 162 Ga. App. 828, 293 S.E.2d 76, 1982 Ga. App. LEXIS 2355 (1982).

Contract entered in unregistered trade name deemed valid. — O.C.G.A. § 10-1-491 expressly provides that a contract entered into in a trade name is valid notwithstanding the failure to register the trade name with the superior court clerk; the only penalty is that the nonregistering party will have to bear court costs. Brooks v. Maryville Loan & Fin. Co., 679 F.2d 837, 1982 U.S. App. LEXIS 17949 (11th Cir. 1982).

10-1-492. Exemption of corporations, limited or professional partnerships, or limited liability companies.

This part shall not apply to corporations doing business under their corporate names, to limited partnerships doing business under their limited partnership names, or to limited liability companies doing business under their limited liability company names which have been filed for record pursuant to Chapter 9, 9A, or 11 of Title 14, as amended, or to persons practicing any profession under a partnership name.

(a) Each museum or archives repository shall keep accurate records of all property on loan to the museum or archives repository, including the name and address of the owner, if known, and the beginning and ending date of the loan period. At the time that a person makes a loan to a museum or archives repository, the museum or archives repository shall give the owner of the property a copy of this article. If a museum or archives repository is notified of a change in the ownership of any property loaned to a museum or archives repository, the museum or archives repository shall inform the new owner of the provisions of the loan agreement and shall send the new owner a copy of this article. 10-1-529.4. Abandonment of property loaned to a museum or archives repository; museum acquisition of abandoned property.

(a) Property loaned to a museum or archives repository whose loan has an expiration date is abandoned when there has not been written contact between the owner and the museum or archives repository for at least seven years after that expiration date. If the loan has no expiration date, the property is abandoned when there has not been written contact between the owner and the museum or archives repository or their successors or assigns for at least seven years after the museum or archives repository took possession of the property.

(b)(1) If a museum or archives repository wishes to acquire title to abandoned property, the museum or archives repository shall, not less than 60 days after property is abandoned under subsection (a) of this Code section, send a notice by certified mail or statutory overnight delivery to the owner's last known address. A copy of such notice shall be simultaneously sent to any known lienholder at such lienholder's last known address. The notice shall contain all of the following:

(A) A statement that the loan is terminated and that the property is abandoned;

(B) A description of the property;

(C) A statement that the museum or archives repository will become the owner of the property if the present owner does not submit a written claim to the property to the museum or archives repository within 60 days after receipt of the notice; and

(D) A statement that the museum or archives repository will make arrangements with the owner to return the property to the owner or dispose of the property as the owner requests if the owner submits a written claim to the property to the museum or archives repository within 60 days after receipt of the notice.

(2) The notice provided for in subsection (a) of this Code section shall be substantially in the following form:

NOTICE OF ABANDONMENT OF PROPERTY

Please be advised that the loan agreement is terminated for the following property (describe the property in sufficient detail to identify the property):

The above-described property that you loaned to _____ (name and address of museum or archives repository) will be considered abandoned by you and will become the property of _____ (name of museum or archives repository) if you fail to submit to the museum or archives repository a written claim to the property within 60 days after receipt of this notice. If you do submit a written claim to the property within 60 days after receipt of this notice, _____ (name of museum or archives repository) will arrange to return the property to you or dispose of the property as you request. The cost of returning the property to you or disposing of the property is your responsibility unless you have made other arrangements with the museum or archives repository. _____ (name of person to contact at museum or archives repository and address of museum or archives repository).

(c) If the notice sent by the museum or archives repository under subsection (b) of this Code section is returned to the museum or archives repository undelivered, the museum or archives repository shall give notice of the abandoned property by publication once a week for two consecutive weeks in the official county organs of the county in which the museum or archives repository is situated and the county of the owner's last known address, and on the organization's website, if applicable, containing the following:

(1) The name and last known address of the present owner;

(2) A description of the property;

(3) A statement that the property is abandoned and that the museum or archives repository will become the owner of the property if no person can prove ownership of the property;

(4) A statement that a person claiming ownership of the property shall notify the museum or archives repository in writing of that claim within 60 days after publication of the last legal notice; and

(5) The name and mailing address of the person who may be contacted at the museum or archives repository if a person wants to submit a written claim to the property.

(d) If the museum or archives repository receives a timely written claim for the property from the owner or the owner's agent in response to the notice provided under subsection (b) or (c) of this Code section the museum or archives repository shall return the property to the owner or dispose of the property as the owner requests. The owner shall advise the museum or archives repository in writing as to how the property shall be disposed of or returned to the owner. Costs of returning the property or disposing of the property shall be the responsibility of the owner unless the owner and the museum or archives repository have made other arrangements.

(e) If the museum or archives repository receives a timely written claim for the property from a person other than the person who loaned the property to the museum or archives repository in response to the notice provided under subsection (b) or (c) of this Code section, the museum or archives repository shall, within 60 days after receipt of the written claim, determine if the claim is valid. A claimant shall submit proof of ownership with the claim. If more than one person submits a timely written claim, the museum or archives repository may delay its determination of ownership until the competing claims are resolved by agreement or legal action. If the museum or archives repository determines that the claim is valid or if the competing claims are resolved by agreement or judicial action, the museum or archives repository shall return the property to the claimant submitting the valid claim or dispose of the property as the valid claimant requests. Costs of returning the property or disposing of the property shall be the responsibility of the valid claimant.

(f) If the museum or archives repository does not receive a timely written claim to the property or if the museum or archives repository determines that no valid timely claim to the property was submitted, the museum or archives repository becomes the owner of the property. The museum or archives repository becomes the owner of the property on the day after the period for submitting a written claim ends or on the day after the museum or archives repository determines that no valid timely written claim was submitted. The museum or archives repository owns the property free from all claims.

History.
Code 1981, § 10-1-529.4, enacted by Ga. L. 2006, p. 720, § 2/SB 195.

10-1-529.5. Acquisition of undocumented property.

(a) Property in the possession of a museum or archives repository which the museum or archives repository has reason to believe may be on loan and for which the museum or archives repository does not know the owner or have any reasonable means of determining the owner becomes the property of the museum or archives repository if no person has claimed the property within seven years after the museum or archives repository or a predecessor or assignor of such museum or archives repository took possession of the property. The museum or archives repository becomes the owner of the property on the day after the seven-year period ends and after following the notification process outlined in subsection (b) of this Code section free from all claims.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Franchise agreement not created. — Acknowledgment document between automobile dealer and automobile manufacturer did not meet the definitional requirements of the Motor Vehicle Franchise Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-620 et seq., and neither the intent of the parties nor their acknowledged course of conduct could create a statutory franchise agreement between them where none was executed. Hoyt's Cycle Store, Inc. v. American Suzuki Motor Corp., 202 Ga. App. 15, 413 S.E.2d 455, 1991 Ga. App. LEXIS 1649 (1991), cert. denied, No. S92C0299, 1992 Ga. LEXIS 34 (Ga. Jan. 10, 1992).

Franchisee's standing to seek to enjoin establishment of competing dealership. — Franchisee did not have standing to seek to enjoin the establishment of a competing dealership within eight miles of the franchisee's service center because: (1) for purposes of the statute, the franchisee's relevant market area was the area within eight miles of an existing dealership; (2) "dealership" meant the "person" of the corporate franchisee; (3) the franchisee's principal place of business and registered office were at a location other than the service center, which location was more than eight miles from the new dealership's proposed location; so, (4) under the plain language of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-664(b), the service center was not, by definition, an existing dealership in whose relevant market area the franchisor intended to establish a new dealership since, under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-622(1) and (2)(A), "dealership" or "dealer" was defined as the "person," which in this case was a corporation, and a corporate "dealership" or "dealer" was not defined according to the corporation's facilities. WMW, Inc. v. Am. Honda Motor Co., 311 Ga. App. 1, 714 S.E.2d 689, 2011 Ga. App. LEXIS 686 (2011), aff'd on other grounds, 291 Ga. 683, 733 S.E.2d 269, 2012 Ga. LEXIS 777 (2012).

Under the Georgia Motor Vehicle Franchise Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-620 et seq., a corporate dealership's relevant market area, the area for which the dealer has standing to resist competition by a new or relocated dealership of the same franchisor, is the area located within an eight-mile radius of where a dealer qualified as such because the dealer is engaged in the business of selling new motor vehicles, sells those vehicles, or where a dealer qualified as such because the dealer engages exclusively in the repair of motor vehicles. WMW, Inc. v. Am. Honda Motor Co., 291 Ga. 683, 733 S.E.2d 269, 2012 Ga. LEXIS 777 (2012).

Applicability of paragraph (11). — Paragraph (11) of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-622 applies to transactions between automobile manufacturers and their franchisees not to transactions between car dealers and their retail customers. Toirkens v. Willett Toyota, Inc., 192 Ga. App. 109, 384 S.E.2d 218, 1989 Ga. App. LEXIS 959 (1989).

Finance company was not a franchisor and could not be liable under the Georgia Motor Vehicle Dealer's Day in Court Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-630 et seq. Nissan Motor Acceptance Corp. v. Stovall Nissan, 224 Ga. App. 295, 480 S.E.2d 322, 1997 Ga. App. LEXIS 50 (1997).

10-1-623. Action for violation of article; punitive damages; equitable relief; standing; venue.

(a) Notwithstanding the terms, provisions, or conditions of any agreement or franchise or other terms or provisions of any novation, waiver, or other written instrument, any person who is or may be injured by a violation of a provision of this article or any party to a franchise who is so injured in his or her business or property by a violation of a provision of this article relating to that franchise or any person so injured because he or she refuses to accede to a proposal for an arrangement which, if consummated, would be in violation of this article may file a petition with the Department of Revenue as provided in Code Section 10-1-667 or may bring an action in any court of competent jurisdiction for damages and equitable relief including injunctive relief. Said person may recover damages therefor in any amount equal to the greater of (1) the actual pecuniary loss or (2) three times the actual pecuniary loss, not to exceed $750,000.00. In addition, said person may recover costs and reasonable attorney's fees as damages. Upon a prima-facie showing by the person filing the petition or cause of action that a violation of this article has occurred, the burden of proof shall then be upon the opposing party to prove that such violation did not occur.

(b) If the franchisor engages in aggravated or continued multiple intentional violations of a provision or provisions of this article, the court may award punitive damages in addition to any other damages authorized under this part.

(c) A dealer, owner, or other party, if he has not suffered any loss of money, property, employment rights, or business opportunity, may obtain final equitable relief if it can be shown that the violation of a provision of this article by a franchisor may have the effect of causing such loss of money, property, employment rights, or business opportunity.

(d) This Code section shall not prevent a dealer from voluntarily entering into a valid release agreement to resolve a specific claim, dispute, or action between the franchisor and the dealer or when separate and adequate consideration is offered and accepted, provided that the renewal of a franchise shall not by itself constitute separate and adequate consideration.

(e) Any corporation or association which is primarily owned by or comprised of dealers and which primarily represents the interests of dealers shall have standing to file a petition or cause of action with the Department of Revenue or with any court of competent jurisdiction for itself or by, for, or on behalf of any dealer or group of dealers for an alleged violation of this article or for the determination of any rights created by this article.

(f) In addition to any county in which venue is proper in accordance with any provision of the Constitution of this state or any other provision of this Code, in any cause of action brought against a manufacturer, franchisor, or distributor which is a corporation by a dealer for any alleged breach of the franchise agreement or alleged violation of this article or for the determination of any rights created by the franchise agreement or this article, venue shall be proper in the county in which the dealer engaged in the business of selling the products or services of such manufacturer, franchisor, or distributor, and the manufacturer, franchisor, or distributor which is a corporation shall be deemed to reside in such county for venue purposes. Any provision of a franchise or other agreement, under which the parties determine, agree to, control, restrict, establish, limit, or direct the venue in which a cause of action under this article shall be brought, shall be void.

Editor's notes.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Punitive damages. — In an action by an automobile dealership franchisee against the franchisor for wrongful termination of the franchise agreement, the trial court was authorized to substitute the court's award of punitive damages for that of the jury. Moore v. American Suzuki Motor Corp., 211 Ga. App. 337, 439 S.E.2d 43, 1993 Ga. App. LEXIS 1533 (1993), cert. denied, No. S94C0470, 1994 Ga. LEXIS 536 (Ga. Mar. 1, 1994), cert. denied, No. S94C0489, 1994 Ga. LEXIS 547 (Ga. Feb. 28, 1994).

No legal duty to consumer. — Trial court erred by denying a franchisor's motion for summary judgment with regard to a consumer's negligence claim predicated on the Franchise Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-620 et seq., as the Act did not impose a legal duty upon the franchisor to prevent a franchisee from presenting an unreasonable risk of harm to members of the public like the consumer. DaimlerChrysler Motors Co. v. Clemente, 294 Ga. App. 38, 668 S.E.2d 737, 2008 Ga. App. LEXIS 1057 (2008).

10-1-624. Applicability; use of subsidiary to accomplish illegal act prohibited.

(a) Any person who engages directly or indirectly in purposeful contacts within this state in connection with the offering of advertising for sale or has business dealings with respect to a new motor vehicle sale within this state shall be subject to the provisions of this article and shall be subject to the jurisdiction of the courts of this state.

(b) The applicability of this article shall not be affected by a choice of law clause in any franchise, agreement, waiver, novation, or any other written instrument.

(c) Any provision of any franchise, agreement, waiver, novation, or any other written instrument executed, modified, extended, or renewed after July 1, 1983, which is in violation of any Code section of this article, and any amendments thereto, shall be deemed null and void and without force and effect.

(d) No franchisor shall use any subsidiary corporation, affiliated corporation, or any other controlled corporation, partnership, association, or person to accomplish what would otherwise be illegal conduct under this article on the part of the franchisor.

No franchisor, nor any agent nor employee of a franchisor, shall use a written instrument, agreement, or waiver to attempt to nullify any of the provisions of this article and any such agreement, written instrument, or waiver shall be null and void. Part 2

Motor Vehicle Dealer's Day in Court

No retroactive effect. — Because Georgia Motor Vehicle Dealer's Day in Court Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-630 et seq., and the Georgia Motor Vehicle Fair Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-660 et seq., affect the substantive rights of the parties, the statutes cannot be given retroactive effect. Stamps v. Ford Motor Co., 650 F. Supp. 390, 1986 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 18434 (N.D. Ga. 1986) (decided prior to 1993 reenactment).

Georgia Motor Vehicle Dealer's Day in Court Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-630 et seq., in Georgia applied only to acts after July 1, 1983. Ewers v. Ford Motor Co., 843 F.2d 1331, 1988 U.S. App. LEXIS 5714 (11th Cir. 1988) (decided prior to 1993 reenactment).

10-1-631. Unlawful acts of franchisor.

(a) It is declared to be violative of the existing law of the State of Georgia for any franchisor:

(1) To fail to act in good faith with any dealer in connection with the sale, transfer, termination, or succession of a franchise or in connection with the operation of a dealer's business pursuant to a franchise or to fail to act in good faith in any of its business transactions with a dealer; or

(2) To utilize a boycott, refusal to deal, threat of refusal to deal, coercion, threat of punitive action, withholding of benefits, or other unconscionable business practices in any of its business transactions with a dealer.

(b) Without limitation as to other actions which may violate this Code section, it shall be evidence of a violation of this Code section if a franchisor commits any action which would be a violation of any part of Part 1 of this article, the "Georgia Motor Vehicle Franchise Practices Act."

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Bad faith required. — A violation of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-631 was not established by the prospective transferee of a franchise who failed to show that the franchisor acted in bad faith in rejecting the transfer. Hickman v. American Honda Motor Co., 982 F. Supp. 881, 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 20786 (N.D. Ga. 1997), aff'd, 138 F.3d 958, 1998 U.S. App. LEXIS 7062 (11th Cir. 1998).

Finance company was not a franchisor and could not be liable under Georgia Motor Vehicle Dealer's Day in Court Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-630 et seq. Nissan Motor Acceptance Corp. v. Stovall Nissan, 224 Ga. App. 295, 480 S.E.2d 322, 1997 Ga. App. LEXIS 50 (1997).

No legal duty to consumer. — Trial court erred by denying a franchisor's motion for summary judgment with regard to a consumer's negligence claim predicated on the Franchise Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-620 et seq., as the Act did not impose a legal duty upon the franchisor to prevent a franchisee from presenting an unreasonable risk of harm to members of the public like the consumer. DaimlerChrysler Motors Co. v. Clemente, 294 Ga. App. 38, 668 S.E.2d 737, 2008 Ga. App. LEXIS 1057 (2008).

10-1-632. Protection of consumer data in motor vehicle sales or lease transactions; burden of proof for violations.

(a) With respect to consumer data, a franchisor, manufacturer, distributor, or a third party acting on behalf of a franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor:

(1) Shall comply with and shall not cause a dealer to violate any applicable restrictions on reuse or disclosure of the consumer data established by federal or state law;

(2) Shall provide a written statement to the dealer upon request describing the established procedures adopted by such franchisor, manufacturer, distributor, or third party acting on behalf of the franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor which meet or exceed any federal or state requirements to safeguard the consumer data, including, but not limited to, those established in the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act, 15 U.S.C. Section 6801, et seq.;

(3) Shall, upon the written request of the dealer, provide a written list of the consumer data obtained from the dealer and all persons to whom any consumer data has been provided by the franchisor, manufacturer, distributor, or a third party acting on behalf of a franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor during the preceding six months. The dealer may make such a request no more than once every six months. The list must indicate the specific fields of consumer data which were provided to each person. Notwithstanding the foregoing, such a list shall not be required to include:

(A) A person to whom consumer data was provided, or the specific consumer data provided to such person, if the person was, at the time such consumer data was provided, a service provider, subcontractor, or consultant acting in the course of performance of services on behalf of or for the benefit of the franchisor, manufacturer, distributor, third party, or dealer, provided that the franchisor, manufacturer, distributor, third party, or dealer has entered into an agreement with such person requiring that such person comply with the safeguard requirements of applicable state and federal law, including, but not limited to, those established in the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act, 15 U.S.C. Section 6801, et seq.; and

(B) A person to whom consumer data was provided, or the specific consumer data provided to such person, if the dealer has previously consented in writing to such person receiving such consumer data and the dealer has not withdrawn such consent in writing;

(4) May not require that a dealer grant the franchisor, manufacturer, distributor or a third party acting on behalf of a franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor direct or indirect access to such dealer's data management system to obtain consumer data. A franchisor, manufacturer, distributor, or a third party acting on behalf of a franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor must permit a dealer to furnish consumer data in a widely accepted file format, such as comma delimited, and through a third-party vendor selected by the dealer. However, a franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor, or a third party acting on behalf of a franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor may access or obtain consumer data directly from a dealer's data management system with the express consent of the dealer. The consent must be in the form of a written document that is separate from the parties' franchise agreement, is executed by the dealer, and may be withdrawn by the dealer upon 30 days' written notice to the franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor as applicable. For incentive programs beginning on or after July 1, 2019, such consent shall not be required as a condition to a motor vehicle dealer's participation in an incentive program unless such consent is necessary to obtain consumer data to implement the program; and

(5) Shall indemnify the dealer for any third-party claims asserted against or damages incurred by the dealer to the extent caused by access to, use of, or disclosure of consumer data in violation of this Code section by the franchisor, manufacturer, distributor or a third party to whom the franchisor, manufacturer or distributor has provided consumer data.

(b) Nothing contained in this Code section shall limit the ability of the franchisor, the manufacturer, or distributor, to require that the dealer provide, or use in accordance with the law, such customer information related solely to such manufacturer's or distributor's own vehicle makes to the extent necessary to do any of the following:

(1) Satisfy any safety or recall notice obligations or other legal notice obligations on the part of the manufacturer;

(2) Complete the sale and delivery of a new motor vehicle to a customer;

(3) Validate and pay customer or dealer incentives;

(4) Submit to the franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor claims for any services supplied by the dealer for any claim for warranty parts or repairs;

(5) Market analysis;

(6) Evaluate sales and service customer satisfaction with the dealer, including surveys; or

(7) Reasonable marketing purposes that benefit the dealer.

(c) In any cause of action against a franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor for a violation of this Code section, the party bringing the action shall have the burden of proof.

10-1-641. Requirements of franchisor, manufacturer, and distributor; reasonable compensation for parts and labor; recall notices; stop-sales.

(a)(1) Each franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor:

(A) Shall specify in writing to each of its dealers in this state the dealer's obligations for predelivery preparation including the repair of damages incurred in the transportation of vehicles as set forth in Code Section 10-1-642, recall work, and warranty service on its products;

(B) Shall, at the election of the dealer, reasonably compensate the dealer for parts and labor provided for such warranty service work as provided in paragraph (2) of this subsection;

(C) Shall provide the dealer with a schedule of compensation to be paid such dealer for parts, work, and service in connection therewith; and

(D) Shall provide the dealer with a schedule of the time allowance for the performance of such work and service. Any such schedule of compensation shall include reasonable compensation for diagnostic work, repair service, and labor. Time allowances for the diagnosis and performance of such work and service shall be reasonable and adequate for the work to be performed.

(2)(A) In the determination of what constitutes reasonable compensation for parts and labor under this Code section, the principal factors to be considered shall be the retail rates customarily charged by the dealer, as established pursuant to this paragraph, and the rates for parts and labor charged by other similarly situated franchised dealers in a comparable geographic area in this state offering the same line-make vehicles.

(B) The retail rate customarily charged by the dealer for parts shall be established by the dealer submitting to the franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor 100 sequential nonwarranty customer-paid service repair orders which contain warranty-like repairs or 90 consecutive days of nonwarranty customer-paid service repair orders which contain warranty-like parts, whichever is less. Such service repair orders shall cover repairs made no more than 180 days before the submission. If the franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor determines, from any set of repair orders submitted under this subparagraph, that the retail markup rate for parts calculated is substantially higher or lower than the rate currently on record with the franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor, then the franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor may request additional documentation for a period of either 60 days prior to or 60 days subsequent to the time period for which the repair orders were submitted for purposes of an adjustment. The dealer's retail rate percentage for parts shall be calculated by determining the dealer's total parts sales in the submitted repair orders and dividing that amount by the dealer's total cost for purchase of those parts, subtracting one from that amount, and then multiplying by 100. The declared retail rate shall be approved or disapproved within 30 days following submission by the dealer. The declared retail rate shall go into effect 30 days following approval by the franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor, unless such franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor disapproves and timely contests the dealer's declared rate. If a franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor fails to disapprove within 30 days following submission by the dealer, the declared retail rate shall be deemed approved. A franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor may contest the dealer's declared parts rate not later than 30 days after submission and declaration of the parts rate by the dealer by reasonably substantiating that the rate is unreasonable in light of the practices of all other similarly situated franchised dealers in a comparable geographic area in this state offering the same line-make vehicles. In contesting the dealer's declared rate, a franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor shall provide a written explanation of the reasons for disagreement with the declared rate. If the declared parts rate is contested, then the franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor shall propose an adjustment of the rate. If the franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor contests the dealer's declared parts rate, the parties shall attempt to resolve the dispute through an internal dispute resolution procedure of the franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor, if available, provided that such procedure occurs within a reasonable amount of time, not to exceed 30 days after notification of disagreement with the dealer's declared rate. If the internal dispute resolution procedure is unsuccessful or does not occur in a timely manner, the dealer may file a petition with the commissioner not later than 60 days after receipt of the proposed adjustment by the franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor or not later than 30 days after conclusion of the internal dispute resolution procedure, whichever is later. If such a petition is filed, the commissioner shall inform the franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor that a timely petition has been filed and that a hearing will be held on such issue. In any hearing held pursuant to this subparagraph, the burden of proof shall be upon the franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor to demonstrate that the parts rate declared by the dealer was unreasonable and not in accordance with this subparagraph.

(C) The retail rate customarily charged by the dealer for labor may be established by submitting to the franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor 100 sequential nonwarranty customer-paid service repair orders for warranty-like repairs or 90 consecutive days of customer-paid service repair orders for warranty-like repairs, whichever is less. Such service repair orders shall cover repairs made no more than 180 days before the submission. If the franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor determines, from any set of repair orders submitted under this subparagraph, that the retail rate for labor calculated is substantially higher or lower than the rate currently on record with the franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor, then the franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor may request additional documentation for a period of either 60 days prior to or 60 days subsequent to the time period for which the repair orders were submitted for purposes of an adjustment. The retail rate for labor shall be calculated by determining the dealer's total labor sales from the submitted repair orders and dividing that amount by the total number of hours that generated those sales. The declared retail labor rate shall be approved or disapproved within 30 days following submission by the dealer. The declared retail labor rate shall take effect 30 days following approval by the franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor unless such franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor disapproves and timely contests the dealer's declared rate. A franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor may contest the dealer's declared labor rate not later than 30 days after submission and declaration of the labor rate by the dealer by reasonably substantiating that such rate is unreasonable in light of the practices of all other similarly situated franchised motor vehicle dealers in a comparable geographic area in this state offering the same line-make vehicles. If the declared labor rate is contested, then the franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor shall propose an adjustment of the declared retail labor rate. If the franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor contests the dealer's declared labor rate, the parties shall attempt to resolve the dispute through an internal dispute resolution procedure of the franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor, if available, provided that such procedure occurs within a reasonable amount of time not to exceed 30 days after notification of disagreement with the dealer's declared rate. If the internal dispute resolution procedure is unsuccessful or does not occur in a timely manner, the dealer may file a petition with the commissioner not later than 60 days after receipt of the proposed adjustment by the franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor or not later than 30 days after conclusion of the internal dispute resolution procedure, whichever is later. If such a petition is filed, the commissioner shall inform the franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor that a timely petition has been filed and that a hearing will be held on such issue. In any hearing held pursuant to this subparagraph, the burden of proof shall be upon the franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor to demonstrate that the labor rate declared by the dealer was unreasonable and not in accordance with this subparagraph.

(D) In calculating the retail rate customarily charged by the dealer for parts and labor for purposes of this paragraph, the following work shall not be included in the calculation:

(i) Repairs for franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor special events, specials, or promotional discounts for retail customer repairs;

(ii) Parts sold at wholesale;

(iii) Routine maintenance not covered under any retail customer warranty, such as fluids, filters, and belts not provided in the course of repairs;

(iv) Nuts, bolts, fasteners, and similar items which contain no individual part number;

(v) Tires; and

(vi) Vehicle reconditioning.

(E) If a franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor furnishes a part or component to a dealer to use in performing repairs under a recall, campaign service action, or warranty repair at no cost to the dealer, the franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor shall compensate the dealer for the authorized repair part or component in the same manner as warranty parts compensation under this Code section by paying the dealer the retail rate markup on the cost for the part or component as listed in the price schedule of the franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor less the cost for the part or component.

(F) No franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor shall require a dealer to establish the retail rate customarily charged by the dealer for parts and labor by an unduly burdensome or time-consuming method or by requiring information that is unduly burdensome or time consuming to provide, including, but not limited to, part-by-part or transaction-by-transaction calculations. No dealer shall declare a retail rate for parts or labor or both more than once in one calendar year.

(b)(1) Franchisors, manufacturers, and distributors shall include in written notices of factory recalls to dealers the expected date by which necessary parts and equipment will be available to dealers for the repair or replacement of recalled parts and equipment. Franchisors, manufacturers, and distributors shall compensate any dealers in this state for repairs affected by all recalls.

(2) All such claims shall be either approved or disapproved within 30 days after their receipt on forms and in the manner specified by the franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor, and any claim not specifically disapproved in writing within 30 days after the receipt shall be construed to be approved and payment must follow within 30 days.

(c) Subject to Code Section 10-1-645, a franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor shall not recover its costs from dealers within this state, including a surcharge imposed on a dealer solely intended to recover the cost of reimbursing the dealer for parts and labor pursuant to this Code section, provided that a franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor shall not be prohibited from increasing prices for vehicles or parts in the normal course of business.

(d)(1) For purposes of this subsection, the term "stop-sale" means a notification issued by a manufacturer to its franchised dealers stating that certain used motor vehicles in inventory shall not be sold or leased, at either retail or wholesale, due to a federal safety recall for a defect or a noncompliance or a federal emissions recall.

(2) A franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor shall compensate its dealers for all labor and parts required by the manufacturer to perform recall repairs. Compensation for recall repairs shall be reasonable. If parts or a remedy are not reasonably available to perform a recall service or repair on a used vehicle held for sale by a dealer authorized to sell and service new motor vehicles of the same line-make within 30 days of the manufacturer issuing the initial notice of recall, and the manufacturer has issued a stop-sale or do not drive order on the vehicle, the manufacturer shall compensate the dealer at a prorated rate of at least 1 percent of the value of the vehicle per month beginning on the date that is 30 days after the date on which the stop-sale or do not drive order was provided to the dealer to the earlier of the date the recall or repair parts or remedy are made available or the date the dealer sells, trades, transfers, or otherwise disposes of the affected used motor vehicle.

(3) The value of a used motor vehicle shall be the average trade-in value for used motor vehicles as indicated in an independent third-party guide for the year, make, and model of the recalled vehicle.

(4) This subsection shall apply only to used motor vehicles subject to safety or emissions recalls pursuant to and recalled in accordance with federal law and regulations adopted thereunder and where a stop-sale or do not drive order has been issued and repair parts or remedy remain unavailable for 30 days or longer.

(5) This subsection shall apply only to dealers holding an affected used motor vehicle for sale in inventory at the time a stop-sale or do not drive order is issued or which was taken into the used motor vehicle inventory of the dealer as a consumer trade-in incident to the purchase of a new motor vehicle from the dealer after the stop-sale or do not drive order was issued, and that are a line-make that the dealer is franchised to sell or on which the dealer is authorized to perform recall repairs.

(6) It shall be a violation of this subsection for a manufacturer to reduce the amount of compensation otherwise owed to an individual dealer, whether through a chargeback, removal of the individual dealer from an incentive program, or reduction in amount owed under an incentive program, solely because the dealer has submitted a claim for reimbursement under this subsection. This subsection shall not apply to an action by a manufacturer that is applied uniformly among all dealers of the same line-make in this state.

(7) All reimbursement claims made by dealers pursuant to this subsection for recall remedies or repairs, or for compensation where no part or repair is reasonably available and the vehicle is subject to a stop-sale shall be subject to the same limitations and requirements as a warranty reimbursement claim made under this subsection. In the alternative, a manufacturer may compensate its franchised dealers under a national recall compensation program provided the compensation under the program is equal to or greater than that provided under this subsection; or the manufacturer and dealer otherwise agree.

(8) A manufacturer may direct the manner and method in which a dealer must demonstrate the inventory status of an affected used motor vehicle to determine eligibility under this subsection, provided that the manner and method may not be unduly burdensome and may not require information that is unduly burdensome to provide.

(9) Nothing in this subsection shall require a manufacturer to provide total compensation to a dealer which would exceed the total average trade-in value of the affected used motor vehicle as originally determined under paragraph (3) of this subsection.

(10) Any remedy provided to a dealer under this subsection is exclusive and may not be combined with any other state or federal recall compensation remedy.

Amendments.

The 2024 amendment, effective July 1, 2024, part of an Act to revise, modernize, and correct the Code, substituted "time-consuming method" for "time consuming method" in subparagraph (a)(2)(F) and deleted "The provisions under" from the beginning of the second sentence in paragraph (d)(6).

Editor's notes.

Ga. L. 2010, p. 988, § 1/HB 1072, not codified by the General Assembly, provides: "WHEREAS, the General Assembly desires to reaffirm the legislative findings and declarations set forth in Code Section 10-1-621 and to make changes to the Georgia Motor Vehicle Franchise Practices Act in an effort to promote the stability of franchised motor vehicle dealerships in this state, thereby maintaining necessary reliable services to the consuming public, maintaining full and fair competition among dealers in the public interest, and providing continued employment to the citizens of this state."

10-1-642. Risk of loss for vehicle in transit.

Notwithstanding the terms, provisions, or conditions of any agreement of franchise, a manufacturer or distributor selling motor vehicles to dealers is liable for all damages to such motor vehicles before delivery to a carrier or transporter. If a dealer selects the carrier, the risk of loss passes to the dealer upon delivery of the vehicle to the carrier. In every other instance, the risk of loss remains with the franchisor until such time as the dealer or his designee accepts the vehicle from the carrier.

10-1-643. Payment of dealer's attorney's fees by manufacturer, distributor, or warrantor.

All manufacturers, distributors, and warrantors shall reimburse their dealers for reasonable attorney's fees incurred by the dealer in defending any action in which the dealer is named as a defendant and in which the allegations set forth in the action are based solely upon claims of alleged defective or negligent manufacture, assembly, design of new motor vehicles, parts, or accessories, or other functions by the distributor, manufacturer, or warrantor which are beyond the control of the dealer. For this Code section to be applicable, the dealer must give notice to the manufacturer, distributor, and warrantor within 30 days of the receipt of the action if the manufacturer, distributor, or warrantor is not a named defendant in the action. In addition, this Code section only applies to actions in which a judgment or finding of fault is returned only against the manufacturer, distributor, or warrantor or in which the manufacturer, distributor, or warrantor enters into an agreement which settles or makes final disposition of the action.

History.

10-1-645. Uniform warranty reimbursement agreement amongst dealers.

(a) Any manufacturer or franchisor and at least a majority of its dealers of the same line make may agree to a uniform warranty reimbursement agreement in an express written contract executed by a dealer principal or authorized designee of the dealer principal that specifically cites this Code section. The agreement shall only involve either reimbursement for parts used in warranty repairs or the use of a uniform time standards manual, or both. Reimbursement for parts under the agreement shall be used instead of the dealers' prevailing retail rate charged by that dealer for the same parts as defined in Code Section 10-1-641 to calculate compensation due from the franchisor for parts used in warranty repairs. This Code section does not authorize a franchisor and its dealers to establish a uniform hourly labor reimbursement.

(b) A manufacturer or franchisor that proposes a uniform reimbursement agreement must provide all of its line make dealers a minimum of 30 days to consider such proposal which shall be in writing and provided to the dealer principal or authorized designee of the dealer principal via certified mail or other trackable delivery method, including electronic transmission, to which a notice containing the following language in all capital letters shall be affixed:

GEORGIA LAW ALLOWS TWO ALTERNATIVE METHODS OF WARRANTY REIMBURSEMENT:

1. DEALERS MAY SUBMIT A REQUEST TO RECEIVE RETAIL RATE PURSUANT TO O.C.G.A. SECTION 10-1-641; OR

2. A MAJORITY OF LINE MAKE DEALERS MAY AGREE TO A UNIFORM WARRANTY REIMBURSEMENT AGREEMENT, AS PROPOSED WITH THIS NOTICE.

IN THE EVENT A MAJORITY OF THE SAME LINE MAKE DEALERS AGREE TO THE ATTACHED UNIFORM WARRANTY REIMBURSEMENT AGREEMENT, DEALERS THAT OPT TO SEEK RETAIL RATE PURSUANT TO O.C.G.A. SECTION 10-1-641 MAY BE SUBJECT TO A COST RECOVERY SURCHARGE ON ALL NEW VEHICLE INVOICES.

(c) Each franchisor shall only have one such agreement with each line make. Any such agreement shall:

(1) Establish a uniform parts reimbursement rate. The uniform parts reimbursement rate shall be not less than the greater of the nationally established rate set forth in the franchisor's sales and service agreement or other warranty manual or policy or the franchisor's national average warranty parts reimbursement rate at the time such agreement becomes effective;

(2) Apply to all warranty repair orders written during the period that the agreement is effective;

(3) Be available, during the period it is effective, to any dealer of the same line make at any time and on the same terms; and

(4) Be for a term not to exceed three years so long as any party to the agreement may terminate the agreement upon the annual anniversary of the agreement and with 30 days' prior written notice; however, the agreement shall remain in effect for the term of the agreement regardless of the number of dealers of the same line make that may terminate the agreement.

(d)(1) As used in this subsection, the term "costs" means the difference between the uniform reimbursement rate set forth in an agreement entered into pursuant to this Code section and the retail rate received by an individual dealer pursuant to Code Section 10-1-641.

(2) A manufacturer or franchisor that enters into a uniform warranty reimbursement agreement as provided in this Code section may seek to recover its costs from only those dealers that are receiving their retail rate pursuant to Code Section 10-1-641 as follows:

(A) The costs shall be recovered only by increasing the invoice price on new vehicles received by those dealers not a party to an agreement under this Code section; and

(B) Price increases imposed for the purpose of recovering costs under this Code section may vary from time to time and from model to model but shall apply to all dealers of the same line make in the State of Georgia that have requested reimbursement for warranty repairs at their prevailing retail rate.

(e) If a manufacturer or franchisor enters into a uniform reimbursement agreement with its dealers, the manufacturer or franchisor shall, within 60 days of entering into such agreement, certify under oath to the Department of Revenue that a majority of the dealers of that line make have entered into such an agreement and shall file a sample copy of the agreement, the required notice, a list of the line make dealers that have agreed to the uniform warranty reimbursement, and the date upon which such agreement was made. On an annual basis, the manufacturer shall certify under oath to the department that the parts warranty reimbursement in the agreement is no less than the greater of the franchisor's nationally established rate or the national average parts reimbursement rate and that the reimbursement costs it recovers under subsection (d) of this Code section do not exceed the amounts authorized by subsection (d) of this Code section. The manufacturer or franchisor shall maintain for a period of three years a file that contains the information upon which its certification is based.

(f) If a manufacturer or franchisor and its dealers do not enter into an agreement pursuant to this Code section, and for any matter that is not the subject of an agreement, this Code section shall have no effect whatsoever.

(g) For purposes of this Code section, a uniform time standard manual is a document created by a franchisor that establishes the time allowances for the diagnosis and performance of warranty work and service. The allowances shall be reasonable and adequate for the work and service to be performed. Each franchisor shall have a reasonable and fair process that allows a dealer to request a modification or adjustment of a standard or standards included in such a manual.

Part 4

Motor Vehicle Franchise Continuation and Succession

10-1-650. Short title.

This part shall be known and may be cited as the "Motor Vehicle Franchise Continuation and Succession Act."

History.
Code 1981, § 10-1-650, enacted by Ga. L. 1993, p. 1585, § 2.

10-1-651. Termination of franchise; grounds; notice; dealer costs reimbursed by franchisor; applicability to distributors.

(a) Notwithstanding the terms, provisions, or conditions of any franchise and notwithstanding the terms or provisions of any waiver, no franchisor shall cancel, terminate, or fail to renew any franchise with a dealer unless the franchisor:

(1) Has satisfied the notice requirement of subsection (e) of this Code section; and

(2) Has good cause for cancellation, termination, or nonrenewal.

(b) Notwithstanding the terms, provisions, or conditions of any franchise or the terms or provisions of any waiver, good cause shall exist for the purposes of a termination, cancellation, or nonrenewal when there is a failure by the dealer to comply with a provision of the franchise which is both reasonable and of material significance to the franchise relationship, provided the dealer has been notified in writing of the failure within 180 days after the franchisor first acquired knowledge of such failure or after the dealer is given a reasonable opportunity to correct such failure for a period of not less than 180 days.

(c) If the failure by the dealer, as described in subsection (b) of this Code section, relates to the performance of the dealer in sales or service, then in this Code section the term "good cause" means the failure of the dealer to comply with reasonable performance criteria established by the franchisor in light of existing circumstances, including, but not limited to, current and forecasted economic conditions, provided the following conditions are satisfied:

(1) The dealer was notified by the franchisor in writing of such failure;

(2) Said notification stated that notice was provided of failure of performance pursuant to this Code section;

(3) The performance criteria established by the franchisor was:

(A) Reasonable, fair, and equitable;

(B) Based on accurate information;

(C) Inclusive of relevant and material local and regional data considered by the franchisor that was provided by the dealer that was beyond the control of the dealer and that adversely affected the dealer's performance; and

(D) Based on a statistically significant and valid random sample, if such performance criteria included a survey; and

(4) The dealer was afforded a reasonable opportunity, for a period of not less than six months, to comply with such criteria.

(d) The franchisor shall have the burden of proof under this Code section.

(e)(1) Notwithstanding franchise terms to the contrary, prior to the termination, cancellation, or nonrenewal of any franchise, the franchisor shall furnish notification, as provided in paragraph (2) of this subsection, of such termination, cancellation, or nonrenewal to the dealer as follows:

(A) Not less than 90 days prior to the effective date of such termination, cancellation, or nonrenewal;

(B) Not less than 15 days prior to the effective date of such termination, cancellation, or nonrenewal with respect to any of the following:

(i) Insolvency of the dealer, or filing of any petition by or against the dealer under any bankruptcy or receivership law;

(ii) Failure of the dealer to conduct its customary sales and service operations during its customary business hours for seven consecutive business days, except for acts of God or circumstances beyond the direct control of the dealer;

(iii) Conviction of the dealer, general manager, or managing executive or any owner with a substantial interest therein of any crime which materially relates to the operation of the dealership or any felony which is punishable by imprisonment;

(iv) Suspension for a period of more than 14 days or revocation of any license which the dealer is required to have to operate a dealership; or

(v) Fraud or intentional misrepresentation by the dealer which materially affects the franchise, provided the franchisor gives notice within one year of the time when the fraud or misrepresentation occurred or was discovered, whichever is later; or

(C) Not less than 180 days prior to the effective date of such termination or cancellation where the franchisor is discontinuing the sale of the product line.

(2) Notification under this Code section shall be in writing and shall be by certified mail or statutory overnight delivery or personally delivered to the dealer and shall contain:

(A) A statement of intention to terminate, cancel, or not to renew the franchise;

(B) A statement of the reasons for the termination, cancellation, or nonrenewal; and

(C) The date on which such termination, cancellation, or nonrenewal is to take effect.

(f)(1)(A) Upon the termination, cancellation, or nonrenewal of any franchise by the franchisor, the franchisor shall repurchase from the dealer any new and undamaged motor vehicles of the current and one year prior model year and acquired by the dealer within 12 months of the date of termination, cancellation, or nonrenewal so long as such motor vehicles have been acquired from the franchisor or from another dealer of the same line-make in the ordinary course of business prior to receipt of the notice of termination, cancellation, or nonrenewal and so long as such motor vehicles have not been altered, damaged, or materially changed while in the dealer's possession. Any new motor vehicle repurchased by the franchisor shall be repurchased at the net cost to the dealer. For purposes of this subparagraph, a motor vehicle shall be considered new if it has less than 500 miles on the odometer and has not been issued a certificate of title.

(B) In addition to the motor vehicles repurchased under subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, the franchisor shall repurchase demonstration motor vehicles acquired by the dealer within 12 months of the date of termination, cancellation, or nonrenewal so long as such motor vehicles have been acquired from the franchisor or from another dealer of the franchisor prior to receipt of the notice of termination, cancellation, or nonrenewal and so long as such motor vehicles have not been altered, damaged, or materially changed and so long as such motor vehicles do not have more than 6,000 miles each on their odometers. Any such demonstration motor vehicle shall be repurchased at the net cost to the dealer less an allowance for use equal to the net cost to the dealer times the current mileage divided by 100,000. The franchisor shall repurchase a number of demonstration motor vehicles equal to 10 percent of the number of motor vehicles repurchased under subparagraph (A) of this paragraph; however, in no event shall the number of demonstration motor vehicles which the franchisor is required to repurchase ever be less than two or more than 15 motor vehicles.

(C) For purposes of this paragraph, a motor vehicle shall not be deemed to have been altered, damaged, or materially changed if it has been provided with original equipment or with nonoriginal equipment which does not alter, damage, or materially change the motor vehicle, such as undercoating, pinstriping, interior conditioning, or paint sealant.

(2) Upon the termination, cancellation, or nonrenewal of any franchise by the dealer, the franchisor shall repurchase from the dealer any new and undamaged motor vehicles, except motorcycles as defined in paragraph (29) of Code Section 40-1-1 and except motor homes as defined in paragraph (31) of Code Section 40-1-1 and except school buses as defined in paragraph (55) of Code Section 40-1-1, of the current and prior model year acquired by the dealer within 12 months prior to the effective date of the termination so long as such motor vehicles have been acquired from the franchisor or from another dealer of the franchisor of the same line-make and in the normal course of business and so long as such motor vehicles have not been altered, damaged, or materially changed while in the dealer's possession. Any new motor vehicle repurchased by the franchisor shall be repurchased at the net cost to the dealer. For purposes of this paragraph, a motor vehicle shall be considered new if it has less than 500 miles on the odometer and has not been issued a certificate of title. For purposes of this paragraph, a motor vehicle shall not be deemed to have been altered, damaged, or materially changed if it has been provided with original equipment or with nonoriginal equipment which does not alter, damage, or materially change the motor vehicle, such as undercoating, pinstriping, interior conditioning, or paint sealant.

(3)(A) Upon the termination, cancellation, or nonrenewal of any franchise by the franchisor or upon the termination, cancellation, or nonrenewal of any franchise by the franchisee, the franchisor shall repurchase, at fair and reasonable compensation, from the dealer the following:

(i) Any unused, undamaged, and unsold parts which have been acquired from the franchisor, provided such parts are currently offered for sale by the franchisor in its current parts catalogue and are in salable condition. Such parts shall be repurchased by the franchisor at the current catalogue price, less any applicable discount;

(ii) Any supplies, equipment, and furnishings, including manufacturer or line-make signs, purchased from the franchisor or its approved source within three years of the date of termination, cancellation, or nonrenewal; and

(iii) Any special tools purchased from the franchisor within three years of the date of termination, cancellation, or nonrenewal or any special tools or other equipment which the franchisor required the dealer to purchase regardless of the time purchased.

(B) Except as provided in division (i) of subparagraph (A) of this paragraph, fair and reasonable compensation shall be the net acquisition price if the item was acquired in the 12 months preceding the effective date of the termination, cancellation, or nonrenewal; 75 percent of the net acquisition price if the item was acquired between 13 and 24 months preceding the effective date of the termination, cancellation, or nonrenewal; 50 percent of the net acquisition price if the item was acquired between 25 and 36 months preceding the effective date of the termination, cancellation, or nonrenewal; 25 percent of the net acquisition price if the item was acquired between 37 and 60 months preceding the effective date of the termination, cancellation, or nonrenewal; or fair market value if the item was acquired more than 60 months preceding the effective date of the termination, cancellation, or nonrenewal.

(4) The repurchase of any item under this subsection shall be accomplished within 60 days of the effective date of the termination, cancellation, or nonrenewal or within 60 days of the receipt of the item by the franchisor, whichever is later in time, provided the dealer has clear title to the inventory and other items or is able to convey such title to the franchisor and does convey or transfer title and possession of the inventory and other items to the franchisor.

(5) In the event the franchisor does not pay the dealer the amounts due under this subsection or subsection (h) of this Code section within the time period set forth in this subsection, the franchisor shall, in addition to any amounts due, pay the dealer interest on such amount. This interest shall not begin to accrue until the time for payment has expired. The interest shall be computed monthly on any balance due and the monthly interest rate shall be one-twelfth of the sum of the then current Wall Street Journal Prime Interest Rate and 1 percentage point.

(g) If a termination or nonrenewal of a franchise is the result of a bankruptcy filing or reorganization of a franchisor or the sale or other change in the business operation of the franchisor, the franchisor shall be required to pay the fair market value of the franchise as of the date of the notice of termination or nonrenewal or 12 months prior to the date of notice of termination or nonrenewal, whichever is greater. Fair market value shall be the goodwill value of the dealer's franchise in the dealer's community or territory. In addition, if a termination or nonrenewal of a franchise is the result of a bankruptcy filing or reorganization of a franchise or the sale or other change in the business operation of the franchisor, the franchisor shall also be required to reimburse the dealer for the cost of facility upgrades and renovations required by the franchisor within two years prior to termination or nonrenewal. Termination assistance provided for in this subsection shall be in addition to repurchase obligations otherwise set forth in this Code section.

(h) Within 60 days of the termination, cancellation, or nonrenewal of any franchise by the franchisor, the franchisor shall commence to reimburse the dealer for one year of the dealer's reasonable cost to rent or lease the dealership's facility or location or for the unexpired term of the lease or rental period, whichever is less, or, if the dealer owns the facility or location, for the equivalent of one year of the reasonable rental value of the facilities or location. If more than one franchise is being terminated, canceled, or not renewed, the reimbursement shall be prorated equally among the different franchisors. However, if a franchise is terminated, canceled, or not renewed but the dealer continues in business at the same location under a different franchise agreement, the reimbursement required by this subsection shall not be required to be paid. The provisions of this subsection shall not apply if the dealer is convicted of any criminal offense which conviction is cause of the termination, cancellation, or nonrenewal. In addition, any reimbursement due under this subsection shall be reduced by any amount received by the dealer by virtue of the dealer leasing, subleasing, or selling the facilities or location during the year immediately following the termination, cancellation, or nonrenewal. If reimbursement is made under this subsection, the franchisor is entitled to possession and use of the facilities or location for the period covered by such reimbursement.

(i) If, in an action for damages under this Code section, the franchisor fails to prove that there was good cause for the franchise termination, cancellation, or nonrenewal, then the franchisor may pay the dealer an amount equal to the value of the dealership as an ongoing business, at which time the franchisor shall receive any title to the dealership facilities which the dealer may have and the franchisee shall surrender his franchise agreement to the franchisor. If the dealer receives an amount equal to the value as an ongoing business, the dealer shall have no other recovery from the franchisor absent a showing such as would warrant punitive damages under Code Section 10-1-623.

(j) Without limitation as to factors which may constitute or indicate a lack of good cause, no termination shall be considered to be for good cause:

(1) If such termination relates to the death or disability of an owner and the franchisor has not complied with Code Section 10-1-652; or

(2) If such termination relates to a change in ownership or management and the franchisor has not complied with Code Section 10-1-653.

(k) All procedures, protections, and remedies afforded to a motor vehicle dealer under this Code section shall be available to a motor vehicle distributor whose distributor agreement is terminated, canceled, not renewed, modified, or replaced by a manufacturer or an importer.

Code Commission notes.

Pursuant to Code Section 28-9-5, in 2010, "line-make" was substituted for "line make" in the first sentence of subparagraph (f)(1)(A).

Editor's notes.

Ga. L. 2010, p. 988, § 1/HB 1072, not codified by the General Assembly, provides: "WHEREAS, the General Assembly desires to reaffirm the legislative findings and declarations set forth in Code Section 10-1-621 and to make changes to the Georgia Motor Vehicle Franchise Practices Act in an effort to promote the stability of franchised motor vehicle dealerships in this state, thereby maintaining necessary reliable services to the consuming public, maintaining full and fair competition among dealers in the public interest, and providing continued employment to the citizens of this state."

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Burden of proof on franchisor. — Burden is placed on the franchisor to prove the franchisor's refusal to approve the transfer of the franchise was not arbitrary and that the franchisor had good cause to terminate the franchise. Moore v. American Suzuki Motor Corp., 203 Ga. App. 189, 416 S.E.2d 807, 1992 Ga. App. LEXIS 467 (1992).

No legal duty to consumer. — Trial court erred by denying a franchisor's motion for summary judgment with regard to a consumer's negligence claim predicated on the Franchise Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-620 et seq., as the Act did not impose a legal duty upon the franchisor to prevent a franchisee from presenting an unreasonable risk of harm to members of the public like the consumer. DaimlerChrysler Motors Co. v. Clemente, 294 Ga. App. 38, 668 S.E.2d 737, 2008 Ga. App. LEXIS 1057 (2008).

10-1-652. Designated successor of a deceased or incapacitated owner.

(a) Unless there exists good cause for refusal to honor succession on the part of the franchisor, any designated successor of a deceased or incapacitated owner may succeed to the ownership interest of the owner under the existing franchise if:

(1) The designated successor gives the franchisor written notice of his or her intention to succeed to the ownership interest within 60 days of the owner's death or incapacity or within a longer period if so provided in the franchise agreement; and

(2) The designated successor agrees to be bound by all the terms and conditions of the franchise.

(b) The franchisor may request, and the designated successor shall provide promptly upon said request, personal and financial data that is customarily required by the franchisor to determine whether the succession should be honored.

(c) If a franchisor believes that good cause exists for refusing to honor the succession to the ownership interest of an owner by a designated successor of a deceased or incapacitated owner, the franchisor may, within 60 days following receipt of notice of the designated successor's intent to succeed to the ownership interest of the owner or any personal or financial data which the franchisor has requested, serve upon the designated successor notice of its refusal to honor the succession and of its intent to discontinue the existing franchise with the dealer; however, if the franchisor shall enter into one or more interim or trial agreements with the designated successor, which interim or trial agreements may not extend more than three years from the owner's death or disability, then and in such event such notice shall be deemed timely if sent within 60 days of the termination of such interim or trial agreement. The notice must state the specific grounds for the refusal to honor the succession and of its intent to discontinue the existing franchise with the dealer.

(d) If a franchisor refuses to honor the succession to the ownership interest of a deceased or incapacitated owner, then and in such event:

(1) The franchisor shall allow the designated successor a reasonable period of time which shall not be less than six months in which to negotiate a sale of the dealership. Any such sale shall be subject to Code Section 10-1-653; and

(2) Upon termination of the franchise pursuant to such refusal, the provisions of Code Section 10-1-651 shall apply.

(e) If notice of refusal and discontinuance is not timely served upon the designated successor, the franchise shall continue in effect subject to termination only as otherwise permitted by this part.

(f) In determining whether good cause for the refusal to honor the succession exists, the franchisor has the burden of proving that the designated successor is a person who is not of good moral character or does not meet the franchisor's existing and reasonable standards.

(g) No franchisor shall terminate, cancel, or fail to renew any franchise solely because of the death or incapacity of an owner who is not listed in the franchise as one on whose expertise and abilities the franchisor relied in the granting of the franchise.

(h) This Code section does not preclude a new motor vehicle dealer from time to time designating any person as his or her successor by written instrument filed with the manufacturer or distributor and, if such instrument is currently on file with such manufacturer or distributor, it alone shall determine the succession rights to the management and operation of the dealership.

10-1-653. Sale of dealership franchise; notice to franchisor.

If a new motor vehicle dealer desires to make a change in its executive management or ownership or to sell its principal assets, the new motor vehicle dealer will give the franchisor prior written notice of the proposed change or sale. The franchisor shall not arbitrarily refuse to agree to such proposed change or sale and may not disapprove or withhold approval of such change or sale unless the franchisor can prove that its decision is not arbitrary and that the new management, owner, or transferee is unfit or unqualified to be a dealer based on the franchisor's prior written, reasonable, objective, and uniformly applied, within reasonable classifications, standards or qualifications which directly relate to the prospective transferee's business experience, moral character, and financial qualifications. A franchisor may not disapprove or withhold approval of a change or sale if the new management, owner, or transferee is an owner of a dealership in the State of Georgia which sells the same line-make motor vehicle as the dealership being transferred unless such management, owner, or transferee is not in substantial compliance with its existing franchise agreement relating to performance in the areas of customer satisfaction or sales or unless such management, owner, or transferee does not meet the franchisor's prior written, reasonable, objective, and uniformly applied standards or qualifications relating to its financial qualifications or moral character. Where the franchisor rejects a proposed change or sale, the franchisor shall give written notice of his reasons to the new motor vehicle dealer within 60 days. If no such notice is given to the new motor vehicle dealer, the change or sale shall be deemed approved.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Right of first refusal under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-663.1 not subject to the requirements of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-653. — In a dispute between a car dealership franchisor and a franchisee that sought to acquire another dealership, the franchisor's right of first refusal under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-663.1 was not subject to the requirements of the Transfer Statute, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-653; the two statutes operated independently, and the trial court erred in granting an interlocutory injunction to the franchisee. Nissan N. Am., Inc. v. Walker-Jones Nissan, LLC, 345 Ga. App. 447, 812 S.E.2d 130, 2018 Ga. App. LEXIS 215 (2018).

Burden of proof on franchisor. — Burden is placed on the franchisor to prove the franchisor's refusal to approve the transfer of the franchise was not arbitrary and that the franchisor had good cause to terminate the franchise. Moore v. American Suzuki Motor Corp., 203 Ga. App. 189, 416 S.E.2d 807, 1992 Ga. App. LEXIS 467 (1992).

Rejection of proposed franchise transfer not unreasonable. — Franchisor's rejection of a proposed franchise transfer for reasons unrelated to the proposed franchisee's experience or qualifications was not unreasonable. Hickman v. American Honda Motor Co., 982 F. Supp. 881, 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 20786 (N.D. Ga. 1997), aff'd, 138 F.3d 958, 1998 U.S. App. LEXIS 7062 (11th Cir. 1998).

No transfer by operation of law. — Failure of a franchisor to give notice to a former franchisee of its reasons for rejecting a proposed change in the ownership or sale of the dealership did not cause the dealership to transfer by operation of law. Hickman v. American Honda Motor Co., 982 F. Supp. 881, 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 20786 (N.D. Ga. 1997), aff'd, 138 F.3d 958, 1998 U.S. App. LEXIS 7062 (11th Cir. 1998).

Part 5

Motor Vehicle Fair Practices

No retroactive effect. — Because the Georgia Motor Vehicles Day in Court Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-630 et seq., and the Motor Vehicle Fair Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-660 et seq., affected the substantive rights of the parties, the statutes could not be given retroactive effect. Stamps v. Ford Motor Co., 650 F. Supp. 390, 1986 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 18434 (N.D. Ga. 1986) (decided prior to 1993 reenactment).

10-1-660. Short title.

This part shall be known and may be cited as the "Motor Vehicle Fair Practices Act."

History.
Code 1981, § 10-1-660, enacted by Ga. L. 1993, p. 1585, § 2.

10-1-661. Franchisors prohibited from requiring or coercing dealers to take or refrain from taking certain acts.

(a) For purposes of this Code section, the term "coerce" means to compel or attempt to compel by threat or use of force or to fail to act in good faith in performing or complying with any term or provision of a franchise or dealer agreement.

(b) No franchisor shall require, attempt to require, coerce, or attempt to coerce any dealer in this state:

(1) To order or accept delivery of any new motor vehicle, part, or accessory thereof, equipment, or any other commodity not required by law which shall not have been voluntarily ordered by the dealer, except that this paragraph does not affect any terms or provisions of a franchise requiring dealers to market a representative line of those motor vehicles which the franchisor is publicly advertising;

(2) To order or accept delivery of any new motor vehicle with special features, accessories, or equipment not included in the list price of such new motor vehicle as publicly advertised by the franchisor;

(3) To refrain from participation in the management of, investment in, or the acquisition of any other line of new motor vehicle or related products. However, this paragraph does not apply unless the dealer maintains a reasonable line of credit for each make or line of new motor vehicle, the dealer remains in compliance with any reasonable facilities requirements of the franchisor, the dealer provides acceptable sales performance, and no change is made in the principal management of the dealer;

(4) To expand, construct, or significantly modify facilities without assurances that the franchisor will provide a reasonable supply of new motor vehicles within a reasonable time so as to justify such an expansion in light of the market and economic conditions;

(5) To sell, assign, or transfer any retail installment sales contract obtained by such dealer in connection with the sale by such dealer in this state of new motor vehicles to a specified finance company or class of such companies or to any other specified persons;

(6) To provide warranty or other services for the account of franchisor, except as provided in Part 3 of this article, the "Motor Vehicle Warranty Practices Act";

(7) To acquire any line-make of motor vehicle or to give up, sell, or transfer any line-make of motor vehicle which has been acquired in accordance with this article once such dealer has notified the franchisor that it does not desire to acquire, give up, sell, or transfer such line-make or to retaliate or take any adverse action against a dealer based on such desire;

(8) To construct, renovate, or maintain exclusive facilities, personnel, or showroom area dedicated to a particular line-make if the imposition of such a requirement would be unreasonable in light of the existing circumstances, including the franchisor's reasonable business considerations, present economic and market conditions, and forecasts for future economic and market conditions in the dealer's retail territory. The franchisor shall have the burden of proof to demonstrate that its demand for exclusivity is justified by reasonable business considerations and reasonable in light of the dealer's circumstances, but this provision shall not apply to a voluntary agreement when separate and adequate consideration was offered and accepted, provided that the renewal of a franchise agreement shall not by itself constitute separate and adequate consideration. The franchisor shall have the burden of proof to show that the dealer has entered into a voluntary, noncoerced agreement regarding exclusivity;

(9)(A) To substantially change, alter, or remodel its dealership or to install new signs or other franchisor image elements that replace or substantially alter those improvements, signs, or franchisor image elements completed within the preceding ten years that were required and approved by the franchisor, factory branch, distributor, or distributor branch or one of its affiliates as part of a program, standard, or policy.

(B) If, during such ten-year period, the manufacturer revises or discontinues an existing program, standard, or policy or establishes a new program, standard, or policy or other benefit relating to construction or substantial alteration of a dealership, a motor vehicle dealer that completed construction or substantial alteration of a dealership as part of a prior program, standard, or policy and elects not to participate in the new or revised program, standard, or policy, shall not be entitled to bonus, incentive, benefit, or otherwise under the new or revised program but shall remain entitled to all benefits under the prior program, standard, or policy according to the terms of such prior program, standard, or policy. If the prior program, standard, or policy under which the dealer completed a construction or substantial alteration does not contain a specific time period during which the manufacturer or distributor must provide payments or benefits to a dealer, then the manufacturer or distributor may not deny the dealer payment or benefits under the terms of that prior program, as it existed when the dealer began to perform under the prior program, for the balance of the ten-year term, regardless of whether the manufacturer's or distributor's program, standard, or policy has been revised or discontinued.

(C) The provisions of this paragraph shall not prohibit a franchisor from:

(i) Continuing any facility improvement program in effect on July 1, 2019, with more than one franchised dealer in the state;

(ii) Providing lump sum or regularly scheduled payments to assist a franchised dealer in making a facility improvement, including construction, alteration or remodeling, or installing signage or a franchisor image element; or

(iii) Providing compensation or reimbursement to a franchised dealer on reasonable, written terms for a portion of such franchised dealer's costs of making a facility improvement, including construction; alteration or remodeling; the purchase of goods, building materials or services; or installing signage or a franchisor image element which are not paid on a per vehicle basis.

(D) Nothing in this paragraph shall be construed to permit a dealer to erect or maintain signs that do not conform to the manufacturer's intellectual property rights, trademarks, or trade dress usage guidelines.

(E) As used in this paragraph, the term "to substantially change, alter, or remodel" means to make an alteration that has a major impact on the architectural features, characteristics, or integrity of the structure or lot. Such term shall include the relocation or erection of freestanding signs, but shall not include routine maintenance, such as interior painting, reasonably necessary to keep a dealership facility in attractive condition;

(10)(A) To purchase goods or services to make improvements to the dealer's facilities from a vendor selected, identified, or designated by a manufacturer or one of its affiliates by program, incentive provision, or otherwise without making available to the dealer the option to obtain the goods or services of comparable grade, quality, and overall design, and the same or substantially the same materials and characteristics from a vendor chosen by the dealer and approved by the manufacturer; provided, however, that such approval by the manufacturer shall not be unreasonably withheld, and the dealer's option to select a vendor shall not be available if the manufacturer provides substantial reimbursement for the goods or services offered.

(B) If signs, other than signs containing the manufacturer's brand or logo or freestanding signs that are not directly attached to a building, or other franchisor image or design elements or trade dress are to be leased to the dealer by a vendor selected, identified, or designated by the manufacturer, such dealer has the right to purchase the signs or other franchisor image or design elements or trade dress of comparable grade, quality, and overall design, and the same or substantially the same materials and characteristics from a vendor selected by the dealer if such signs, franchisor image or design elements, or trade dress are approved by the manufacturer. Approval by the manufacturer shall not be unreasonably withheld.

(C) Nothing in this paragraph shall be construed to allow a dealer or vendor to impair, infringe upon, or eliminate, directly or indirectly, the intellectual property rights of the manufacturer including, but not limited to, the manufacturer's intellectual property rights in any trademarks or trade dress, or other intellectual property interests owned or controlled by the manufacturer.

(D) As used in this paragraph, the term:

(i) "Goods" shall not include movable displays, brochures, and promotional materials containing material subject to the intellectual property rights of a manufacturer, including copyright, trademark, or trade dress rights or any manufacturer's design or architectural review service.

(ii) "Substantial reimbursement" means an amount equal to or greater than the cost savings that would result if the dealer were to utilize a vendor of the dealer's own selection instead of using the vendor identified by the manufacturer; or

(11) Whether by agreement, program, incentive, or otherwise, to sell, lease, offer to sell or lease, solicit, or advertise the sale or lease of new motor vehicles in a manner that violates a law or any properly promulgated rule or regulation of this state.

Code Commission notes.

Pursuant to Code Section 28-9-5, in 2010, "line-make" was substituted for "line make" three times in paragraph (b)(7) and in the first sentence of paragraph (b)(8).

Editor's notes.

Ga. L. 2010, p. 988, § 1/HB 1072, not codified by the General Assembly, provides: "WHEREAS, the General Assembly desires to reaffirm the legislative findings and declarations set forth in Code Section 10-1-621 and to make changes to the Georgia Motor Vehicle Franchise Practices Act in an effort to promote the stability of franchised motor vehicle dealerships in this state, thereby maintaining necessary reliable services to the consuming public, maintaining full and fair competition among dealers in the public interest, and providing continued employment to the citizens of this state."

10-1-662. Unlawful activities by franchisors.

(a) It shall be unlawful for any franchisor:

(1) To delay, refuse, or fail to deliver new motor vehicles or new motor vehicle parts or accessories in a reasonable time and in reasonable quantity if such vehicles, parts, or accessories are publicly advertised as being available for immediate delivery. This paragraph is not violated, however, if such failure is caused by acts or causes beyond the control of the franchisor;

(2) To obtain money, goods, services, or any other benefit from any other person with whom the dealer does business, on account of, or in relation to, the transaction between the dealer and such other person, other than as compensation for services rendered, unless such benefit is promptly accounted for and transmitted to the dealer;

(3) To release to any outside party, except under subpoena or as otherwise required by law or in an administrative, judicial, or arbitration proceeding involving the franchisor or dealer, any business, financial, or personal information which may be from time to time provided by the dealer to the franchisor, without the express written consent of the dealer;

(4) To resort to or to use any false or intentionally deceptive advertisement in the conduct of business as a franchisor in this state;

(5) To make any false or intentionally deceptive statement, either directly or through any agent or employee, in order to induce any dealer to enter into any agreement or franchise or to take any action which is prejudicial to that dealer or that dealer's business;

(6) To require any dealer to assent prospectively to a release, assignment, novation, waiver, or estoppel which would relieve any person from liability to be imposed by law or to require any controversy between a dealer and a franchisor to be referred to any person other than the duly constituted courts of the state or the United States if such referral would be binding upon the dealer, provided that this Code section shall not prevent any dealer from entering into a valid release agreement with the franchisor;

(7) To fail to observe good faith in any aspect of dealings between the franchisor and the dealer;

(8) To deny any dealer the right of free association with any other dealer for any lawful purposes;

(9) To engage in any predatory practice or discrimination against any dealer;

(10) To propose or make any material change in any franchise agreement without giving the dealer written notice by certified mail or statutory overnight delivery of such change at least 60 days prior to the effective date of such change;

(11) To cancel a franchise or to take any adverse action against a dealer based in whole or in part on the failure of the dealer to meet the reasonable performance criteria established by the franchisor in light of existing circumstances, including but not limited to current and forecasted economic conditions, or when that failure is due to the failure of the franchisor to supply, within a reasonable period of time, new motor vehicles ordered by or allocated to the dealer;

(12) To offer to sell or lease or to sell or lease any new motor vehicle or accessory to any dealer at a lower actual price therefor than the actual price offered to any other dealer for the same model vehicle similarly equipped or same accessory or to use any device, including but not limited to an incentive, sales promotion plan, or other similar program, which results in a lower actual price of a vehicle or accessory being offered to one dealer and which is not offered to other dealers of vehicles of the same line-make or the same accessory;

(13) To conduct an audit, investigation, or inquiry of any dealer or dealership as to any activity, transaction, conduct, or other occurrence which took place more than one year prior to such audit, investigation, or inquiry or to base any decision adverse to the dealer or dealership on any activity, transaction, conduct, or other occurrence which took place more than one year prior to such decision or which took place more than one year prior to such audit, investigation, or inquiry or to apply the results of an audit, investigation, or inquiry to any activity, transaction, conduct, or other occurrence which took place more than one year prior to such audit, investigation, or inquiry. If the franchisor has reason to believe that fraudulent or intentionally false claims have been submitted, the franchisor may extend the audit, investigation, or inquiry period beyond the time periods provided in this paragraph; provided, however, that in no event shall the time period be extended beyond four years prior to such audit, investigation, or inquiry;

(14) To charge back to, deduct from, or reduce any account of a dealer or any amount of money owed to a dealer by a franchisor any amount of money the franchisor alleges is owed to such franchisor by such dealer as a result of an audit, investigation, or inquiry of such dealer or based upon information obtained by the franchisor through other resources which relates to any transaction that occurred more than one year prior to notice to the dealer of the charge back or deduction, and only if the franchisor can show by a preponderance of evidence that the transaction was fraudulent, intentionally and materially false, not reasonably substantiated, or did not follow the franchisor's written repair or claim submission requirements. A franchisor shall not charge back to, deduct from, or reduce any account of a dealer or any amount owed to a dealer based solely on such dealer's clerical error that does not put into question the legitimacy of the claim. If a claim is rejected for a clerical error, then the dealer may resubmit a corrected claim within 30 days. If a franchisor alleges that a dealer owes such franchisor any amount of money as a result of an audit, investigation, or inquiry, such franchisor shall send a notice to such dealer for such amount and the dealer shall have not less than 30 days to contest such amount or remit payment. If the dealer contests such amount, the charge shall be stayed pending a final resolution as provided in this Code section. Upon the dealer contesting the charge, the parties shall attempt to resolve the dispute through an internal dispute resolution procedure of the franchisor, if available, provided that such procedure occurs within a reasonable amount of time. If the internal dispute resolution procedure is unavailable, unsuccessful, or does not occur in a timely manner, such dealer may file a petition with the commissioner not later than 60 days after receipt of such notice from the franchisor or not later than 30 days after conclusion of the internal dispute resolution procedure, whichever is later. If such a petition is filed, the commissioner shall inform the franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor that a timely petition has been filed and that a hearing shall be held on such issue. In any hearing held pursuant to this paragraph, the burden of proof shall be upon the franchisor to demonstrate by a preponderance of evidence the transaction was fraudulent, intentionally and materially false, not reasonably substantiated or did not follow the franchisor's written repair or claim submission requirements;

(15) To deny, delay payment for, restrict, or bill back a claim by a dealer for payment or reimbursement for warranty service or parts, incentives, hold-backs, special program money, or any other amount owed to such dealer unless such denial, delay, restriction, or bill back is the direct result of a material defect in the claim which affects the validity of the claim;

(16) To engage in business as a dealer or to manage, control, or operate, or own any interest in a dealership either directly or indirectly, if the primary business of such dealer or dealership is to perform repair services on motor vehicles, except motor homes, pursuant to a manufacturer's or franchisor's warranty;

(17) To refuse to allow, to limit, or to restrict a dealer from maintaining, acquiring, or adding a sales or service operation for another line-make of motor vehicles at the same or expanded facility at which the dealer currently operates a dealership unless the franchisor can prove by a preponderance of the evidence that such maintenance, acquisition, or addition will substantially impair the dealer's ability to adequately sell or service such franchisor's motor vehicles;

(18) To directly or indirectly condition a franchise agreement or renewal of a franchise agreement, addition of a line-make, approval of relocation, or approval of a sale or transfer on the dealer's or prospective dealer's willingness to enter into a site control agreement; provided, however, that this paragraph shall not apply to a voluntary agreement when separate and adequate consideration is paid to the dealer. The franchisor shall have the burden of proof to show the voluntary, noncoerced acceptance of the site control agreement by the dealer;

(19) To charge back, withhold payment, deny vehicle allocation, or take other adverse action against a dealer when a new vehicle sold by the dealer has been exported to a foreign country unless the franchisor can demonstrate that the dealer knew or reasonably should have known that the customer intended to export or resell the new vehicle. There shall be a rebuttable presumption that the dealer had no such knowledge if the vehicle is titled or registered in any state in this country;

(20) To take any materially adverse action against a dealer, including a dealer's ability to participate in or receive a benefit or payment owed from any incentive or reimbursement program, based on criteria it has established, implemented, or enforced for measuring the performance, including, but not limited to, sales or service performance, of a dealer unless such criteria:

(A) Is fair, reasonable, and equitable; and

(B) Is based on accurate and relevant information; or

(21) To deny, delay payment for, restrict, or bill back a claim by a dealer for payment or reimbursement for incentives, hold-backs, sales or service promotion or other special program money, or any other amount owed to such dealer by the franchisor, if based solely on the dealer's compliance with a specific program requirement of the franchisor that would cause the dealer to violate a law or any properly promulgated rule or regulation of this state.

(b) No action shall in any way be based on this Code section with respect to acts occurring prior to July 1, 1983.

Code Commission notes.

Pursuant to Code Section 28-9-5, in 2010, "line-make" was substituted for "line make" near the end of paragraph (a)(12), in the middle of paragraph (a)(17), and in the first sentence of paragraph (a)(18).

Editor's notes.

Ga. L. 2010, p. 988, § 1/HB 1072, not codified by the General Assembly, provides: "WHEREAS, the General Assembly desires to reaffirm the legislative findings and declarations set forth in Code Section 10-1-621 and to make changes to the Georgia Motor Vehicle Franchise Practices Act in an effort to promote the stability of franchised motor vehicle dealerships in this state, thereby maintaining necessary reliable services to the consuming public, maintaining full and fair competition among dealers in the public interest, and providing continued employment to the citizens of this state."

10-1-663. Prohibited acts by franchisors.

(a) No franchisor shall require, attempt to require, coerce, or attempt to coerce any dealer in this state:

(1) To participate monetarily in an advertising campaign or contest or to purchase any promotional materials, training materials, showroom or other display decorations, or materials at the expense of the dealer; or

(2) To change or refrain from changing the capital structure or ownership of the dealer or the means by or through which the dealer finances the operation of the dealership, provided the dealer at all times meets any reasonable capital standards determined by the franchisor in accordance with uniformly applied criteria and provided no change in the capital structure shall cause a change in the principal management or have the effect of a sale of the franchise without the consent of the franchisor, which consent shall not unreasonably be withheld.

(b) No franchisor shall:

(1) Refuse to disclose to any dealer the manner and mode of distribution of the same line make as handled by the dealer within the dealer's market area;

(2) Increase prices of new motor vehicles which the dealer had ordered for consumers prior to the dealer's receipt of the written official price increase notification. A sales contract signed by a consumer shall constitute evidence of each such order, provided the vehicle is in fact delivered to that customer. Price differences applicable to new models or series shall not be considered a price increase. Price changes caused by the addition to a motor vehicle of required or optional equipment, revaluation of the United States dollar in the case of foreign-make vehicles or components, or an increase in transportation charges due to increased rates imposed by carriers shall not be subject to the provisions of this paragraph;

(3) Discriminate unfairly among its dealers with respect to any aspect of operating a motor vehicle dealership;

(4) Establish or create:

(A) By agreement or otherwise, unreasonable restrictions relative to noncompetition covenants or site control, whether by sublease, collateral pledge of lease, agreement, or other means;

(B) Reserved;

(C) By agreement or otherwise, an option to purchase the dealership or its assets from the dealer; or

(D) By agreement or otherwise, unreasonable requirements to comply with subjective standards or other matters incident to the operation of the dealership; or

(5) Unreasonably change the market area of a dealer as set forth in the dealer's franchise agreement.

10-1-663.1. Right of first refusal.

(a) Notwithstanding the terms of any franchise agreement, sales and services agreement, or similar agreement, a franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor shall be permitted to exercise a right of first refusal to acquire a dealer's assets or ownership, in the event of a proposed change of ownership, or transfer of dealership assets, if all of the following requirements are met:

(1) The proposed transfer of the dealership or its assets is of more than 50 percent of the ownership or assets;

(2) The franchisor notifies the dealer in writing within 60 days of its receipt of the complete written proposal for the proposed sale or transfer on forms generally utilized by the franchisor for such purpose and containing the information required therein and all documents and agreements relating to the proposed sale or transfer;

(3) The exercise of the right of first refusal will result in the dealer and dealer's owners receiving the same or greater consideration as provided for through the terms of the contract related to the proposed change of ownership or transfer of dealership assets;

(4) The proposed change of 50 percent or more of the ownership or of the dealership assets does not involve the transfer or sale of assets or the transfer or issuance of stock by the dealer or one or more dealer owners to a designated family member or members, including a spouse, child, grandchild, spouse of a child or grandchild, brother, sister, or parent of the dealer owner; to a manager who has been employed in the dealership for at least four years and is otherwise qualified as a dealer operator; or to a partnership or corporation owned and controlled by one or more of such persons;

(5) The franchisor agrees to pay the reasonable expenses, including reasonable attorney's fees, which do not exceed the usual customary, and reasonable fees charged for similar work done for other clients incurred by the proposed new owner and transferee before the franchisor's exercise of its right of first refusal in negotiating and implementing the contract for the proposed change of ownership or transfer of dealership assets. However, payment of such expenses and attorney's fees shall not be required if the dealer has not submitted or caused to be submitted an accounting of those expenses within 20 days after the dealer's receipt of the franchisor's written request for such an accounting. Such an accounting may be requested by the franchisor before exercising its right of first refusal; and

(6) The franchisor agrees to comply with and be subject to the requirements and restraints as set forth in paragraphs (1) and (2) of subsection (a) of Code Section 10-1-664.1 and in subsection (b) of Code Section 10-1-664.1.

(b) Within the terms of a right of first refusal contract related to the proposed change of ownership or transfer of dealership assets:

(1) The franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor shall have the right to assume the dealer's lease for, or acquire the real property on which the franchise is located, on the same terms as those on which the real property or lease was to be sold or transferred to the proposed new owner in connection with the sale of the franchise, unless otherwise agreed to by the dealer and manufacturer or distributor. The franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor shall have the right to assign the lease or to convey the real property; and

(2) The franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor shall assume all of the duties, obligations, and liabilities contained in the agreements that were to be assumed by the proposed new owner and with respect to which the franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor exercised the right of first refusal, provided that the franchisor, manufacturer, or distributor has knowledge of such obligations at the time of the exercise of the right of first refusal.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Right of first refusal not subject to requirements of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-653. — In a dispute between a car dealership franchisor and a franchisee that sought to acquire another dealership, the franchisor's right of first refusal under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-663.1 was not subject to the requirements of the Transfer Statute, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-653; the two statutes operated independently, and the trial court erred in granting an interlocutory injunction to the franchisee. Nissan N. Am., Inc. v. Walker-Jones Nissan, LLC, 345 Ga. App. 447, 812 S.E.2d 130, 2018 Ga. App. LEXIS 215 (2018).

10-1-664. Establishing a new dealership or relocating an existing dealership in the market area of an existing dealership; notice; petitions to enjoin or prohibit.

(a) Any franchisor which intends to establish a new dealership or to relocate a current dealership for a particular line-make motor vehicle within the relevant market area of an existing dealership of the same line-make motor vehicle shall give written notice of such intent by certified mail or statutory overnight delivery to such existing dealership. The notice shall include:

(1) The specific location of the additional or relocated dealership;

(2) The date on or after which the additional or relocated dealership will commence operation at the new location;

(3) The identity of all existing dealerships in whose relevant market area the new or relocated dealership is to be located; and

(4) The names and addresses of the dealer and principals in the new or relocated dealership.

(b) Any existing dealership in whose relevant market area a franchisor intends to establish a new dealership or to relocate a current dealership may within 60 days of the receipt of the notice petition a superior court to enjoin or prohibit the establishment of the new or relocated dealership within the relevant market area of the existing dealership. The court or other tribunal of competent jurisdiction shall enjoin or prohibit the establishment of the new or relocated dealership within the relevant market area of the existing dealerships unless the franchisor can prove by a preponderance of the evidence that the existing dealership is not providing adequate representation of the line-make motor vehicle in the existing dealership's relevant market area and that the new or relocated dealership is necessary to provide the public with reliable and convenient sales and service within the relevant market area. The burden of proof in establishing adequate representation shall be on the franchisor. In determining whether the existing dealership is providing adequate representation and whether the new or relocated dealership is necessary, the court or other tribunal may consider, but is not limited to considering, the following:

(1) The impact that the establishment of the new or relocated dealership will have on consumers, the public interest, and the existing dealership; provided, however, that financial impact may be considered only with respect to the existing dealership;

(2) The size and permanency of investment reasonably made and the reasonable obligations incurred by the existing dealership to perform its obligations under the dealership's franchise agreement;

(3) The reasonably expected market penetration of the line-make motor vehicle for the relevant market area involved, after consideration of all factors which may affect such penetration, including, but not limited to, demographic factors such as age, income, education, size class preference, product popularity, retail lease transactions, and other factors affecting sales to consumers in the relevant market area;

(4) Any actions by the franchisor in denying its existing dealership of the same line make the opportunity for reasonable growth, market expansion, or relocation, including the availability of line-make motor vehicles in keeping with the reasonable expectations of the franchisor in providing an adequate number of dealerships in the relevant market area;

(5) Any attempts by the franchisor to coerce the existing dealership into consenting to an additional or relocated dealership of the same line make in the relevant market area;

(6) Distance, travel time, traffic patterns, and accessibility between the existing dealership of the same line make and the location of the proposed new or relocated dealership;

(7) Whether benefits to consumers will likely occur from the establishment or relocation of the dealership which benefits cannot be obtained by other geographic or demographic changes or expected changes in the relevant market area;

(8) Whether the existing dealership is in substantial compliance with its franchise agreement;

(9) Whether there is adequate interbrand and intrabrand competition with respect to the line-make motor vehicles, including the adequacy of sales and service facilities;

(10) Whether the establishment or relocation of the proposed dealership appears to be warranted and justified based on economic and market conditions pertinent to dealerships competing in the relevant market area, including anticipated changes; and

(11) The volume of registrations and service business transacted by the existing dealership and in which would be the relevant market area of the proposed dealership.

(c) This Code section shall not apply:

(1) To the addition of a new dealership at a location which is within a three-mile radius of a former dealership of the same line make which has been closed for less than two years;

(2) To the relocation of an existing dealership to a new location which is further away from the protesting dealer's location than the relocated dealer's prior location; or

(3) To the relocation of an existing dealership to a new location which is within a three-mile radius of such dealership's current location and it has been at such current location at least ten years.

Code Commission notes.

Pursuant to Code Section 28-9-5, in 1999, "line make" was substituted for "line-make" in paragraph (b)(5).

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Dealership. — Franchisee did not have standing to seek to enjoin the establishment of a competing dealership within eight miles of the franchisee's service center because: (1) for purposes of the statute, the franchisee's relevant market area was the area within eight miles of an existing dealership; (2) "dealership" meant the "person" of the corporate franchisee; (3) the franchisee's principal place of business and registered office were at a location other than the service center, which location was more than eight miles from the new dealership's proposed location; so, (4) under the plain language of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-664(b), the service center was not, by definition, an existing dealership in whose relevant market area the franchisor intended to establish a new dealership since, under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-622(1) and (2)(A), "dealership" or "dealer" was defined as the "person," which in this case was a corporation, and a corporate "dealership" or "dealer" was not defined according to the corporation's facilities. WMW, Inc. v. Am. Honda Motor Co., 311 Ga. App. 1, 714 S.E.2d 689, 2011 Ga. App. LEXIS 686 (2011), aff'd on other grounds, 291 Ga. 683, 733 S.E.2d 269, 2012 Ga. LEXIS 777 (2012).

Anti-encroachment provision construed. — Under the Georgia Motor Vehicle Franchise Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-620 et seq., a corporate dealership's relevant market area, the area for which the dealer has standing to resist competition by a new or relocated dealership of the same franchisor, is the area located within an eight-mile radius of where a dealer qualified as such because the dealer is engaged in the business of selling new motor vehicles, sells those vehicles, or when a dealer qualified as such because the dealer engages exclusively in the repair of motor vehicles. WMW, Inc. v. Am. Honda Motor Co., 291 Ga. 683, 733 S.E.2d 269, 2012 Ga. LEXIS 777 (2012).

10-1-664.1. Restrictions on the ownership, operation, or control of dealerships by manufacturers and franchisors; competing unfairly with new dealers.

(a) It shall be unlawful for any manufacturer or franchisor or any parent, affiliate, wholly or partially owned subsidiary, officer, or representative of a manufacturer or franchisor to own, operate, or control or to participate in the ownership, operation, or control of any new motor vehicle dealer in this state within a 15 mile radius of an existing dealer of such manufacturer or franchisor; to own, operate, or control, directly or indirectly, more than a 45 percent interest in a dealer or dealership in this state; to establish in this state an additional dealer or dealership in which such person or entity has any interest; or to own, operate, or control, directly or indirectly, any interest in a dealer or dealership in this state unless such person or entity has acquired such interest from a dealer or dealership which has been in operation for at least five years prior to such acquisition; provided, however, that this subsection shall not be construed to prohibit:

(1) The ownership, operation, or control by a manufacturer or franchisor of a new motor vehicle dealer for a temporary period, not to exceed one year, during the transition from one owner or operator to another;

(2) The ownership, operation, or control of a new motor vehicle dealer by a manufacturer or franchisor during a period in which such new motor vehicle dealer is being sold under a bona fide contract, shareholder agreement, or purchase option to the operator of the dealership;

(3) The ownership, operation, or control of a new motor vehicle dealer by a manufacturer or franchisor at the same location at which such manufacturer or franchisor has been engaged in the retail sale of new motor vehicles as the owner, operator, or controller of such dealership for a continuous two-year period of time immediately prior to April 1, 1999, where there is no prospective new motor vehicle dealer available to own or operate the dealership in a manner consistent with the public interest;

(4) The ownership, operation, or control by a manufacturer which manufactures only motorcycles or motor homes of a retail sales operation engaged in the retail sale of motorcycles or motor homes;

(5) The ownership, operation, or control by a manufacturer which is selling motor vehicles directly to the public at an established place of business on January 1, 1999, and which has never sold its line make of new motor vehicles in this state through a franchised new motor vehicle dealer unless and until such manufacturer is wholly or partially acquired by another manufacturer or franchisor;

(6) The ownership, operation, or control by a manufacturer which manufactures trucks with a gross vehicle weight rating of 12,500 pounds or more of a new motor vehicle dealer which only sells trucks with a gross vehicle weight rating of 12,500 pounds or more at the same location at which such manufacturer has been engaged in the retail sale of such trucks as the owner, operator, or controller of such dealership for a continuous two-year period of time immediately prior to April 1, 1999, or at one additional location which is not located within the relevant market area of an existing dealer of the same line make of trucks; provided, however, that this exemption shall apply to a manufacturer described in this paragraph only until such manufacturer is wholly or partially acquired by another manufacturer or distributor;

(7) A manufacturer from selling new motor vehicles to customers if such vehicles are manufactured or assembled in accordance with custom design specifications of the customer and such sales are limited to no more than 150 vehicles per year; or

(8) The ownership, operation, or control by a manufacturer of not more than five locations licensed as new motor vehicle dealerships for the sale of new motor vehicles and any number of locations that engage exclusively in the repair of such manufacturer's line make of motor vehicles, provided that such manufacturer was selling or otherwise distributing its motor vehicles at an established place of business in this state as of January 1, 2015, and:

(A) The manufacturer manufactures or assembles zero emissions motor vehicles exclusively and has never sold its line make of motor vehicles in this state through a franchised new motor vehicle dealer; and

(B) The manufacturer has not acquired a controlling interest in a franchisor or a subsidiary or other entity controlled by such franchisor, or sold or transferred a controlling interest in such manufacturer to a franchisor or subsidiary or other entity controlled by such franchisor.

(b) It shall be unlawful for a manufacturer or franchisor or any parent, affiliate, wholly or partially owned subsidiary, officer, or representative of a manufacturer or franchisor to compete unfairly with a new motor vehicle dealer of the same line make, operating under a franchise, in the State of Georgia, and, except as otherwise provided in this subsection, the mere ownership, operation, or control of a new motor vehicle dealer by a manufacturer or franchisor under the conditions set forth in paragraphs (1) through (8) of subsection (a) of this Code section shall not constitute a violation of this subsection. For purposes of this Code section, a manufacturer or franchisor or any parent, affiliate, wholly or partially owned subsidiary, officer, or representative of a manufacturer or franchisor shall be conclusively presumed to be competing unfairly if it gives any preferential treatment to a dealer or dealership of which any interest is directly or indirectly owned, operated, or controlled by such manufacturer or franchisor or any partner, affiliate, wholly or partially owned subsidiary, officer, or representative of such manufacturer or franchisor, expressly including, but not limited to, preferential treatment regarding the direct or indirect cost of vehicles or parts, the availability or allocation of vehicles or parts, the availability or allocation of special or program vehicles, the provision of service and service support, the availability of or participation in special programs, the administration of warranty policy, the availability and use of after warranty adjustments, advertising, floor planning, financing or financing programs, or factory rebates.

(c) Except as may otherwise be provided in subsection (a) and subsection (b) of this Code section, no manufacturer or franchisor shall offer to sell or sell, directly or indirectly, any new motor vehicle to a consumer in this state, except through a new motor vehicle dealer holding a franchise for the line make covering such new motor vehicle. This subsection shall not apply to manufacturer or franchisor sales of new motor vehicles to the federal government, charitable organizations, or employees of the manufacturer or franchisor.

Any dealer, distributor, or manufacturer who is aggrieved by a violation of any provision of this article may file a petition with the Department of Revenue setting forth the facts supporting the allegation of such violation. The commissioner shall issue an administrative order, whenever the commissioner, after notice to all parties and after a hearing, determines that a violation of this article or any order issued under this article has occurred. (b) It is the intent of the General Assembly of Georgia that an amount equal to the amount collected by the registration fee provided for in this Code section be appropriated to the department to fund the provisions of this part. If the funds appropriated to the department to fund the provisions of this part exceed the actual cost to the department to enforce this part, then the excess funds so appropriated shall lapse. However, if the fees collected under subsection (a) of this Code section do not equal the actual cost to the department to enforce the provisions of this part, then the commissioner may raise the registration fee to an amount which will ensure that the cost to the state to enforce this part is received.

10-1-675. Legislative findings.

The General Assembly finds and declares that the distribution of marine vessels and products in the State of Georgia vitally affects the general economy of the state and the public interest and public welfare and, in the exercise of its police power, it is necessary to regulate marine manufacturers, distributors, and dealers and their representatives doing business in Georgia in order to prevent unfair business practices, unfair methods of competition, impositions, and other abuses upon its citizens.

History.

10-1-676. Definitions.

As used in this article, the term:

(1) "Distributor" or "wholesaler" means any person, company, or corporation who sells or distributes marine products to marine dealers and who maintains distributor representatives within the state.

(2) "Franchise" means an oral or written agreement for a definite or indefinite period of time in which a manufacturer grants to a marine dealer permission to use a trade name, service mark, or related characteristic and in which there is a community of interest in the marketing of marine products or services related thereto at wholesale or retail, whether by leasing, sale, or otherwise.

(3) "Manufacturer" means any person, firm, association, corporation, or trust, resident or nonresident, that fabricates, manufactures, or assembles new and unused marine products. It does not include a person, firm, association, corporation, or trust which converts, modifies, or otherwise alters a marine product manufactured by another person, firm, association, corporation, or trust.

(4) "Manufacturer sales representative" means any officer, agent, or employee employed by a person, firm, association, corporation, or trust that fabricates, manufactures, or assembles marine products or by a factory branch for the purpose of making or promoting the sale of marine products or supervising or contacting marine dealers or prospective dealers.

(5) "Marine dealer" means any person who holds a bona fide contract, agreement, or franchise with a manufacturer or distributor of marine products.

(6) "Marine product" means a new or used watercraft, boat, vessel, or motor primarily designed for recreational or commercial use on water. The term also includes an outboard motor or a boat outfitted with an inboard or outboard motor. The term shall not mean a watercraft designed primarily for commercial use.

History. Code 1981, § 10-1-676, enacted by Ga. L. 2001, p. 778, § 1; Ga. L. 2002, p. 415, § 10.

10-1-677. Termination of contractual relationship between dealer and manufacturer.

(a)(1) Whenever any marine dealer enters into a franchise, selling, or other contractual agreement with a manufacturer, distributor, or wholesaler wherein the dealer agrees to maintain an inventory of marine products or repair parts, the manufacturer, distributor, or wholesaler shall not terminate such agreement in case of breach by the dealer unless and until 90 days after notice of such intention to terminate has been sent by certified mail or statutory overnight delivery, return receipt requested, to the dealer and the dealer has failed to correct the breach within such period.

(2) If the franchise, selling, or other contractual agreement is terminated as a result of any action by the manufacturer and the dealer is not in breach of such agreement, the manufacturer, distributor, or wholesaler shall repurchase the inventory as provided in this article. The dealer may keep the inventory if he or she desires. If the dealer has any outstanding debts to the manufacturer, distributor, or wholesaler, then the repurchase amount may be credited to the dealer's account.

(3) If the franchise, selling, or other contractual agreement is terminated as a result of any action by the dealer and the manufacturer is not in breach of such agreement, the manufacturer shall not be required to repurchase the inventory as provided in this article; provided, however, that, if the franchise, selling, or other contractual agreement is terminated as a result of any action by the dealer and the manufacturer is in breach of such agreement, the manufacturer shall be required to repurchase the inventory as provided in this article.

(4) It shall be unlawful for the manufacturer, wholesaler, distributor, or franchisor, without due cause and pursuant to its own initiating action, to fail to renew a franchise, selling, or other contractual agreement on terms then equally available to all its marine dealers, unless the manufacturer repurchases the inventory as provided for in this Code section. The tests for determining what constitutes due cause for a manufacturer or distributor to fail to renew a franchise, selling, or other contractual agreement shall include whether the dealer:

(A) Has made a material misrepresentation in applying for or acting under the franchise agreement;

(B) Has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy or has had an involuntary petition in bankruptcy filed against the dealer which has not been discharged within 30 days after the filing, is in default under the provisions of a security agreement in effect with the manufacturer or distributor, or is in receivership;

(C) Has engaged in an unfair business practice;

(D) Has engaged in conduct which is injurious or detrimental to the public welfare;

(E) Has failed to comply with an applicable licensing law;

(F) Has been convicted of a crime, the effect of which would be detrimental to the manufacturer, distributor, or dealership;

(G) Has failed to operate in the normal course of business for seven consecutive business days; or

(H) Has failed to comply with the terms of the dealership or franchise agreement.

(5) In the event that the manufacturer, wholesaler, distributor, or franchisor does not intend to renew a franchise, selling, or other contractual agreement, such manufacturer, wholesaler, distributor, or franchisor shall give the dealer 90 days' written notice prior to the effective date thereof by certified mail or statutory overnight delivery, return receipt requested.

(b) Within 30 days of the termination of the franchise, selling, or other contractual agreement, the manufacturer, distributor, or wholesaler shall repurchase that inventory previously purchased from him or her, including all new and unused marine products of the current or immediate prior model year and parts on hand and held by the dealer on the date of termination of the contract. The manufacturer, distributor, or wholesaler shall pay an amount equivalent to the cost actually paid by the dealer less discounts or rebates per unit for any new, unused, undamaged, unaltered from original invoice and delivery, and complete marine vessel. The manufacturer shall also pay an amount equal to the price paid by the dealer for any new, unused, and undamaged repair parts and accessories which are listed in the manufacturer's current parts price list and are not more than two model years old.

(c) Upon payment within a reasonable time of the repurchase amount to the dealer, the title, if any, and right of possession to the repurchased inventory shall transfer to the manufacturer, distributor, or wholesaler, as the case may be.

(d) The provisions of this article shall not require the repurchase from a dealer of:

(1) Any repair part which has a limited storage life or is otherwise subject to deterioration;

(2) Any single repair part which is priced as a set of two or more items;

(3) Any repair part which, because of its condition, is not resalable as a new part without repackaging or reconditioning;

(4) Any inventory for which the dealer is unable to furnish evidence that is reasonably satisfactory to the manufacturer, distributor, or wholesaler of good title, free and clear of all claims, liens, and encumbrances;

(5) Any inventory which the dealer desires to keep, provided that the dealer has a contractual right to do so;

(6) Any marine vessel or product which is not in new, unused, undamaged, and complete condition;

(7) Any repair parts which are not in new, unused, and undamaged condition;

(8) Any inventory which was ordered by the dealer on or after the date of receipt of the notification of termination of the franchise, selling, or other contractual agreement;

(9) Any inventory which was acquired by the dealer from any source other than the manufacturer, distributor, or wholesaler; or

(10) Any boat that has been altered substantially from original delivery.

(e) If any manufacturer, distributor, or wholesaler shall fail or refuse to repurchase any inventory as required by this article within 60 days after termination of a dealer's contract and submission by the dealer to the manufacturer, by certified mail or statutory overnight delivery, return receipt requested, of a final inventory of marine products and parts on hand, he or she shall be civilly liable not only for the amounts provided in subsection (b) of this Code section but also the dealer's reasonable attorney's fees, court costs, and interest on the amount due for such inventory computed at the legal interest rate from the sixty-first day after termination.

(f) In the event of the death or incapacity of the dealer or the majority stockholder of a corporation operating as a dealer, the manufacturer, distributor, or wholesaler shall, at the option of the heirs at law if the dealer died intestate or the devisees or transferees under the terms of the deceased dealer's last will and testament if said dealer died testate, repurchase the inventory from said heirs or devisees as if the manufacturer, distributor, or wholesaler had terminated the contract, and the inventory repurchase provisions of this Code section shall apply. The heirs or devisees shall have until the end of the contract term or one year from the date of the death of the retailer or majority stockholder, whichever comes first, to exercise their option under this article; provided, however, that nothing in this article shall require the repurchase of inventory if the heirs or devisees and the manufacturer, distributor, or wholesaler enter into a new franchise agreement to operate the retail dealership.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Dismissal proper. — Trial court's dismissal of a limited liability company's action against a corporation to recover damages pursuant to the marine manufacturers statute, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-677(e), was warranted based on the forum selection and mediation provisions of the parties' dealer agreement; the LLC (1) knowingly signed the agreement and was bound by the forum selection clause, (2) failed to allege in its complaint that it had complied with the mediation provision of the agreement prior to filing the lawsuit, and, (3) absent any evidence of fraud, agreed to be bound by the mediation provision upon signing the agreement. ARTICLE 22B

RECREATIONAL VEHICLE DEALERS

10-1-679. Definitions; considerations in determining "good cause".

(a) As used in this article, the term:

(1) "Community of interest" means a continuing financial interest between the grantor and the grantee in either the operation of the dealership business or the marketing of such goods or services.

(2) "Franchise" means an oral or written agreement for a definite or indefinite period of time in which a manufacturer grants to a recreational vehicle dealer permission to use a trade name, service mark, or related characteristic and in which there is a community of interest in the marketing of recreational vehicle products or services related thereto at wholesale or retail, whether by leasing, sale, or otherwise.

(3) "Grantor" means a person who grants a recreational vehicle dealership.

(4) "Person" means a natural person, partnership, joint venture, corporation, or other entity.

(5) "Recreational vehicle" means a vehicular type unit primarily designed as temporary living quarters for recreational, camping, or travel use which either has its own motive power or is mounted on or towed by another vehicle. The basic entities are as follows: travel trailer, camping trailer, truck camper, motor home, park trailer, and fifth wheel travel trailer.

(6) "Recreational vehicle dealer" or "dealer" means a person who is a grantee of a recreational vehicle dealership situated in Georgia.

(7) "Recreational vehicle dealership" means an established place of business engaged in the marketing of new recreational vehicle products or services related thereto at wholesale or retail, whether by leasing, sale, or otherwise, and which is marked by an appropriate permanent sign, a working telephone with a telephone number listed in the local phone directory, and which derives at least 75 percent of its revenue from the sale of new recreational vehicles and recreational vehicle related products and services.

(8) "Warrantor" means a person, firm, corporation, or business entity that gives a warranty in connection with a new recreational vehicle or parts, accessories, or components thereof. Such term does not include service contracts, mechanical or other insurance, or extended warranties sold for separate consideration by a dealer or other person not controlled by a manufacturer.

(b) For purposes of this article when determining whether there is "good cause" for a proposed action, the trier of fact shall consider:

(1) The volume of the affected dealer's business in the relevant market area;

(2) The nature and extent of the dealer's investment in its business;

(3) The adequacy of the dealer's service facilities, equipment, parts, supplies, and personnel;

(4) The effect of the proposed action on the community;

(5) The extent and quality of the dealer's service under recreational vehicle warranties; and

(6) The dealer's performance under the terms of its franchise agreement.

10-1-679.1. Legislative intent; variation by contract of article's effect prohibited.

(a) This article shall be liberally construed and applied to promote its underlying remedial purposes and policies.

(b) The underlying purposes and policies of this article are:

(1) To promote the compelling interest of the public in fair business relations between recreational vehicle dealers and grantors and in the continuation of recreational vehicle dealerships on a fair basis;

(2) To protect recreational vehicle dealers against unfair treatment by grantors who inherently have superior economic power and superior bargaining power in the negotiations of recreational vehicle dealerships;

(3) To provide recreational vehicle dealers with rights and remedies in addition to those existing by contract or common law; and

(4) To govern all franchise agreements for recreational vehicle dealerships, including any renewals or amendments, to the full extent consistent with the Constitutions of Georgia and the United States.

(c) The effect of this article may not be varied by contract or agreement. Any contract or agreement purporting to do so is void and unenforceable to that extent only.

The grantor shall designate in writing the area of sales responsibility assigned to a recreational vehicle dealer and shall not change such area nor establish another recreational vehicle dealer in the same area unless the grantor can show good cause for the addition of the new recreational vehicle dealer, including reasonable evidence that the market will support the establishment of a new dealership.

The burden of proving good cause shall be on the grantor.

10-1-679.5. Notice required for termination of or substantial change to dealership agreements.

(a) Except as provided in this Code section, a grantor shall provide a recreational vehicle dealer at least 120 days' prior written notice of termination, cancellation, nonrenewal, or substantial change in competitive circumstances and shall provide that the recreational vehicle dealer has 120 days in which to rectify any claimed deficiency. The notice shall state all the reasons for termination, cancellation, or nonrenewal and shall further state that if, within 30 days following the receipt of the grantor's notice, the recreational vehicle dealer provides to the grantor a written notice to cure all claimed deficiencies, the recreational vehicle dealer shall then have 120 days from the date of the notice to rectify such deficiencies. If the deficiency is rectified within 120 days, the notice shall be void. The notice provisions of this Code section shall not apply if the reason for termination, cancellation, or nonrenewal is insolvency, the occurrence of an assignment for the benefit of creditors, or bankruptcy.

(b) The 120 days' notice shall be reduced to 30 days' notice if the grounds for termination, cancellation, or nonrenewal is due to:

(1) Conviction or pleas of nolo contendere to a felony of a recreational vehicle dealer or one of its principal owners;

(2) The business operation of the recreational vehicle dealer has been abandoned or closed for ten consecutive days, unless the closing is due to an act of God, strike, or labor difficulty or other cause over which the dealer has no control;

10-1-679.6. Repurchase of inventory, equipment, tools, accessories, and signage on termination of the dealership contract; reimbursement for returned items.

(a) If a recreational vehicle dealership franchise agreement is terminated, canceled, or not renewed by the grantor, the grantor, at the option of the recreational vehicle dealer, shall repurchase:

(1) All new, untitled recreational vehicle inventory acquired from the manufacturer within 12 months prior to the effective date of the termination, cancellation, or nonrenewal which has not been materially altered or substantially damaged. The grantor shall reimburse the dealer for 100 percent of the net invoice cost of such inventory, including transportation, less applicable rebates and discounts to the dealer.

(2) All functioning diagnostic equipment, special tools, other equipment and machinery, accessories and proprietary parts, and signage as were required to meet the dealer's service responsibilities in accordance with manufacturer's guides and applicable customer service bulletins and signs sold under the recreational vehicle dealership agreement.

(b) The manufacturer shall reimburse the dealer for 100 percent of the current net prices as published in the manufacturer's current price lists or catalogs on accessories and parts, including superseded parts, provided it was purchased by the dealer within five years before termination and can no longer be used in the normal course of the dealer's business, plus 5 percent of the current net price of all manufacturer's accessories and parts returned to compensate the dealer for handling, packing, and loading the parts, plus the cost of freight to return said parts. The grantor shall pay the dealer within 30 days of receipt of the returned items. This Code section shall apply only to merchandise with a name, trademark, label, or other mark on it which identifies the grantor or with proof of purchase from the grantor.

10-1-679.7. Unlawful coercive practices.

It shall be unlawful for any grantor, directly or through any officer, agent, or employee:

(1) To coerce, or attempt to coerce, any dealer to accept delivery of any parts or accessories or any other commodities which have not been ordered by such dealer; or

(2) To coerce, or attempt to coerce, any dealer to enter into an

History.
Code 1981, § 10-1-679.7, enacted by Ga. L. 2005, p. 1233, § 2/SB 155.

10-1-679.8. Sale or transfer of ownership or change in management of dealerships; unlawful practices; required notices.

It shall be unlawful for any grantor to prevent or refuse to approve the sale or transfer of the ownership of a recreational vehicle dealership by the sale of the business assets, stock transfer, or otherwise, or a change in executive management or principal operator of the dealership if the new owner, principal operator, or management is creditworthy, has not been convicted of a felony, and is properly licensed; the sale or transfer shall not result in a relocation of the business; and the sale or transfer is otherwise reasonable under the circumstances. The recreational vehicle dealer must give the manufacturer 30 days' written notice prior to the closing of such agreement. If the manufacturer rejects a proposed change or sale, the manufacturer shall give written notice of its reasons to the recreational vehicle dealer within 30 days after receipt of the dealer notification and complete documentation. If no such notice is given to the recreational vehicle dealer, the change or sale shall be deemed approved. The burden of proving that any sale or transfer is not reasonable shall be on the grantor.

10-1-679.9. Designated successor due to death, incapacity, or retirement; objection.

(a) It shall be unlawful for any grantor to fail to provide a recreational vehicle dealer with an opportunity, at the time of signing a recreational vehicle dealership franchise agreement or at a reasonable time thereafter, to designate a member of his or her family as a successor to the dealership in the event of the death, incapacity, or retirement of the dealer. A dealer may from time to time during the term of the franchise agreement change the beneficiary by providing a written notification to the manufacturer.

(b) It shall be unlawful to prevent or refuse to honor the succession to a dealership by a family member of the deceased, incapacitated, or retired dealer unless the grantor has provided to the family member so designated written notice of its objections. The burden of proving that such transfer is not reasonable shall be on the grantor.

(c) Grounds for objection shall be lack of creditworthiness, conviction of a felony, inability to obtain necessary and required licenses by the beneficiary, lack of required licenses, or other conditions which make such succession unreasonable under the circumstances, but the grantor shall bear the burden of proving the unreasonableness of such succession. No family member of the deceased, incapacitated, or retired dealer may succeed to a recreational vehicle dealership unless the succession to the recreational vehicle dealership will not involve, without the grantor's consent, a relocation of the business.

History.
Code 1981, § 10-1-679.9, enacted by Ga. L. 2005, p. 1233, § 2/SB 155.

10-1-679.10. Requirements for warranty work and service.

(a) Each grantor or warrantor, where applicable, shall specify in writing to each of its recreational vehicle dealers licensed in Georgia the dealer's obligation for preparation, delivery, and warranty service on its products; shall compensate the dealer for warranty service required of the dealer by the grantor or warrantor; and shall provide the dealer the schedule of compensation to be paid to such dealers for parts, work, and service in connection with warranty service and the time allowances for the performance of such work and service. In no event shall such schedule of compensation fail to include reasonable compensation for diagnostic work as well as repair service and labor.

(b) Time allowances for the diagnosis and performance of warranty work and service shall be reasonable and adequate for the work to be performed. In the determination of what constitutes reasonable compensation under this Code section, the principal factors to be considered shall be the actual wage rates being paid by the dealer and the actual retail labor rates being charged by the dealer in the community in which the dealer is doing business. In no event shall such compensation of a dealer for warranty labor be less than the retail rates charged by the dealer for like service to retail customers for nonwarranty labor and repairs as long as such rates are reasonable.

(c) A grantor or warrantor, where applicable, shall reimburse the dealer for warranty parts at actual wholesale costs plus a minimum 30 percent handling charge and the cost, if any, of freight to return warranty parts to the grantor or warrantor. Warranty audits of dealer records may be conducted by the grantor or warrantor, where applicable, on a reasonable basis. A grantor or warrantor, where applicable, must disapprove warranty claims in writing within 30 days of the date of submission by the dealer in the manner and form prescribed by the grantor or warrantor. Claims not specifically disapproved in writing within this 30 day period shall be construed to be approved and shall be paid within 45 days.

(d) Dealer claims for warranty compensation shall not be denied except for good cause, such as performance of nonwarranty repairs, lack of material documentation, fraud, or misrepresentation. Claims for dealer compensation must be submitted within 45 days of completing the work. The dealer must notify the warrantor verbally or in writing if the dealer is unable to promptly perform material or repetitive warranty repairs. All claims shall be paid within 30 days of dealer submission or rejected in writing for stated reasons.

(e) It shall be a violation of this article for any grantor or warrantor, where applicable, to:

(1) Fail to perform any of its warranty obligations with respect to a recreational vehicle and recreational vehicle components;

(2) Fail to assume all responsibility for any liability resulting from structural or production defects;

(3) Fail to include written notices of factory recalls to vehicle owners and dealers and the expected date by which necessary parts and equipment will be available to dealers for the correction of such defects. The grantor or warrantor, where applicable, may ship parts in quantity to the dealer to effect such campaign work, and if such parts are in excess of the dealer's requirements, the dealer may return unused parts to the grantor or warrantor for credit after completion of the campaign;

(4) Fail to compensate any of its recreational vehicle dealers licensed in Georgia for repairs effected by such dealer of merchandise damaged in manufacture or transit to the dealer where the carrier is designated by the grantor, factory branch, distributor, or distributor branch;

(5) Fail to compensate its recreational vehicle dealers licensed in this state for warranty parts, work, and service in accordance with the schedule of compensation provided the dealer pursuant to subsection (a) of this Code section if performed in a timely and competent manner, or for legal costs and expenses incurred by such dealers in connection with warranty obligations for which the grantor or warrantor, where applicable, is legally responsible or which the grantor or warrantor imposes upon the dealer;

(6) Misrepresent in any way purchases of recreational vehicles that contain warranties with respect to the manufacture, performance, or design of the vehicles which are made by the dealer, either as warrantor or co-warrantor; or

(7) Require the dealer to make warranties to customers in any manner related to the manufacture of a recreational vehicle.

(f) Notwithstanding the terms of any agreement, it shall be a violation of this article for any grantor or warrantor, where applicable, to fail to indemnify and hold harmless its recreational vehicle dealers against any losses or damages arising out of claims, costs, judgments, and expenses, including reasonable attorney's fees, or suits relating to the manufacture, assembly, or design of recreational vehicles, parts, or accessories, or other functions by the grantor or warrantor beyond the control of the dealer, including, without limitation, the selection by the grantor or warrantor, where applicable, of parts or components for the recreational vehicle or any damages to merchandise occurring in transit to the dealer where the carrier is designated by the grantor or warrantor. The dealer shall give notice to the grantor or warrantor of pending suits in which allegations are made which come within this subsection whenever reasonably practicable to do so. Any recreational vehicle dealer franchise agreement issued to, amended, or renewed for recreational vehicles in Georgia on or after July 1, 2005, shall be deemed to incorporate provisions consistent with the requirements of this subsection.

(g) On any new recreational vehicle, any uncorrected and significant damage, or any corrected damage exceeding 5 percent of the manufacturer's suggested retail price or $500.00 or more in paint damage, must be disclosed to the dealer in writing prior to delivery. Factory mechanical repair and damage to glass, tires, and bumpers is excluded from disclosure when properly replaced by identical manufacturer's or distributor's original equipment or parts.

(h) Whenever a new recreational vehicle is damaged in transit when the carrier or means of transportation is determined by the manufacturer or distributor or whenever a recreational vehicle is otherwise damaged prior to delivery to the recreational vehicle dealer or if a new recreational vehicle is found to have substantial box or chassis defects upon arrival at the recreational vehicle dealership, the dealer must notify the grantor or distributor of such damage or such defects within three business days from the date of delivery or within a reasonable amount of additional time or such time as specified in the recreational vehicle dealership franchise agreement and either:

(1) Request from the grantor, warrantor, or distributor authorization to replace the components, parts, and accessories damaged or otherwise correct the damage; or

(2) Reject the vehicle within the three-day grace period.

If the dealer exercises the option to refuse delivery of the vehicle, the recreational vehicle grantor must immediately repurchase such vehicle.

(i) If the grantor, warrantor, or distributor refuses or fails to authorize repair of such damage within ten days after receipt of notification or if the dealer rejects a recreational vehicle because of damage, ownership of the new recreational vehicle shall revert to the grantor or distributor and the recreational vehicle dealer shall have no obligations, financial or otherwise, with respect to such recreational vehicle.

(j) It shall be a violation of this article for any recreational vehicle dealer to:

(1) Fail to perform predelivery inspection functions, if required, in a competent and timely manner;

(2) Fail to perform warranty service work, authorized by the vehicle warrantor, in a reasonably timely and competent manner on any transient customer's vehicle of the same line-make, whether sold by that dealer or not;

(3) Intentionally misrepresent the terms of any warranty.

(k) All grantors, warrantors, and distributors of recreational vehicle components shall be subject to the provisions of this article.

10-1-734. Transfer of business, stock, or other interest in dealership.

(a) No supplier shall unreasonably withhold or delay consent to any transfer of the multiline dealer's business or transfer of the stock or other interest in the dealership whenever the transferee meets the material and reasonable qualifications and standards required in supplying its multiline dealers. Should a supplier determine that a proposed transferee does not meet its qualifications and standards, it shall give the multiline dealer written notice thereof, stating the specific reasons for withholding consent. No prospective transferee shall be disqualified to be a multiline dealer because it is a publicly held corporation. A supplier shall have 45 days to consider a multiline dealer's request to make a transfer under this subsection.

(b) Whenever a transfer of a multiline dealer's business occurs, the transferee shall assume all the obligations imposed on and succeed to all the rights held by the selling multiline dealer by virtue of any agreement consistent with this article between the selling multiline dealer and one or more suppliers entered into prior to the transfer.

(c) In any dispute as to whether a supplier has denied consent in violation of this Code section, the supplier shall have the burden of proving a substantial and reasonable justification for the denial of consent.

(a) Venue to hear and determine cases and controversies arising under the provisions of this article shall be in the superior court of the county wherein the multiline dealer has its principal place of business. The court may grant equitable relief as is necessary to remedy the effects of conduct which it finds to exist and which is prohibited under this article, including, but not limited to, declaratory judgment and injunctive relief.

(b) In addition to any other remedies available at law or in equity, if a supplier has attempted or accomplished an annulment, cancellation, or termination or has refused to continue or renew an agreement without good cause or has withheld or delayed consent in violation of Code Section 10-1-732 or Code Section 10-1-734, then the multiline dealer shall be entitled to recover losses and damages, both general and special, proximately resulting therefrom, together with the costs of the action and reasonable legal fees. Such damages shall include compensation for the value of the agreement and the loss of good will of the multiline dealer's business, if any, arising therefrom.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Elements. — Under the Georgia Trade Secrets Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-760 et seq., a claim for misappropriation of trade secrets requires a plaintiff to prove that: (1) the plaintiff had a trade secret; and (2) the opposing party misappropriated the trade secret. Penalty Kick Mgmt. v. Coca Cola Co., 318 F.3d 1284, 2003 U.S. App. LEXIS 1122 (11th Cir. 2003).

Defendant is liable for the misappropriation of a trade secret only if the plaintiff can show that the defendant: (1) disclosed information that enabled a third party to learn the trade secret; or (2) used a "substantial portion" of the plaintiff's trade secret to create an improvement or modification that is "substantially derived" from the plaintiff's trade secret, but if the defendant independently created the allegedly misappropriated item with only "slight" contribution from the plaintiff's trade secret, then the defendant is not liable for misappropriation. Penalty Kick Mgmt. v. Coca Cola Co., 318 F.3d 1284, 2003 U.S. App. LEXIS 1122 (11th Cir. 2003).

Superseding other tort, restitutionary laws. — Georgia Trade Secrets Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-760 et seq., generally supersedes conflicting tort, restitutionary, and other laws of Georgia providing civil remedies for misappropriation of a trade secret. Prof'l Energy Mgmt. v. Necaise, 300 Ga. App. 223, 684 S.E.2d 374, 2009 Ga. App. LEXIS 1135 (2009).

Trial court manifestly abused the court's discretion when the court granted equitable relief to a limited liability company (LLC) because there was no finding that the drawings a company used were trade secrets as defined by the Georgia Trade Secrets Act (GTSA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-761, and by using O.C.G.A. § 9-5-1 to provide the LLC the same relief based on the same allegations it would have received had the drawings qualified as trade secrets, the trial court undermined the exclusivity of the GTSA; the key inquiry was whether the same factual allegations of misappropriation were being used to obtain relief outside the GTSA, and since the trial court's award of general equitable relief under O.C.G.A. § 9-5-1 was based on the same conduct as the GTSA claim, i.e, the misappropriation of the drawings, such relief was preempted by O.C.G.A. § 10-1-767(a). Robbins v. Supermarket Equip. Sales, LLC, 290 Ga. 462, 722 S.E.2d 55, 2012 Ga. LEXIS 133 (2012).

Shareholder lacked standing to assert allegedly fraudulent transfers. — Unpublished decision: Shareholder of a corporation lacked standing to assert that allegedly fraudulent transfers of intellectual property constituted misappropriation of trade secrets since the property belonged to the corporation and the shareholder had no actionable interest in the property distinguishable from the interest of the corporation. Harris v. Orange S.A., 636 Fed. Appx. 476, 2015 U.S. App. LEXIS 22905 (11th Cir. 2015).

Definition of trade secret satisfied. — Despite a corporation incorporator's testimony that there was "probably nothing" the corporation had which derived its competitive value from not being generally known and not being readily ascertainable by proper means, sufficient evidence was presented from which a jury could find that the computer software the corporation's president developed for the corporation satisfied the definition of a trade secret under the Georgia Trade Secrets Act of 1990, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-760 et seq., to withstand a motion for summary judgment. Insight Tech., Inc. v. FreightCheck, LLC, 280 Ga. App. 19, 633 S.E.2d 373, 2006 Ga. App. LEXIS 738 (2006), cert. denied, No. S06C1871, 2006 Ga. LEXIS 807 (Ga. Oct. 2, 2006).

Patient list is not trade secret. — Because a doctor's patient list was not a trade secret within the meaning of the Georgia Trade Secrets Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-761(4)(A), and because an attorney the doctor sued for misappropriation was not in the same industry as the doctor, the attorney's possession of the list did not reduce the doctor's competitive advantage in the field, which was the main purpose of protecting a trade secret; thus, the attorney was entitled to summary judgment on the doctor's claim of misappropriation. Vito v. Inman, 286 Ga. App. 646, 649 S.E.2d 753, 2007 Ga. App. LEXIS 736 (2007), cert. denied, No. S07C1859, 2007 Ga. LEXIS 770 (Ga. Oct. 9, 2007).

Personal knowledge gained during employment. — In an action to have a noncompetition agreement declared invalid under Georgia law, O.C.G.A. § 9-2-46(a), which evidenced Georgia's favoritism for the first-filed rule, the employer's counterclaim for misappropriation of trade secrets, asserted under the Georgia Trade Secrets Act (TSA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-760 et seq., and Ohio law, was properly dismissed rather than stayed pending the outcome of a later-filed suit in Ohio; the employee's utilization of personal knowledge of customer and vendor information was not forbidden and did not state a claim under the TSA. Manuel v. Convergys Corp., 430 F.3d 1132, 2005 U.S. App. LEXIS 24549 (11th Cir. 2005).

Because a nonsolicit/noncompete agreement was overly broad, and because the evidence was insufficient to create a genuine issue of fact as to whether a former employee or a competitor misappropriated a trade secret, or solicited the former employer's employees or customers, the former employee and the competitor were entitled to summary judgment in the former employer's action under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-760 et seq. Wachovia Ins. Servs. v. Fallon, 299 Ga. App. 440, 682 S.E.2d 657, 2009 Ga. App. LEXIS 835 (2009).

Inevitable disclosure doctrine. — Inevitable disclosure doctrine is not an independent claim under which a trial court may enjoin an employee from working for an employer or disclosing trade secrets. Holton v. Physician Oncology Servs., LP, 292 Ga. 864, 742 S.E.2d 702, 2013 Ga. LEXIS 414 (2013).

Claim against state university board. — Public relations firm's claim against a state university board for misappropriation under the Trade Secrets Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-760 et seq., was barred by sovereign immunity; however, because a violation of the Act constituted a tort and the state waived sovereign immunity for torts, the firm could bring suit pursuant to the Tort Claims Act, O.C.G.A. § 50-21-20 et seq. Bd. of Regents of the Univ. Sys. of Ga. v. One Sixty Over Ninety, LLC, 351 Ga. App. 133, 830 S.E.2d 503, 2019 Ga. App. LEXIS 409 (2019), cert. denied, No. S19C1521, 2020 Ga. LEXIS 118 (Ga. Feb. 10, 2020).

As used in this article, the term:

(1) "Improper means" includes theft, bribery, misrepresentation, breach or inducement of a breach of a confidential relationship or other duty to maintain secrecy or limit use, or espionage through electronic or other means. Reverse engineering of a trade secret not acquired by misappropriation or independent development shall not be considered improper means.

(2) "Misappropriation" means:

(A) Acquisition of a trade secret of another by a person who knows or has reason to know that the trade secret was acquired by improper means; or

(B) Disclosure or use of a trade secret of another without express or implied consent by a person who:

(i) Used improper means to acquire knowledge of a trade secret;

(ii) At the time of disclosure or use, knew or had reason to know that knowledge of the trade secret was:

(I) Derived from or through a person who had utilized improper means to acquire it;

(II) Acquired under circumstances giving rise to a duty to maintain its secrecy or limit its use; or

(III) Derived from or through a person who owed a duty to the person seeking relief to maintain its secrecy or limit its use; or

(iii) Before a material change of position, knew or had reason to know that it was a trade secret and that knowledge of it had been acquired by accident or mistake.

(3) "Person" means a natural person, corporation, business trust, estate, trust, partnership, association, joint venture, government, governmental subdivision or agency, or any other for profit or not for profit legal or commercial entity.

(4) "Trade secret" means information, without regard to form, including, but not limited to, technical or nontechnical data, a formula, a pattern, a compilation, a program, a device, a method, a technique, a drawing, a process, financial data, financial plans, product plans, or a list of actual or potential customers or suppliers which is not commonly known by or available to the public and which information:

(A) Derives economic value, actual or potential, from not being generally known to, and not being readily ascertainable by proper means by, other persons who can obtain economic value from its disclosure or use; and

(B) Is the subject of efforts that are reasonable under the circumstances to maintain its secrecy.

Analysis

Evidence
Application

General Consideration

Tangible form of property not required. — In order to be considered "property," an employer's customer list had to be in tangible form to be protected under the Georgia Trade Secrets Act (GTSA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-760 et seq.; by contrast, the employer's trade secrets were already considered the employer's property; if the employer could show that it was otherwise entitled to protection under the GTSA when its employee began working for a competitor, unless it was complaining of misappropriation of a customer list, Georgia law did not require that the trade secret be in tangible form and, moreover, even without a valid written contract or written covenant, the employee was required to refrain from disclosing the employer's trade secrets. Diamond Power Int'l, Inc. v. Clyde Bergemann, Inc., No. 1:04-CV-1708-RWS, 2005 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 12493 (N.D. Ga. Jan. 5, 2005).

Trade secrets need not be in the form of written data to warrant protection, but Georgia law generally does not prevent a departing employee from using the skills and information the employee acquired at work. Servicetrends, Inc. v. Siemens Medical Sys., 870 F. Supp. 1042, 1994 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 11383 (N.D. Ga. 1994), amended, No. 1:93-CV-299-JTC, 1994 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 15997 (N.D. Ga. June 24, 1994).

Inevitable disclosure doctrine. — Inevitable disclosure doctrine is not an independent claim under which a trial court may enjoin an employee from working for an employer or disclosing trade secrets. Holton v. Physician Oncology Servs., LP, 292 Ga. 864, 742 S.E.2d 702, 2013 Ga. LEXIS 414 (2013).

Evidence

"Trade secret" standard satisfied. — When a marketing company presented a packaging idea to a beverage manufacturer, requiring that the secrecy of the idea be maintained, the idea was a trade secret, under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-761(4), because aspects of it were not publicly available, it had economic value, as another manufacturer sought a licensing agreement, and reasonable efforts were made to maintain its secrecy. Penalty Kick Mgmt. v. Coca Cola Co., 318 F.3d 1284, 2003 U.S. App. LEXIS 1122 (11th Cir. 2003).

Given the highly competitive nature of the asphalt industry in the State of Georgia, the trial court did not err in permanently enjoining the DOT from giving unredacted copies of documents, which contained trade secrets and confidential technical specifications relating to the mix design, to a competitor of a group of contractors; further, the public could ascertain whether a contractor's asphalt product met DOT requirements by examining information on the forms, which was not included in the trial court's injunction, and the records did not fall within the exception to Open Records Act disclosure because the contractors were not required by law to submit the information to the DOT. Douglas Asphalt Co. v. E. R. Snell Contr., Inc., 282 Ga. App. 546, 639 S.E.2d 372, 2006 Ga. App. LEXIS 1458 (2006), cert. denied, No. S07C0498, 2007 Ga. LEXIS 140 (Ga. Feb. 5, 2007).

Failure to provide discoverable information. — Summary judgment was unwarranted on the misappropriation of trade secrets and unfair trade practices claims under Georgia statutory and common law because defendant software developer failed to timely provide the plaintiff software developer with discoverable information about the PA system and, therefore, the court should not say that genuine issues of material fact did not exist. TDS Healthcare Sys. Corp. v. Humana Hosp. Ill., Inc., 880 F. Supp. 1572, 1995 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 4138 (N.D. Ga. 1995).

Expert testimony on closely guarded information. — When the plaintiff presented expert testimony showing that the disputed information was closely guarded in the hotel industry and that to the extent the information was disclosed, it was done so on the express condition that it would not be made public, enough evidence existed to allow a reasonable jury to find in its favor, and summary judgment in favor of the defendant should have been denied. Camp Creek Hospitality v. Sheraton Franchise,

Inadequate evidence of trade secrets violation. — Claim for misappropriation of trade secrets could not withstand summary judgment because the plaintiff had not presented evidence that the competitor misappropriated the plaintiff's trade secrets by obtaining the trade secrets through improper means, and by using a substantial portion of the trade secrets to create a product that was substantially derived from the plaintiff's trade secrets. Some of the claimed "trade secrets," including camera names and images taken from cameras, were patently frivolous, and no evidence supported the claims that the information gathered in 2006 derived economic value from being a secret not readily ascertainable by proper means. EarthCam, Inc. v. OxBlue Corp., 49 F. Supp. 3d 1210, 2014 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 132388 (N.D. Ga. 2014), aff'd, 703 Fed. Appx. 803, 2017 U.S. App. LEXIS 13565 (11th Cir. 2017).

Application

Computer software. — Computer software programs are trade secrets if the requirements of paragraphs (4)(A) and (4)(B) of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-761 are met. CMAX/Cleveland, Inc. v. UCR, Inc., 804 F. Supp. 337, 1992 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 14776 (M.D. Ga. 1992).

Despite a corporation incorporator's testimony that there was "probably nothing" the corporation had which derived its competitive value from not being generally known and not being readily ascertainable by proper means, sufficient evidence was presented from which a jury could find that the computer software the corporation's president developed for the corporation satisfied the definition of a trade secret under the Georgia Trade Secrets Act of 1990, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-760 et seq., to withstand a motion for summary judgment. Insight Tech., Inc. v. FreightCheck, LLC, 280 Ga. App. 19, 633 S.E.2d 373, 2006 Ga. App. LEXIS 738 (2006), cert. denied, No. S06C1871, 2006 Ga. LEXIS 807 (Ga. Oct. 2, 2006).

Unpublished decision: In a suit alleging misappropriation of trade secrets, a software developer's claims that a subsequent provider of services to the client for whom the software was developed violated the Georgia Trade Secrets Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-76, by using software given to it by the client after the client ended the software purchasing and servicing relationship with the developer were properly dismissed; the complaint provided no facts from which it could be inferred that the subsequent servicer knew or should have known that the client had misappropriated the developer's trade secrets. S. Nuclear Operating Co. v. Elec. Data Sys. Corp., 273 Fed. Appx. 834, 2008 U.S. App. LEXIS 8571 (11th Cir. 2008).

Unpublished decision: Package-tracking software program was not a misappropriated trade secret since dissemination of the program to authorized users necessarily revealed the program's features and functions which were alleged to be secret, there was no written confidentiality agreement, and efforts to maintain secrecy were not reasonable under the circumstances. Warehouse Solutions, Inc. v. Integrated Logistics, LLC, 610 Fed. Appx. 881, 2015 U.S. App. LEXIS 7633 (11th Cir. 2015).

Software developers were not entitled to summary judgment on joint venturers'/investors' claim for misappropriation of trade secrets because there was evidence that the developers improperly retained and failed to return the software after the parties' venture wound up. Healthy-IT, LLC v. Agrawal, 343 Ga. App. 660, 808 S.E.2d 876, 2017 Ga. App. LEXIS 546 (2017).

Customer lists. — Because purported customer lists sought to be protected consisted of information a former employee had in the employee's memory about nurses and health facilities with which the employer contracted during the period the employer employed the employee, and because there was no evidence the employer made reasonable efforts to maintain the confidentiality of the information the employer sought to protect, the information was not a "trade secret" within the meaning of the Georgia Trade Secrets Act (GTSA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-760 et seq., for the purposes of determining whether an interlocutory injunction was appropriate. Smith v. Mid-State Nurses, Inc., 261 Ga. 208, 403 S.E.2d 789, 1991 Ga. LEXIS 214 (1991).

Lists containing the identities of and specific information concerning actual customers of companies were "trade secrets." Avnet, Inc. v. Wyle Lab., Inc., 263 Ga. 615, 437 S.E.2d 302, 1993 Ga. LEXIS 835 (1993).

Information contained in a customer list that was readily obtainable by proper means was not a trade secret. Leo Publications, Inc. v. Reid, 265 Ga. 561, 458 S.E.2d 651, 1995 Ga. LEXIS 519 (1995).

Tangible customer lists are the property of the employer and warrant protection as trade secrets. Leo Publications, Inc. v. Reid, 265 Ga. 561, 458 S.E.2d 651, 1995 Ga. LEXIS 519 (1995).

Only information that may be protected under the Georgia Trade Secrets Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-760 et seq., is an actual tangible customer list. AmeriGas Propane, L.P. v. T-Bo Propane, Inc., 972 F. Supp. 685, 1997 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 12664 (S.D. Ga. 1997).

When a car repair company took no precautions to maintain the confidentiality of the company's customer list, which was on computers that were not password protected, the same information in those lists was available to technicians through repair orders that the technicians were permitted to retain indefinitely, and employees were not informed that the information was confidential, such customer lists were not trade secrets. Bacon v. Volvo Serv. Ctr., Inc., 266 Ga. App. 543, 597 S.E.2d 440, 2004 Ga. App. LEXIS 309 (2004), cert. denied, No. S04C1341, 2004 Ga. LEXIS 753 (Ga. Sept. 7, 2004).

There was a genuine issue of fact as to whether a former employee had misappropriated trade secrets as defined by O.C.G.A. § 10-1-761; tangible customer lists could warrant protection as trade secrets, and the employee had signed an agreement to keep customer lists confidential, the employee took an organizer containing contact information for customers when the employee resigned, and the employee used the organizer to look up phone numbers after the employee's resignation. Hilb, Rogal & Hamilton Co. of Atlanta, Inc. v. Holley, 284 Ga. App. 591, 644 S.E.2d 862, 2007 Ga. App. LEXIS 369 (2007).

Because a doctor's patient list was not a trade secret within the meaning of the Georgia Trade Secrets Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-761(4)(A), and because an attorney the doctor sued for misappropriation was not in the same industry as the doctor, the attorney's possession of the list did not reduce the doctor's competitive advantage in the field, which was the main purpose of protecting a trade secret; thus, the attorney was entitled to summary judgment on the doctor's claim of misappropriation. Vito v. Inman, 286 Ga. App. 646, 649 S.E.2d 753, 2007 Ga. App. LEXIS 736 (2007), cert. denied, No. S07C1859, 2007 Ga. LEXIS 770 (Ga. Oct. 9, 2007).

Home healthcare and hospice services provider satisfied the provider's burden of establishing that the provider's referral log and workbook containing doctor referral statistics constituted trade secrets under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-761(4) since the documents contained valuable, proprietary information uniquely known to the provider, the information was not publicly available, the information, which the provider collected, evaluated, analyzed, and arranged, enabled the provider's employees to make informed, fact-based decisions on where to focus their business solicitation efforts, and the provider undertook reasonable efforts to maintain the confidentiality of the documents. Amedisys Holding, LLC v. Interim Healthcare of Atlanta, Inc., 793 F. Supp. 2d 1302, 2011 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 59260 (N.D. Ga. 2011).

Because the real estate partnerships failed to demonstrate that the partnerships derived economic value from the secrecy of their investor lists in accordance with O.C.G.A. § 10-1-761(4)(A), the lists did not constitute a trade secret; accordingly, the trial court erred by granting summary judgment to the partnerships and denying an investment manager's motion. Sutter Capital Mgmt., LLC v. Wells Capital, Inc., 310 Ga. App. 831, 714 S.E.2d 393, 2011 Ga. App. LEXIS 666 (2011).

Customer database. — Although the trial court erred by enforcing a restrictive covenant in a former office manager's employment contract since the contract was unenforceable as overbroad because the contract failed to properly limit the territory to which the contract applied, the trial court properly held that the former employer's customer database constituted a trade secret under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-761(4); there was sufficient evidence that the former employer made a reasonable effort to maintain the secrecy of the database by not publishing the database, having established company-wide policies to protect that information from disclosure to third-parties, by counseling company employees regarding those policies, and by limiting access to the database. Paramount Tax & Accounting, LLC v. H & R Block Eastern Enters., 299 Ga. App. 596, 683 S.E.2d 141, 2009 Ga. App. LEXIS 912 (2009).

Drawings. — Trial court manifestly abused the court's discretion when the court granted equitable relief to a limited liability company (LLC) because there was no finding that the drawings a company used were trade secrets as defined by the Georgia Trade Secrets Act (GTSA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-761, and by using O.C.G.A. § 9-5-1 to provide the LLC the same relief based on the same allegations it would have received had the drawings qualified as trade secrets, the trial court undermined the exclusivity of the GTSA; the key inquiry was whether the same factual allegations of misappropriation were being used to obtain relief outside the GTSA, and since the trial court's award of general equitable relief under O.C.G.A. § 9-5-1 was based on the same conduct as the GTSA claim, i.e., the misappropriation of the drawings, such relief was preempted by O.C.G.A. § 10-1-767(a). Robbins v. Supermarket Equip. Sales, LLC, 290 Ga. 462, 722 S.E.2d 55, 2012 Ga. LEXIS 133 (2012).

Distribution of information outside company. — Former employee was not guilty of misappropriation of trade secrets and confidential information where it was shown that the allegedly confidential technical data provided to the employee was also distributed to the company's customers which removed any legal protection it might otherwise have had as trade secrets. Servicetrends, Inc. v. Siemens Medical Sys., 870 F. Supp. 1042, 1994 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 11383 (N.D. Ga. 1994), amended, No. 1:93-CV-299-JTC, 1994 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 15997 (N.D. Ga. June 24, 1994).

Manufacturer of a boiler cleaner system was denied a preliminary injunction against a competitor's marketing of a similar product because the manufacturer failed to show it was likely to prevail on a misappropriation of trade secret charge under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-761; the manufacturer could not establish the existence of a trade secret because the product at issue had been sold to the public and was not subject to reasonable efforts to maintain secrecy. Diamond Power Int'l, Inc. v. Clyde Bergemann, Inc., 370 F. Supp. 2d 1339, 2005 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 12492 (N.D. Ga. 2005).

Prohibition on former employee working as executive. — Trial court erred, in part, by ordering an interlocutory injunction prohibiting a former employee from working in an executive capacity for a particular competitor of the former employer for one year based on the inevitable disclosure doctrine because a stand-alone claim under the doctrine, untethered from the provisions of Georgia's trade secret statute, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-760 et seq., was not cognizable in Georgia. Holton v. Physician Oncology Servs., LP, 292 Ga. 864, 742 S.E.2d 702, 2013 Ga. LEXIS 414 (2013).

When automobile title loan companies competed for customers, and the plaintiffs sued the defendants, the laws of trespass and trade secrets (at least in Georgia) did not support the scope of the nationwide interlocutory injunction because, to the extent the defendants were collecting information about the plaintiffs' customers in parking lots or using that information to search databases of motor vehicles was based on a finding that the identities of the plaintiffs' customers were trade secrets, which they were not, the injunction could not be sustained. Holdings, Inc. v. Drummond Fin. Servs., LLC, 300 Ga. 835, 797 S.E.2d 842, 2017 Ga. LEXIS 167 (2017).

When automobile title loan companies competed for customers, and the plaintiffs sued the defendants, the laws of trespass and trade secrets (at least in Georgia) did not support the scope of the nationwide interlocutory injunction because the plaintiffs had not claimed that the defendants had taken a tangible list of the plaintiffs' customers but rather that the defendants had searched databases of motor vehicles to determine which vehicles had liens held by the plaintiffs, and while such actions might be unlawful under the Driver's Privacy Protection Act, 18 U.S.C. § 2721 et seq., or otherwise, the actions did not constitute a misappropriation of trade secrets in Georgia. TMX Fin. Holdings, Inc. v. Drummond Fin. Servs., LLC, 300 Ga. 835, 797 S.E.2d 842, 2017 Ga. LEXIS 167 (2017).

Lease documents. — When a former employee testified to taking files containing lease documents from the employer with the intent of using the leases to further the former employee's own business, the trial court did not err in finding a genuine issue of material fact as to whether the former employee misappropriated trade secrets and improperly used confidential information. Kuehn v. Selton & Assocs., 242 Ga. App. 662, 530 S.E.2d 787, 2000 Ga. App. LEXIS 293 (2000), cert. denied, No. S00C1149, 2000 Ga. LEXIS 557 (Ga. June 30, 2000).

Names. — If the idea for the geographically descriptive name of a proposed publication was not novel or original, the name was not worthy of protection as a trade secret. Leo Publications, Inc. v. Reid, 265 Ga. 561, 458 S.E.2d 651, 1995 Ga. LEXIS 519 (1995).

List of cities for new franchises. — Names of cities which a franchisor considered good candidates for new franchises could not be considered trade secrets. Allen v. Hub Cap Heaven, Inc., 225 Ga. App. 533, 484 S.E.2d 259.

Particularized information about a logistics system learned by an employee through the employee's position of trust with the company that developed the system was a trade secret. Essex Group v. Southwire Co., 269 Ga. 553, 501 S.E.2d 501, 1998 Ga. LEXIS 719 (1998).

Personal knowledge. — Former employee's personal knowledge of the employer's customer information was not a "trade secret." Avnet, Inc. v. Wyle Lab., Inc., 263 Ga. 615, 437 S.E.2d 302, 1993 Ga. LEXIS 835 (1993).

Injunction prohibiting solicitation and sale to customers that the defendant company knew or had reason to know were the plaintiff company's customers during former employee's employment with the plaintiff and prohibiting contact with any vendor on any list obtained from the plaintiff effectively enjoined the defendant from utilizing personal knowledge of customer and vendor information and was overbroad. DeGiorgio v. Megabyte Int'l, Inc., 266 Ga. 539, 468 S.E.2d 367.

In an annuity company's suit alleging that two former employees violated restrictive covenants of nondisclosure of trade secrets and confidential information and nonsolicitation, the employees' personal knowledge of the company's customers, as well as account information contained in the employees' day planners, both of which the employees used to take business from the company, constituted trade secrets under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-761(4). Variable Annuity Life Ins. Co. v. Joiner, 454 F. Supp. 2d 1297, 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 62400 (S.D. Ga. 2006).

Trade secrets protected under Open Records Act. — Since a company made reasonable efforts to protect the dissemination of trade secret information except for providing the information to the Environmental Protection Division (EPD) of the Georgia Department of Natural Resources, trade secret status was not lost simply because the company did not notify the EPD each time that the company provided the EPD with information containing trade secrets. Theragenics Corp. v. Department of Natural Resources, 244 Ga. App. 829, 536 S.E.2d 613, 2000 Ga. App. LEXIS 884 (2000), aff'd, 273 Ga. 724, 545 S.E.2d 904, 2001 Ga. LEXIS 299 (2001).

Inappropriate to dismiss misappropriation of trade secret count. — Defendant was not entitled to dismissal of the plaintiff's misappropriation of trade secret count based on the defendant's argument that the plaintiff did not sufficiently allege that the plaintiff undertook steps to keep the plaintiff's alleged idea a secret because the court could not conclude that each of the actions taken by the plaintiff, in combination with one another, failed to plausibly support a claim for violation of the Georgia Trade Secrets Act, O.C.G.A. § 10–1–760 et seq. Schwieterman v. Caterpillar Inc., No. 1:20-CV-2611-SCJ, 2021 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 135003 (N.D. Ga. July 9, 2021).

Factual issues remaining in restrictive employment contract dispute. — In an agent's suit against an insurance company seeking to invalidate restrictive covenants in an agreement to sell insurance products, the court held that the trial court properly denied the agent's motion for judgment on the pleadings as to a confidential and proprietary information provision because it could not be said as a matter of law that the information defined as such did not constitute a trade secret or merely confidential information relating to the company's business. Holland Ins. Group, LLC v. Senior Life Ins. Co., 329 Ga. App. 834, 766 S.E.2d 187, 2014 Ga. App. LEXIS 792 (2014).

Confidentiality agreements not sufficient. — Requiring employees to sign confidentiality agreements was not a reasonable step to maintain the secrecy of computer software because the employees were transferred to work for a competitor on projects involving use of the software without instructions as to the confidentiality of documentation on the projects. Stargate Software Int'l, Inc. v. Rumph, 224 Ga. App. 873, 482 S.E.2d 498.

Plaintiff former employer's Georgia Trade Secrets Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-760 et seq., claim against the defendants, a former employee and a competitor, failed as to items the employer distributed to the employer's representatives for use at customer sites, without confidentiality markings or copying protection, as those items were not trade secrets under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-761(4) and a general confidentiality agreement the employer required the employees to sign did not create trade secrets in those items. Diamond Power Int'l, Inc. v. Davidson, 540 F. Supp. 2d 1322, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 73032 (N.D. Ga. 2007).

"Misappropriation." — When a marketing company presented a packaging idea to a beverage manufacturer, requiring that the secrecy of the idea be maintained, and the manufacturer then asked another company to design a similar concept, the evidence did not show misappropriation by the manufacturer, under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-761(2), because all of the other company's production elements were different from the marketing company's idea, and the concept elements had been presented to the manufacturer by a fourth company, as a result of which the manufacturer legally owned those elements, which were also in the public domain, having been the subject of a fifth company's patent application. Penalty Kick Mgmt. v. Coca Cola Co., 318 F.3d 1284, 2003 U.S. App. LEXIS 1122 (11th Cir. 2003).

Considering the definition of "misappropriation" in O.C.G.A. § 10-1-761(2) in a motion for a preliminary injunction, an employer could show misappropriation by a competitor through acquisition, disclosure, or use of the employer's trade secrets by the competitor hiring one of the employer's former employees. Diamond Power Int'l, Inc. v. Clyde Bergemann, Inc., No. 1:04-CV-1708-RWS, 2005 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 12493 (N.D. Ga. Jan. 5, 2005).

Disclosure. — Record showed defendant competitor's officer sent an e-mail to the officer's superiors speculating on plaintiff former employer's product design, then, the next day, after having lunch with the other defendant, the employer's former employee, the officer knew of the product's inner structure, components, and service history, and the competitor previously failed in an attempt to reverse engineer the product, a question of fact existed concerning whether the employee "disclosed" the employer's trade secrets in violation of O.C.G.A. § 10-1-761(2)(B)(ii)(II). Diamond Power Int'l, Inc. v. Davidson, 540 F. Supp. 2d 1322, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 73032 (N.D. Ga. 2007).

Former employee misappropriated a home healthcare and hospice services provider's trade secrets when the employee sent the referral logs to the employee's personal email account when, based on the timing of the transmission, the employee did not need the referral log information to complete a task for the provider's supervisor; the employee's testimony to the contrary was untruthful. Amedisys Holding, LLC v. Interim Healthcare of Atlanta, Inc., 793 F. Supp. 2d 1302, 2011 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 59260 (N.D. Ga. 2011).

Former employee had not misappropriated a home healthcare and hospice services provider's trade secrets after the employee's credible testimony established that the employee inadvertently failed to return a workbook after leaving the provider and did not, and had no intent to, use the workbook to compete against the provider. Amedisys Holding, LLC v. Interim Healthcare of Atlanta, Inc., 793 F. Supp. 2d 1302, 2011 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 59260 (N.D. Ga. 2011).

Former employer's misappropriation of trade secrets claim failed because the former employer presented only circumstantial evidence to support the employer's allegation that the former employee disclosed or used the employer's trade secrets, while the employee testified unequivocally that the employee did not use or disclose any trade secrets and presented evidence showing how the employee's new company could have independently bid upon the jobs at issue. Contract Furniture Refinishing & Maint. Corp. v. Remanufacturing & Design Group, LLC, 317 Ga. App. 47, 730 S.E.2d 708, 2012 Ga. App. LEXIS 686 (2012).

Pricing data of bidder. — Bidder on a public project failed to provide any evidence to support the bidder's claim that the detailed pricing information in the bidder's unredacted price proposal would enable a competitor to deduce how the bidder designed the bidder's systems and, therefore, merited protection under the trade secrets exemption to the Open Records Act, O.C.G.A. § 50-18-72(b)(1). State Rd. & Tollway Auth. v. Elec. Transaction Consultants Corp., 306 Ga. App. 487, 702 S.E.2d 486, 2010 Ga. App. LEXIS 967 (2010).

Misuse of information by franchisor. — In an action by a franchisee against a franchisor, evidence that the franchisor misused information acquired from the franchisee by legitimate means precluded summary judgment. Camp Creek Hospitality Inns, Inc. v. Sheraton Franchise Corp., 139 F.3d 1396, 1998 U.S. App. LEXIS 8337 (11th Cir. 1998).

Protectable trade secret. — District court erred in ruling that the subscriber assistance program (SAP) was not described concretely enough to constitute a trade secret, as a jury could reasonably find that the SAP included as components a one-time/out-of-cycle phone upgrade and a corresponding pricing model and that the entire SAP was a protectable trade secret. Further, as the phone upgrade component was non-existent in the industry at the time, the inclusion of that component might have created a trade secret. Subscriber Holdings, LLC v. Brightstar Corp., No. 21-12985, 2022 U.S. App. LEXIS 35963 (11th Cir. Dec. 30, 2022).

10-1-762. Injunctive relief.

(a) Actual or threatened misappropriation may be enjoined. Upon application to the court, an injunction shall be terminated when the trade secret has ceased to exist, but the injunction may be continued for an additional reasonable period of time in appropriate circumstances for reasons including, but not limited to, an elimination of commercial advantage that otherwise would be derived from the misappropriation or where the trade secret ceases to exist due to the fault of the enjoined party or others by improper means.

(b) In exceptional circumstances, if the court determines that it would be unreasonable to prohibit future use, an injunction may condition future use upon payment of a reasonable royalty for no longer than the period of time for which use could have been prohibited. Exceptional circumstances include, but are not limited to, a material and prejudicial change of position prior to acquiring knowledge or reason to know of misappropriation that renders a prohibitive injunction inequitable.

(c) In appropriate circumstances, affirmative acts to protect a trade secret may be compelled by court order.

(d) In no event shall a contract be required in order to maintain an action or to obtain injunctive relief for misappropriation of a trade secret.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Out-of-state order prohibiting unprivileged testimony. — Michigan order, by facially prohibiting former corporate litigation consultant from testifying as to matters outside the scope of any privilege, violated Georgia public policy; therefore, the full faith and credit clause did not require the federal district court in Georgia to give full effect to the Michigan court order. Williams v. GMC, 147 F.R.D. 270, 1993 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 3241 (S.D. Ga. 1993).

Permanent injunction appropriate. — After a company in the cable and wire industry developed a logistics system that constituted a trade secret, it was proper to issue a permanent injunction prohibiting a former employee of the company from working in the logistics department of a competitor for five years, or sooner if the competitor independently develops the competitor's own system. Essex Group v. Southwire Co., 269 Ga. 553, 501 S.E.2d 501, 1998 Ga. LEXIS 719 (1998).

Royalty injunction appropriate. — Trial court did not abuse the court's discretion in imposing a royalty injunction after making findings as to the public's interest in competition, plaintiff's delays in bringing the matter to resolution, and the adequacy of a royalty to protect the parties' respective interests. Electronic Data Sys. Corp. v. Heinemann, 268 Ga. 755, 493 S.E.2d 132, 1997 Ga. LEXIS 712 (1997).

Injunction blocking use of misappropriated trade secret appropriate. — Non-compete clause in a Software Agreement between an employer and employee was unenforceable as a restraint of trade under Ga. Const. 1983, Art. III, Sec. VI, Para. V(c), because it was unlimited as to time and territory. However, under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-762(d), the employee was prohibited from using a software version that incorporated the employer's trade secrets and confidential information, regardless of the non-compete clause. Coleman v. Retina Consultants, P.C., 286 Ga. 317, 687 S.E.2d 457, 2009 Ga. LEXIS 700 (2009).

Inevitable disclosure doctrine. — Inevitable disclosure doctrine is not an independent claim under which a trial court may enjoin an employee from working for an employer or disclosing trade secrets. Holton v. Physician Oncology Servs., LP, 292 Ga. 864, 742 S.E.2d 702, 2013 Ga. LEXIS 414 (2013).

Interlocutory injunction inappropriate. — Trial court erred, in part, by ordering an interlocutory injunction prohibiting a former employee from working in an executive capacity for a particular competitor of the former employer for one year based on the inevitable disclosure doctrine because a stand-alone claim under the doctrine, untethered from the provisions of Georgia's trade secret statute, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-760 et seq., was not cognizable in Georgia. Holton v. Physician Oncology Servs., LP, 292 Ga. 864, 742 S.E.2d 702, 2013 Ga. LEXIS 414 (2013).

OPINIONS OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Applicability to state trade secrets. — State entity contending that information requested pursuant to the Open Records Act, § 50-18-70 et seq., constitutes a trade secret to another, may exercise the entity's rights to protect the information under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-762. 1994 Op. 10-1-763. Recovery of damages.

(a) In addition to or in lieu of the relief provided by Code Section 10-1-762, a person is entitled to recover damages for misappropriation. Damages can include both the actual loss caused by misappropriation and the unjust enrichment caused by misappropriation that is not taken into account in computing actual loss. If neither damages nor unjust enrichment caused by the misappropriation are proved by a preponderance of the evidence, the court may award damages caused by misappropriation measured in terms of a reasonable royalty for a misappropriator's unauthorized disclosure or use of a trade secret for no longer than the period of time for which use could have been prohibited.

(b) If willful and malicious misappropriation exists, the court may award exemplary damages in an amount not exceeding twice any award made under subsection (a) of this Code section.

(c) In no event shall a contract be required in order to maintain an action or to recover damages for misappropriation of a trade secret.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Claim against state university board. — Public relations firm's claim against a state university board for misappropriation under the Trade Secrets Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-760 et seq., was barred by sovereign immunity; however, because a violation of the Act constituted a tort and the state waived sovereign immunity for torts, the firm could bring suit pursuant to the Tort Claims Act, O.C.G.A. § 50-21-20 et seq. Bd. of Regents of the Univ. Sys. of Ga. v. One Sixty Over Ninety, LLC, 351 Ga. App. 133, 830 S.E.2d 503, 2019 Ga. App. LEXIS 409 (2019), cert. denied, No. S19C1521, 2020 Ga. LEXIS 118 (Ga. Feb. 10, 2020).

Summary judgment denied. — Summary judgment was unwarranted on the misappropriation of trade secrets and unfair trade practices claims under Georgia statutory and common law because defendant software developer failed to timely provide plaintiff software developer with discoverable information about the PA system and, therefore, the court could not say that genuine issues of material fact did not exist. TDS Healthcare Sys. Corp. v. Humana Hosp. Ill., Inc., 880 F. Supp. 1572, 1995 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 4138 (N.D. Ga. 1995).

Despite a corporation incorporator's testimony that there was "probably nothing" the corporation had which derived its competitive value from not being generally known and not being readily ascertainable by proper means, sufficient evidence was presented from which a jury could find that the computer software the corporation's president developed for the corporation satisfied the definition of a trade secret under the Georgia Trade Secrets Act of 1990, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-760 et seq., to withstand a motion for summary judgment. Insight Tech., Inc. v. FreightCheck, LLC, 280 Ga. App. 19, 633 S.E.2d 373, 2006 Ga. App. LEXIS 738 (2006), cert. denied, No. S06C1871, 2006 Ga. LEXIS 807 (Ga. Oct. 2, 2006).

Pleading. — There is no requirement in O.C.G.A. § 10-1-763 that punitive damages be specifically asked for in the complaint, and exemplary damages may be awarded in the absence of such a request, if the evidence shows that willful and malicious misappropriation existed. Brandenburg v. All-Fleet Refinishing, Inc., 252 Ga. App. 40, 555 S.E.2d 508, 2001 Ga. App. LEXIS 1190 (2001).

An action for misappropriation must be brought within five years after the misappropriation is discovered or by the exercise of reasonable diligence should have been discovered. For the purposes of this Code section, a continuing misappropriation by any person constitutes a single claim against that person, but this Code section shall be applied separately to the claim against each person who receives a trade secret from another person who misappropriated that trade secret.

History.
Code 1981, § 10-1-766, enacted by Ga. L. 1990, p. 1560, § 1.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Mere suspicion of misappropriation of trade secrets insufficient. — Because: (1) the trial court erred in holding that mere suspicion of a possible misappropriation of an employer's trade secrets by one of the employer's former employees amounted to objectively reasonable notice sufficient to trigger the running of the statute; and (2) a fact issue existed as to whether the suspicions reflected in the employer's letters to the former employee's counsel were sufficient to cause a reasonable person to investigate whether its trade secrets had been misappropriated, the trial court erred in granting the former employee partial summary judgment on the basis of the five-year statute of limitations under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-766. Porex Corp. v. Haldopoulos, 284 Ga. App. 510, 644 S.E.2d 349, 2007 Ga. App. LEXIS 358 (2007), cert. denied, No. S07C1154, 2007 Ga. LEXIS 498 (Ga. June 25, 2007).

10-1-767. Applicability of article.

(a) Except as provided in subsection (b) of this Code section, this article shall supersede conflicting tort, restitutionary, and other laws of this state providing civil remedies for misappropriation of a trade secret.

(b) This article shall not affect:

(1) Contractual duties or remedies, whether or not based upon misappropriation of a trade secret; provided, however, that a contractual duty to maintain a trade secret or limit use of a trade secret shall not be deemed void or unenforceable solely for lack of a durational or geographical limitation on the duty;

(2) Other civil remedies that are not based upon misappropriation of a trade secret; or

(3) The definition of a trade secret contained in Code Section 16-8-13, pertaining to criminal offenses involving theft of a trade secret or criminal remedies, whether or not based upon misappropriation of a trade secret.

History.
Code 1981, § 10-1-767, enacted by Ga. L. 1990, p. 1560, § 1; Ga. L. 1991, p. 94, § 10.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Federal preemption. — Misappropriation claims under Georgia's trade secrets law, O.C.G.A. Art. 27, Ch. 1, T. 10, were not preempted by the federal Copyright Act (17 U.S.C. § 101 et seq.) because the claims involved the additional element of a breach of the confidentiality that was owed to the software owner under the owner's license agreement and common law. CMAX/Cleveland, Inc. v. UCR, Inc., 804 F. Supp. 337, 1992 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 14776 (M.D. Ga. 1992).

Georgia Trade Secrets Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-760 et seq., generally supersedes conflicting tort, restitutionary, and other laws of Georgia providing civil remedies for misappropriation of a trade secret. Prof'l Energy Mgmt. v. Necaise, 300 Ga. App. 223, 684 S.E.2d 374, 2009 Ga. App. LEXIS 1135 (2009).

Preemption of common law claims. — When a marketing company presented a packaging idea to a beverage manufacturer, requiring that the secrecy of the idea be maintained, and the manufacturer then asked another company to design a similar concept, as a result of which the marketing company sued the manufacturer, the marketing company's conversion, breach of confidential relationship and duty of good faith, unjust enrichment, and quantum meruit claims were preempted by O.C.G.A. § 10-1-767, as the subject matter of each of those claims was a trade secret. Penalty Kick Mgmt. v. Coca Cola Co., 318 F.3d 1284, 2003 U.S. App. LEXIS 1122 (11th Cir. 2003).

In a former employer's suit against a former employee and the new employer, the former employer's conversion, misappropriation, unjust enrichment, quantum merit, and civil theft claims were dismissed, as O.C.G.A. § 10-1-767 was the exclusive remedy for misappropriation of trade secrets, and the other claims were based on the same facts that comprised the trade secret misappropriation claim. Opteum Fin. Servs., LLC v. Spain, 406 F. Supp. 2d 1378, 2005 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 34444 (N.D. Ga. 2005).

Unpublished decision: In a case alleging misappropriation of confidential information and trade secrets, and breach of confidentiality agreements, a district court did not err in finding that the Georgia Trade Secrets Act of 1990, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-760 et seq., preempted the common law claims. FERCO Enters. v. Taylor Recycling Facility, LLC, 291 Fed. Appx. 304, 2008 U.S. App. LEXIS 18967 (11th Cir. 2008).

Trial court manifestly abused the court's discretion when the court granted equitable relief to a limited liability company (LLC) because there was no finding that the drawings a company used were trade secrets as defined by the Georgia Trade Secrets Act (GTSA), O.C.G.A. § 10-1-761, and by using O.C.G.A. § 9-5-1 to provide the LLC the same relief based on the same allegations it would have received had the drawings qualified as trade secrets, the trial court undermined the exclusivity of the GTSA; the key inquiry was whether the same factual allegations of misappropriation were being used to obtain relief outside the GTSA, and since the trial court's award of general equitable relief under O.C.G.A. § 9-5-1 was based on the same conduct as the GTSA claim, i.e, the misappropriation of the drawings, such relief was preempted by O.C.G.A. § 10-1-767(a). Robbins v. Supermarket Equip. Sales, LLC, 290 Ga. 462, 722 S.E.2d 55, 2012 Ga. LEXIS 133 (2012).

Breach of contract not preempted. — After plaintiff former employer also asserted Georgia Trade Secrets Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-760 et seq., claims, its common law breach of contract claim against defendant former employee was not superseded by the Act because, under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-767(b)(1), such a claim was not superseded, and the employee did not argue that there was an absence of a factual dispute as to whether the employee breached the employee's conflict of interest agreement. Diamond Power Int'l, Inc. v. Davidson, 540 F. Supp. 2d 1322, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 73032 (N.D. Ga. 2007).

Customer base as trade secret. — Bankruptcy trustee had no action against defendants for their conversion of the debtor's customer base because the remedies provided by the Georgia Trade Secrets Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-760 et seq., for misappropriation of a trade secret are exclusive. Kissner v. Inter-Continental Hotels Corp., No. 97 Civ 8400, 1999 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 1760 (S.D.N.Y. Feb. 18, 1999).

Remedies under the Georgia Trade Secrets Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-760 et seq., for misappropriation of a debtor's customer list were not available to a bankruptcy trustee because the debtor did not take the steps necessary to protect the debtor's customer base as a trade secret. Kissner v. Inter-Continental Hotels Corp., No. 97 Civ 8400, 1999 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 1760 (S.D.N.Y. Feb. 18, 1999).

Claim constituted tort actionable under Tort Claims Act. — Public relations firm's claim against a state university board for misappropriation under the Trade Secrets Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-760 et seq., was barred by sovereign immunity; however, because a violation of the Act constituted a tort and the state waived sovereign immunity for torts, the firm could bring suit pursuant to the Tort Claims Act, O.C.G.A. § 50-21-20 et seq. Bd. of Regents of the Univ. Sys. of Ga. v. One Sixty Over Ninety, LLC, 351 Ga. App. 133, 830 S.E.2d 503, 2019 Ga. App. LEXIS 409 (2019), cert. denied, No. S19C1521, 2020 Ga. LEXIS 118 (Ga. Feb. 10, 2020).

Breach of fiduciary duty claim not preempted. — Trial court erred in dismissing an employer's claims for breach of fiduciary duty, solicitation of customers, appropriation of tangible property, and breach of a nondisclosure agreement as preempted by the Georgia Trade Secrets Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-760 et seq., because these claims alleged conduct that did come within the Act. Prof'l Energy Mgmt. v. Necaise, 300 Ga. App. 223, 684 S.E.2d 374, 2009 Ga. App. LEXIS 1135 (2009).

10-1-771. Bad faith assertion of patent infringement prohibited; factors for determining bad faith.

(a) A person shall not make a bad faith assertion of patent infringement.

(b) A court may consider the following factors as evidence that a person has made a bad faith assertion of patent infringement:

(1) The demand letter does not contain the following information:

(1) The demand letter contains the information described in paragraph (1) of subsection (b) of this Code section;

(2) Where the demand letter lacks the information described in paragraph (1) of subsection (b) of this Code section and the target

(5) The author of the demand letter is:

(A) The inventor or joint inventor of the patent or, in the case of a patent filed by and awarded to an assignee of the original inventor or joint inventor, is the original assignee; or

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Appeal. — Company's inadequate briefing on appeal required affirmance with regard to a bad faith assertion of patent infringement under O.C.G.A. § 10-1-771; the company did not adequately address the district court's decision that its competitor's letters were not demand letters and that the company was not injured by the letters. Digital Ally, Inc. v. Util. Assocs., 882 F.3d 974, 2018 U.S. App. LEXIS 3674 (10th Cir. 2018).

10-1-772. Protective order; posting of bond.

If proceedings are initiated in a court of competent jurisdiction by the author of a demand letter or the author's agent, principal, client, or employee, a target may move that a bad faith assertion of patent infringement has been made in violation of this article and request that a protective order be issued as described in this Code section. Upon such motion and a finding by the court that a target has established a reasonable likelihood that an author of a demand letter has made a bad faith assertion of patent infringement, the court shall require the author of the demand letter to post a bond in an amount equal to a good faith estimate of the target's expenses of litigation, including an estimate of reasonable attorney's fees, conditioned upon payment of any amounts finally determined to be due to the target. A hearing shall be held if either party so requests. A bond ordered pursuant to this Code section shall not exceed $250,000.00. The court may waive the bond requirement if it finds the author of the demand letter has available assets equal to the amount of the proposed bond or for other good cause shown.

(a) A violation of this article shall constitute an unfair and deceptive act or practice in the conduct of consumer transactions under Part 2 of Article 15 of this chapter, the "Fair Business Practices Act," and the enforcement against any such violation shall be by public enforcement by the Attorney General and shall be enforceable through private action.

(b) Whenever it may appear to the Attorney General that any person is using or has used any method, act, or practice declared by this article to be unlawful and that proceedings would be in the public interest, the Attorney General may bring action in a court of competent jurisdiction. Upon a showing by the Attorney General that a person has violated this article, the court may enter or grant any or all of the relief provided for in Code Section 10-1-397.

(c) Any person who suffers injury or damages as a result of a violation of this article may bring an action individually against the person or persons engaged in such violation under the rules of civil procedure to seek equitable injunctive relief and to recover his or her general and exemplary damages sustained as a consequence thereof in any court having jurisdiction over the defendant. Such relief may include:

(1) Restitution to any person or persons adversely affected by a defendant's actions in violation of this article;

(2) Punitive damages in an amount equal to $50,000.00 or three times the combined total of damages, costs, and fees, whichever is greater;

(3) Expenses of litigation, including reasonable attorney's fees; and

(4) Other relief as the court deems just and equitable.

(d) Except as otherwise provided, this article is cumulative with other laws and is not exclusive.

10-1-781. Legislative intent.

The General Assembly recognizes that a new motor vehicle is a major consumer purchase and that a defectively manufactured new motor vehicle is likely to create hardship for, or may cause injury to, the consumer. It is the intent of the General Assembly to create a procedure for expeditious resolution of complaints and disputes concerning nonconforming new motor vehicles, to provide a method for notifying consumers of their rights under this article, and to ensure that consumers receive information, documents, and service necessary to enable them to exercise their rights under this article. In enacting these comprehensive measures, the General Assembly intends to encourage manufacturers to take all steps necessary to correct nonconformities in new motor vehicles and to create the proper blend of private and public remedies necessary to enforce this article.

History.
Code 1981, § 10-1-781, enacted by Ga. L. 2008, p. 746, § 1/HB 470; Ga. L. 2015, p. 1088, § 8/SB 148.

The term "new motor vehicle" also does not include trucks with more than 12,000 pounds gross vehicle weight rating, motorcycles, or golf carts. JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Editor's notes. — In light of the similarity of the statutory provisions, decisions under former Code Section 10-1-782, are included in the annotations for this Code section.

Noncomformity. — Finding that the water leaks met the definition of a nonconformity was not clearly erroneous as the record demonstrated that the motor home experienced leaks in the sealant during the customer's test drive, the customers reported the nonconformity to the manufacturer during the lemon law rights period, reasonable attempts to repair the nonconformity were made, and the motor home was out for service due to repairs for more than 30 days. Winnebago Industries, Inc. v. Simpson, 354 Ga. App. 439, 841 S.E.2d 36, 2020 Ga. App. LEXIS 181 (2020), cert. denied, No. S20C1550, 2021 Ga. LEXIS 91 (Ga. Mar. 1, 2021).

Automobile used as demonstrator was "new car." — In an action alleging violations of the Fair Business Practices Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-390 et seq., because the van leased to plaintiffs was always titled in the dealer and was never the subject of a retail sale or lease, it was a "new car". Therefore, the dealer did not engage in fraudulent or unfair business practices by listing it as "new," even though it had been driven as a demonstrator and had been in a collision. Kondo v. Marietta Toyota, 224 Ga. App. 490, 480 S.E.2d 851, 1997 Ga. App. LEXIS 27 (1997), cert. denied, No. S97C0815, 1997 Ga. LEXIS 441 (Ga. May 9, 1997) (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-1-780 et seq.).

Truck was not a reacquired vehicle. — Trial court did not err by concluding that the truck the plaintiff bought from the defendant was not a reacquired vehicle under Georgia's Lemon Law, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-780 et seq., because the defendant, who was a car dealer not the manufacturer, bought the truck from the original owner and sold the original owner another vehicle. It was neither replaced nor repurchased by the manufacturer. Henry v. Griffin Chrysler Dodge Jeep Ram, 362 Ga. App. 459, 868 S.E.2d 827, 2022 Ga. App. LEXIS 49 (2022).

Problems with motor home included under definition of new motor vehicle. — In an action under Georgia's Lemon Law, O.C.G.A. § 10-1-780 et seq., the trial court did not err in denying the manufacturer's motion for summary judgment since the evidence showed that the customers experienced the water leak problems in areas of the motor home not excluded by statute, but were included under the definition of new motor vehicle and, thus, covered by the statute. Winnebago Industries, Inc. v. Simpson, 354 Ga. App. 439, 841 S.E.2d 36, 2020 Ga. App. LEXIS 181 (2020), cert. denied, No. S20C1550, 2021 Ga. LEXIS 91 (Ga. Mar. 1, 2021).

10-1-783. Provision of owner's manual and notice of rights; fully itemized and legible repair order; copies of reports.

(a) The manufacturer shall publish an owner's manual and provide it to the new motor vehicle dealer. The owner's manual shall include a clear and conspicuous listing of addresses, email addresses, facsimile numbers, and toll-free telephone numbers for the manufacturer's customer service personnel who are authorized to direct activities regarding repair of the consumer's vehicle. A manufacturer shall also provide all applicable manufacturer's written warranties to the new motor vehicle dealer, who shall transfer the owner's manual and all applicable manufacturer's written warranties to the consumer at the time of purchase or vehicle acquisition.

(b) At the time of purchase or vehicle acquisition, the new motor vehicle dealer shall provide the consumer with a written statement that explains the consumer's rights under this article. The statement shall be written by the Attorney General and shall contain information regarding the procedures and remedies under this article.

(c) By October 1 of each year, the manufacturer shall forward to the Attorney General one copy of the owner's manual and the express warranty for each make and model of current year new motor vehicles it sells in this state. To the extent the instructions, terms, and conditions in the owner's manuals and express warranties for other models of the same make are substantially the same, submission of the owner's manual and express warranty for one model and a list of all other models for that make will satisfy the requirements of this subsection.

(d) Each time the consumer's new motor vehicle is returned from being diagnosed or repaired, the manufacturer, its authorized agent, or the new motor vehicle dealer shall provide to the consumer a fully itemized and legible statement or repair order containing a general description of the problem reported by the consumer; the date and the odometer reading when the vehicle was submitted for repair; the date and odometer reading when the vehicle was made available to the consumer; the results of any diagnostic test, inspection, or test drive; a description of any diagnosis or problem identified by the manufacturer, its authorized agent, or the new motor vehicle dealer; and an itemization of all work performed on the vehicle, including, but not limited to, parts and labor.

(e) Upon request of the consumer, the manufacturer, its authorized agent, or the new motor vehicle dealer shall provide a copy of any report or computer reading compiled by the manufacturer's representative regarding inspection, diagnosis, or test drive of the consumer's new motor vehicle.

Amendments.

The 2024 amendment, effective July 1, 2024, part of an Act to revise, modernize, and correct the Code, substituted "email" for "e-mail" in subsection (a).

10-1-784. Opportunity to repair; repurchase or replacement of vehicle.

(a)(1) If a consumer reports a nonconformity during the lemon law rights period, the manufacturer, its authorized agent, or the new motor vehicle dealer shall be allowed a reasonable number of attempts to repair and correct the nonconformity. A reasonable number of attempts shall be deemed to have been undertaken by the manufacturer, its authorized agent, or the new motor vehicle dealer if, during the lemon law rights period:

(A) A serious safety defect has been subject to repair one time and the serious safety defect has not been corrected;

(B) The same nonconformity has been subject to repair three times and the nonconformity has not been corrected; or

(C) The vehicle is out of service by reason of repair of one or more nonconformities for a cumulative total of 30 days.

If the vehicle is being repaired by the manufacturer through an authorized agent or a new motor vehicle dealer on the date that the lemon law rights period expires, the lemon law rights period shall be extended until that repair attempt has been completed.

(2)(A) If the manufacturer through an authorized agent or a new motor vehicle dealer is unable to repair and correct a nonconformity after a reasonable number of attempts, the consumer shall notify the manufacturer by statutory overnight delivery or certified mail, return receipt requested, of the need to repair and correct the nonconformity. The notice shall be sent to the address provided by the manufacturer in the owner's manual. The manufacturer shall have 28 days from its receipt of the notice to make a final attempt to repair and correct the nonconformity.

(B) By not later than the close of business on the seventh day following receipt of notice from the consumer, the manufacturer shall notify the consumer of the location of a repair facility that is reasonably accessible to the consumer. By not later than the close of business on the fourteenth day following the manufacturer's receipt of notice, the consumer shall deliver the nonconforming new motor vehicle to the designated repair facility.

(C) If the manufacturer fails to notify the consumer of the location of a reasonably accessible repair facility within seven days of its receipt of notice, or fails to complete the final attempt to repair and correct the nonconformity within the 28 day time period, the requirement that it be given a final attempt to repair and correct the nonconformity shall not apply. However, if the consumer delivers the nonconforming new motor vehicle to the designated repair facility more than 14 days from the date the manufacturer receives notice from the consumer, the 28 day time period shall be extended and the manufacturer shall have 14 days from the date the nonconforming new motor vehicle is delivered to the repair facility to complete the final attempt to repair and correct the nonconformity.

(3) No manufacturer, its authorized agent, or new motor vehicle dealer may refuse to diagnose or repair any alleged nonconformity for the purpose of avoiding liability under this article.

(b)(1) If the manufacturer, through an authorized agent or new motor vehicle dealer to whom the manufacturer directs the consumer to deliver the vehicle, is unable to correct a nonconformity during the final attempt, or if a vehicle has been out of service by reason of repair of one or more nonconformities for 30 days during the lemon law rights period, the manufacturer shall, at the option of the consumer, repurchase or replace the vehicle. The consumer shall notify the manufacturer, in writing by statutory overnight delivery or certified mail, return receipt requested, of which option the consumer elects. The manufacturer shall have 20 days from receipt of the notice to repurchase or replace the vehicle.

(2)(A) If a consumer who is a lessee elects to receive a replacement motor vehicle, in addition to providing the replacement motor vehicle, the manufacturer shall pay to the lessor an amount equal to all charges that the lessor will incur as a result of the replacement transaction and shall pay the lessee an amount equal to all incidental costs that have been incurred by the lessee plus all charges that the lessee will incur as a result of the replacement transaction. If a lessee elects to receive a replacement motor vehicle, all terms of the existing lease agreement or contract shall remain in force and effect, except that the vehicle identification information contained in the lease agreement or contract shall be changed to conform to the vehicle identification information of the replacement vehicle.

(B) If a consumer who is not a lessee elects to receive a replacement motor vehicle, in addition to providing the replacement motor vehicle, the manufacturer shall pay to the consumer an amount equal to all incidental costs incurred by the consumer plus all charges that the consumer will incur as a result of the replacement transaction.

(3)(A) If a consumer who is a lessee elects a repurchase, the manufacturer shall pay to the lessee an amount equal to all payments made by the lessee under the lease agreement or contract, including, but not limited to, the lessee cost, plus all incidental costs, less a reasonable offset for use of the nonconforming new motor vehicle. The manufacturer shall pay to the lessor an amount equal to 110 percent of the adjusted capitalized cost of the nonconforming new motor vehicle. After the lessor has received payment from the manufacturer as specified in this subparagraph and payment from the consumer of all past due charges, if any, the consumer shall have no further obligation to the lessor.

(B) If a consumer who is not a lessee elects a repurchase, the manufacturer shall pay to the consumer an amount equal to the purchase price of the nonconforming new motor vehicle plus all collateral charges and incidental costs, less a reasonable offset for use of the nonconforming new motor vehicle. Payment shall be made to the consumer and lienholder of record, if any, as their interests may appear on the records of ownership.

History.
Code 1981, § 10-1-784, enacted by Ga. L. 2008, p. 746, § 1/HB 470; Ga. L. 2015, p. 1088, § 8/SB 148; Ga. L. 2017, p. 774, § 10/HB 323.

10-1-785. Compelled replacement or repurchase through arbitration; manufacturer's informal dispute settlement mechanism; revocation of mechanism.

(a)(1) If a manufacturer does not replace or repurchase a nonconforming new motor vehicle after being requested to do so under subsection (b) of Code Section 10-1-784, the consumer may move to compel replacement or repurchase by applying for arbitration pursuant to Code Section 10-1-786. However, if a manufacturer has established an informal dispute settlement mechanism which the Attorney General has certified as complying with the provisions and rules of this article, the consumer shall be eligible to apply for arbitration only after submitting a dispute under this article to the informal dispute settlement mechanism.

(2) A consumer must file a claim with the manufacturer's certified informal dispute settlement mechanism no later than one year after expiration of the lemon law rights period.

(3) After a decision has been rendered by the certified informal dispute settlement mechanism, the consumer is eligible to apply for arbitration pursuant to Code Section 10-1-786.

(4) If a decision is not rendered by the certified informal dispute settlement mechanism within 40 days of filing, the requirement that the consumer submit his or her dispute to the certified informal dispute settlement mechanism shall not apply and the consumer is eligible to apply for arbitration under Code Section 10-1-786.

(b) Certified informal dispute settlement mechanisms shall be required to take into account the principles contained in and any rules promulgated under this article and shall take into account all legal and equitable factors germane to a fair and just decision. A decision shall include any remedies appropriate under the circumstances, including repair, replacement, refund, and reimbursement for collateral charges and incidental costs. For purposes of this Code section, the phrase "take into account the principles contained in and any rules promulgated under this article" means to be aware of the provisions of this article, to understand how they might apply to the circumstances of the particular dispute, and to apply them if it is appropriate and fair to both parties to do so.

(c) A certified informal dispute settlement mechanism shall keep such records as prescribed by the Attorney General in rules promulgated under this article and shall allow the Attorney General, without notice, to inspect and obtain copies of the records. Copies of any records requested by the Attorney General shall be provided promptly to the Attorney General at no cost.

(d) A manufacturer may apply to the Attorney General for certification of its informal dispute settlement mechanism. The Attorney General may, in his or her discretion, impose requirements on an informal dispute settlement mechanism in order for it to be certified. Within a reasonable time following receipt of the application, the Attorney General shall certify the informal dispute settlement mechanism or notify the manufacturer of the reason or reasons for denial of the requested certification.

(e) At any time the Attorney General has reason to believe that a certified informal dispute settlement mechanism is no longer in compliance with this article, he or she may notify the manufacturer of intent to revoke the informal dispute settlement mechanism's certification. The notice shall contain a statement of the reason or reasons for the revocation.

(f) The manufacturer shall have ten days from its receipt of notice of denial of requested certification or notice of intent to revoke certification to submit a written request for a hearing to contest the denial or intended revocation. If a hearing is requested, it shall be held within 30 days of the Attorney General's receipt of the hearing request. The hearing shall be conducted by the Office of State Administrative Hearings following the procedures set forth in Chapter 13 of Title 50, the "Georgia Administrative Procedure Act."

(g) No representation shall be made to a consumer that his or her dispute must be submitted to an informal dispute settlement mechanism that is not certified by the Attorney General pursuant to this Code section.

History. Code 1981, § 10-1-785, enacted by Ga. L. 2008, p. 746, § 1/HB 470; Ga. L. 2015, p. 1088, § 8/SB 148.

10-1-786. Request for arbitration; determination of eligibility; notifications; timing; requirements for decision.

(a) A consumer shall request arbitration by filing a written application for arbitration with the Attorney General. The application must be filed no later than one year from the date of expiration of the lemon law rights period or 60 days from the conclusion of the certified informal dispute settlement mechanism's proceeding, whichever occurs later.

(b)(1) After receiving an application for arbitration, the Attorney General shall determine whether the dispute is eligible for arbitration. Manufacturers shall be required to submit to arbitration under this article if the consumer's dispute is deemed eligible for arbitration by the Attorney General. Disputes deemed eligible for arbitration shall be assigned to an arbitrator or arbitrators appointed pursuant to Code Section 10-1-789.

(2)(A) A consumer whose dispute is determined to be ineligible for arbitration by the Attorney General may appeal the determination of ineligibility to an arbitrator or arbitrators appointed pursuant to Code Section 10-1-789.

(B) If the arbitrator or arbitrators determine that the consumer's dispute is eligible for arbitration, the arbitrator or arbitrators shall retain jurisdiction and the consumer's dispute shall proceed in accordance with this Code section.

(C) If the arbitrator or arbitrators determine that the consumer's dispute is not eligible for arbitration, a written decision shall be prepared and sent to the consumer and manufacturer by certified mail, return receipt requested.

(D) The decision of ineligibility may be appealed by the consumer under the provisions set forth in subsection (a) of Code Section 10-1-787. On appeal, the court shall consider only the issue of eligibility for arbitration.

(3) If the court finds that a consumer's appeal from a determination of ineligibility is frivolous or has been filed in bad faith or for the purpose of harassment, the court may require the consumer to pay to the Attorney General all costs incurred as a direct result of the appeals from the Attorney General's determination of ineligibility.

(c) A lessee shall notify the lessor of the pending arbitration, in writing, within ten days of the lessee's receipt of notice that a dispute has been deemed eligible for arbitration and shall provide to the arbitrator or arbitrators proof that notice was given to the lessor. Within ten days of its receipt of notice from the lessee, a lessor may petition the arbitrator or arbitrators to be a party to the arbitration proceeding.

(d) The arbitrator or arbitrators shall make every effort to conduct the arbitration hearing within 40 days from the date the dispute is deemed eligible for arbitration. The hearing shall be held at a location that is reasonably convenient to the Georgia consumer. Failure to hear the case within 40 days shall not divest authority of the arbitrator or arbitrators to hear the dispute or void any decision ultimately rendered.

(e) If the arbitrator or arbitrators determine:

(1) That a reasonable number of attempts has been undertaken to repair and correct the nonconformity and that the manufacturer was given the opportunity to make a final attempt to repair and correct the nonconformity and was unable to correct it; or

(2) That a new motor vehicle was out of service by reason of repair of one or more nonconformities for a cumulative total of 30 days within the lemon law rights period, the consumer shall be awarded replacement or repurchase of the new motor vehicle as provided under Code Section 10-1-784. The arbitrator or arbitrators also may award attorney's fees and technical or expert witness fees to a consumer who prevails.

(f) The decision of the arbitrator or arbitrators shall be in writing, be signed, and contain findings of fact and conclusions of law. The original signed decision shall be filed with the Attorney General and copies shall be sent to all parties. The filing of the decision with the Attorney General constitutes entry of the decision.

(g) A decision of the arbitrator or arbitrators that has become final under the provisions of subsection (a) of Code Section 10-1-787 may be filed with the clerk of the superior court, shall have all the force and effect of a judgment or decree of the court, and may be enforced in the same manner as any other judgment or decree.

(h) No arbitrator may be required to testify concerning any arbitration and the arbitrator's notes or other records are not subject to discovery. This provision does not extend to testimony or documents sought in connection with legal claims brought against an arbitrator arising out of an arbitration proceeding.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Editor's notes. — In light of the similarity of the statutory provisions, decisions under former Code Section 10-1-786, are included in the annotations for this Code section.

Right to file action for breach of warranty not barred. — Trial court erred in granting summary judgment to a vehicle manufacturer as to a purchaser's claim for breach of warranty as the purchaser did not waive the right to bring the breach of warranty claim by engaging in arbitration proceedings under the Motor Vehicle Warranty Rights Act, former O.C.G.A. §§ 10-1-786(1) and 10-1-794, because sections of the Uniform Commercial Code which dealt with breach of warranty actions were not included in former O.C.G.A. § 10-1-786. Rodgers v. GMC, 277 Ga. App. 547, 627 S.E.2d 151, 2006 Ga. App. LEXIS 150 (2006) (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-1-786).

10-1-787. Finality of arbitrator's decision; appeals by manufacturers; time for compliance with arbitrator's decision.

(a) The decision of the arbitrator or arbitrators is final unless a party to the arbitration, within 30 days of entry of the decision, appeals the decision to the superior court. A party who appeals a decision shall follow the procedures set forth in Chapter 3 of Title 5, and any appeal shall be de novo; however, the decision of the arbitrator or arbitrators shall be admissible in evidence.

(b) If the manufacturer appeals, the court may require the manufacturer to post security for the consumer's financial loss due to the passage of time for review.

(c) If the manufacturer appeals and the consumer prevails, recovery, in addition to the arbitrator's award, shall include all charges incurred by the consumer during the pendency of, or as a result of, the appeal, including, but not limited to, continuing collateral and incidental costs, technical or expert witness fees, attorney's fees, and court costs.

(d) A manufacturer which does not appeal a decision in favor of a consumer must fully comply with the decision within 40 days of entry thereof. If a manufacturer does not fully comply within the 40 day time period, the Attorney General may issue an order imposing a civil penalty of up to $1,000.00 per day for each day that the manufacturer remains out of compliance. The provisions of Code Sections 10-1-398 and 10-1-398.1 shall apply in connection with the imposition of a civil penalty under this subsection. It shall be an affirmative defense to the imposition of a civil penalty under this subsection that a delay or failure to comply was beyond the manufacturer's control or that a delay was acceptable to the consumer.

10-1-788. Exhaustion of remedies under article required.

The provisions of this article are not available to a consumer in a civil action unless the consumer has first exhausted all remedies provided for in this article.

10-1-789. Establishment of motor vehicle arbitration panel; compensation; conduct; liability.

(a) A motor vehicle arbitration panel shall resolve disputes between consumers and manufacturers arising under this article. The Attorney General, in his or her discretion, may operate the panel by contracting with public or private entities to conduct arbitrations under this article or by appointing individuals to serve as panel member arbitrators. An arbitrator shall be licensed to practice law in the State of Georgia and a member in good standing of the State Bar of Georgia or shall have at least two years' experience in professional arbitration or dispute resolution. No arbitrator shall be affiliated with or involved in the manufacture, distribution, sale, lease, or servicing of motor vehicles.

(b) Panel member arbitrators and entities that contract with the Attorney General to provide arbitration services shall be compensated for time and expenses at a rate to be determined by the Attorney General.

(c) Each arbitration proceeding shall be conducted by either one or three arbitrators, each of whom is to be assigned by the Attorney General or contracted entity.

(d) Neither the Attorney General, an entity with which the Attorney General has contracted, nor any arbitrator shall be civilly liable for any decision, action, statement, or omission made in connection with any proceeding under this article, except in circumstances where the decision, action, statement, or omission was made with malice or gross negligence.

10-1-790. Requirements for transfer of reacquired vehicle.

(a) No manufacturer, its authorized agent, new motor vehicle dealer, or other transferor shall knowingly resell, either at wholesale or retail, lease, transfer a title, or otherwise transfer a reacquired vehicle, including a vehicle reacquired under a similar statute of any other state, unless the vehicle is being sold for scrap and the manufacturer has notified the Attorney General of the proposed sale or:

(1) The fact of the reacquisition and nature of any alleged nonconformity are clearly and conspicuously disclosed in writing to the prospective transferee, lessee, or buyer; and

(2) The manufacturer warrants to correct such nonconformity for a term of one year or 12,000 miles, whichever occurs first.

A knowing violation of this subsection shall constitute an unfair or deceptive act or practice in the conduct of consumer transactions under Part 2 of Article 15 of Chapter 1 of Title 10 and will subject the violator to an action by a consumer under Code Section 10-1-399.

(b) The manufacturer shall have 30 days to notify the Attorney General that a vehicle has been reacquired in this state under the provisions of this article. The notice shall be legible and include, at a minimum, the vehicle year, make, model, and identification number; the date and mileage at the time the vehicle was reacquired; the nature of the alleged nonconformity; the reason for reacquisition; and the name and address of the original consumer. When the manufacturer resells, leases, transfers, or otherwise disposes of a reacquired vehicle, the manufacturer shall, within 30 days of the resale, lease, transfer, or disposition, notify the Attorney General of the vehicle year, make, model, and identification number; the date of the sale, lease, transfer, or disposition of the vehicle; and the name and address of the buyer, lessee, or transferee.

(c) If a manufacturer resells, leases, transfers, or otherwise disposes of a motor vehicle in this state that it reacquired under a similar statute of any other state, the manufacturer shall, within 30 days of the resale, lease, transfer, or disposition, notify the Attorney General of the transaction. The contents of the notice shall comply with the requirements of subsection (b) of this Code section.

(d) Manufacturers shall use forms approved by the Attorney General. The forms shall contain the information required under this Code section and any other information the Attorney General deems necessary for implementation of this Code section.

10-1-791. Consumer fees to implement provisions of article; enforcement.

(a) A fee of $3.00 shall be collected by the new motor vehicle dealer from the consumer at completion of a sale or execution of a lease of each new motor vehicle. The fee shall be forwarded quarterly to the Department of Law for deposit in the new motor vehicle arbitration account created in the state treasury. The payments are due and payable the first day of the month in each quarter for the previous quarter's collection and shall be mailed by the new motor vehicle dealer not later than the twentieth day of such month. The first day of the month in each quarter is July 1, October 1, January 1, and April 1 for each year. Consumer fees in the account shall be used for the purposes of this article. Funds in excess of the appropriated amount remaining in the new motor vehicle arbitration account at the end of each fiscal year shall be transferred to the general treasury. The new motor vehicle dealer shall retain $1.00 of each fee collected to cover administrative costs.

(b) The Attorney General shall have the power to enforce the provisions of this Code section. The Attorney General's enforcement power shall include:

(1) The authority to investigate alleged violations through use of all investigative powers available under Part 2 of Article 15 of this chapter, the "Fair Business Practices Act of 1975"; and

(2) The authority to initiate proceedings, pursuant to Code Section 10-1-397, in the event of a violation of this Code section. Such proceedings include, without limitation, issuance of a cease and desist order, a civil penalty order imposing a civil penalty up to a maximum of $2,000.00 for each violation, and proceedings to seek additional relief in any superior court of competent jurisdiction. The provisions of Code Sections 10-1-398, 10-1-398.1, 10-1-402, and 10-1-405 shall apply to proceedings initiated by the Attorney General under this Code section.

10-1-792. Limitation of liability for new motor vehicle dealers.

(a) Except as provided in subsection (a) of Code Section 10-1-790, this article shall not create or give rise to any cause of action by manufacturers or consumers against new motor vehicle dealers. No new motor vehicle dealer shall be held liable by a manufacturer or a consumer for any collateral charges, incidental charges, costs, purchase price refunds, or vehicle replacements. Manufacturers and consumers shall not make new motor vehicle dealers party to an arbitration proceeding or any other proceeding under this article. A new motor vehicle dealer that is named as a party in any proceeding brought by a consumer or a manufacturer under this article, except as provided in subsection (a) of Code Section 10-1-790, shall be entitled to an award of reasonable attorney's fees and expenses of litigation incurred in connection with such proceeding.

(b) The provisions of this article shall not impair any obligation under any manufacturer-dealer franchise agreement; provided, however, that any provision of any manufacturer-dealer franchise agreement which attempts to shift any duty, obligation, responsibility, or liability imposed upon a manufacturer by this article to a new motor vehicle dealer, either directly or indirectly, shall be void and unenforceable, except for any liability imposed upon a manufacturer by this article which is directly caused by the gross negligence of the dealer in attempting to repair the motor vehicle after such gross negligence has been determined by the hearing officer, as provided in Article 22 of this chapter, the "Georgia Motor Vehicle Franchise Practices Act."

Refunds shall be made to the consumer and lienholder, if any, as their interests may appear in the county superior court clerk's office. If no replacement or refund is made, the consumer may bring a civil action against the manufacturer to enforce the obligation. No action may be brought unless the manufacturer has received prior direct written notification from or on behalf of the consumer and has been offered the opportunities, as set forth in subsection (c) of this Code section, to cure the condition alleged within a reasonable time that is not to exceed 30 business days.

(b) No dealer or distributor shall be held liable by the manufacturer or by the consumer for any collateral charges, damages, costs, purchase price refunds, or replacements, and manufacturers and consumers shall not have a cause of action against a dealer or distributor.

(c) The replacement or refund obligation specified in subsection (a) of this Code section shall arise if the manufacturer or its authorized dealers are unable to make the farm tractor conform to applicable express written warranties within 18 months of the original physical delivery of the farm tractor to the consumer and the same nonconformity has been subject to repair four or more times by the manufacturer or its authorized dealers, but such nonconformity continues to exist or the farm tractor is out of service by reason of repair of the same nonconformity for a cumulative total of 30 or more business days when the service department of the authorized dealer in possession of the farm tractor is open for purposes of repair, provided that days when the consumer has been provided by the manufacturer or its authorized dealers with the use of another farm tractor which performs the same function shall not be counted.

within intended specifications for the farm tractor by having the basis of the manufacturer's claim appraised by a technical expert selected and paid for by the consumer prior to the informal dispute settlement hearing;

(D) No disputes shall be heard where there has been a recent attempt by the manufacturer to repair a consumer's farm tractor, but no response has yet been received by the informal dispute panel from the consumer as to whether the repairs were successfully completed. This provision shall not prejudice a consumer's rights under this Code section nor shall it extend the informal dispute panel's 40 day time limit for deciding disputes, as established by the Code of Federal Regulations, Title 16, Part 703; and

(E) The manufacturer shall provide and the informal dispute settlement panel shall consider all information relevant to resolving the dispute, such as the prior dispute records and information required by the Code of Federal Regulations, Title 16, Part 703.6, and any relevant technical service bulletins which may have been issued by the manufacturer or lessor regarding the farm tractor being disputed.

(2) A settlement reached under this Code section is binding on all participating parties.

(e) No consumer shall be required to participate in an informal dispute settlement procedure before filing an action in court if the informal dispute settlement procedure does not comply with the requirements of this Code section, notwithstanding the procedure's compliance with the Code of Federal Regulations, Title 16, Part 703.

(f) Any consumer injured by a violation of this Code section may bring a civil action to enforce this Code section and recover costs and disbursements, including reasonable attorney's fees.

Motorized wheelchair warranties, § 10-1-890 et seq.

Code Commission notes.
Pursuant to Code Section 28-9-5, in 1993, this article, which was enacted as Article 31, containing Code Sections 10-1-850 through 10-1-855, was redesignated as Article 32, containing Code Sections 10-1-870 through 10-1-875.

As used in this article, the term:

(1) "Assistive technology device" means any device or equipment with a retail cost to a consumer of $1,000.00 or more, that assists a person with disabilities to perform specific tasks such as moving, walking, standing, speaking, breathing, hearing, seeing, learning, working, sleeping, reaching, grasping, or caring for himself or herself that would not be possible for such person without an assistive technology device.

(2) "Assistive technology device dealer" means a person who is in the business of selling assistive technology devices.

(3) "Assistive technology device lessor" means a person who leases an assistive technology device to a consumer, or who holds the lessor's rights under a written lease.

(4) "Collateral costs" means expenses incurred by a consumer in connection with the repair of a nonconformity, including the costs of obtaining an alternative assistive technology device or other device used for mobility assistance.

(5) "Consumer" means any of the following:

(A) The purchaser of an assistive technology device, if the assistive technology device was purchased from an assistive technology device dealer or manufacturer for purposes other than resale;

(B) A person to whom the assistive technology device is transferred for purposes other than resale, if the transfer occurs before the expiration of an express warranty applicable to the assistive technology device;

(7) "Early termination cost" means any expense or obligation that an assistive technology device lessor incurs as a result of both the termination of a written lease before the termination date set forth in that lease and the return of an assistive technology device to a manufacturer under paragraph (3) of subsection (b) of Code Section 10-1-873. "Early termination cost" includes a penalty for prepayment under a finance arrangement.

(8) "Early termination savings" means any expense or obligation that an assistive technology device lessor avoids as a result of both the termination of a written lease before the termination date set forth in that lease and the return of an assistive technology device to a manufacturer under paragraph (3) of subsection (b) of Code Section 10-1-873. "Early termination savings" includes an interest charge that the assistive technology device lessor would have paid to finance the assistive technology device or, if the assistive technology device lessor does not finance the assistive technology device, the difference between the total amount for which the lease obligates the consumer during the period of the lease term remaining after the early termination and the present value of that amount at the date of the early termination.

(9) "Manufacturer" means a person who manufactures or assembles assistive technology devices and agents of that person, including an importer, a distributor, factory branch, distributor branch, and any warrantors of the manufacturer's assistive technology devices but does not include an assistive technology device dealer.

(B) The assistive technology device is out of service for an aggregate of at least 30 days because of warranty nonconformities.

History.
Code 1981, § 10-1-871, enacted by Ga. L. 1993, p. 1797, § 1; Ga. L. 1994, p. 97, § 10.

The warranty shall as a minimum warrant that there are no defects in parts or performance. The duration of the express written warranty shall be not less than one year after first delivery of the assistive technology device to the consumer. 10-1-873. Repair of nonconforming assistive technology devices; refund or replacement of devices; sale or lease of returned device.

(a) If a new assistive technology device does not conform to an applicable express warranty and the consumer reports the nonconformity to the manufacturer, the assistive technology device lessor, or any of the manufacturer's authorized assistive technology device dealers and makes the assistive technology device available for repair before one year after first delivery of the assistive technology device to a consumer, the nonconformity shall be repaired at the manufacturer's expense to correct the nonconformity regardless of whether the repairs are made after expiration of the warranty rights period. If in any subsequent proceeding it is determined that the consumer's repair did not qualify under this article, and the manufacturer was not otherwise obligated to repair the assistive technology device, the consumer shall be liable to the manufacturer for costs of repair.

(b)(1) If, after a reasonable attempt to repair, the nonconformity is not repaired, the manufacturer shall carry out the requirement under paragraph (2) or (3) of this subsection, whichever is appropriate.

(iii) Refund to the consumer the amount that the consumer paid under the written lease plus any collateral costs, less a reasonable allowance for use as defined in subparagraph (C) of this paragraph.

(B) The current value of the written lease equals the total amount for which that lease obligates the consumer during the period of the lease remaining after its early termination plus the assistive technology device dealer's early termination costs and the value of the assistive technology device at the lease expiration date if the lease sets forth that value, less the assistive technology device lessor's early termination savings.

(C) A reasonable allowance for use may not exceed the amount obtained by multiplying the total amount for which the written lease obligates the consumer by a fraction, the denominator of which is 1,825 and the numerator of which is the number of days that the consumer drove the assistive technology device before first reporting the nonconformity to the manufacturer, assistive technology device lessor, or assistive technology device dealer.

consumer. When the manufacturer provides the refund, the consumer shall return the assistive technology device having the nonconformity to the manufacturer.

(2) To receive a refund due under paragraph (3) of subsection (b) of this Code section, an assistive technology device lessor shall offer to transfer possession of the assistive technology device having the nonconformity to the manufacturer of that assistive technology device. When the manufacturer provides the refund, the assistive technology device lessor shall provide any endorsements necessary to transfer legal possession to the manufacturer.

(3) No person may enforce the lease against the consumer after the consumer receives a refund due under paragraph (3) of subsection (b) of this Code section.

(e) No assistive technology device returned by a consumer or assistive technology device lessor in this state under subsection (b) of this Code section or by a consumer or assistive technology device lessor in another state under a similar law of that state may be sold or leased again in this state unless full disclosure of the reasons for return is made to any prospective buyer or lessee.

10-1-910. Legislative findings.

The General Assembly finds and declares as follows:

(1) The privacy and financial security of individuals is increasingly at risk due to the ever more widespread collection of personal information by both the private and public sectors;

(2) Credit card transactions, magazine subscriptions, real estate records, automobile registrations, consumer surveys, warranty registrations, credit reports, and internet websites are all sources of personal information and form the source material for identity thieves;

(3) Identity theft is one of the fastest growing crimes committed in this state. Criminals who steal personal information such as social security numbers use the information to open credit card accounts, write bad checks, buy cars, purchase property, and commit other financial crimes with other people's identities;

(4) Implementation of technology security plans and security software as part of an information security policy may provide protection to consumers and the general public from identity thieves;

(5) Information brokers should clearly define the standards for authorized users of its data so that a breach by an unauthorized user is easily identifiable;

(6) Identity theft is costly to the marketplace and to consumers; and

(7) Victims of identity theft must act quickly to minimize the damage; therefore, expeditious notification of unauthorized acquisition and possible misuse of a person's personal information is imperative.

At any time that a consumer is required to receive a summary of rights required by 15 U.S.C. Section 1681g(d) of the federal Fair Credit Reporting Act, the consumer shall also be provided with the following notice:

"Georgia Consumers Have the Right to Obtain a Security Freeze.

You have a right to place a 'security freeze' on your credit report, which will prohibit a consumer reporting agency from releasing information in your credit report without your express authorization. A security freeze must be requested in writing by certified mail or by electronic means as provided by a consumer reporting agency. The security freeze is designed to prevent credit, loans, and services from being approved in your name without your consent. If you are actively seeking a new credit, loan, utility, telephone, or insurance account, you should understand that the procedures involved in lifting a security freeze may slow your applications for credit. You should plan ahead and lift a freeze in advance of actually applying for new credit. When you place a security freeze on your credit report, you will be provided a personal identification number or password to use if you choose to remove the freeze on your credit report or authorize the release of your credit report for a period of time after the freeze is in place.

To provide that authorization you must contact the consumer reporting agency and provide all of the following:

(1) The personal identification number or password.

(2) Proper identification to verify your identity.

(3) The proper information regarding the period of time for which the report shall be available.

A consumer reporting agency must authorize the release of your credit report no later than fifteen (15) minutes after receiving the above information if the request is by electronic means or by telephone, or no later than three business days when a written request is submitted.

A security freeze does not apply to a person or entity, or its affiliates, or collection agencies acting on behalf of the person or entity, with which you have an existing account, that requests information in your credit report for the purposes of reviewing or collecting the account. Reviewing the account includes activities related to account maintenance. You have a right to bring civil action against anyone, including a consumer reporting agency, who improperly obtains access to a file, knowingly or willfully misuses file data, or fails to correct inaccurate file data. Unless you are a victim of identity theft with a police report or other official document acceptable to a consumer reporting agency to verify the crimes, or you are 65 or older, a consumer reporting agency has the right to charge you a fee of no more than $3.00 to place a freeze on your credit report."

(b) Any person, firm, or corporation who shall request a certified public weigher to weigh, measure, count, read, or record any commodity, product, or article falsely or incorrectly or who shall request a false or inaccurate certificate of weight, measure, count, reading, or recording; or any person issuing a certificate of weight, measure, count, or recording within the meaning of this article who is not licensed as a certified public weigher in accordance with this article; or any person who shall in any way impersonate by acting as, or for, a certified public weigher; or any person who shall erase, change, or alter any certificate issued by a certified public weigher, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

10-3-1. Transfer of secured note carries security.

The transfer of notes secured by a mortgage or otherwise conveys to the transferee the benefit of the security. If more than one note is secured and the mortgagee transfers some and retains others, the holder of the transferred notes has a preference over the mortgagee if the security is insufficient to pay all the notes.

General Consideration

Express assignment not affected. — This section refers to implied transmission of title to the security, but does not purport to exclude transmission by express written assignment of the notes and security, or to qualify the effect of such written assignment. Cross v. Citizens' Bank & Trust Co., 160 Ga. 647, 128 S.E. 898, 1925 Ga. LEXIS 222 (1925);

Georgia Land & Sec. Co. v. Citizens Bank, 164 Ga. 852, 139 S.E. 557, 1927 Ga. LEXIS 289 (1927).

All or part of debt and security transferrable. — If land has been conveyed by security deed, the creditor may transfer the whole or any part of the debt and with it the real estate as security. Hunt v. New England Mtg. Sec. Co., 92 Ga. 720, 19 S.E. 27, 1893 Ga. LEXIS 238 (1893); Moss & Co. v. Stokely, 107 Ga. 233, 33 S.E. 61, 1899 Ga. LEXIS 37 (1899); Cumming v. McDade, 118 Ga. 612, 45 S.E. 479, 1903 Ga. LEXIS 633 (1903).

Defense of conversion of collateral in suit on note. — In a suit brought upon a note which recites that certain collateral is given to secure its payment and in which suit the collateral is neither tendered nor satisfactorily accounted for, it is error to strike a defense which alleges that such collateral was actually deposited and in which the ability of the plaintiff to produce the collateral is denied. Such an allegation practically amounts to an allegation that the collateral has been converted, and if this was true, the defendant would have the right to recoup the value of the converted security, as against the payment of the note. Turner v. Commercial Sav. Bank, 17 Ga. App. 631, 87 S.E. 918, 1916 Ga. App. LEXIS 822 (1916).

Construction and Application

"Otherwise" defined. — Word "otherwise" includes any form of security which may be taken for the purpose of securing an indebtedness evidenced by a series of notes. Merchants' & Citizens' Bank v. Bogle, 174 Ga. 612, 163 S.E. 489, 1932 Ga. LEXIS 102 (1932).

Word "otherwise," in this section, covers notes secured by a security deed. Alley v. First Nat'l Bank, 46 Ga. App. 527, 168 S.E. 317, 1933 Ga. App. LEXIS 133 (1933).

Section is applicable to security deed when title is transferred to the mortgagee. In re R.H. Elrod & Son, 215 F. 253, 1913 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 1890 (D. Ga. 1913).

This section says that transfer of notes secured by a mortgage or otherwise conveys to transferee the benefit of the security. Alley v. First Nat'l Bank, 46 Ga. App. 527, 168 S.E. 317, 1933 Ga. App. LEXIS 133 (1933).

Title transferred by transfer of secured note. — Whether or not the purported transfer of the security deed by the executors of an estate was effectual either in law or equity, when it appears that the executors also transferred the note secured by the deed, as a result of such transfer the transferee acquired an equitable title to the security. Chapman v. McPherson, 184 Ga. 618, 192 S.E. 423 (1937).

Effect of Transfer

Endorsement of note conveys mortgage lien. — Endorsement by a payee of the payee's name on the back of a mortgage note, for value, conveyed such note together with the mortgage lien to the holder thereof, and the transferee could foreclose the note in the transferee's own name. Setze v. First Nat'l Bank, 140 Ga. 603, 79 S.E. 540, 1913 Ga. LEXIS 195 (1913).

Restricted endorsement. — This section applies when the transfer is by endorsement of the note without recourse as well as when the endorsement is not restricted. Berry v. Van Hise, 148 Ga. 27, 95 S.E. 690, 1918 Ga. LEXIS 175 (1918).

Delivery of note reserving title to personalty. — Mere delivery of a note containing a reservation of title to personalty, while sufficient to transfer the evidence of the debt, is insufficient to establish such privity between the maker of the note and the transferee as will continue or keep alive the right of retaking the chattel. Swann Davis Co. v. Stanton, 7 Ga. App. 668, 67 S.E. 888, 1910 Ga. App. LEXIS 454 (1910).

Transfer of purchase money note without recourse. — When purchase money notes are transferred by the vendor of land without recourse or without guaranty, the notes lose their character as purchase money notes, insofar as the notes entitle the holder to a lien on the property. McLeod v. Bank of Abbeville, 147 Ga. 33, 147 Ga. 333, 92 S.E. 645, 1917 Ga. LEXIS 35 (1917).

Transfer of purchase money note with reserved title. — When a promissory note for the purchase money of personal property which contains a reservation of title until the note is paid is by the payee transferred for value to a third person without recourse, the title reserved for securing the payment is divested. If at the time of such transfer the title is not likewise transferred to the purchaser of the note as security in the purchaser's hands, it vests in the maker, and the transferee becomes an ordinary creditor of such maker. Mills v. Pope, 20 Ga. App. 820, 93 S.E. 559, 1917 Ga. App. LEXIS 1105 (1917).

"Payment guaranteed" endorsed on note with signature transfers security. — Words "payment guaranteed," signed by the payees and entered upon the back of a promissory note which contains a retention of title to property therein described, to secure the note's payment, is sufficient as an endorsement to transfer the title both of the note and of the property. Hendrix v. Bauhard Bros., 138 Ga. 473, 75 S.E. 588, 1912 Ga. LEXIS 586 (1912); Hooper v. Bank of Hiawassee, 29 Ga. App. 459, 116 S.E. 32, 1923 Ga. App. LEXIS 64 (1923).

Loss of status as purchase money notes does not apply to mortgage. — Decisions such as that in Neal v. Murphey & Co., 60 Ga. 388 (1978), to the effect that when purchase money notes for land for which bond for title has been given are transferred by the vendor without recourse, the notes lose their character as purchase money notes insofar as the notes entitle the vendor to an interest in the land, and have no application to the case of a transfer of a note secured by mortgage. Berry v. Van Hise, 148 Ga. 27, 95 S.E. 690, 1918 Ga. LEXIS 175 (1918).

Delivery of note transfers security represented by bond for title to land. — Assignee of a note given by the holder of a bond for title for part of the purchase-money of land, payable to the vendor or bearer, and transferred by the vendor by delivery, is subrogated to the rights of the vendor, and is entitled to a lien against the land for the purchase-money. The principle of this section applies when a note is indorsed without recourse. This principle applies when the note is payable to a named payee or order, and is transferred by mere delivery. Holbrook v. Adams, 166 Ga. 871, 144 S.E. 657, 1928 Ga. LEXIS 423 (1928).

General personal verdict against transferor without recourse not authorized. — When note secured by mortgage is transferred without recourse to one who transferred to another and suit was instituted thereon by the last transferee to recover a general judgment and set up the mortgage lien upon the property, while it was proper, under the disputed facts, to direct a verdict setting up a mortgage lien on the property for the amount of the note, it was erroneous to direct a general verdict in personam against the mortgagee who had transferred the note without recourse. Berry v. Van Hise, 148 Ga. 27, 95 S.E. 690, 1918 Ga. LEXIS 175 (1918).

Transferee of one of several notes preferred. — Since a security deed secured several notes, and one of the notes was transferred to the mortgagee's creditor, the latter was entitled to preference out of the proceeds of the sale of the property. In re R.H. Elrod & Son, 215 F. 253, 1913 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 1890 (D. Ga. 1913).

Transferee has preference over secured payee. — Transfer of notes which are in any wise secured conveys to the transferee the benefit of the security, and if several notes thus secured are executed and delivered to a creditor as payee and the latter transfers some and retains others, the holder of the transferred notes has a preference over the secured payee, if the security is insufficient to pay all the notes. Merchants' & Citizens' Bank v. Bogle, 174 Ga. 612, 163 S.E. 489, 1932 Ga. LEXIS 102 (1932).

In the absence of a special contract, when a mortgagee or grantee in a security deed transfers one of the secured notes and the transferee brings an equitable foreclosure thereon, the transferee will have priority over the mortgagee or grantee in the security deed holding the untransferred notes, if the amount realized at the foreclosure sale is insufficient to pay all the notes. Rembert v. Ellis, 195 Ga. 807, 25 S.E.2d 681, 1943 Ga. LEXIS 297 (1943).

Security need not be transferred to give transferee preference. — Holder of notes of a series to whom the notes have been transferred has a preference over the secured payee who retains a portion of the evidence of indebtedness, if the security is insufficient to pay all the note, and there need not be a transfer of the security in order to entitle the transferee to this preference. Merchants' & Citizens' Bank v. Bogle, 174 Ga. 612, 163 S.E. 489, 1932 Ga. LEXIS 102 (1932).

Transferee takes general power of sale. — When one becomes owner of title conveyed by security deed and of indebtedness secured thereby, and the power of sale is not expressed in the deed as limited to the grantee, but is conferred upon the grantee or "assigns," one is entitled to exercise the power to the same extent as the grantee. Universal Chain Theatrical Enters., Inc. v. Oldknow, 176 Ga. 492, 168 S.E. 239, 1933 Ga. LEXIS 207 (1933).

Waiver of transferee's right to preference. — Generally, the transferee of one or more of several notes secured by deed to a single tract of land is entitled to preference in payment to the payee of the mortgage or security deed, but this preference may be waived. Such transferee of one of the notes may not only expressly waive one's right to preference in the distribution of funds arising from the sale of the land given as security for the payment of the debt, but one may also expressly contract that preference in the payment of the proceeds of such sale shall be retained by the holder of the security deed, and thereby agree and contract that a distribution of the proceeds of the sale of the land securing both notes shall be different from that ordinarily enforceable by law. Ottauquechee Sav. Bank v. Elliott, 172 Ga. 656, 158 S.E. 316, 1931 Ga. LEXIS 170 (1931).

Enforcement of Rights

1. In General

Transferee may subject land to debt. — Under former Civil Code 1910, §§ 6037 and 6039, the transferee and holder of a promissory note given for the purchase money of land may, in appropriate proceedings, subject the land to the transferee's debt. Guarantee Trust & Banking Co. v. American Nat'l Bank, 15 Ga. App. 778, 84 S.E. 222, 1915 Ga. App. LEXIS 61 (1915).

Recovery of personalty when title reserved. — If one sells personal property, taking a purchase money note reserving title in the property until the note is paid, the holder of such note may recover the property in an action of trover upon failure of the maker of the note to pay the note. Jordan Mercantile Co. v. Brooks, 149 Ga. 157, 99 S.E. 289, 1919 Ga. LEXIS 170 (1919); Hooper v. Bank of Hiawassee, 29 Ga. App. 459, 116 S.E. 32, 1923 Ga. App. LEXIS 64 (1923).

Any transferee may foreclose. — If one or more of several notes secured are held by one person and others of the secured notes are held by other parties, each of the noteholders is entitled to the security executed to secure all the notes, and any one of the holders may foreclose, giving the notice required by law to all holders concerned. Irons v. American Nat'l Bank, 178 Ga. 160, 172 S.E. 629, 1933 Ga. LEXIS 34 (1933).

Enforcement of landlord's lien despite payment to transferor. — If a tenant gives two negotiable promissory notes payable to the landlord for rent and the landlord transfers one of the notes and retains the other, in the absence of any agreement to the contrary, the lien right is split, and the interests of the landlord and the transferee in the security provided by the landlord's liens are several, and the interest of the transferee is not subject to the control of the landlord. If in such a case the tenant sells and disposes of a part of the crops raised upon the premises during the year and pays the entire proceeds to the landlord, who does not produce the transferred note, and if such sale and disposition of the proceeds are without the authority or consent of the transferee, the latter will not be estopped by such application of the proceeds from asserting the fact of such sale and removal as ground for distraining for the amount of rent represented by the transferred note before the note's maturity.

Equity will give effect to transferee's rights. — If the security is a deed conveying the legal title, the transfer carries with the transfer an equitable interest in the security, though not the legal title; and a court of equity will give effect to the transferee's rights in the premises. Henry v. McAllister, 93 Ga. 667, 20 S.E. 66, 1894 Ga. LEXIS 382 (1894); Van Pelt v. Hurt, 97 Ga. 660, 25 S.E. 489, 1895 Ga. LEXIS 548 (1895); Carter v. Johnson, 156 Ga. 207, 119 S.E. 22, 1923 Ga. LEXIS 228 (1923); First Nat'l Bank v. Pounds, 163 Ga. 551, 136 S.E. 528, 1927 Ga. LEXIS 25 (1927).

When the transferee of a purchase money note reduces the note to judgment, it is the duty of the vendor to convey the land by quitclaim deed to the purchasers, to enable the transferee to levy upon and sell the land under an execution issued upon the judgment obtained for the purchase money; and upon refusal of the vendor to make such conveyance when requested to do so by a transferee, a court of equity will compel the vendor to make such conveyance. Holbrook v. Adams, 166 Ga. 871, 144 S.E. 657, 1928 Ga. LEXIS 423 (1928).

Lien enforceable without regard to equitable principles. — Under former Civil Code 1910, §§ 3346 and 4276, a transferee of notes may ask in a court of law, without asking for intervention of equitable principles, that a judgment rendered on such notes be declared to be a special lien on the land or other property which is described in the instrument securing such notes. Alley v. First Nat'l Bank, 46 Ga. App. 527, 168 S.E. 317, 1933 Ga. App. LEXIS 133 (1933).

2. Joinder of Parties

Transferees joinable with mortgagor. — Petition was not rendered multifarious by the joinder of the holders of a transferred note with the mortgagor, because the petition set forth one connected interest among them all, centering in the point in issue in the cause. Conley v. Buck, 100 Ga. 187, 28 S.E. 97, 1897 Ga. LEXIS 25 (1897).

Immaterial whether note preferred or not. — It is immaterial whether the note is preferred or postponed in payment to those held by the mortgagee. Willingham & Cone v. Huguenin, 129 Ga. 835, 60 S.E. 186, 1908 Ga. LEXIS 205 (1908).

All transferees must be made parties, if possible. — All the holders of notes secured by a mortgage must be brought before the court as defendants before a decree is made; it is best, both for the holders of the notes and the mortgagor, that the foreclosure sale shall remove the whole lien from the property, so that contemplating purchasers may bid with the assurance that the lien of the mortgagor will be entirely divested from the land, but this is not to be understood as requiring the impossible; it was not intended to require the exercise of that extraterritorial jurisdiction which is forbidden by law. Irons v. American Nat'l Bank, 178 Ga. 160, 172 S.E. 629, 1933 Ga. LEXIS 34 (1933).

3. Res Judicata

Decrees and orders bind grantee made party or subsequent transferees. — If a foreclosure proceeding by a transferee of one of the secured notes has been completed and the grantee in the security deed was a party to the proceeding, the decree and orders therein are res judicata as to any further rights of the grantee or the grantee's transferees who may acquire title after such decree and orders. Rembert v. Ellis, 195 Ga. 807, 25 S.E.2d 681, 1943 Ga. LEXIS 297 (1943).

When the transferee of a note secured by a deed forecloses thereon in equity and makes the receiver of the insolvent assignor a party, and the receiver raises no question as to a partly erroneous description of the property in the petition and proceedings, but acknowledges service of a petition and rule nisi to confirm the sale of the property, as correctly advertised, sold, and described in the petition for confirmation, and the sale is thus confirmed with a correct deed to the purchaser, one who subsequently buys another note secured by the same deed is bound by such foreclosure. One cannot maintain on one's note a second foreclosure on the theory that the first proceeding was void because the pleadings and procedure therein contained the partly erroneous description of the property since one was a privy of the insolvent assignor and its receiver. Accordingly, the judge properly found for the defendants on their pleas of res judicata and estoppel. Rembert v. Ellis, 195 Ga. 807, 25 S.E.2d 681, 1943 Ga. LEXIS 297 (1943).

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Former exception as to state-chartered banks. — Section originally excepted notes to be negotiated or deposited with state-chartered banks for collection. Beckwith v. Carleton & Co., 14 Ga. 691 (1854).

Permitting joint suit changed law merchant. — Suit against the maker and endorser in one action is entirely of statutory origin. A suit against the maker and endorser was unknown to the law merchant, under which it was necessary to obtain a judgment against the maker before the liability of the endorser was established. Wilson v. Exchange Bank, 122 Ga. 495, 50 S.E. 357, 1905 Ga. LEXIS 245 (1905).

Formerly, section not applicable to bills of exchange. — Prior to adoption of what is now the state Constitution, while the endorser and maker of a promissory note living in different counties may have been joined in the same action, this rule was not applicable to bills of exchange. Vinson v. Platt & McKenzie, 21 Ga. 135, 1857 Ga. LEXIS 18 (1857); Cox v. Mechanics' Sav. Bank, 28 Ga. 529, 1859 Ga. LEXIS 251 (1859).

Joinder of principal and guarantor. — Under the state Constitution when the contract signed by the defendant was one of guaranty, not endorsement, one cannot be sued jointly with the principal, but a separate suit must be entered against each in the county of one's residence. Geiser Mfg. Co. v. Jones & Toole, 90 Ga. 307, 17 S.E. 81, 1892 Ga. LEXIS 175 (1892); Georgia Cas. Co. v. Dixie Trust & Sec. Co., 23 Ga. App. 447, 98 S.E. 414, 1919 Ga. App. LEXIS 154 (1919).

Joinder of maker and endorser. — Maker of a note and the one who endorses the note, "to be liable in the second instance," cannot be sued together in the same action. Bartlett v. Byers, 35 Ga. 142, 1866 Ga. LEXIS 179 (1866).

Joinder of maker and one who promised to become joint maker. — If one promised to become the joint maker of a note with another but fails to do so, one cannot be joined with the maker in an action in the county of such maker, if one lives in a different county. Adams v. Williams, 125 Ga. 430, 54 S.E. 99, 1906 Ga. LEXIS 183 (1906).

Joinder of joint makers or maker and endorser. — When one signs one's name on the face of a note with the word "endorser" thereafter, one is either a joint maker or an endorser and may be sued with the other maker. McLendon v. McLendon, 61 Ga. 110, 61 Ga. 111, 1878 Ga. LEXIS 38 (1878).

Endorser may prove different relationship. — When one signs one's name on the back of a nonnegotiable note in blank one is an ordinary endorser and not a guarantor and is, therefore, suable in the same action with the maker in the county of the latter's residence. Such endorser may plead and prove, however, that according to the intention and agreement of the parties one's relationship with the paper was not that of an endorser. Saussy & Huxford v. Weeks, 122 Ga. 70, 49 S.E. 809, 1905 Ga. LEXIS 116 (1905). See Walker v. Carpenter, 5 Ga. App. 427, 63 S.E. 576, 1909 Ga. App. LEXIS 10 (1909).

Defendant sued in two capacities. — Defendant may be sued in the same action as an executor of the maker of a promissory note and as an individual endorser. Roark v. Turner, 29 Ga. 455, 1859 Ga. LEXIS 364 (1859).

Joinder drawer and endorser may be joined without acceptor. — Drawer and the endorser may be sued together without joining the acceptor. If the suit is against such parties the parties should be so described in the plaintiff's pleading, but the failure to do so may be cured by amendment when there is enough set forth to amend by. Ware v. City Bank, 59 Ga. 840, 1877 Ga. LEXIS 415 (1877).

Acceptor of bill of exchange may sue drawer and accommodation endorser in the same action in the county of the drawer. Ross v. Saulsbury, Respess & Co., 52 Ga. 379, 1874 Ga. LEXIS 298 (1874).

Effect of bankruptcy of maker. — If there is a suit against maker and endorser, the suit will not be stayed upon the application of the endorser because of the pending of bankruptcy proceedings against the maker. Johnson v. Waxelbaum Co., 1 Ga. App. 511, 58 S.E. 56, 1907 Ga. App. LEXIS 19 (1907).

Maker's right to be sued in county of residence. — As a general rule where the endorser and maker reside in different counties, suit may be brought on the note in either county, but the maker of a note cannot be deprived of one's constitutional right to be sued in the county of one's own residence by an endorsement secured by the payee without the knowledge and consent of the maker and for the sole purpose of conferring jurisdiction upon the courts of the county of the endorser's residence. Arnold v. Atlanta Oil & Fertilizer Co., 11 Ga. App. 581, 75 S.E. 900, 1912 Ga. App. LEXIS 110 (1912).

Joint suit must be in county of drawer's residence. — If the drawer of a check and the endorsers thereon are residents of different counties, a joint suit against the drawer and the endorsers must be brought in the county of the drawer's residence, in the absence of a waiver by the drawer of jurisdiction over the drawer's person. Pioneer Prods., Inc. v. Sinclair, 92 Ga. App. 95, 88 S.E.2d 43, 1955 Ga. App. LEXIS 531 (1955).

Court in county of endorsers' residence lacks jurisdiction of nonresident drawer. — If a check was drawn by the defendant corporation incorporated in one county and having and maintaining an office and place of business only in another county, payable to the order of the endorsers, a partnership composed of partners resident in a third county, and plaintiff instituted suit upon the check against the drawer and the endorsers in a city court in the third county, that court was without jurisdiction of the defendant drawer. Pioneer Prods., Inc. v. Sinclair, 92 Ga. App. 95, 88 S.E.2d 43, 1955 Ga. App. LEXIS 531 (1955).

Residence does not confer jurisdiction if suit otherwise barred. — If suit against two makers of a promissory note was barred by reason of a former recovery, the maker's residence did not confer jurisdiction upon the court of the county in the subsequent suit against the other makers and endorsers. Fullington v. Killen, 65 Ga. 575, 1880 Ga. LEXIS 264 (1880).

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Purpose. — Main purpose of Ga. L. 1897, p. 81, §§ 1-3 was to so mark patent-right notes that, if possible, purchasers would hesitate to buy the notes even before maturity; and, thus, behind that was the purpose to protect, if possible, those of our population who are too gullible, both by decreasing the number of such purchases (generally worthless) and by affording to those so unwary as to be caught, rights which, as to bona fide purchasers, are not allowed to any other class. Lee v. Hightower, 3 Ga. App. 226, 59 S.E. 597, 1907 Ga. App. LEXIS 604 (1907).

Purpose of former Civil Code 1910,

§§ 4293 and 4294 was to place a purchaser of a note, expressing on the note's face that the consideration was a patent right, in the same position as the payee with reference to the note's enforcement. Hunt v. McKinney, 11 Ga. App. 301, 75 S.E. 144, 1912 Ga. App. LEXIS 377 (1912).

Effect of failure to express consideration. — Note given for a patent right but not expressing upon the note's face its consideration is not void under Ga. L. 1897, p. 81, §§ 1 and 2 in the hands of a bona fide holder. Smith v. Wood, 111 Ga. 221, 36 S.E. 649, 1900 Ga. LEXIS 519 (1900); Parr v. Erickson, 115 Ga. 873, 42 S.E. 240, 1902 Ga. LEXIS 633 (1902); Lee v. Hightower, 3 Ga. App. 226, 59 S.E. 597, 1907 Ga. App. LEXIS 604 (1907); Hunt v. McKinney, 11 Ga. App. 301, 75 S.E. 144, 1912 Ga. App. LEXIS 377 (1912); Heard v. National Bank, 143 Ga. 48, 84 S.E. 129, 1915 Ga. LEXIS 280 (1915) (construing former Ga. L. 1912, p. 153, relating to sales of corporate stock).

If the consideration is not expressed in a patent-right note, the right to enforce the note is governed by the same rules as are applicable to a note founded upon any other valid consideration. Hunt v. McKinney, 11 Ga. App. 301, 75 S.E. 144, 1912 Ga. App. LEXIS 377 (1912).

When endorsee takes subject to defenses. — It is only when the consideration is expressed in the note that the endorsee, before maturity and for value, takes it subject to all defenses. Parr v. Erickson, 115 Ga. 873, 42 S.E. 240, 1902 Ga. LEXIS 633 (1902); Simmons v. Council, 5 Ga. App. 386, 63 S.E. 238, 1908 Ga. App. LEXIS 132 (1908); Ferguson v. Bank of Dawson, 50 Ga. App. 604, 179 S.E. 236, 1935 Ga. App. LEXIS 234 (1935) (construing former Ga. L. 1912, p. 153, relating to sale of corporate stock).

Defenses limited to those between original parties. — Maker of a note may set up by way of defense, in a suit on the same, all the equities existing between the original parties, or make any defense that one could have made against the original payee; but one cannot set up, against an innocent purchaser of the note before due and without notice, any equities or defenses against every person who may at any time have held the note as a bearer. Tate v. Little, 141 Ga. 799, 82 S.E. 129, 1914 Ga. LEXIS 155 (1914).

Any person, firm, company, or corporation who may purchase any note, contract, or other evidence of debt given for any of the articles or things set forth in Code Section 10-3-3 when the consideration of said note is expressed on the face thereof as is provided in said Code section, whether before due and without notice or otherwise, where the consideration is so expressed, shall take the same with all the equities existing between the original parties; and the maker of such note, contract, or other evidence of debt shall have the right to make any defense to the payment of same as against such purchasers that could have been made against the original payee.

Innocent purchaser protected unless consideration stated. — This section clearly contemplates that an innocent purchaser of a negotiable instrument before due and without notice will be protected, except if the consideration is stated on the face of the instrument. Ferguson v. Bank of Dawson, 50 Ga. App. 604, 179 S.E. 236, 1935 Ga. App. LEXIS 234 (1935) (construing former Ga. L. 1912, p. 153, as to sales of corporate stock).

Protection extends to defense of want of consideration. — If a note does not express upon the note's face the note's consideration, the principle that a bona fide holder of a negotiable promissory note, purchased for value and before maturity, is protected against a defense that the note was without consideration is applicable. Ferguson v. Bank of Dawson, 50 Ga. App. 604, 179 S.E. 236, 1935 Ga. App. LEXIS 234 (1935) (construing former Ga. L. 1912, p. 153, as to sales of corporate stock).

Presumption that holder took before maturity, for value, and without notice. — If a note does not express upon the note's face the note's consideration, the principle that when a negotiable note payable at a future date was endorsed by the payee to the plaintiff, in the absence of proof to the contrary the law will presume that the plaintiff took before maturity, for value, and without notice, is applicable. Ferguson v. Bank of Dawson, 50 Ga. App. 604, 179 S.E. 236, 1935 Ga. App. LEXIS 234 (1935) (construing former Ga. L. 1912, p. 153, as to sales of corporate stock).

Actual notice of consideration to director of bank. — Actual notice to a director of a bank, who is also on the loan committee of the bank, as to the consideration for a note about to be discounted by the bank, is sufficient notice to the bank of that fact, so as to let in all defenses against it that existed between the original parties. Ferguson v. Bank of Dawson, 50 Ga. App. 604, 179 S.E. 236, 1935 Ga. App. LEXIS 234 (1935) (construing former Ga. L. 1912, p. 153, as to sales of corporate stock).

If any person shall violate Code Section 10-3-3 by selling any of the articles mentioned in that Code section without expressing on the face

OPINIONS OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Preemption of other laws. — Subject of bonded and licensed warehouses is fully covered by this article and it would appear to preempt all matters pertaining to bonded and licensed warehouses. 1968 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 68-118.

Exemption of federally licensed warehousemen. — Any warehouse storing agricultural products in this state that is licensed for the storage of agricultural products pursuant to the United States Warehouse Act is exempt from the provisions of this article, including the licensing and bonding requirements contained therein. 1977 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 77-40.

Federally licensed warehousemen do not have to acquire separate bonding and licensing mandated by the Georgia grain dealing legislation, but are accorded the exemption now provided by paragraph (3) of Ga. L. 1977, p. 245, § 1. 1978 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 78-11.

The Commissioner may grant such waiver for a temporary period not to exceed 180 days if the applicants can furnish evidence of good and substantial reasons therefor. This paragraph shall not be applicable to any applicant who maintains a bond in the maximum amount required by subsection (a) of Code Section 10-4-12.

10-4-12. Bond required; additional bond.

(a) Every person intending to engage in business as a warehouseman under this article shall, prior to commencing such business and periodically thereafter as the Commissioner shall require, execute and file with the Commissioner a good and sufficient bond to the state to secure the faithful performance of his or her obligation as a warehouseman under the terms of this article and the rules and regulations prescribed under this article, such bond to be computed in direct ratio to the licensed storage capacity of the warehouse bonded. The bond shall be executed by a surety corporation authorized to transact business in this state and approved by the Commissioner. Such bond shall be upon forms prescribed by the Commissioner. Any and all bond applications shall be accompanied by a certificate of "good standing" issued by the Commissioner of Insurance. The Commissioner shall have authority to fix the bond for any part of licensed storage capacity of the warehouse being used; but in no event shall the amount of the bond be required to exceed 15 percent of the value of the products stored and the bond shall be in such form and amount and shall have such surety or sureties, subject to service of process in actions on the bonds with this state, as the Commissioner may prescribe; provided, however, that the minimum bond to be posted for each warehouse shall be $20,000.00 and the maximum bond to be required for each warehouse shall be $300,000.00.

(b) If a warehouseman is also a grain dealer, the amount of the required bond shall be the greater of the bond required by subsection (a) of this Code section or the bond required under Code Section 2-9-34 for grain dealers who are not licensed under this article.

(c) Whenever the Commissioner shall determine that a previously approved bond has for any cause become insufficient, the Commissioner may require an additional bond or bonds to be given by the warehouseman concerned, conforming with the requirements of this Code section. Unless the additional bond or bonds are given within the time fixed by a written demand therefor, or if the bond of the warehouseman is canceled, the license of such warehouseman shall be immediately revoked by operation of law without notice or hearing. Code Sections 10-4-6 and 10-4-7 shall apply to this as well as all other Code sections of this article.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Negligence of inspectors. — Allegations that an inspection of a public warehouseman were negligent and that the reconciliation of inventory reports were inaccurate were insufficient to warrant summary judgment although the warehouse receipt holders submitted the deposition testimony of the inspector and the Assistant Commissioner of the Warehouse Division, in which the inspector's breach of duty appeared clear, the other evidence submitted by the defendant supported the defendant's contention that the receipt holder had not established negligence as a matter of law. Planters & Citizens Bank v. Pennsylvania Millers Mut. Ins. Co., 786 F. Supp. 991, 1992 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 2540 (S.D. Ga. 1992), aff'd, No. 92-8468, 1993 U.S. App. LEXIS 10340 (11th Cir. 10-4-19. Warehouse receipts required; obtaining printed forms; use of electronic receipts authorized.

(a) Unless otherwise required by law or by rule or regulation, an original receipt shall be issued for cotton and, at the option of the warehouseman or depositor, for any other agricultural products owned or stored by the warehouseman under this article. No receipt shall be issued, however, unless such products are actually stored in the warehouse at the time of the issuance of the receipt. The receipted agricultural product will remain the property of the depositor until it is transferred or sold by him or her. Initial receipts for cotton shall be issued in the name of the producer. Transfers or sales from the cotton producer shall be endorsed by his or her signature on forms authorized by the Commissioner.

(b) To regulate receipts issued by warehousemen licensed under this article, receipts issued by such warehousemen shall be obtained by warehousemen from approved printers and delivered through the Department of Agriculture at the expense of the warehousemen. To regulate further the receipts issued under this article, the printer shall transmit all receipts printed for a warehouseman to the Department of Agriculture, so as to enable the Commissioner to maintain an accurate record of the numbers of such receipts and the quantity delivered. It shall be a violation of this article for any warehouseman to issue any warehouse receipt except upon receipts obtained as provided in this Code section. It shall be unlawful for any printer to print any warehouse receipt for any warehouseman licensed under this article without the approval of the Commissioner.

(c) The Commissioner is authorized to permit the use of warehouse receipts obtained prior to March 17, 1959, upon receipt by the Commissioner of proof satisfactory to the Commissioner of the quantities and sources of such receipts held by the warehouseman.

(d) The Commissioner is authorized to accept as full compliance with this Code section the submission of a sample of the receipts to be printed and a copy of the invoice covering the shipment of such receipts that shows the quantity and quality of the receipts printed for the warehousemen.

(e) The Commissioner is authorized to permit the use of electronic warehouse receipts and to accept as full compliance with this Code section electronic warehouse receipts obtained by warehousemen from insured electronic warehouse receipt providers approved by and under an operational agreement with the Department of Agriculture. A computer printout issued on behalf of a state licensed warehouse by an approved electronic warehouse receipt provider shall be sufficient to comply with this article if such printout is sufficient to meet existing requirements of the electronic warehouse receipt program administered by the United States Department of Agriculture.

TOBACCO WAREHOUSING

Licensing Leaf Tobacco Dealers, Official Compilation of the Rules and Regulations of the State of Georgia, Rules of Georgia Department of Agriculture, Leaf Tobacco Sales, Rule 40-18-2-.01 et. seq.

PART 1

LEAF TOBACCO SALES AND STORAGE

10-4-100. Legislative intent and findings.

(a) It is the intent and purpose of this part to enable producers to have sufficient time to cure, prepare, and market their flue-cured leaf tobacco in a proper and orderly manner. It is found by the General Assembly that the provisions of this part are necessary to the proper marketing of flue-cured leaf tobacco.

(b) It is further found that external disruptive forces and influences upon buyers and sales opportunity have operated to effect discrimination and disadvantage upon flue-cured leaf tobacco producers in this state in the free entry and sale of their tobacco in interstate commerce. It is the intent and purpose of this part to eliminate discrimination in the entry and sale of tobacco in commerce by providing for equitable allocation of sales opportunity and by providing for licensing of flue-cured leaf tobacco auction sales which will optimize the movement and sale in commerce of tobacco produced in this state and eliminate discrimination against such movement and sale.

Amendments.
The 2024 amendment, effective July 1, 2024, part of an Act to revise, modernize, and correct the Code, designated the existing provisions of this Code section as subsections (a) and (b).

10-4-101. Licenses for flue-cured leaf tobacco auction sales; "clean-up" sale licenses.

No person, real or corporate, shall operate, hold, or conduct an auction sale for the sale of flue-cured leaf tobacco within this state without first having obtained a license for the regular selling season in which the sale is made from the Commissioner of Agriculture. Each license so issued shall automatically expire at the end of the regular selling season. The regular selling season shall be deemed to have ended at the close of business on the marketing day any regulatory group or committee shall cause any of the sets of buyers normally assigned to the Georgia flue-cured leaf tobacco auction markets to be withdrawn for the purpose of reassigning them to auction markets in other tobacco belts. The Commissioner, in his or her discretion, may issue additional licenses to warehousemen at the end of the regular selling season as he or she deems necessary and desirable for "clean-up" sales or special sales, such licenses to terminate at the conclusion of the "clean-up" or special sale. The license fee shall be $150.00 for each regular selling season with no additional fee for licenses issued for "clean-up" or special sales. Licenses shall be subject to renewal from one regular selling season to another under such rules and regulations as the Commissioner shall prescribe. Any fees collected pursuant to this

10-4-102. Physical standards for leaf tobacco warehouses; compliance as prerequisite for license.

In addition to other authority granted him by this part, the Commissioner of Agriculture shall be authorized to promulgate regulations prescribing physical standards for buildings used as warehouses for the storage or sale of leaf tobacco. Such standards shall be reasonably designed to ensure the protection of producers and others from loss or damage to tobacco while held or stored in such warehouses and to provide for the safety and welfare of such persons while upon the warehouse premises. It shall be a prerequisite to the issuance of a license under this part that the applicant has complied with all standards promulgated pursuant to this Code section.

10-4-103. Insurance as prerequisite for license.

As a prerequisite to the issuance of a license under this part, each applicant shall furnish evidence to the Commissioner of Agriculture that he has in force a standard fire and extended coverage insurance policy for the full market value of the tobacco in his sales warehouse for the marketing season for which the license is sought. The insurance policy shall be written by an insurance company, of the warehouseman's choice, authorized to transact business in this state, and such insurance coverage shall be approved in form by the Commissioner of Insurance, and a copy of the insurance policy shall be filed with the Commissioner of Agriculture. The policy shall cover both first-hand and resale tobacco. The insurance policy shall contain an endorsement requiring notification to the Commissioner of Agriculture by the insurance company of its intention to cancel the policy at least ten days prior to cancellation.

10-4-104. Allocating sales opportunities among licensed warehouses.

In the event sales opportunity shall be designated or allocated to this state by any regulatory group or committee, the Commissioner of Agriculture shall be authorized to allocate such sales opportunity among the warehouses operating under license issued under this part in such manner as to effectuate the expressed intent and purpose of this part. The Commissioner may consider, among other factors, the history factor used by the regulatory group or committee for assigning sales opportunity for cross-belt tobacco, the previous five-year sales history of such licensees, and the previous five-year sales history of such licensees of selling Georgia grown tobacco in order to effectuate an allocation which will eliminate or reduce discrimination against producers in this state in the entry and sale of their tobacco in commerce. In recognition of the unique characteristics of the marketing of tobacco by auction, and the necessity of immediate response to marketing conditions, such allocation of sales time need not be effected by the promulgation of regulations but may be issued and published in such manner as the Commissioner deems necessary and expedient, provided that no such allocation shall be effective upon less than 24 hours' actual notice to the affected licensee.

10-4-105. Denial of issuance or suspension or revocation of license.

In addition to other authority granted him by this part, the Commissioner of Agriculture shall be authorized to deny issuance of, or to suspend or revoke, any license provided in this part for any violation of this part, or upon a finding that the applicant or licensee has engaged in conduct contrary to the expressed intent and purpose of this part with respect to discrimination in the sale of tobacco. In the determination of discrimination in the sale of tobacco, the Commissioner is authorized to consider, among other factors, the solicitation of tobacco for auction by an applicant or licensee in such manner as to deplete unreasonably sales opportunity required for the equitable movement and sale of tobacco produced in this state.

Editor's notes. — In light of the similarity of the statutory provisions, decisions under former Ga. L. 1935, p. 476, are included in the annotations for this Code section.

Fixing reasonable maximum charges is not an arbitrary and capricious exercise of state power, repugnant to the Fourteenth Amendment of the federal Constitution, as placing a direct burden upon interstate commerce in violation of the commerce clause. Townsend v. Yeomans, 301 U.S. 441, 57 S. Ct. 842, 81 L. Ed. 1210, 1937 U.S. LEXIS 300 (1937) (decided under former Ga. L. 1935 p. 476).

OPINIONS OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Tobacco sheet program fees. — When the Flue-Cured Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corporation intends to establish a program involving the states of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, and Florida to purchase, collect, manage, handle, and make necessary repairs to tobacco sheets (burlap sheets used to wrap the bales of tobacco) used in the tobacco industry, a warehouseman may collect a twenty-five cent fee from the seller and the buyer, and, along with the warehouseman's fees for the program, submit such funds to the corporation as such participation would not be in violation of O.C.G.A. § 10-4-106. 1989 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 89-17.

(b) No tobacco contract for the purchase of tobacco grown in this state shall be valid or binding unless:

(1) The tobacco grower is given the opportunity to have the proposed tobacco contract reviewed outside the business premises of the tobacco company or its agents by an attorney or adviser of the tobacco grower's choosing prior to execution;

(2) The tobacco contract is written in plain English; and

(3) The tobacco contract quotes the provisions of subsection (c) of this Code section.

The lien provided for in this Code section is superior to any other lien or security interest except those which are perfected and recorded prior to the date of the rental agreement in Georgia in the name of the occupant, either in the county of the occupant's last known address or in the county where the self-service storage facility is located, except any tax lien as otherwise provided by law and except any lienholder with an interest in the property of whom the owner has knowledge either through the disclosure provision of the rental agreement or through other written notice. The lien attaches as of the date the personal property is brought to the self-service storage facility.

History.
Ga. L. 1982, p. 2286, § 3; Code 1981, § 10-4-212, enacted by Ga. L. 1982, p. 2286, § 7; Ga. L. 2000, p. 136, § 10; Ga. L. 2013, p. 555, § 1/SB 61; Ga. L. 2019, p. 789, § 2/SB 97.

10-4-213. Enforcement of lien without judicial intervention; execution of rental agreement.

(a) Provided that it complies with the requirements of this Code section, an owner may enforce the lien without judicial intervention. The owner shall obtain from the occupant a written rental agreement which includes the following language:

> This agreement, made and entered into this ____ day of _____, ____, by and between _____, hereinafter called Owner, and _____, hereinafter called Occupant, whose last known address is _____. For the consideration hereinafter stated, Owner agrees to let Occupant use and occupy a space in the self-service storage facility, known as _____, situated in the City of _____, County of _____, State of Georgia, and more particularly described as follows: Building # _____, Space # _____, Size _____. Said space is to be occupied and used for the purposes specified herein and subject to the conditions set forth for a period of _____, beginning on the ____ day of _____, ____, and continuing month to month until terminated.
> "Space," as used in this agreement, will be that part of the self-service storage facility as described above. Occupant agrees to pay Owner, as payment for the use of the space and improvements thereon, the monthly sum of $ _____. Monthly installments are payable in advance on or before the first of each month, in the amount of $ _____, and a like amount for each month thereafter, until the termination of this agreement.

If any monthly installment is not paid by the seventh calendar day of the month due, or if any check given in payment is dishonored by the financial institution on which it is drawn, Occupant shall be deemed to be in default.

Occupant further agrees to pay the sum of one month's fees, which shall be used as a clean-up and maintenance fund, and is to be used, if required, for the repair of any damage done to the space and to clean up the space at the termination of the agreement. In the event that the space is left in a good state of repair, and in a broom-swept condition, then this amount shall be refunded to Occupant. However, it is agreed to between the parties that Owner may set off any claims it may have against Occupant from this fund.

The space named herein is to be used by Occupant solely for the purpose of storing any personal property belonging to Occupant. Occupant agrees not to store any explosives or any highly inflammable goods or any other goods in the space which would cause danger to the space. Occupant agrees that the property will not be used for any unlawful purposes and Occupant agrees not to commit waste, nor alter, nor affix signs on the space, and to keep the space in good condition during the term of this agreement.

OWNER HAS A LIEN ON ALL PERSONAL PROPERTY STORED IN OCCUPANT'S SPACE FOR RENT, FEES FOR THE LATE PAYMENT OF RENT, LABOR, OR OTHER CHARGES, PRESENT OR FUTURE, IN RELATION TO THE PERSONAL PROPERTY, AND FOR ITS PRESERVATION OR EXPENSES REASONABLY INCURRED IN ITS SALE OR OTHER DISPOSITION PURSUANT TO THIS AGREEMENT. PERSONAL PROPERTY STORED IN OCCUPANT'S SPACE WILL BE SOLD OR OTHERWISE DISPOSED OF IF NO PAYMENT HAS BEEN RECEIVED FOR A CONTINUOUS THIRTY-DAY PERIOD AFTER DEFAULT. IN ADDITION, UPON OCCUPANT'S DEFAULT, OWNER MAY WITHOUT NOTICE DENY OCCUPANT ACCESS TO THE PERSONAL PROPERTY STORED IN OCCUPANT'S SPACE UNTIL SUCH TIME AS PAYMENT IS RECEIVED. IF ANY MONTHLY INSTALLMENT IS NOT MADE BY THE SEVENTH CALENDAR DAY OF THE MONTH DUE, OR IF ANY CHECK GIVEN IN PAYMENT IS DISHONORED BY THE FINANCIAL INSTITUTION ON WHICH IT IS DRAWN, OCCUPANT IS IN DEFAULT FROM DATE PAYMENT WAS DUE.

I hereby agree that all notices other than bills and invoices shall be given by hand delivery, verified mail, or email at the following addresses:

_____ (hand delivery)

_____ (email)

and I further understand that I may designate to owner an agent to receive such notice by providing:

_____ (hand delivery)

_____ (email).

For purposes of Owner's lien: "personal property" means movable property, not affixed to land, and includes, but is not limited to, goods, wares, merchandise, motor vehicles, trailers, watercraft, household items, and furnishings; "last known address" means the street address or post office box address provided by Occupant in the latest rental agreement or the address provided by Occupant in a subsequent written notice of a change of address by hand delivery, verified mail, or email.

Owner's lien is superior to any other lien or security interest, except those which are evidenced by a certificate of title or perfected and recorded prior to the date of this rental agreement in Georgia, in the name of Occupant, either in the county of Occupant's "last known address" or in the county where the self-service storage facility is located, except any tax lien as provided by law and except those liens or security interests of whom Owner has knowledge through Occupant's disclosure in this rental agreement or through other written notice. Occupant attests that the personal property in Occupant's space(s) is free and clear of all liens and secured interests except for _____. Owner's lien attaches as of the date the personal property is brought to the self-service storage facility.

Except as otherwise specifically provided in this rental agreement, the exclusive care, custody, and control of any and all personal property stored in the leased space shall remain vested in Occupant. Owner does not become a bailee of Occupant's personal property by the enforcement of Owner's lien.

If Occupant has been in default continuously for thirty (30) days, Owner may enforce its lien, provided Owner shall comply with the following procedure:

Occupant shall be notified of Owner's intent to enforce Owner's lien by written notice delivered in person, by verified mail, or by email. Owner also shall notify other parties with superior liens or security interests as defined in this rental agreement. A notice given pursuant to this rental agreement shall be presumed sent when it is deposited with the United States Postal Service or the statutory overnight delivery service properly addressed with postage or delivery fees prepaid or sent by email. If Owner sends notice of a pending sale of property to Occupant's last known email address and does not receive a nonautomated response or a receipt of delivery to the email address, Owner shall send notice of the sale to Occupant by verified mail to Occupant's last known address or to the last known address of the designated agent of the Occupant before proceeding with the sale.

Owner's notice to Occupant shall include an itemized statement of Owner's claim showing the sum due at the time of the notice and the date when the sum became due. Owner's notice shall notify Occupant of denial of access to the personal property and provide the name, street address, email address, and telephone number of Owner or its designated agent, whom Occupant may contact to respond to this notice. Owner's notice shall demand payment within a specified time, not less than fourteen (14) days after delivery of the notice. It shall state that, unless the claim is paid, within the time stated in the notice, the personal property will be advertised for public sale to the highest bidder, and will be sold at a public sale to the highest bidder, at a specified time and place.

After the expiration of the time given in Owner's notice, Owner shall publish an advertisement of the public sale to the highest bidder, once a week, for two consecutive weeks, in the legal organ for the county where the self-service storage facility is located. The sale shall be deemed commercially reasonable if at least three (3) independent bidders attend the sale at the time and place advertised. "Independent bidder" means a bidder who is not related to and who has no controlling interest in, or common pecuniary interest with, Owner or any other bidder. The advertisement shall include: a brief and general description of the personal property, reasonably adequate to permit its identification; the address of the self-service storage facility, and the number, if any, of the space where the personal property is located, and the name of Occupant; and the time, place, and manner of the public sale. The public sale to the highest bidder shall take place not sooner than fifteen (15) days after the first publication. Regardless of whether a sale involves the property of more than one Occupant, a single advertisement may be used to advertise the disposal of property at the sale. A public sale includes offering the property on a publicly accessible website that regularly conducts online auctions of personal property. Such sale shall be considered incidental to the self-storage business and no license shall be required.

If no one purchases the property at the public sale and if Owner has complied with the foregoing procedures, Owner may otherwise dispose of the property and shall notify Occupant of the action taken. Any sale or disposition of the personal property shall be held at the self-service storage facility or at the nearest suitable place to where the personal property is held or stored.

Before any sale or other disposition of personal property pursuant to this agreement, Occupant may pay the amount necessary to satisfy the lien and the reasonable expenses incurred and thereby redeem the personal property and thereafter Owner shall have no liability to any person with respect to such personal property.

A Purchaser in good faith of the personal property sold to satisfy Owner's lien takes the property free of any rights of persons against whom the lien was valid, despite noncompliance by Owner with the requirements of this agreement.

In the event of a sale, Owner may satisfy his or her lien from the proceeds of the sale. Owner shall hold the balance of the proceeds, if any, for Occupant or any notified secured interest holder. If not claimed within two years of the date of sale, the balance of the proceeds shall be disposed of in accordance with Article 5 of Chapter 12 of Title 44, the "Disposition of Unclaimed Property Act." In no event shall Owner's liability exceed the proceeds of the sale.

If the property upon which the lien is claimed is a motor vehicle, trailer, or watercraft and rent and other charges related to the property remain unpaid or unsatisfied for 60 days following the maturity of the obligation to pay rent, Owner may have the property towed in lieu of foreclosing on the lien. If a motor vehicle, trailer, or watercraft is towed as authorized in this section, Owner shall not be liable for the motor vehicle, trailer, or watercraft or any damages to the motor vehicle, trailer, or watercraft once the tower takes possession of the property.

If the rental agreement contains a limit on the value of property stored in Occupant's storage space, the limit shall be deemed to be the maximum value of the property stored in that space.

(b) A rental agreement may be executed and delivered electronically.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Editor's notes. — In light of the similarity of the statutory provisions, decisions under former Ga. L. 1920, p. 250, Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, and Ga. L. 1973, p. 1202, as amended, which were subsequently repealed but were succeeded by provisions in this chapter, are included in the annotations for this chapter.

Constitutionality. — Criminal provisions of the former chapter were not vague, ambiguous, or contradictory, and an indictment thereunder was not void. Curtis v. State, 99 Ga. App. 732, 109 S.E.2d 868, 1959 Ga. App. LEXIS 950 (1959) (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134).

Criminal provisions not exclusive. — Criminal provisions were not intended by the legislature to be exclusive, as the provisions would ordinarily be, but only cumulative. Cohen v. State, 101 Ga. App. 23, 112 S.E.2d 672, 1960 Ga. App. LEXIS 775 (1960) (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Purpose and intent was to prohibit organizers and promoters, whether foreign or domestic, who organize and promote the sale of what is commonly known as "blue sky stock," from doing business without complying with the statutory provisions, and to guard and protect an unsuspecting and trusting public from what are commonly known as "wild cat" organizers and promoters and their agents. Ratliffe v. Hartsfield Co., 181 Ga. 663, 184 S.E. 324, 1935 Ga. LEXIS 174 (1935) (decided under former Ga. L. 1920, p. 250, as amended).

Liberal construction. — Since the former provisions were remedial in nature, it was to be construed broadly to effectuate its aim — protection of investors. Fortier v. Ramsey, 136 Ga. App. 203, 220 S.E.2d 753, 1975 Ga. App. LEXIS 1297 (1975) (construing former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended); Jaciewicki v. Gordarl Assocs., 132 Ga. App. 888, 209 S.E.2d 693, 1974 Ga. App. LEXIS 1861 (1974); Blau v. Redmond, 143 Ga. App. 897, 240 S.E.2d 273, 1977 Ga. App. LEXIS 2554 (1977); Novatex Sales, Inc. v. Prince, 159 Ga. App. 559, 284 S.E.2d 65, 1981 Ga. App. LEXIS 2693 (1981) (decided under Ga. L. 1973, p. 1202).

Exemptions are strictly construed. — Exemptions from the securities laws are to be strictly construed, and one who claims the exemption bears the burden of proving the exemption's availability. Blau v. Redmond, 143 Ga. App. 897, 240 S.E.2d 273, 1977 Ga. App. LEXIS 2554 (1977) (decided under Ga. L. 1973, p. 1202).

Law was intended for protection of investors and was designed to disclose relevant and material facts to the investor, any exception to a disclosure requirement was to be narrowly construed. Novatex Sales, Inc. v. Prince, 159 Ga. App. 559, 284 S.E.2d 65, 1981 Ga. App. LEXIS 2693 (1981) (decided under Ga. L. 1973, p. 1202).

Investor in stock index futures. — Due to the preclusive and preemptive operation of the federal commodities laws, investor in stock index futures had no claim against broker and account executive under the federal or state securities laws. Mallen v. Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc., 605 F. Supp. 1105, 1985 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 21328 (N.D. Ga. 1985) (decided under former O.C.G.A. Ch. 5, T. 10).

OPINIONS OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Editor's notes. — In light of the similarity of the statutory provisions, opinions under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134 and Ga. L. 1973, p. 1202, as amended, which were subsequently repealed but were succeeded by provisions in this chapter, are included in the annotations for this chapter.

Law was concerned with substance, rather than with form. 1970 Op. Att'y Gen. No. U70-25 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

In determining the applicability of the former chapter, it was the substance and not the form of the offering which was determinative. 1973 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 73-187 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134).

Former law continues to govern securities registered under it. — Bonds which are filed in connection with registrations under Georgia Securities Act of 1957, Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, continue to be governed by the 1957 Act, and bonds filed in connection with a registration or renewal after the effective date of Ga. L. 1973, p. 1202, April 1, 1974, must comply with and will be governed by the latter statute. 1973 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 73-159 (decided under Ga. L. 1973, p. 1202).

Chapter does not apply if no sale occurs in Georgia. — Georgia courts would probably hold that the securities registration provisions do not apply to transactions involving a Georgia issuer where no sale or offer to sell occurs within Georgia. 1970 Op. Att'y Gen. No. U70-88 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Activities in Georgia may bring transaction under chapter. — If certain activities, as to registration of dealers and salesperson, are carried on in Georgia, this could bring transactions involving a Georgia issuer under the law of this state. 1970 Op. Att'y Gen. No. U70-88 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Any security offered must be registered unless exempted. — Unless exempted or involved in an exempt transaction, securities offered for sale must be registered. 1969 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 69-328 (decided under Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

It does not necessarily follow that a scheme which constitutes a "security" must always be registered with the commissioner of securities; if a scheme falls within any of the exemptions provided by law or if the sale of such a scheme fits any of the exempt transactions, the registration requirements would not apply. 1973 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 73-100 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Any person offering securities must be registered. — A person who engages in the business of selling mortgage securities to the public is required to register as a dealer, and the individuals who work for such a dealer are required to register as sales people unless the individuals qualify for one of the exemptions enumerated in Ga. L. 1973, p. 1202, § 3 (see now O.C.G.A. § 10-5-3). 1974 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 74-153 (decided under Ga. L. 1973, p. 1202).

Sale of scotch whiskey investments in Georgia would be a transaction subject to this chapter, and both the investment and the sellers must be registered pursuant to this chapter unless they qualify for some exemption from registration. 1973 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 73-187 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Sale of time-sharing units in a condominium, when coupled with a rental pool or other profit-sharing arrangement, constitutes a "security" within the definition of former Code 1933, § 97-102 (see former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-2(a)(16)) and, unless exempt, must be registered pursuant to Ga. L. 1973, p. 1202 (see former O.C.G.A. Ch. 5, T. 10); any person offering for sale or selling such securities that are subject to registration must register as a dealer, limited dealer, salesperson, or limited salesperson under Ga. L. 1973, p. 1202 (see former O.C.G.A. Ch. 5, T. 10) unless such a person is a real estate broker or salesperson licensed to sell real estate in Georgia. 1976 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 76-75 (decided under former Ga. L. 1973, p. 1202).

Foreign corporation needs certificate of authority. — Registration as a dealer does not exempt a foreign corporation from needing a certificate of authority. 1975 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 75-38 (decided under former Ga. L. 1973, p. 1202).

All material facts must be disclosed. — Any person who sells mortgage securities is required to fully and truthfully disclose all material facts concerning the value and risks of the investment. 1974 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 74-153 (decided under former Ga. L. 1973, p. 1202).

Secretary of State may not retain fees. — Fees collected by the Secretary of State as the commissioner of securities must be paid to the Fiscal Division of the Department of Administrative Services (now the Office of Treasury and Fiscal Services), and such fees may not be retained by the Office of Secretary of State as reimbursements for the expenses of that office. 1969 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 69-13 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Complaint alleging mishandling of stock transfer. — Trial court properly denied the defendants' motions to dismiss the complaint for failure to state a claim because the plaintiff satisfied minimal pleading requirements necessary to survive motions by adequately alleging a deprivation of rightful ownership of 9,479 shares of stock due to the defendants' individual and collective conduct and that the defendants failed to exercise ordinary care in the surrender, transfer, exchange and disbursement of shares. Depository Trust & Clearing Corp. v. Jones, 348 Ga. App. 474, 823 S.E.2d 558, 2019 Ga. App. LEXIS 26 (2019).

General Consideration

Editor's notes. — In light of the similarity of the statutory provisions, decisions under former Ga. L. 1920, p. 250, Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended, former Code 1933, § 97-102, former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-2, and under 15 U.S.C. § 77(b), which were subsequently repealed but were succeeded by provisions in this Code section, are included in the annotations for this Code section.

Commodity futures dealer not a "dealer". — One who deals in commodity futures is not a "dealer" in securities. Monarch Co. v. Weis, 86 Ga. App. 7, 70 S.E.2d 600, 1952 Ga. App. LEXIS 855 (1952) (decided under former Ga. L. 1920, p. 250, as amended).

"Issuers". — Persons who procure contracts of subscription to the stock of a proposed corporation not in esse but which may be organized in the future are not "issuers" of such stock within the intent and meaning of that term as defined in the securities law. Felton v. Highlands Hotel Co., 165 Ga. 598, 141 S.E. 793, 1928 Ga. LEXIS 35 (1928) (decided under former Ga. L. 1920, p. 250).

"Sale" or "Sell"

Term "sale" or "sell" is not limited to technical common-law sales or transactions ordinarily governed by the commercial law of sales. Peoples Bank v. North Carolina Nat'l Bank, 139 Ga. App. 405, 228 S.E.2d 334, 1976 Ga. App. LEXIS 1827 (1976) (construing similar federal provision, 15 U.S.C. § 77b(3)).

Promissory note was a security. — Borrowers did not commit fraud upon a lender; the borrowers advised the lender that the lender's $150,000 would fund the corporation until the borrowers secured $1.5 million to build the necessary greenhouses, and the borrowers payment of salaries to themselves of $600 per week each was not inconsistent with the borrowers stated purpose. Because there was no intent to defraud, the borrowers were not liable for securities fraud under O.C.G.A. § 10-5-50, although the promissory note was a security under O.C.G.A. § 10-5-2. Sims v. Natural Prods. of Ga., LLC, 337 Ga. App. 20, 785 S.E.2d 659, 2016 Ga. App. LEXIS 248 (2016).

Payment may be made in any medium which the payor and the payee regard as equivalent to money, such as goods, chattels, securities, lands, services, credits, or bank notes. Utzman v. Caribbean & S.E. Dev. Corp., 107 Ga. App. 56, 129 S.E.2d 62, 1962 Ga. App. LEXIS 568 (1962) (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Payment by crypto-currency. — Defendants' motion to dismiss was denied, in part, because the crypto-currency was an unregistered security and defendants' offer to purchase the plaintiff's home with the crypto-currency constituted an offer to sell an unregistered security; thus, the complaint stated a violation of the Georgia Uniform Securities Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-5-1 et seq. Shea v. Best Buy Homes, 533 F. Supp. 3d 1321, 2021 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 137995 (N.D. Ga. 2021).

Cancelling or assuming debt as payment. — Payment may be made by cancelling an existing debt owed one by the creditor of another, whether by request or compulsion, or by rendering an account which makes the person rendering it liable for another's debt. Utzman v. Caribbean & S.E. Dev. Corp., 107 Ga. App. 56, 129 S.E.2d 62, 1962 Ga. App. LEXIS 568 (1962) (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Determining whether "sale" occurred in Georgia. — Former Code 1933, § 102-108 did not limit the application of the statutory security provisions; thus, whether a "sale" within the meaning of the statutory security provisions occurred in Georgia must be decided on basic principles. Allen v. Smith & Medford, Inc., 129 Ga. App. 538, 199 S.E.2d 876, 1973 Ga. App. LEXIS 1044, 1973 Ga. App. LEXIS 1686, 1973 Ga. App. LEXIS 1695 (1973) (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Although one defendant testified that the plaintiff agreed to lend $50,000.00 in Florida, the agreement which concerned the debenture or security sets forth that the agreement was entered into in Atlanta, Georgia, and that the plaintiff, who resided in Georgia, executed the contract in Georgia and received the stock in Georgia; thus, there was a "sale" in Georgia. Allen v. Smith & Medford, Inc., 129 Ga. App. 538, 199 S.E.2d 876, 1973 Ga. App. LEXIS 1044, 1973 Ga. App. LEXIS 1686, 1973 Ga. App. LEXIS 1695 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

After Texas residents sent a Georgia resident letters, brochures and other materials regarding a cattle feeding and sales investment program and, during a telephone conversation, solicited a cash downpayment from the Georgia resident, who then transferred the payment from the Georgia resident's bank account, these contacts were sufficient to establish a "sale" within the state. Seale v. Miller, 698 F. Supp. 883, 1988 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 11837 (N.D. Ga. 1988) (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-2).

"Salesman"

Sufficiency of evidence. — Whether defendant was a "dealer" under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-3 was immaterial since the evidence at trial was sufficient for a jury to find that the defendant was a "salesman" pursuant to paragraph (a)(25) of former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-2. Greenhill v. State, 199 Ga. App. 218, 404 S.E.2d 577, 1991 Ga. App. LEXIS 469 (1991), cert. denied, No. S91C0894, 1991 Ga. LEXIS 706 (Ga. May 15, 1991) (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-2).

"Security"

Treatment similar to federal Acts. — Treatment extended to notes and securities, while not precisely the same under Georgia law and the federal Acts, is virtually identical. Blau v. Redmond, 143 Ga. App. 897, 240 S.E.2d 273, 1977 Ga. App. LEXIS 2554 (1977) (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-102).

Test for determining whether an investment is a security is the same under both the former Georgia Securities Act and the federal securities laws. Eberhardt v. Waters, 901 F.2d 1578, 1990 U.S. App. LEXIS 8300 (11th Cir. 1990) (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-2).

"Any note" and "evidence of indebtedness". — Ordinary terms of "any note" or "evidence of indebtedness" in paragraph (a)(19) of this section are self-defining and require no further definition. Peoples Bank v. North Carolina Nat'l Bank, 139 Ga. App. 405, 228 S.E.2d 334, 1976 Ga. App. LEXIS 1827 (1976) (holding note a "security") (construing similar provisions of 15 U.S.C. § 77b(1)); Blau v. Redmond, 143 Ga. App. 897, 240 S.E.2d 273, 1977 Ga. App. LEXIS 2554 (1977) (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-102).

To determine whether stock constitutes a "security" under either the Georgia Securities Act of 1973, former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-1 et seq., or the federal securities acts, it is necessary to apply the test in Landreth Timber Co. v. Landreth, 471 U.S. 681, 105 S. Ct. 2297, 85 L.Ed. 692 (1985), which is whether the stock "bears such characteristics usually associated with common stock that a purchaser justifiably may assume that appropriate securit[ies] laws apply." Cohen v. William Goldberg & Co., 202 Ga. App. 172, 413 S.E.2d 759, 1991 Ga. App. LEXIS 1715 (1991), modified, No. A91A1424, No. A91A1425 (Ga. Ct. App. 1991), cert. denied, No. S92C0393, 1992 Ga. LEXIS 185 (Ga. Feb. 6, 1992), vacated in part, reaff'd, 207 Ga. App. 174, 428 S.E.2d 117, 1993 Ga. App. LEXIS 117 (1993) (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-2).

Appropriate test to be employed in resolving issues of whether particular stock is a security is whether the stock bears such characteristics usually associated with common stock that a purchaser justifiably may assume that appropriate security laws apply. Cohen v. William Goldberg & Co., 262 Ga. 606, 423 S.E.2d 231, 1992 Ga. LEXIS 985 (1992) (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-2).

In determining whether stock is a security, if, and only if, the stock does not meet the statutory definition under either the Georgia or federal securities acts, the next inquiry should be whether the stock meets the Howey economic reality test as tailored by Tech Resources to resolve issues concerning "investment contracts" and any "instrument commonly known as a 'security.'" Cohen v. William Goldberg & Co., 262 Ga. 606, 423 S.E.2d 231, 1992 Ga. LEXIS 985 (1992) (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-2).

Four tests are applicable in determining whether a transaction falls within the definition of "security": the "Howey" test (Securities & Exch. Comm'n v. W.J. Howey Co., 328 U.S. 293, 66 S. Ct. 1100, 90 L. Ed. 1244 (1946)); the "Joiner" test (Securities & Exch. Comm'n v. C.M. Joiner Leasing Corp., 320 U.S. 344, 64 S. Ct. 120, 88 L. Ed. 88 (1943)); the "Risk Capital" test (Silver Hills Country Club v. Sobieski, 55 Cal. 2d 811, 13 Cal. Rptr. 186, 361 P.2d 906 (1961)); and the "Managerial Efforts" test (Securities & Exch. Comm'n v. Glenn W. Turner Enters., Inc., 474 F.2d 476 (9th Cir. 1973)). Jaciewicki v. Gordarl Assocs., 132 Ga. App. 888, 209 S.E.2d 693, 1974 Ga. App. LEXIS 1861 (1974) (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended); D.K. Properties, Inc. v. Osborne, 143 Ga. App. 832, 240 S.E.2d 293, 1977 Ga. App. LEXIS 2526 (1977) (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-102).

A factual situation which falls within the framework of either the "Howey," "Joiner," "Risk Capital," or "Managerial Efforts" test, or any combination thereof, will afford a sufficient basis for a finding that a "security" is involved. Jaciewicki v. Gordarl Assocs., 132 Ga. App. 888, 209 S.E.2d 693, 1974 Ga. App. LEXIS 1861 (1974) (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Applying the stock characterization test, shares of stock were securities when stockholders were entitled to receive dividends, the stock was negotiable, the shares could be pledged or hypothecated, the by-laws provided that stockholders were entitled to one vote per share, and the stock apparently had the capacity to increase in value. Bell v. Sasser, 238 Ga. App. 843, 520 S.E.2d 287, 1999 Ga. App. LEXIS 966 (1999) (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-2).

Neither restrictions on the negotiability of stock in a closely held corporation nor its unregistered status negated the stock's character as a security. Cox v. Edelson, 243 Ga. App. 5, 530 S.E.2d 250, 2000 Ga. App. LEXIS 250 (2000), cert. denied, No. S00C1326, 2000 Ga. LEXIS 735 (Ga. Sept. 28, 2000) (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-2).

Policy to protect investor when success depends on promoter's efforts. — Basic policy behind all the tests for a "security" is to protect the investor with the shield of the securities laws when the promoter or syndicator puts forth the essential managerial efforts which affect the failure or success of the enterprise. D.K. Properties, Inc. v. Osborne, 143 Ga. App. 832, 240 S.E.2d 293, 1977 Ga. App. LEXIS 2526 (1977) (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-102).

Form should be disregarded for substance and emphasis should be on economic reality when making a determination as to whether or not an instrument is a security. Tech Resources, Inc. v. Estate of Hubbard, 246 Ga. 583, 272 S.E.2d 314, 1980 Ga. LEXIS 1209 (1980); Cocklereece v. Moran, 532 F. Supp. 519, 1982 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 10859 (N.D. Ga. 1982) (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-102).

Label used on instrument not determinative. — Label placed on the instrument by the parties or by the courts does not determine whether the instrument is a "security." Instead, the characteristics of the instrument and the underlying economic reality are the significant factors for a court to consider in classifying an instrument as a "security." Dunwoody Country Club of Atlanta, Inc. v. Fortson, 243 Ga. 236, 253 S.E.2d 700, 1979 Ga. LEXIS 866 (1979); Redmond v. Blau, 153 Ga. App. 395, 265 S.E.2d 329, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 1819

As there was no dispute that agreements and notes defendant provided the defendant's victims in exchange for money were investments and that the victims relied on the defendant to manage the investments and to provide a return on the investments, the instruments were "securities" within the meaning of Georgia's blue sky law; that the amount of expected return was fixed was immaterial. Rasch v. State, 260 Ga. App. 379, 579 S.E.2d 817, 2003 Ga. App. LEXIS 390 (2003) (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-2).

Expectation of profits from efforts of others. — Touchstone of a "security" is the presence of an investment in a common venture premised on a reasonable expectation of profits to be derived from the entrepreneurial or managerial efforts of others. Dunwoody Country Club of Atlanta, Inc. v. Fortson, 243 Ga. 236, 253 S.E.2d 700, 1979 Ga. LEXIS 866 (1979) (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-102).

In order for a transaction to constitute a securities transaction under the law, there must be an investment, a reasonable expectation of profits, and a reliance on the management of another party to bring about the profits. Tech Resources, Inc. v. Estate of Hubbard, 246 Ga. 583, 272 S.E.2d 314, 1980 Ga. LEXIS 1209 (1980) (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-102).

In determining whether a transaction constitutes a "security," the courts focus primarily upon one issue: do persons other than the investors provide the essential managerial efforts from which the investors expect profits? If the answer to that question is in the affirmative, then, for the protection of the investor, who is thereby seen to lack control over the investor's investment, the courts have found the transaction to be a "security." D.K. Properties, Inc. v. Osborne, 143 Ga. App. 832, 240 S.E.2d 293, 1977 Ga. App. LEXIS 2526 (1977) (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-102).

Stock of closely-held corporation. — Since restrictions on negotiability of stock were usual and customary for closely-held corporations, the restrictions did not negate the stock's character as a security. Cohen v. William Goldberg & Co., 262 Ga. 606, 423 S.E.2d 231, 1992 Ga. LEXIS 985 (1992) (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-2).

Unregistered stock. — Unregistered status of stock in a closely-held corporation did not negate the stock's character as a security since the Georgia and federal securities acts contemplate that stock may be a "security" and yet be unregistered. Cohen v. William Goldberg & Co., 262 Ga. 606, 423 S.E.2d 231, 1992 Ga. LEXIS 985 (1992) (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-2).

Limited partnership interests are explicitly included in the definitions of "security." Kleiner v. Silver, 137 Ga. App. 560, 224 S.E.2d 508, 1976 Ga. App. LEXIS 2528 (1976) (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-102).

"Unusual instruments". — Stock not meeting the definition of a security under the test in Landreth Timber Co. v. Landreth, 471 U.S. 681, 105 S. Ct. 2297, 85 L. Ed. 2d 692 (1985), may otherwise come within the Georgia or federal securities acts if the stock qualifies as one of the "unusual instruments" not easily characterized as "securities." Cohen v. William Goldberg & Co., 202 Ga. App. 172, 413 S.E.2d 759, 1991 Ga. App. LEXIS 1715 (1991), modified, No. A91A1424, No. A91A1425 (Ga. Ct. App. 1991), cert. denied, No. S92C0393, 1992 Ga. LEXIS 185 (Ga. Feb. 6, 1992), vacated in part, reaff'd, 207 Ga. App. 174, 428 S.E.2d 117, 1993 Ga. App. LEXIS 117 (1993) (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-2).

If investors control decision essential for profit, no sale of securities. — When the investors have control over the essential decision from which the investors expect profits to flow, the scheme does not involve the sale of securities. D.K. Properties, Inc. v. Osborne, 143 Ga. App. 832, 240 S.E.2d 293, 1977 Ga. App. LEXIS 2526 (1977) (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-102).

Restrictive covenants and pledge of shares did not vest control in another. — When buyer proposed to purchase business of coal mining companies and to operate and control it as its own and to assume certain financial obligations of the companies, existence of restrictive financial covenants in the agreement and pledge of shares as security for performance of covenants did not vest significant managerial control in anyone other than the purchaser and the sale was not a security transaction. Tech Resources, Inc. v. Estate of Hubbard, 246 Ga. 583, 272 S.E.2d 314, 1980 Ga. LEXIS 1209 (1980) (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-102).

Test applies to "investment contract". — Test of whether there is an "investment contract" is whether the scheme involves an investment of money in a common enterprise with profits to come solely from the efforts of others. Georgia Mkt. Ctrs. v. Fortson, 225 Ga. 854, 171 S.E.2d 620, 1969 Ga. LEXIS 665 (1969) (commented on in 21 Mercer L. Rev. 715 (1970)) (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

An "investment contract" is a security if the scheme involves an investment of money in a common enterprise in which profits are to come solely from the efforts of others. Goldsmith v. American Food Servs., Inc., 123 Ga. App. 353, 181 S.E.2d 95, 1971 Ga. App. LEXIS 1220 (1971) (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended); Brown v. Computer Credit Sys., 128 Ga. App. 429, 197 S.E.2d 165, 1973 Ga. App. LEXIS 1503 (1973) (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Elements of an "investment contract" are: (a) the investment of money (b) in a common enterprise (c) with profits to come solely from the efforts of others. The Georgia courts accept this test for an investment contract for purposes of the security law. Plunkett v. Francisco, 430 F. Supp. 235, 1977 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 16180 (N.D. Ga. 1977) (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Three elements of an investment contract are: (1) an investment of money; (2) in a common enterprise; and (3) an expectation of profit solely from the efforts of others. Eberhardt v. Waters, 901 F.2d 1578, 1990 U.S. App. LEXIS 8300 (11th Cir. 1990) (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-2).

Sale and lease-back contracts for payphones were found to be investment contracts within the definition of securities pursuant to O.C.G.A. § 10-5-2(a)(26) as the buyer invested money for the purchase, the concept was packaged as an investment venture by the seller, and the purchaser expected to receive a fixed monthly income as a return on each payphone, which represented a fixed return on the purchaser's investment. Garvin v. Sec'y of State, 266 Ga. App. 66, 596 S.E.2d 166, 2004 Ga. App. LEXIS 171 (2004), cert. denied, No. S04C1027, 2004 Ga. LEXIS 517 (Ga. June 7, 2004), rev'd sub nom. Cox v. Garvin, 278 Ga. 903, 607 S.E.2d 549, 2005 Ga. LEXIS 15 (2005), vacated in part, 272 Ga. App. 860, 614 S.E.2d 93, 2005 Ga. App. LEXIS 281 (2005) (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-2).

Defendant was properly convicted of violating the Georgia Securities Act of 1973 because the evidence authorized the jury to find that all three prongs of the test used to determine whether a particular scheme was an investment contract under the Securities Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-5-2(a)(26), were satisfied; the victims parted with the victims' money in anticipation of investment gains, there was a common enterprise because the victims' funds were pooled to reach the minimum amounts for participation set by the defendant, and the expectation of profits rested solely on the efforts of others. Hicks v. State, 315 Ga. App. 779, 728 S.E.2d 294, 2012 Ga. App. LEXIS 434 (2012), cert. denied, No. S12C1511, 2012 Ga. LEXIS 917 (Ga. Oct. 29, 2012).

Investment met Howey "economic reality" test. — Plaintiff's payment for a 10% interest in a closely held corporation was an "investment contract" under the Howey "economic reality" test. Huggins v. Chapin, 227 Ga. App. 340, 489 S.E.2d 109, 1997 Ga. App. LEXIS 888 (1997) (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-2).

Investment arrangement involving the sale of cattle embryos, based on the process of artificially inseminating superovulated "donor cows" for reproduction, constituted the sale of a security under Georgia law. Eberhardt v. Waters, 901 F.2d 1578, 1990 U.S. App. LEXIS 8300 (11th Cir. 1990) (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-2).

"Security" may include transaction purporting to be real estate sale. — Transaction which purports only to be a sale of real estate can, when the economic realities of the transaction are examined, be determined to be a security. The rule which has developed is that any investment will be deemed an "investment contract" and a "security" if the investor's return is essentially dependent upon the efforts of the syndicator or an affiliate. Fortier v. Ramsey, 136 Ga. App. 203, 220 S.E.2d 753, 1975 Ga. App. LEXIS 1297 (1975) (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Franchise agreement is not a "security" within the meaning of the securities law if the investor is entitled to no return under the agreement except through the investor's own efforts. Brown v. Computer Credit Sys., 128 Ga. App. 429, 197 S.E.2d 165, 1973 Ga. App. LEXIS 1503 (1973) (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, before it was amended by Ga. L. 1970, p. 450).

Redeemable membership certificate is a certificate of indebtedness, but the certificate of indebtedness does not represent an "investment" within the meaning of the securities law when the certificate creates no expectation of profit because the certificate bears no interest, cannot appreciate, and cannot be pledged or assigned. Dunwoody Country Club of Atlanta, Inc. v. Fortson, 243 Ga. 236, 253 S.E.2d 700, 1979 Ga. LEXIS 866 (1979) (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-102).

Defendant properly convicted for violating Securities Act. — Defendant was properly convicted of violating the Georgia Securities Act of 1973 because the evidence authorized the jury to find that all three prongs of the test used to determine whether a particular scheme was an investment contract under the Securities Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-5-2(a)(26), were satisfied; the victims parted with the victims' money in anticipation of investment gains, there was a common enterprise because the victims' funds were pooled to reach the minimum amounts for participation set by the defendant, and the expectation of profits rested solely on the efforts of others. Hicks v. State, 315 Ga. App. 779, 728 S.E.2d 294, 2012 Ga. App. LEXIS 434 (2012), cert. denied, No. S12C1511, 2012 Ga. LEXIS 917 (Ga. Oct. 29, 2012).

Pooled money was security. — Trial court did not err in holding that the three notes at issue were securities under Georgia law because the funds pooled from the investors in the three commercial ventures had to reach minimum amounts for participation, which indicated an investment in a common enterprise, and the evidence showed that the investors expected their profit from the financial transactions to be obtained through defendants' managerial efforts. Cushing v. Cohen, 323 Ga. App. 497, 746 S.E.2d 898, 2013 Ga. App. LEXIS 678 (2013), cert. denied, No. S13C1810, 2013 Ga. LEXIS 936 (Ga. Nov. 4, 2013), cert. denied, No. S13C1715, 2013 Ga. LEXIS 941 (Ga. Nov. 4, 2013).

OPINIONS OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Editor's notes. — In light of the similarity of the statutory provisions, opinions under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended, former Code 1933, § 97-102, and former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-2, which were subsequently repealed but were succeeded by provisions in this Code section, are included in the annotations for this section.

New York license to sell securities is not valid in Georgia. 1969 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 69-102 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

"Dealer" and "Salesperson"

"Commission" construed broadly. — Term "commission," particularly when further expanded to include any remuneration paid related to the sale of securities, should be given an expansive reading. 1974 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 74-75 (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-102).

"Dealer" or "salesperson" not limited to one receiving explicit commission. — General partner or executive officer of a real estate syndication should not be excluded from the definition of "salesperson" or "dealer" merely because the partner or officer receives compensation or profit in the form of a profit on sales to the syndication, a real estate brokerage commission, a management fee, or some other form which is not an explicit commission for the sale of securities. 1974 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 74-75 (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-102).

"Sale" or "Sell"

Guarantee of corporate indebtedness. — Transaction under which a person undertakes to guarantee corporate indebtedness in consideration for the right to receive future corporate profits is a "sale" of a security governed by the statutory provisions on securities. 1973 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 73-177 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

"Security"

Exact classification of instrument not necessary. — It is not necessary that an instrument be susceptible to exact classification coextensive with one or more of the incremental clauses of paragraph (a)(19) of this section and, in addition, since securities regulation is a function of substance, one should hesitate to hand down any conclusive, all-purpose formulae. 1973 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 73-25 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

"Investment contract" involves efforts of another. — If the success of the investment is essentially dependent upon the efforts of the seller or some third person, the security being sold is an "investment contract." 1974 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 75-153 (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-102).

"Investment contract" may involve management of land. — "Investment contract" includes many situations when investors are offered land in such a way that its value is dependent on management by others. 1973 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 73-25 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Agreement to buy land as tenants in common. — An agreement to purchase specifically identified parcels of land which purchasers are to hold as tenants in common with the hope of increase in price is not per se a "security." 1971 Op. Att'y Gen. No. U71-118 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

If the purchasers of land are passive in the operation, and depend primarily upon the efforts of promoters of the enterprise for their profits, the transaction may well constitute the sale of a "security." 1971 Op. Att'y Gen. No. U71-118 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Real estate syndication anticipating profits from syndicator's efforts. — Any real estate syndication that is structured or marketed in such a way that the investor anticipates that the investor will realize returns based on the efforts or expertise of the syndicator or some affiliate is a "security". 1974 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 74-75 (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-102).

Limited partnership interest. — Offering for sale of limited partnerships constitutes the offering for sale of a "security." 1969 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 69-328 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Limited partnership interest is explicitly defined to be a "security" by the securities law. 1974 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 74-75 (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-102).

Investment club interest. — If the formation of an investment club were essentially the same as that for a limited partnership, such an interest would be a security. 1969 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 69-328 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Travelers checks and money orders deemed "securities". — "Travelers check," "money order," or "draft," or any similar instrument by whatever name called, sold, or offered for sale to the public through retail outlets for a consideration or fee over and above its face value, which instrument may be later endorsed and cashed by the purchaser at another retail outlet or endorsed by the purchaser to another person for the payment of bills or other purposes are "securities" within the meaning of the securities law and are subject to regulation and control by the commissioner of securities. 1957 Ga. Op. Att'y Gen. 233 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134).

Franchise agreements. — In every instance when the franchisor is thinly capitalized or so under-capitalized as to require franchisee fees in order to be able to fulfill its obligations to its franchisees, the franchise agreements constitute "securities" within the purview of the securities law. 1969 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 69-471 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Securities coverage is not avoided by simply providing franchisor with adequate capital. 1969 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 69-471 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

When, because of its newness, a franchising system is necessarily preorganizational as a matter of fact, then its franchising agreements constitute preorganization certificates and are "securities" within the meaning of the securities law. 1969 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 69-471 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

All franchise systems however capitalized are susceptible to securities regulation until such time as the franchise is so well established as a system that the success or failure of an individual franchise is not disproportionately keyed to the success or failure of other franchisees; either the franchisor will have to provide a sufficient number of franchisor-owned and operated outlets to establish the system as a going enterprise without dependence upon the individual activities of the franchisee's cofranchisors or the franchisor will have to comply with the registration requirements of the securities law. 1969 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 69-471 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Club memberships deemed securities when promoter seeks profit. — When club property will be the chief capital asset of a recreational program conducted by the developer for profit, and the members are asked to allow a business to use their capital without allowing the members a return on the business, and they are required to supply operating capital, because they are obligated to pay dues assessments, the proposed memberships are securities; they are not exempt as securities of a nonprofit corporation because a substantial purpose of the enterprise is profit for the promoter. 1973 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 73-25 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Use of proceeds to develop common property. — If the transaction otherwise constitutes a security, it does not matter that proceeds were not used to develop the common facility. 1973 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 73-25 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Condominium with rental pool feature. — Condominium, when combined with rental pool feature, constitutes "security" as defined by this section. 1973 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 73-100 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Sale of time-sharing units in a condominium when coupled with a rental pool or other profit-sharing arrangement constitutes a "security", unless exempt, must be registered pursuant to the statutory provisions on securities; any person offering for sale or selling such securities that are subject to registration must register as a dealer, limited dealer, salesperson, or limited salesperson unless such a person is a real estate broker or salesperson licensed to sell real estate in Georgia. 1976 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 76-75 (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-102).

Guaranteeing corporate indebtedness. — Transaction under which a person undertakes to guarantee corporate indebtedness in consideration for the right to receive future corporate profits may be a sale of "security" governed by the statutory provisions on securities. 1973 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 73-177 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Transaction under which a corporation would obtain the guarantees of strangers on the corporation's loans in exchange for a percentage of profits in a development for which they guarantee the loan would constitute a sale of a "security". 1973 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 73-177 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Guaranty of a corporate loan by a stockholder if the guarantor expected no direct return from the guaranty, but only the indirect benefit of the increase in value of the corporation should the project be successful and the loan repaid would not constitute the sale of a security. 1973 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 73-177 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Typical scotch whiskey investment is "security." 1973 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 73-187 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Notes given in commercial transaction. — Notes given in an essentially commercial transaction between a payor and a payee are not subject to the securities law. 1974 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 74-153 (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-102).

Sales of notes or mortgages will be subject to the securities law if the transaction, as a matter of economic reality, is an investment. 1974 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 74-153 (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-102).

Variable annuity contract is subject to regulation as "security." 1962 Ga. Op. Att'y Gen. 448 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, prior to its amendment by Ga. L. 1969, p. 722).

"Security" does not include variable annuity contracts provided for and regulated under the insurance law. 1970 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 70-22 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Group variable annuity contracts are subject to the control and direction of the Insurance Commissioner; the words "regulated under" do not necessarily require the formal adoption of regulations under Ga. L. 1964, p. 338, § 1 et seq. so long as the contracts are in fact being regulated under the insurance law. 1970 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 70-22 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Section 77a, et seq., issued, insured, or guaranteed by the United States; by a state; by a political subdivision of a state; by a public authority, agency, or instrumentality of one or more states; by a political subdivision of one or more states; or by a person controlled or supervised by and acting as an instrumentality of the United States under authority granted by the Congress or a certificate of deposit for any of the foregoing;

(2) A security issued, insured, or guaranteed by a foreign government with which the United States maintains diplomatic relations, or any of its political subdivisions, if the security is recognized as a valid obligation by the issuer, insurer, or guarantor;

(A) An international banking institution;

(B) A banking institution organized under the laws of the United States; a member bank of the Federal Reserve System; or a depository institution a substantial portion of the business of which consists or will consist of receiving deposits or share accounts that are insured to the maximum amount authorized by statute by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation or the National Credit Union Share Insurance Fund or a successor authorized by federal law or exercising fiduciary powers that are similar to those permitted for national banks under the authority of the Comptroller of Currency pursuant to Section 1 of P. L. 87-722, 12 U.S.C. Section 92a; or

(C) Any other depository institution, unless by rule or order the Commissioner proceeds under Code Section 10-5-13;

(4) A security issued by and representing an interest in, or a debt of, or insured or guaranteed by, an insurance company authorized to do business in this state;

(5) A security issued or guaranteed by a railroad, other common carrier, public utility, or public utility holding company that is:

(A) Regulated in respect to its rates and charges by the United States or a state; or a call option contract; a warrant; a subscription right on or with respect to such securities; or an option or similar derivative security on a security or an index of securities or foreign currencies issued by a clearing agency registered under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, 15 U.S.C. Section 77a, et seq., and listed or designated for trading on a national securities exchange, a facility of a national securities exchange, or a facility of a national securities association registered under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, 15 U.S.C. Section 77a, et seq., or an offer or sale of the underlying security in connection with the offer, sale, or exercise of an option or other security that was exempt when the option or other security was written or issued; or an option or a derivative security designated by the Securities and Exchange Commission under Section 9(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, 15 U.S.C. Section 78i(b);

Section 80b-3(c)(10)(B); except that with respect to the offer or sale of a note, bond, debenture, or other evidence of indebtedness issued by such a person, a rule may be adopted under this chapter limiting the availability of this exemption by classifying securities, persons, and transactions, imposing different requirements for different classes, specifying with respect to Section 3(c)(10)(B) of the Investment Company Act of 1940, 15 U.S.C. Section 80b-3(c)(10)(B), the scope of the exemption and the grounds for denial or suspension, and requiring an issuer:

(B) To file a request for exemption authorization for which a rule under this chapter may specify the scope of the exemption, the requirement of an offering statement, the filing of sales and advertising literature, the filing of consent to service of process complying with Code Section 10-5-80, and grounds for denial or suspension of the exemption; or

(C) To register under Code Section 10-5-23;

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Editor's notes. — In light of the similarity of the statutory provisions, decisions under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, former Code 1933, § 97-108, and former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-8, as amended, which were subsequently repealed but were succeeded by provisions in this Code section, are included in the annotations for this Code section.

Exemptions viewed narrowly. — Exempted transactions specifying "promissory notes" only must be narrowly viewed since the law was remedial legislation entitled to a broad construction. Blau v. Redmond, 143 Ga. App. 897, 240 S.E.2d 273, 1977 Ga. App. LEXIS 2554 (1977) (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-108).

Exemptions from registration are to be strictly construed in favor of investors and one claiming an exemption has the burden of proving the exemption's application. Womack v. State, 270 Ga. 56, 507 S.E.2d 425, 1998 Ga. LEXIS 801 (1998) (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-8).

Unregistered stock as security. — Unregistered status of stock in a closely-held corporation did not negate the stock's character as a security since the Georgia and federal securities acts contemplate that stock may be a "security" and yet be unregistered. Cohen v. William Goldberg & Co., 262 Ga. 606, 423 S.E.2d 231, 1992 Ga. LEXIS 985 (1992) (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-8).

Promissory note exemption applies to high quality commercial paper. — Exemption for promissory notes maturing in not more than nine months in paragraph (9) of this section was explicit as to the type of security and was indicative that it was applicable to high quality commercial paper. Blau v. Redmond, 143 Ga. App. 897, 240 S.E.2d 273, 1977 Ga. App. LEXIS 2554 (1977) (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-108).

Notes issued by a corporation. — Exemption from registration for promissory notes under former paragraph (9) of O.C.G.A. § 10-5-8 did not apply to notes issued by a corporation, although the corporate notes did not mature more than nine months from the date of issuance as required by the exemption, since the notes had all the characteristics of a security and were offered to the public as investments. Womack v. State, 270 Ga. 56, 507 S.E.2d 425, 1998 Ga. LEXIS 801 (1998) (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-8).

OPINIONS OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Editor's notes. — In light of the similarity of the statutory provisions, opinions under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, former Code 1933, § 97-108, and former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-8, as amended, which were subsequently repealed but were succeeded by provisions in this Code section, are included in the annotations for this Code section.

Registration not necessary if exemption applies. — It did not necessarily follow that a scheme which constituted a "security" under former Code 1933, § 97-102 must always be registered with the commissioner of securities; if a scheme fell within any of the exemptions provided in former Code 1933, § 97-108 or if the sale of such a scheme fits any of the exempt transactions set forth in former Code 1933, § 97-109, the registration requirements of the law would not apply. 1973 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 73-100 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Investment clubs. — If the formation of an investment club were essentially the same as that for a limited partnership, such an interest would be a "security," since the offering for sale of limited partnerships constitutes the offering for sale of a "security" as the security was defined by former Code 1933, § 97-102; unless exempted or involved in an exempt transaction, such securities must be registered. 1969 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 69-328 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Sales of mortgages. — Sales of mortgages described in paragraph (10) of former Code 1933, § 97-108 were exempt from the registration requirement of former Code 1933, § 97-105, but mortgage offerings which were structured or promoted in such a way that they become investment contracts must be registered pursuant to former Code 1933, § 97-105 unless the mortgages qualify for some exemption from registration other than paragraph (10) of former Code 1933, § 97-108. 1974 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 74-153 (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-108).

Sale of time-sharing condominium units. — Sale of time-sharing units in a condominium when coupled with a rental pool or other profit-sharing arrangement constitutes a "security" within the definition of former Code 1933, § 97-102 and, unless exempt, must be registered pursuant to the law. 1976 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 76-75 (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-108).

Variable annuity contract is subject to regulation as a security. 1962 Ga. Op. Att'y Gen. 448 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

"Security" does not include variable annuity contracts provided for and regulated under the insurance law. 1970 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 70-22 (decided under Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Editor's notes. — In light of the similarity of the statutory provisions, decisions under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-9, which was subsequently repealed but was succeeded by provisions in this Code section, are included in the annotations for this Code section.

Section strictly construed. — Former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-9 required notice of exempt transaction marked for period of one year on any certificate or certificates and because former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-9 created an exemption from registration requirement, it would be strictly construed against anyone claiming application. Novatex Sales, Inc. v. Prince, 159 Ga. App. 559, 284 S.E.2d 65, 1981 Ga. App. LEXIS 2693 (1981) (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-9).

Burden of proving exemption from registration requirements was on seller of unregistered securities, the party seeking its protection from liability. Novatex Sales, Inc. v. Prince, 159 Ga. App. 559, 284 S.E.2d 65, 1981 Ga. App. LEXIS 2693 (1981) (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-9).

Section requires notice to be on any certificate or certificates. Novatex Sales, Inc. v. Prince, 159 Ga. App. 559, 284 S.E.2d 65, 1981 Ga. App. LEXIS 2693 (1981) (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-9).

Owner of stock included in the Georgia Securities Act. — See Jorges v. Griffin, 161 Ga. App. 439, 288 S.E.2d 356, 1982 Ga. App. LEXIS 1908 (1982) (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-9).

Stock not exempt from registration. — Exemption under paragraph (12) of O.C.G.A. § 10-5-9 did not apply when stock was sold to an individual, not a corporation, and the fact that the buyer later transferred some of the stock to new investors was of no import because the relevant period for determining whether the stock had to be registered was at the time it was offered for sale. Bell v. Sasser, 238 Ga. App. 843, 520 S.E.2d 287, 1999 Ga. App. LEXIS 966 (1999) (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-9).

OPINIONS OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Editor's notes. — In light of the similarity of the statutory provisions, opinions under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, former Code 1933, § 97-109, and former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-9, as amended, which were subsequently repealed but were succeeded by provisions in this Code section, are included in the annotations for this Code section.

Term "other financial institution," found in paragraph (7) of this section, refers to any institution primarily engaged in banking, extending credit, making investments, or circulating money. 1978 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 78-71 (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-109).

Banks are considered to fall within term "corporation" as used in paragraph (12) of former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-9 since bank shareholders, in merger transactions, were adequately protected by other statutory provisions which effectuate investor protection purpose of the law. In addition, banks should be considered "corporations" because banks are given similar corporate powers as nonbank corporations, thereby evidencing intent on the part of the legislature to treat banks as corporations for purposes of general corporate law. 1981 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 81-103 (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-9).

Registration not necessary if exempt. — It did not necessarily follow that a scheme which constitutes a "security" under former Code 1933, § 97-102 must always be registered with the Commissioner of Securities; if a scheme fell within any of the exemptions provided in former Code 1933, § 97-108 or if the sale of such a scheme fit any of the exempt transactions set forth in former Code 1933, § 97-109, the registration requirements of the law would not apply. 1973 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 73-100 (decided under Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Investment clubs. — If the formation of an investment club were essentially the same as that for a limited partnership, such an interest would be a security, since the offering for sale of limited partnerships constitutes the offering for sale of a "security" as security was defined; unless exempted or involved in an exempt transaction, such securities must be registered. 1969 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 69-328 (decided under Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Sale of time-sharing units in a condominium when coupled with a rental pool or other profit-sharing arrangement constitutes a "security" within the definition of former Code 1933, § 97-102 and, unless exempt, must be registered. 1976 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 76-75 (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-109).

Small issue registration provisions. — It would be consistent with the intent of the General Assembly as manifested in the Act as a whole for a syndicator to sell interests to 40 persons concurrently if the investor was afforded the disclosures and rescission right of subsection (e) of former Code 1933, § 97-105, the prohibitions against public advertising of paragraph (13) of former Code 1933, § 97-109 were observed, and the legend and investment letter provisions of the two sections were complied with. 1974 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 74-75 (decided prior to 1975 amendment to paragraph (13) of this section).

Syndicator may sell interests to 40 investors in any 12-month period utilizing the small issue registration procedure of subsection (e) of former Code 1933, § 97-105 and the registration exemption of paragraph (13) of former Code 1933, § 97-109; if this was done in such a way that purchasers pursuant to paragraph (13) of former Code 1933, § 97-109 were not clearly identifiable, all investors must be accorded the rights and disclosures provided for in subsection (e) of former Code 1933, § 97-105. 1974 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 74-75 (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-109).

In determining whether the maximum number of purchasers pursuant to paragraph (13) of former Code 1933, § 97-109 or subsection (e) of former Code 1933, § 97-105 had been exceeded, the syndicator and the sydicator's affiliates must be counted as purchasers if the syndicators obtain or retain an interest. 1974 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 74-75 (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-109).

Integration would be virtually demanded if the syndicator commingles funds and other assets belonging to purportedly separate syndications; such commingling reduces the separate syndications to the level of mere window dressing and would preclude treatment of the syndications as separate entities in determining the number of purchasers to which sales have been made. 1974 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 74-75 (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-109).

Fee for application for exemption nonrefundable. — Law vests the commissioner of securities with no authority to refund the $250.00 filing fee tendered under former subparagraph (C) of paragraph (5) of this section when the party paying the fee subsequently withdraws the federal registration statement on which the exemption provided by that paragraph depends. 1974 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 74-150 (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-109).

The $250.00 filing fee required by former Code 1933, § 97-109 for applications seeking a transactional exemption from the requirements of former Code 1933, § 97-105 was nonrefundable since the legislature, had the legislature intended that a refund be implied, would have explicitly provided for one. 1975 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 75-79 (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-109).

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

No merger with theft by conversion. — Trial court did not err in failing to merge the theft by conversion counts under O.C.G.A. § 16-8-3, and the securities violation counts under O.C.G.A. § 10-5-12 filed against the defendant because the state had to prove separate facts to find defendant guilty of the theft by conversion offenses and the violations of the Georgia Securities Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-5-1 et seq. Furthermore, the securities violation counts were complete before the theft conversion occurred. Lavigne v. State, 299 Ga. App. 712, 683 S.E.2d 656, 2009 Ga. App. LEXIS 954 (2009).

Subscription agreement's disclosure barred recovery. — Summary judgment for corporation, the corporation's chief executive officer (CEO), and the corporation's chief financial officer on an investor's claims pursuant to the Securities Act was proper; although the investor claimed that the investor had been misled by the CEO's promise that the investor would receive one-third of the corporation's stock in return for the investment, it was undisputed that a subscription agreement which the investor admittedly received and executed did not provide for the interest the investor claimed the investor was orally promised by the CEO, but rather, stated that the investor was receiving, at most, 8.16 percent of the outstanding common stock. Given that the subscription agreement so starkly contradicted the CEO's alleged promise, the investor knew that the latter was untrue, and the investor was not entitled to recover for the alleged violation of the Securities Act. Fernandez v. WebSingularity, Inc., 299 Ga. App. 11, 681 S.E.2d 717, 2009 Ga. App. LEXIS 829 (2009).

Indirect reliance. — Unpublished decision: When plaintiff outside investors relied on statements of plaintiff inside investor, not the financials prepared by the defendant, the former chief financial officer (CFO) of plaintiff company, such "indirect reliance" precluded the outside investors' claims of fraud and securities fraud under Georgia law against the CFO. TSG Water Res., Inc. v. D'Alba & Donovan Certified Pub. Accountants, P.C., 260 Fed. Appx. 191, 2007 U.S. App. LEXIS 29724

No reliance found. — Because plaintiff limited liability company (LLC1), who sold its interest in another limited liability company (LLC2) to buyers (the other members of LLC2), could not have managed LLC2 or replaced the buyers if it had bought out the buyers under a put and call, LLC1 would have sold its interest even if it had known of defendant financier's involvement with the buyers; LLC1's claims under 15 U.S.C. § 78j(b) and O.C.G.A. § 10-5-12 against the financier failed. Ledford v. Peeples, 657 F.3d 1222, 2011 U.S. App. LEXIS 19500 (11th Cir. 2011).

Defendant properly convicted for violating the Securities Act. — Defendant was properly convicted of violating the Georgia Securities Act of 1973 because the evidence authorized the jury to find that all three prongs of the test used to determine whether a particular scheme was an investment contract under the Securities Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-5-2(a)(26), were satisfied; the victims parted with the victims' money in anticipation of investment gains, there was a common enterprise because the victims' funds were pooled to reach the minimum amounts for participation set by the defendant, and the expectation of profits rested solely on the efforts of others. Hicks v. State, 315 Ga. App. 779, 728 S.E.2d 294, 2012 Ga. App. LEXIS 434 (2012), cert. denied, No. S12C1511, 2012 Ga. LEXIS 917 (Ga. Oct. 29, 2012).

10-5-13. Denial, suspension, or revocation of exemption.

(a) Except with respect to a federal covered security or a transaction involving a federal covered security, an order issued under this chapter may deny, suspend application of, condition, limit, or revoke an exemption created under subparagraph (C) of paragraph (3) or paragraph (7) or (8) of Code Section 10-5-10 or under Code Section 10-5-11 or an exemption or waiver created under Code Section 10-5-12 with respect to a specific security, transaction, or offer. An order issued under this Code section may be issued only pursuant to the procedures in subsection (d) of Code Section 10-5-25 or 10-5-73 and only prospectively.

(b) A person does not violate Code Section 10-5-20, 10-5-22 through 10-5-25, 10-5-53, or 10-5-59 by an offer to sell, offer to purchase, sale, or purchase effected after the entry of an order issued under this Code section if the person did not know, and in the exercise of reasonable care could not have known, of the order.

ARTICLE 3
REGISTRATION OF SECURITIES

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Editor's notes. — In light of the similarity of the statutory provisions, decisions under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended, former Code 1933, § 97-105, and former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-5, which were subsequently repealed but were succeeded by provisions in this article, are included in the annotations for this article.

Nonprofit corporations. — Prior to April 24, 1975, nonprofit corporations were not subject to registration or regulation under the securities law, but by Ga. L. 1975, p. 928, § 11, the statute became applicable to non-profit corporations. Blau v. Redmond, 143 Ga. App. 897, 240 S.E.2d 273, 1977 Ga. App. LEXIS 2554 (1977) (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-105).

Chapter inapplicable if neither promoter nor investor seeks profit. — If the promoter is not engaged in a profit-making enterprise and the investor cannot secure any financial advantage, the security provisions did not apply. Dunwoody Country Club of Atlanta, Inc. v. Fortson, 243 Ga. 236, 253 S.E.2d 700, 1979 Ga. LEXIS 866 (1979) (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-105).

Chapter may apply if either promoter or investor anticipates financial return. — If the promoter is engaged in a profit-making enterprise but the investor will receive no financial return or if the promoter is a nonprofit corporation but the investor anticipates a financial return (e.g., sale of interest-bearing bonds), the securities provisions may apply. Dunwoody Country Club of Atlanta, Inc. v. Fortson, 243 Ga. 236, 253 S.E.2d 700, 1979 Ga. LEXIS 866 (1979) (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-105).

Securities of nonprofit corporation promising profit to investor. — Former Code 1933, § 97-105 covered instruments issued by nonprofit corporations since the incentive to purchase was the promise of profit to the investor. An example of this type of security would be the sale of interest-bearing bonds by a nonprofit corporation. Dunwoody Country Club of Atlanta, Inc. v. Fortson, 243 Ga. 236, 253 S.E.2d 700, 1979 Ga. LEXIS 866 (1979) (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-105).

Individual desiring to sell stock owned by an individual, not otherwise registered, would have to register as a limited dealer under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-5. Jorges v. Griffin, 161 Ga. App. 439, 288 S.E.2d 356, 1982 Ga. App. LEXIS 1908 (1982) (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-5).

Stock not exempt from registration. — Exemption under former Code 1933, § 97-109 did not apply since the stock was sold to an individual, not a corporation and the fact that the buyer later transferred some of the stock to new investors was of no import because the relevant period for determining whether the stock had to be registered was at the time it was offered for sale. Bell v. Sasser, 238 Ga. App. 843, 520 S.E.2d 287, 1999 Ga. App. LEXIS 966 (1999) (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-5).

Right of rescission. — Although security provisions did not define "purchaser" to whom the election of voiding an illegal sale was given, it was apparent that this referred to the one to whom the sale or disposition was made, especially when the certificate was issued directly to a party, designating him or her by name. The word "purchaser" may be used in a broad sense to include those who acquire title for a monetary consideration; however, as commonly employed and as ordinarily used a "purchaser" was understood to be one who obtains through negotiation or the like for a consideration. Utzman v. Caribbean & S.E. Dev. Corp., 107 Ga. App. 56, 129 S.E.2d 62, 1962 Ga. App. LEXIS 568 (1962) (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Transaction held not taking place in Georgia. — If a plaintiff, a Georgia resident, and a defendant, a Tennessee resident, discussed by telephone an arrangement whereby the defendant's company would serve as plaintiff's investment advisor in trading of commodity futures and the defendant mailed to the plaintiff two letter agreements, setting out the contract terms and the plaintiff signed the agreements and returned the agreements for signature of the other party, under Georgia law the transaction did not take place in Georgia. Rasmussen v. Thomson & McKinnon Auchincloss Kohlmeyer, Inc., 608 F.2d 175, 1979 U.S. App. LEXIS 9744 (5th Cir. 1979) (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-105).

OPINIONS OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Editor's notes. — In light of the similarity of the statutory provisions, opinions under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended, former Code 1933, § 97-105, and former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-5, which were subsequently repealed but were succeeded by provisions in this article, are included in the annotations for this article.

Limited partnership interest. — Offering for sale of limited partnerships constitutes the offering for sale of a "security". Unless exempted or involved in an exempt transaction, such securities must be registered. 1969 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 69-328 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Limited partnership is explicitly defined to be a "security" by former Code 1933, § 97-102. 1974 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 74-75 (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-105).

Investment club interest. — If the formation of an investment club were essentially the same as that for a limited partnership, such an interest would be a security. 1969 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 69-328 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Time-sharing units in condominium with profit-sharing arrangement. — Sale of time-sharing units in a condominium when coupled with a rental pool or other profit-sharing arrangement constituted a "security" within the definition of former Code 1933, § 97-102 and, unless exempt, must be registered pursuant to the statutory provisions on securities. 1976 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 76-75 (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-105).

Mortgages structured or promoted as investment contracts. — Sales of mortgages described in paragraph (10) of former Code 1933, § 97-108 were exempt from the registration requirement of former Code 1933, § 97-105 but mortgage offerings which are structured or promoted in such a way that the mortgages become investment contracts must be registered pursuant to § 97-105 unless the mortgages qualify for some exemption from registration other than paragraph (10) of § 97-108. 1974 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 74-153 (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-102).

Registration not required unless activity occurs in Georgia. — Georgia courts would probably hold that the securities registration provisions of this chapter do not apply to transactions involving a Georgia issuer when no sale or offer to sell occurs within Georgia; but if certain activities were carried on in Georgia, this could bring the transactions under the law of this state. 1970 Op. Att'y Gen. No. U70-88 (decided under Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Small issue registration and exemption provisions. — It would be consistent with the intent of the General Assembly as manifested in the security law as a whole for a syndicator to sell interests to 40 persons concurrently if the investor was afforded the disclosures and rescission right of subsection (e) of former Code 1933, § 97-105, the prohibitions against public advertising of paragraph (13) of former Code 1933, § 97-109 are observed, and the legend and investment letter provisions of the two sections are complied with. 1974 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 74-75 (decided prior to 1975 amendment to paragraph (13) of former Code 1933, § 97-109; decided under former Code 1933, § 97-105).

Syndicator may sell interests to 40 investors in any 12-month period utilizing the small issue registration procedure of subsection (e) of former Code 1933, § 97-105 and the registration exemption of paragraph (13) of former Code 1933, § 97-109; if this is done in such a way that purchasers pursuant to paragraph (13) of § 97-109 are not clearly identifiable, all investors must be accorded the rights and disclosures provided for in subsection (e) of § 97-105. 1974 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 74-75 (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-105).

In determining whether the maximum number of purchasers pursuant to paragraph (13) of former Code 1933, § 97-109 or subsection (e) of former Code 1933, § 97-105 had been exceeded, the syndicator and the syndicator's affiliates must be counted as purchasers if the syndicators obtain or retain an interest. 1974 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 74-75 (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-105).

Integration would be virtually demanded if the syndicator commingles funds and other assets belonging to purportedly separate syndications; such commingling reduces the separate syndications to the level of mere window dressing and would preclude treatment of the syndications as separate entities in determining the number of purchasers to which sales have been made. 1974 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 74-75 (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-105).

National banks. — National bank should be viewed as a corporation within the purview of subparagraph (f)(3)(B) of former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-5. 1982 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 82-47 (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-5).

National banks whose principal offices are located within Georgia must as a matter of federal law be deemed qualified to do business in Georgia. 1982 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 82-47 (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-5).

In the absence of a superseding provision of federal law, a national bank whose principal office is located in a state other than Georgia may qualify to do business in Georgia under subparagraph (f)(3)(B) of former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-5 by compliance with either former Art. 14, Ch. 2, T. 44 or former Ch. 16, T. 53. 1982 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 82-47 (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-5).

Fee for application for exemption not refundable. — The $250.00 filing fee required by paragraph (5) of former Code 1933, § 97-109 for applications seeking a transactional exemption from the requirements of former Code 1933, § 97-105 is nonrefundable, since the legislature, had it intended that a refund be implied, would have explicitly provided for one. 1975 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 75-79 (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-105).

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Complaint survived motion to dismiss. — Defendants' motion to dismiss was denied, in part, because the cryptocurrency was an unregistered security and defendants' offer to purchase plaintiff's home with the cryptocurrency constituted an offer to sell an unregistered security, thus, the complaint stated a violation of the Georgia Uniform Securities Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-5-1 et seq. Shea v. Best Buy Homes, 533 F. Supp. 3d 1321, 2021 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 137995 (N.D. Ga. 2021).

10-5-21. Filing of records.

(a) With respect to a federal covered security, as defined in Section 18(b)(2) of the Securities Act of 1933, 15 U.S.C. Section 77r(b)(2), that is not otherwise exempt under Code Sections 10-5-10 through 10-5-12, a rule adopted or order issued under this chapter may require the filing of any or all of the following records:

(1) Before the initial offer of a federal covered security in this state, all records that are part of a federal registration statement filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission under the Securities Act of 1933, 15 U.S.C. Section 77a, et seq., and a consent to service of process complying with Code Section 10-5-80 signed by the issuer and the payment of a fee of $250.00;

(2) After the initial offer of the federal covered security in this state, all records that are part of an amendment to a federal registration statement filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission under the Securities Act of 1933, 15 U.S.C. Section 77a, et seq.; and

(3) To the extent necessary or appropriate to compute fees, a report of the value of the federal covered securities sold or offered to persons present in this state, if the sales data are not included in records filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission and payment of a fee of $250.00.

(b) A notice filing under subsection (a) of this Code section is effective for one year commencing on the later of the notice filing or the effectiveness of the offering filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission. On or before expiration, the issuer may renew a notice filing by filing a copy of those records filed by the issuer with the Securities and Exchange Commission that are required by rule adopted or order issued under this chapter to be filed and by paying a renewal fee of $100.00. A previously filed consent to service of process complying with Code Section 10-5-80 may be incorporated by reference in a renewal. A renewed notice filing becomes effective upon the expiration of the filing being renewed.

(c) With respect to a security that is a federal covered security under Section 18(b)(4)(D) of the Securities Act of 1933, 15 U.S.C. Section 77r(b)(4)(D), a rule adopted under this chapter may require a notice filing by or on behalf of an issuer to include a copy of Form D, including the Appendix, as promulgated by the Securities and Exchange Commission, and a consent to service of process complying with Code Section 10-5-80 signed by the issuer not later than 15 days after the first sale of the federal covered security in this state and the payment of a fee of $250.00.

(d) Except with respect to a federal security under Section 181(b)(1) of the Securities Act of 1933, 15 U.S.C. Section 77r(b)(1), if the Commissioner finds that there is a failure to comply with a notice or fee requirement of this Code section, the Commissioner may issue a stop order suspending the offer and sale of a federal covered security in this state. If the deficiency is corrected, the stop order is void as of the time of its issuance and no penalty may be imposed by the Commissioner.

History.

10-5-22. Registration by coordination; additional records; effective date of federal registration statement.

(a) A security for which a registration statement has been filed under the Securities Act of 1933, 15 U.S.C. Section 77a, et seq., in connection with the same offering may be registered by coordination under this Code section.

(b) A registration statement and accompanying records under this Code section must contain or be accompanied by the following records in addition to the information specified in Code Section 10-5-24 and a consent to service of process complying with Code Section 10-5-80:

(1) A copy of the latest form of prospectus filed under the Securities Act of 1933, 15 U.S.C. Section 77a, et seq.;

(2) A copy of the articles of incorporation and bylaws or their substantial equivalents currently in effect; a copy of any agreement with or among underwriters; a copy of any indenture or other instrument governing the issuance of the security to be registered; and a specimen, copy, or description of the security that is required by rule adopted or order issued under this chapter;

(3) Copies of any other information or any other records filed by the issuer under the Securities Act of 1933, 15 U.S.C. Section 77a, et seq., requested by the Commissioner; and

(4) An undertaking to forward each amendment to the federal prospectus, other than an amendment that delays the effective date of the registration statement, promptly after it is filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

(c) A registration statement under this Code section becomes effective simultaneously with or subsequent to the federal registration statement when all the following conditions are satisfied:

(1) A stop order issued under subsection (d) of this Code section or Code Section 10-5-25 or issued by the Securities and Exchange Commission is not in effect and a proceeding is not pending against the issuer under Code Section 10-5-41; and

(2) The registration statement has been on file for at least 20 days or a shorter period provided by rule adopted or order issued under this chapter.

(d) The registrant shall promptly notify the Commissioner in a record of the date when the federal registration statement becomes effective and the content of any price amendment and shall promptly file a record containing the price amendment. If the notice is not timely received, the Commissioner may issue a stop order, without prior notice or hearing, retroactively denying effectiveness to the registration statement or suspending its effectiveness until compliance with this Code section. The Commissioner shall promptly notify the registrant of an order by telephone or electronic means and promptly confirm this notice by a record. If the registrant subsequently complies with the notice requirements of this Code section, the stop order is void as of the date of its issuance.

(e) If the federal registration statement becomes effective before each of the conditions in this Code section is satisfied or is waived by the Commissioner, the registration statement is automatically effective under this chapter when all the conditions are satisfied or waived. If the registrant notifies the Commissioner of the date when the federal registration statement is expected to become effective, the Commissioner shall promptly notify the registrant by telephone or electronic means and promptly confirm this notice by a record, indicating whether all the conditions are satisfied or waived and whether the Commissioner intends the institution of a proceeding under Code Section 10-5-25. The notice by the Commissioner does not preclude the institution of such a proceeding.

(10) A description of any stock options or other security options outstanding or to be created in connection with the offering and the amount of those options held or to be held by each person required to be named in paragraph (2), (4), (5), (6), or (8) of this subsection and by any person that holds or will hold 10 percent or more in the aggregate of those options;

(11) The dates of, parties to, and general effect concisely stated of each managerial or other material contract made or to be made otherwise than in the ordinary course of business to be performed in whole or in part at or after the filing of the registration statement or that was made within the previous two years and a copy of the contract;

(12) A description of any pending litigation, action, or proceeding to which the issuer is a party and that materially affects its business or assets and any litigation, action, or proceeding known to be contemplated by governmental authorities;

(13) A copy of any prospectus, pamphlet, circular, form letter, advertisement, or other sales literature intended as of the effective date to be used in connection with the offering and any solicitation of interest used in compliance with subparagraph (B) of paragraph (17) of Code Section 10-5-11;

(14) A specimen or copy of the security being registered, unless the security is uncertificated; a copy of the issuer's articles of incorporation and bylaws or their substantial equivalents, in effect; and a copy of any indenture or other instrument covering the security to be registered;

(15) A signed or conformed copy of an opinion of counsel concerning the legality of the security being registered, with an English translation if it is in a language other than English, which states whether the security when sold will be validly issued, fully paid, and nonassessable and, if a debt security, a binding obligation of the issuer;

(16) A signed or conformed copy of a consent of any accountant, engineer, appraiser, or other person whose profession gives authority for a statement made by the person if the person is named as having prepared or certified a public report or valuation, other than an official record, which is used in connection with the registration statement;

(17) A balance sheet of the issuer as of a date within four months before the filing of the registration statement; a statement of income and changes in financial position for each of the three fiscal years preceding the date of the balance sheet and for any period between the close of the immediately previous fiscal year and the date of the balance sheet or for the period of the issuer's and any predecessor's existence if less than three years; and, if any part of the proceeds of the offering is to be applied to the purchase of a business, the financial statements that would be required if that business were the registrant; and

(18) Any additional information or records required by rule adopted or order issued under this chapter.

(c) A registration statement under this Code section becomes effective 30 days after the date the registration statement or the last amendment other than a price amendment is filed, unless any shorter period is provided by a rule adopted or order issued under this chapter, if:

(1) A stop order is not in effect and a proceeding is not pending under Code Section 10-5-25;

(2) The Commissioner has not issued an order under Code Section 10-5-25 delaying effectiveness; and

(3) The applicant or registrant has not requested that effectiveness be delayed.

(d) The Commissioner may delay effectiveness once for not more than 90 days if the Commissioner determines the registration statement is not complete in all material respects and promptly notifies the applicant or registrant of that determination. The Commissioner may also delay effectiveness for a further period of not more than 30 days if the Commissioner determines that the delay is necessary or appropriate.

(e) A rule adopted or order issued under this chapter may require as a condition of registration under this Code section that a prospectus containing a specified part of the information or record specified in subsection (b) of this Code section be sent or given to each person to which an offer is made before or concurrently with the earliest of:

(1) The first offer made in a record to the person, otherwise than by means of a public advertisement, by or for the account of the issuer or another person on whose behalf the offering is being made or by an underwriter or broker-dealer that is offering part of an unsold allotment or subscription taken by the person as a participant in the distribution;

(2) The confirmation of a sale made by or for the account of the person;

(3) Payment pursuant to such a sale; or

(4) Delivery of the security pursuant to such a sale.

History.
Code 1981, § 10-5-23, enacted by Ga. L. 2008, p. 381, § 1/SB 358.

10-5-24. Filing of registration statement; conditions of registration; amendment.

(a) A registration statement may be filed by the issuer, a person on whose behalf the offering is to be made, or a broker-dealer registered under this chapter.

(b) If a registration statement is withdrawn before the effective date or a pre-effective stop order is issued under Code Section 10-5-25, the Commissioner shall retain the fee.

(c) A registration statement filed under Code Section 10-5-22 or 10-5-23 must specify:

(1) The amount of securities to be offered in this state;

(2) The states in which a registration statement or similar record in connection with the offering has been or is to be filed; and

(3) Any adverse order, judgment, or decree issued in connection with the offering by a state securities administrator, the Securities and Exchange Commission, or a court.

(d) A record filed under this chapter or the predecessor Act within five years preceding the filing of a registration statement may be incorporated by reference in the registration statement to the extent that the record is currently accurate.

(e) In the case of a nonissuer distribution, information or a record shall not be required under subsection (i) of this Code section or under Code Section 10-5-23, unless it is known to the person filing the registration statement or to the person on whose behalf the distribution is to be made or unless it can be furnished by those persons without unreasonable effort or expense.

(f) A rule adopted or order issued under this chapter may require as a condition of registration that a security issued within the previous five years or to be issued to a promoter for a consideration substantially less than the public offering price or to a person for a consideration other than cash be deposited in escrow; and that the proceeds from the sale of the registered security in this state be impounded until the issuer receives a specified amount from the sale of the security either in this state or elsewhere. The conditions of any escrow or impoundment required under this subsection may be established by rule adopted or order issued under this chapter, but the Commissioner may not reject a depository institution solely because of its location in another state.

(g) A rule adopted or order issued under this chapter may require as a condition of registration that a security registered under this chapter be sold only on a specified form of subscription or sale contract and that a signed or conformed copy of each contract be filed under this chapter or preserved for a period specified by the rule or order, which may not be longer than five years.

(h) Except while a stop order is in effect under Code Section 10-5-25, a registration statement is effective for one year after its effective date or for any longer period designated in an order under this chapter during which the security is being offered or distributed in a nonexempted transaction by or for the account of the issuer or other person on whose behalf the offering is being made or by an underwriter or broker-dealer that is still offering part of an unsold allotment or subscription taken as a participant in the distribution. For the purposes of a nonissuer transaction, all outstanding securities of the same class identified in the registration statement as a security registered under this chapter are considered to be registered while the registration statement is effective. If any securities of the same class are outstanding, a registration statement may not be withdrawn until one year after its effective date. A registration statement may be withdrawn only with the approval of the Commissioner.

(i) While a registration statement is effective, a rule adopted or order issued under this chapter may require the person that filed the registration statement to file reports, not more often than quarterly, to keep the information or other record in the registration statement reasonably current, and to disclose the progress of the offering.

(j) A registration statement may be amended after its effective date. The post-effective amendment becomes effective when the Commissioner so orders. A post-effective amendment relates back to the date of the offering of the additional securities being registered if, within one year after the date of the sale, the amendment is filed and the additional registration fee is paid.

History.
Code 1981, § 10-5-24, enacted by Ga. L. 2008, p. 381, § 1/SB 358.

10-5-25. Denying, suspending, or revoking the effectiveness of registration statement; publication of conduct constituting violations; notice and hearing.

(a) The Commissioner may issue a stop order denying effectiveness to, or suspending or revoking the effectiveness of, a registration statement if the Commissioner finds that the order is in the public interest and that:

(1) The registration statement as of its effective date or before the effective date in the case of an order denying effectiveness, an amendment under subsection (j) of Code Section 10-5-24 as of its effective date, or a report under subsection (i) of Code Section 10-5-24 is incomplete in a material respect or contains a statement that, in the light of the circumstances under which it was made, was false or misleading with respect to a material fact;

(2) This chapter or a rule adopted or order issued under this chapter or a condition imposed under this chapter has been willfully violated, in connection with the offering, by the person filing the registration statement; by the issuer, a partner, officer, or director of the issuer or a person having a similar status or performing a similar function; by a promoter of the issuer; or by a person directly or indirectly controlling or controlled by the issuer but only if the person filing the registration statement is directly or indirectly controlled by or acting for the issuer; or by an underwriter;

(3) The security registered or sought to be registered is the subject of a permanent or temporary injunction of a court of competent jurisdiction or an administrative stop order or similar order issued under any federal, foreign, or state law other than this chapter applicable to the offering, but the Commissioner may not institute a proceeding against an effective registration statement under this paragraph more than one year after the date of the order or injunction on which it is based, and the Commissioner may not issue an order under this paragraph on the basis of an order or injunction issued under the securities act of another state unless the order or injunction was based on conduct that would constitute, as of the date of the order, a ground for a stop order under this Code section;

(4) The issuer's enterprise or method of business includes or would include activities that are unlawful where performed;

(5) With respect to a security sought to be registered under Code Section 10-5-22, there has been a failure to comply with the undertaking required by paragraph (4) of subsection (b) of said Code section;

(6) The applicant or registrant has not paid the filing fee, but the Commissioner shall void the order if the deficiency is corrected; or

(7) The offering:

(A) Will work or tend to work a fraud upon purchasers or would so operate; or

(B) Has been or would be made with unreasonable amounts of underwriters' and sellers' discounts, commissions, or other compensation or promoters' profits or participations or unreasonable amounts or kinds of options; or

(C) Is being made on terms that are unfair, unjust, or inequitable.

(b) To the extent practicable, the Commissioner by rule adopted or order issued under this chapter shall publish in print or electronically standards that provide notice of conduct that violates paragraph (7) of subsection (a) of this Code section.

(c) The Commissioner may not institute a stop order proceeding against an effective registration statement on the basis of conduct or a transaction known to the Commissioner when the registration statement became effective unless the proceeding is instituted within 30 days after the registration statement became effective.

(d) The Commissioner may summarily revoke, deny, postpone, or suspend the effectiveness of a registration statement pending final determination of an administrative proceeding. Upon the issuance of the order, the Commissioner shall promptly notify each person specified in subsection (e) of this Code section that the order has been issued, the reasons for the revocation, denial, postponement, or suspension, and that within 30 days after the receipt of a request in a record from the person the matter will be scheduled for a hearing. If a hearing is not requested and none is ordered by the Commissioner within 30 days after the date of service of the order, the order becomes final. If a hearing is requested or ordered, the Commissioner, after notice of and opportunity for hearing for each person subject to the order, may modify or vacate the order or extend the order until final determination.

(e) A stop order may not be issued under this Code section without:

(1) Appropriate notice to the applicant or registrant, the issuer, and the person on whose behalf the securities are to be or have been offered;

(2) An opportunity for hearing; and

(3) Findings of fact and conclusions of law in a record in accordance with Chapter 13 of Title 50, the "Georgia Administrative Procedure Act."

(f) The Commissioner may modify or vacate a stop order issued under this Code section if the Commissioner finds that the conditions that caused its issuance have changed or that it is necessary or appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of investors.

JUDICIAL DECISIONS

Editor's notes. — In light of the similarity of the statutory provisions, decisions under former Code 1933, § 97-103 and former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-3, which were subsequently repealed but were succeeded by provisions in this article, are included in the annotations for this article.

Sale of shares of stock. — Shares of stock were "securities" which it was unlawful to sell in violation of former Code 1933, § 97-103 and subsection (a) of former Code 1933, § 97-112. DeBoard v. Schulhofer, 156 Ga. App. 158, 273 S.E.2d 907, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2923 (1980) (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-103).

Demand promissory note and option to purchase shares of corporation given in exchange for checks for $12,500.00 was a transaction to which requirements of former Code 1933, §§ 97-103 and 97-112 applied. DeBoard v. Schulhofer, 156 Ga. App. 158, 273 S.E.2d 907, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2923 (1980) (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-103).

Subsection (a) only violated by listed persons. — Since the defendants did not come within any of the categories of persons, as defined in former Code 1933, § 97-102, which were required by subsection (a) of former Code 1933, § 97-103 to be registered, it follows that the sale of limited partnership interests by the defendants was not violative of subsection (a) of § 97-103. Hirsch v. Equilateral Assocs., 245 Ga. 373, 264 S.E.2d 885, 1980 Ga. LEXIS 803 (1980) (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-103).

Owner of stock included in security provisions. — See Jorges v. Griffin, 161 Ga. App. 439, 288 S.E.2d 356, 1982 Ga. App. LEXIS 1908 (1982) (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-3).

Burden on controlling officer seeking to avoid liability. — Former Code 1933, § 97-114 imposed liability upon the controlling officer of a corporation for a transaction executed by corporate treasurer administering affairs in the officer's absence, which transaction violated former Code 1933, §§ 97-103 and 97-112, if the officer directly or indirectly controlled the treasurer, unless the officer sustained burden of proof that the officer did not know, and in exercise of reasonable care could not have known, existence of facts by reason of which liability was alleged to exist. DeBoard v. Schulhofer, 156 Ga. App. 158, 273 S.E.2d 907, 1980 Ga. App. LEXIS 2923 (1980) (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-3).

Dealers. — Whether defendant was a "dealer" was immaterial since the evidence at trial was sufficient for a jury to find that the defendant was a "salesman" pursuant to former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-2(a)(25). Greenhill v. State, 199 Ga. App. 218, 404 S.E.2d 577, 1991 Ga. App. LEXIS 469 (1991), cert. denied, No. S91C0894, 1991 Ga. LEXIS 706 (Ga. May 15, 1991) (decided under former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-3).

OPINIONS OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

Editor's notes. — In light of the similarity of the statutory provisions, opinions under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, former Code 1933, § 97-103, and former O.C.G.A. § 10-5-3, as amended, which were subsequently repealed but were succeeded by provisions in this article, are included in the annotations for this article.

New York license to sell securities was not valid in Georgia. 1969 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 69-102 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Citizenship is not prerequisite to registration as a dealer, limited dealer, salesperson, or limited salesperson. 1970 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 70-113 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Foreign corporation also needs certificate of authority. — Registration as a dealer does not exempt a foreign corporation from needing a certificate of authority. 1975 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 75-38 (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-103).

Partner or officer in real estate syndicate may be "dealer" or "salesperson". — A general partner or executive officer of a real estate syndication should not be excluded from the definition of "salesperson" or "dealer" merely because the person receives compensation or profit in the form of a profit on sales to the syndication, a real estate brokerage commission, a management fee, or some other form which is not an explicit commission for the sale of securities. 1974 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 74-75 (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-103).

Sellers of mortgage securities. — Person who engages in the business of selling mortgage securities to the public is required to register as a dealer, and the individuals who work for such a dealer are required to register as salesperson unless the individuals qualify for one of the exemptions enumerated in this section. 1974 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 74-153 (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-103).

Sellers of time-sharing units in condominiums with profit-sharing arrangements. — Sale of time-sharing units in a condominium when coupled with a rental pool or other profit-sharing arrangement constitutes a "security" within the definition of former Code 1933, § 97-103, and any person offering for sale or selling such securities must register as a dealer, limited dealer, salesperson, or limited salesperson unless such a person was a real estate broker or salesperson licensed to sell real estate in Georgia. 1976 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 76-75 (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-103).

Activities described in section bring transaction under chapter. — Georgia courts would probably hold that the securities registration provisions did not apply to transactions involving a Georgia issuer if no sale or offer to sell occurred within Georgia; but if activities described in Ga. L. 1957, p. 134 are carried on in Georgia, this could bring the transactions under the law of this state. 1970 Op. Att'y Gen. No. U70-88 (decided under former Ga. L. 1957, p. 134, as amended).

Fees part of application. — General Assembly intended registration fees to be part of the application process without which the application for registration could not be considered complete and hence could not be acted upon. 1975 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 75-79 (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-103).

Refund of fees if application withdrawn not authorized. — Statutory security provisions did not vest the commissioner of securities with authority to refund the registration fees required as part of the application for registration as a dealer, limited dealer, salesperson, or limited salesperson should an applicant withdraw an application. 1975 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 75-79 (decided under former Code 1933, § 97-103).

(1) A broker-dealer without a place of business in this state if its only transactions effected in this state are with:
